THESE OFFICERS will go back in the O.H.A. at the annual meeting next Saturday: President, A. H. Siegel of Preston; first vice-prexy, Jas. Douglas of Brantford; second vice, R. C. Clemens of Hamilton; secretary, Bill Hewitt of Toronto; treasurer, Geo. Dudley of Midland. Six are running for four executive offices, Sandy Burrows of Belleville being the only one from Central Ontario. Entries for the S.P.A. series close today, those being in now: Upper Canada, U. of T., Aurora, St. Mike's Majors, Toronto Lions, Oshawa, Marlboros, Native Sons, Norvocs, St. Mike's Buzzers, Young Rangers, East Toronto, Runneymede, U.T.S., Barrie Colts and Paris. The local Colts weren't entered, it being pretty early and also probably owing to Coach Frank Buckland being sick and unable to get the lads lined up at this time.

EDDIE THOMAS of the Belleville Redmen is having his share of headaches this semester. Having lost half his 1936-37 squad, he has been trying to line up an intermediate "B" team for this winter. Thorold took Cy Barriage and Speedy St. Louis, and now St. Catharines has taken Tommy Cain and Gord Derry of Trenton, who played for Belleville juniors—in our group—last winter, and whom Thomas wanted for his club this season. They are being imported to play City League hockey in St. Kitts, but there are suspicious persons who fear they may see O.H.A. action down that way this coming puck season yet. Local hockey teams haven't been raided at all this past year, though both our teams were much better than the Belleville gangs.

TRINITY BLANKS LOWER CANADA

MONTREAL, Nov. 15. — A clever grid machine from Port Hope, Ontario, sporting the colors of Trinity College Schools, waded through ankle-deep mud here on Saturday to plaster a 42 to 0 lacing on Lower Canada College in an exhibition football match.

The Ontario team, superbly coached by a former McGill University star athlete, Jerry Dixon, outplayed the host team in every department of the game, and rarely was their goalline threatened. They passed, kicked, ran, and plunged for tremendous gains through the L.C.C. defence despite treacherous underfooting.

The winning attack was sparked by Irwin and McCullough, each of whom crossed the line for three touchdowns. Wallace added the seventh touchdown. Irwin converted two and booted four singles, while Turcot scored the remaining point.

Trinity — Flying wing, Renison; halves, McCullough, Irwin, Hayes; quarter, Curtis; snap, Seagram; insides, Fleming, P. Russell; middles, Wallace, Peacock; outsides, Mood, Swinton; subs., Harvey, Partridge, Kirkpatrick, H. Russell, Taylor, Turcot.

N.H.L. All-Stars

(By the Canadian Press)

Charlie Conacher, Toronto, scored three goals Saturday as Leafs defeated Hawks 7-3, then got two more in 3-3 tie at Chicago last night.

George Mantha, Canadiens, got goal and assist in 5-2 victory over Detroit Saturday and only goal in 2-1 loss at Detroit last night.

Argos And Roughriders Qualify To Meet For Big Four Honors; Queen's Heads Collegians

Scullers Topple Tigers 18-5 While Riders Win From Indians 9-5

TORONTO, Nov. 15 (CP).—The weak were sorted from the mighty of the East's football teams today and the section made ready for its annual bit of playoff drama. Leading roles will be taken by players of five Interprovincial and Intercollegiate Union units.

In the poorest weather conditions which varied only from bad to worse, the Big Four and College schedules were completed with Toronto Argonauts atop one and Queen's University heading the Collegians. These were Saturday's results:

Argonauts drove to victory on a second-half attack which eliminated Hamilton Tigers 18-5 and qualified Argos to meet the 1936 Big Four champions, Ottawa Rough Riders. The champions took care of Montreal Indians by 9-5 at Ottawa.

The tri-color of Columnist-Coach Ted Reeve, finishing a grand comeback, topped the Intercollegiate with a 3-0 triumph over University of Toronto, forced now to play the Western Mustangs in a sudden-death playoff for the right to meet Queen's for the title. Mustangs beat McGill in Montreal.

Muddy Underfoot.

Rain beat down and mud was underfoot on all the gridirons Saturday. Under these conditions, all but the Argo-Tiger clash were decided through the power of the punters.

There were many who hailed Reeve's latest football edition as the best; he has turned out at the Kingston college. Certainly they were all-powerful against Toronto when the chips were down and they had to win to force a playoff for Toronto's title.

Built around Johnny Munro, the Union's finest kicker, Queen's fought evenly for three periods against Toronto. Then the brilliant Munro steadily beat the Blues back and he socked the heavy, wet ball into the end zone for three singles. Supported by a powerful line and grand downfield tackling by Bernie Thornton, Queen's and Munro were in full command during that fourth-quarter to drive to victory.

Sweep From the Cellar.

It climaxed the Tri-Color sweep from the cellar, where they rested after losing their first two games. Their record shows four straight victories in their march to the preferred play-off position.

Contented to play straight football, Western came back to stop McGill cold after two weak displays that toppled them from the early leadership of the College Union into a spot where they had to beat the Redmen, previously out of championship consideration.

Mustangs had little trouble. Their line held without a break at any time and Jack Kennedy outbooted the McGill punters. The only touchdown chances came to Western and they were stopped from the 10-yard line the first time, then from 15 yards.

But Kennedy's advantage through the air was sufficient. The Western man booted two singles in the first quarter and another two in the third. Then they settled back and threw off the infrequent McGill challenges. The Redmen never got past centre field in the last quarter.

Seven thousand Ottawa fans sat through gusty winds and teeming rain to see the tough Rough Riders make the playoffs while eliminating the alternately hot-and-cold Indians. This Saturday the Indians were cold after a first-quarter outburst when Abe Ellowitz, the gale at his back, booted five singles.

Against the wind Ellowitz's hoofing was poor. Through the second and third quarters Rocky Rocano booted four singles and Tiny Herman a field goal from placement and a single. Then the Riders dug in and stopped Ellowitz and the Indians again in the last quarter while they added another point.

Heavier Line Counts.

In the mud and rain which bogged Indians' vaunted aerial attack the heavier Ottawa line swung the edge in their favor. Dave Sprague, Bunny Wadsworth, Stan O'Neil and Wank Ussher made the big gains through the line.

The heavy underfooting meant nothing to Argos who passed, ran and plunged as if perfect football weather prevailed. After Teddy Manorek's touchdown on the second-half kickoff, when Jimmy Simpson dribbled a fumbled catch by Art West close to the Argo goalie, the Tigers never had a chance.

West made up for that misplay. Soon afterwards he raced down under a catch and when Huck Welch fumbled the ball behind the line West fell on it for a touchdown, converting on an end run. In the fourth quarter he ran 30 yards for another major score.

A victory for Tigers would have forced a second-place playoff for the right to meet Argos. They stayed close all through the first half when the Scullers were held to two field goals by Anns Stukus, but wilted under the second-half pressure that featured the passing and plunging of Red Storey, the plunging of Ted Morris and steady kicking by Bob Isbister.

GROVE OLD BOYS DEFEATED 24-14 IN ANNUAL GAME

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LAKEFIELD, Nov. 15.—The Lakefield Preparatory School Old Boys' Farm went down to defeat at the hands of their juniors, when they played the school in their annual game, here on Saturday Nov. 14. The score was 24-14.

The exhibition match, which is looked forward to, eagerly by both Old Boys and the School, was played this year on a wet field, and proved to be a tough battle. The Old Boys started off with a bang, and by the end of the first half were leading their opposition 14 to 2. But their lack of training showed up in the second half, when the School boys ploughed through their ranks and tallied four touchdowns, two of which were converted. The School, during this half, played "war-tank style." They made all their points by ploughing through the Old Boys' lines, and only once did they attempt a forward pass, which, by the way, was uncompleted.

Scores Two For School

Simpson made two touchdowns for the school, the remaining two being scored by McLean and Foster. McCrimmon converted two touchdowns and the remaining points were made by kicking.

For the Old Boys, Macrae scored a touch which was converted by Wright; Disney made an unconverted touchdown and Wright scored three points with a drop-kick. Dawson and Robertson who were in the line also put on a good performance.

The line-ups:

The School team—Snap, McLaren; flying wing, Harris; quarter, Carter; halves, Simpson, McLean, McCrimmon; insides, Foster, MacKenzie; middles, Pease, Stewart; outsides, Langmuir, Frewer.

After the game, a dinner was held in the school in honor of the Old Boys. In the evening a dance was held for which Atkinson's Orchestra of Peterborough provided music.

Two Members Of Blue Bombers Ineligible For Rugby Final

C.R.U. Executive To Decide On Status Of Third American Import

ODD ITEMS FROM A SPORT SCRAP BOOK

RALPH FLANAGAN

There is, perhaps, nothing so unstable as a swimming record. Almost every meet of any importance where the best competitors are entered will eventuate in the shattering of a couple of world marks.

As a consequence of this fact there have been some remarkable individual performances by athletes. Many a swimming meet has produced an individual star that through their great efforts in the tank annihilated a number of marks.

One of these outstanding individuals is Ralph Flanagan, the "flying fish" from Miami, Florida. When only 17 years old, Flanagan performed a feat that will rank with those of any in the years to come. Despite his youth, Ralph smashed no less than 10 United States amateur athletic union records from the books, and all this in the course of three days.

Truly a remarkable feat for a man to do, but even more unbelievable because of the youth of the Florida flash.

WINNIPEG, Nov. 15 (CP)—Two members of Winnipeg's western football championship team, Martin Gainor and Ole Midgarden, are ineligible for a Dominion final but the Canadian Rugby Union executive will be asked to decide status of a third United States player new to Blue Bombers this year—Art Stevenson.

Gainor and Midgarden, both last season at University of North Dakota, are ineligible under C.R.U. rules which demand "imports" be in Canada at least a year before they may play. Winnipeg rugby club officials believe, however, that Stevenson, Manitoba University student, is eligible under the students' residence rule.

The case will be submitted to the C.R.U. with the request an executive vote will be taken on Stevenson's status.

Stevenson's punting and all-round backfield work were prominent in Bombers early-season play but he did not participate in the final series with Calgary Bronks because of a knee injury suffered in an exhibition game with North Dakota University.

A Starry Punter

Steve Olander replaced Stevenson as kicking halfback and turned in a magnificent performance. However Olander has not the all-round ability of the former Hastings College, Nebraska star. Stevenson is rated probably the most consistent punter the west has known. He is a deadly place kicker, fine forward passer and receiver, good blocker, plunges and is fast and tricky in a broken field.

Bombers saved Stevenson for kicking most of the early season but when he was asked to carry the ball he showed his effectiveness. With three other passers in the backfield art has rarely been called on to throw forwards.

Bombers will miss both Midgarden, snap, and Gainor, middle. The latter is ranked with the West's best linemen. 'Pega used him on secondary defence much of the season. Bombers have good relief line material with the veteran Lou Adelman available to replace Midgarden.

LEAFS DEFEAT CHIHAWKS 7-3 IN FIRST GAME

TORONTO, Nov. 15.— Led most ably and pleasingly by Charlie Conacher, their new captain, who collected three goals and an assist, Toronto Maple Leafs gunned the high-flying Chicago Black Hawks down to earth by a 7-to-3 score before a sell-out crowd in Maple Leaf Gardens Saturday night.

Leafs also furnished a lesson in salesmanship Saturday evening. The game was hardly six and one-half minutes old when Johnny Gottselig, Black Hawk left-winger, was thumbed to the coop for charging Buzz Boll into the board. The Chicago squad promptly lost just about everything except their flossy, new black silk pantlets, for during Gottselig's two-minute sentence the Leafs slammed three short shots past Goaler Mike Karakas.

Gottselig had just started to polish the penitents' plank at 6:34 when the ninety-three seconds barrage filled the freshly-painted sports palace full of pin feathers. Drillon passed from behind the Hawks' cage to Jackson, and the Busher made no mistake from short range. At 7:10 Conacher cashed a Drillon to Fowler attack by taking Jimmy's short forward pass near a net corner and slapping the rubber home. At 8:07 a Conacher to Apps play found Drillon getting a passout from back of the net and registering another.

There were only forty-three seconds left in the opening period when some poor clearing of Palangio's long shot allowed Kendall to tip the rubber back to Palangio who had followed in.

Art Weibe, Hawk defenseman, was serving a penalty fairly early in the second session when Conacher climaxed Drillon's great rush by lugging a pass across the goalmouth and doing his red-light specialty. Hawks soon clicked again and surprisingly when Dahlstrom, on of their rookies, cruised down innocent-like on the Toronto defense pair in a two-man rush with Kendall. Dahlstrom tricked his way around Reg Hamilton and waltzed right in to find a net corner behind Broad. The Leafs got that one back in just over a minute when Jackson was on the sniping end of a pretty sortie by Apps and Horner.

Bomber Registers Again.

Play slowed down at the start of the third period, but it wasn't long until another goal by Conacher touched of fthe spark that got both teams up in high gear. The goal was Conacher from Davidson on a four-man break that had the Hawks' defense completely hooded. The Bomber picked the net corner with a wicked, low shot. Just after the half mark, little Mush March got what this observer thought was the prettiest goal of the night. I must confess to still being partial to a rink-wide pass—the O.H.A. style of rather long ago. Romnes carried into the Leafs' defense area, fed a short pass to Paul Thompson on the left boards, and Paul whipped the puck right across the rink to the uncovered March. The aggressive right-winger tied the helpless Broda in knots before his shot sagged the strings. The Hawks gave Goaler Karakas very little protection as they tried to cut the Leafs' big lead in the last few minutes, and a three-man breakaway put Nick Metz right in to score on Kelly's pass.

DETROIT SPLITS WEEKEND GAMES WITH CANADIENS

TORONTO, Nov. 15.— (CP). — Young, aggressive hockey clubs, Toronto Maple Leafs and Boston Bruins broke ahead of their sections of the National League to-day in a show of power that dulled the lustre of last year's champions.

It's not new for Leafs and Boston to be striding out in front, for both headed their divisions in 1932-33 and 1934-35 and one or the other has led its section most other years since 1927-28. They were pushed well back in the shadows last season by Montreal Canadiens and Detroit.

Boston is tied with Chicago in the American section, but Bruins have started only twice and won twice, while Bill Stewart's Black Hawks have won once, drawn twice and lost twice in five starts. The Leafs have won two of their four games and tied the others.

The potentialities of the top teams were etched a little more clearly during the week-end. Toronto whipped Chicago 7-3 at home and tied the Hawks 3-3 in Chicago last night and Boston opened its home schedule with a 3-2 victory over New York Rangers.

Bruins Advance.

Boston stepped to the front with Hawks while Detroit's world champion Red Wings advanced from fourth to third place by splitting two games with Canadiens, losing 5-2 in Montreal Saturday and winning 2-1 in Detroit last night. Rangers' loss sent them to the bottom. Leafs went farther ahead in the Canadian section as Americans leaped from last place to second through a 2-0 win over Montreal Maroons in New York last night. Canadiens dropped to third spot, Maroons to fourth.

The youngsters were responsible for most of Boston's display of strength against Rangers and the team faded in the late stages to maintain a bare lead: Bobby Bauer and Milt Schmidt of the "Baby Line" from Kitchener, Ont., got the first two Bruin goals single-handed, and Bill Cowley ended the Boston scoring in the second period.

Rangers were sparked into action by young Clint Smith, who passed to Butch Keeling for New York's first goal six minutes before the finish, then handed Babe Pratt a pass which the defenceman drilled between Tiny Thompson's legs.

STARS FOLLOW TORONTO LEAFS IN HOCKEY WINS

TORONTO, Nov. 15 (C.P.). — Syracuse Stars, farm club of Toronto Maple Leafs, are right in there when it comes to playing that game called "follow the leader."

Leafs cornered a win and a draw for three points in the National Hockey League's week-end festivities. But their understudies went one better, winning two games to hold a spot to-day with Philadelphia Ramblers and Springfield Indians as the league's only undefeated teams. Indians and Stars, however, have been tied.

In the two-night skirmishing Stars took the measure of Pittsburgh Hornets, 5-3 and 4-1; Springfield whipped Cleveland Barons 3-0, then drew 1-1 last night with the New Haven Eagles; Philadelphia topped Eagles 2-1 on Saturday and Barons won 2-0 last night from Providene Reds.

Stars Hard to Stop.

It was evident fro mthese decisions that Stars are going to be hard to stop in their defence of the Teddy Oke Trophy, emblematic of the league championship, which they won last year. They followed further in the footsteps of the Leafs, who scored 10 goals during the week-end, by notching nine themselves.

Stars never were headed in last night's tilt once they wiped out the Pittsburgh goal scored by Liscombe in the first period. Near the end of that period Baz Doran, former South Porcupine junior, evened the count, then in the second Maxie Bennett and then Doran scored to make it 3-1. Chuck Shannon killed what hopes Hornets had with a goal in the third period.

Stars had a tougher time in the Saturday encounter, a game that provided rough body-checking, flying fists, and flailing sticks. Shannon and Jack Markle scored in the third period to give Stars victory. Corrigan, Howard, and Parson marked up the first three Syracuse goals, while Sherwood scored twice and Liscombe once for Hornets.

New Haven made things warm for Springfield last night, forcing Indians to come through with a goal in the late stages of the last period to get a draw. Ossie Asmundson tallied for Eagles in the third frame, while Toupin evened matters five minutes later on a pass from Paul Raymond.

Indians had it more their own way in the Saturday clash against Cleveland as Corrigan gave them a goal in the second period and Filmore and Connolly added to it with counters in the third as Benny Grant held the Barons scoreless.

Get First Victory.

Barons, however, atoned for that defeat by scoring their first victory of the season in their game last night against Providence. Les Cunningham and Peggy O'Neil got their two goals, the former scoring in the first period and the latter in the second.

Ramblers were forced into overtime to get their victory against New Haven. Joe Krol scored in the waning minutes of the extra session after Philadelphia took the lead in the second period on a goal by Kilby Macdonald, but had the score deadlocked in the third on Obs Heximer's counter.

Calder Fines Hockey Trio $25 Apiece

MONTREAL, Nov. 15 (C.P.). — Fines of $25 apiece were assessed by President Frank Calder of the National Hockey League on Saturday against Babe Siebert of Montreal Canadiens and Baldy Northcott and Stew Evans of Montreal Maroons for their part in a fight that broke out in last Thursday's Maroons-Canadiens game.

At the same time, the league head absolved Siebert from deliberately knicking Northcott, as the Maroon had charged after the third-period free-for-all in the penalty box. Northcott's forehead gash took two stitches to close.

The fines will be turned over to the Howie Morenz Benefit Fund.

Orfuns Rub Out Fliers With 21-0 Win Here In Thrilling Tilt

Local Gridders Cop Round By 22-5 Score To Advance To O.R.F.U. Semi-Finals

Orfuns advanced to the O.R.F.U. intermediate "A" semi-finals by knocking off Trenton Fliers here Saturday, taking a 21-0 win to cop the round by a 22-5 score. Nearly 400 fans saw the battle on a greasy gridiron under intermittent rain.

The local looked better all the way, turning in their best game of the season and completely outplaying the visitors. They scored a touchdown on the second play, within two minutes of the opening kickoff, and dominated the play the rest of the route. The Turnbull team had a 9-0 lead in the first quarter, made it 15-0 at halftime, adding a point in the third and a major count in the final frame.

The local line proved far superior to that of the Fliers, and four times they broke through to block Trenton kicks, only one local boot being stopped. Orfuns starred in every department, their blocking and plunging being its very best of the year, their tackling deadly and their running and passing plays, and kicking, making the squad look like a championship team. The Fliers were a badly beaten outfit all the way, with blocked kicks, poor plunging, bad snaps and indifferent hoofing making them look very mediocre.

Lots of Action

It was a rough, thrilling encounter for the home fans. Despite the one-sided score, the crowd enjoyed seeing Orfuns pounding from behind and then piling up the count with a classy open brand of rugby. Amusement was provided frequently as rival players slithered through puddles of muddy water, friend and foe being unrecognizable the last half. Fumbles were fairly frequent, with the losers guilty more than the homesters. Fights threatened several times as the linemen mixed it up in clashes. Bill Gerow suffered a dislocated shoulder late in the third quarter.

All the Orfuns starred in this contest, the linemen earning applause with their great all-around work. The tackling of Marsh and Hendren in particular stood out, and E. Spencely playing a bangup game. The whole backfield looked good, the kicking of Crowe, running of Loucks and general field work of Archibald being features. The rest, too, shone in this showing. Gibson's kicking was only fair for the Fliers, though he turned in a good game otherwise. Higgerty, Lecompte and Shaw were also effective.

Get Try Early

Trenton returned the kickoff to midfield, and Pulkinghorn bucked for five. Then Crowe tossed a 15-yard forward pass to Archibald, with the latter galloping all the way for a touchdown. It was not converted Kearns plunged for 20 later but lost the ball in a tackle. Gibson's kick was blocked and Cameron got it on the Trenton 30-yard strip. Crowe kicked to deadline. Another kick by Gibson was blocked by Giardino and Orfuns moved it up to kicking distance, Crowe hoofing it over and E. Spencely rouging Spruston. Fliers got yards but again Gibson's kick was blocked and Marsh got it at centre. Crowe kicked short to lose it but on a bad snap by Burns, Higgerty was downed for a safety touch by E. Spencely back of his own line. Gibson's kick was blocked once more but Crowe's kick a minute later was also blocked. Wightman bucked for yards and then a Trenton fumble gave the locals the ball at centre as the quarter closed.

They hoofed it later and on a return boot, Loucks ran it back 25 to the Trenton 30. He got nine around end and then Loucks raced over for a try on an end run. It was not converted. Trenton tried forward passing but looked weak and lost it on downs, as play roughened up. Hendren got it again shortly when he intercepted a Trenton forward, and Archibald rouged Gibson on Crowe's kick. Loucks made a 20-yard runback of a kick and Crowe got yards around end. The latter broke through for 15 more but they lost on downs—trying forward passes—in the shadow of the Fliers' posts at the whistle.

Only One Point

While the locals looked much better than the Airmen in the third they scored only a single point. It was a hard-fought frame with elbows high in the lines. Davis' fumble gave Archibald the pigskin at centre and Kearns plunged for six. Crowe then got away a long kick to deadline. It was up and down straight rugby for a time. Trenton bucked for yards but a bad snap later lost them it on downs. Gibson ran out Crowe's kick and Shaw plunged for yards. After they kicked, Pulkinghorn plunged to move the sticks but they were forced to hoof it again. Gerow was hurt as the frame finished.

A short Trenton kick gave Orfuns it at the Fliers' 40-yard chalk. Crowe skirted end for 10 but lost the ball. A Trenton fumble followed and then Orfuns fumbled again in the mud to lose the bouncing pigskin. Harle took a short kick by Gibson on the Aviators' 45-yard mark but they were stopped for a time. Loucks ran back a kick 40 yards to the Trenton 40, and a few minutes later went over for a try on a fake placement and end run 12 yards out. It was not converted. Play was in the Fliers' territory at the end.

Chanceview First In Bowie Handicap

BOWIE, Md., Nov. 15 (A.P.). — A. G. Vanderbilt's Chanceview, a 5-year-old gelding that moves up many pounds in mud, on Saturday scored his first victory since the young sportsman purchased him from J. J. Flannigan last winter for $20,000. Racing over a deep and heavy track, the bay son of Chance Shot won the fifteenth Prince George Autumn Handicap, feature of the first Saturday card of the meeting, by a length and a half. The Araho Stable's Mucho Gusto, second in a sprint the day before, held on well to take the place by a half length from B. M. Byer's Thorson.

TEXTILE PROBE DRAWS TO AN END

WOODSTOCK, Nov. 15 (CP)—Ontario Labor and Industry Board, which has been visiting Ontario textile manufacturing centres to obtain information to assist in fixing minimum wages, will meet in Toronto next and there decide if enough information has been gathered.

Chairman E. J. Young announced this at the end of a three-hour session here Saturday, at which evidence concerned manufacturing processes and the duties and classifications of employees in the La France Textiles, Limited, plant.

Many employees attended the hearing. J. Cohen, Toronto, counsel for the Textile Workers' Council, asked the board to consider another session in Woodstock this week to get more information regarding employees' duties in the La France mill. No promise was given by the board.

Harry N. Ubelacker, mill manager, told of the various manufacturing processes in the plant. He said that while operations at present are concerned largely with the automotive trade and with furniture fabrics, a great diversity of products are produced. The mill employed 241 workers, he said.

After Mr. Ubelacker and two other officials gave technical evidence on the various processes used in the mill, Mr. Cohen announced he had only a few minutes to spare if he was to catch a train. He said that if the inquiry was to be confined to the kinds of operations of the La France or any associate mill, he did not consider his presence essential. "That is all we have in mind," replied Mr. Young.

Before the conclusion of the brief sitting, J. J. Harney, manager of the Firestone Cotton Mills, informed the board that the Firestone plant opened here a year ago and uses only the normal cotton-spinning processes. At present it employs 182 workers, of whom 62 are women.

Sports Spice

By EDDIE BRIETZ

(Associated Press Sports Writer)

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.— (AP) — Down south they are plenty burned up because the Pacific Coast thinks Alabama's schedule doesn't represent enough football for a Rose Bowl invite. . . Jack Dempsey—beg pardon—Doyle, the prize fighter bought himself a monocle before sailing for Europe. . . Haw!

Penn beat Navy which beat Columbia which beat Penn. . . But Penn lost to Penn State which lost to Syracuse which lost to Maryland which lost to Penn. . . P.S.: Write your own ticket.

Those four football "sleepers" we gave you last week did all right. . . North Carolina pinned Duke's ears back. . . Georgia Tech lost a close one to Alabama. . . But Cornell and Columbia tied two highly favored elevens. . . So nobody lost money.

There'll be another 3-star special Wednesday or Thursday. . . Best track of the week was pulled by a columnist in the Michigan Daily, a student paper at the U. of Michigan. . . He said: "Michigan's football team has the spirit of 7 to 6". . . (Michigan 7, Ohio 6; Michigan 7, Illinois 6; Michigan 13, Chicago 12 —Same thing).

Directors of the Detroit Lions have voted to present Coach Earl (Dutch) Clark a new car. . . Only rub is, most of the directors are executives of big automobile companies, and they are having a time deciding on the kind of car "Dutch" will get. . . Happy motoring, Dutch.

It was "Londes to London to Londos" when Nick Londes, Detroit promoter, called London to ask Jim Londos to wrassle in Detroit—Finally turned out they were 4,000 miles and $2,000 apart.

FOOTBALL FINALS START IN OTTAWA

OTTAWA, Nov. 15 (C.P.).—First game between Toronto Argonauts and Ottawa Rough Riders for the Big Four football championship will be played here next Saturday, it was announced last night by Dr. Andy Davies, league president.

Date for the second game is indefinite and will not be settled for a day or two.

The University of Toronto oval is not available on November 27, and Argonauts want the return game held over until December 4. If the league executive insists the second game be held on November 27, it will be played on neutral ground in Hamilton or Montreal.

The date for the second game will be settled by the two clubs, but if they cannot reach a decision, the league executive will intervene.

If the second game is postponed until December 4, it might mean the East-West game for the Canadian title would not be played until December 18. That, of course, is contingent on the Canadian Rugby Union insisting that Winnipeg Blue Bombers enter the final as Western titleholders and not play the winner of Sarnia Imperials-Montreal Westmounts in a semi-final bracket.

Veteran Of Stage Takes Last Bow

YONKERS, N.Y., Nov. 15.—(AP)—Franke Losee, 61, veteran of 50 years on stage and screen, died here yesterday.

Losee, a member of the Players, the Lambs and the Friars, acted with John Drew. In the films he supported George Arliss in "Disraeli" and played the role of father for such stars as Mary Pickford, Pauline Frederick and Marguerite Clark.

DEAD RECKONING

BRUCE HAMILTON

CHAPTER 27.

"Don't cry, dearest," Tim whispered when his declaration of love brought only tears to Alma's eyes. "Listen to me for just a moment. I've known now for weeks. And I've fought against it. Because it seemed disloyal to Esther, so soon. I shall never forget Esther—nothing, nobody, not even you can blot her out, dear.

"But just lately I've had a curious feeling, like a message, as if Esther was trying to tell me something. . . . To tell me to go on, to win you, that she wouldn't mind. . . . She was fond of you, Alma. . . . I know now that I'm right; it's not disloyal. . . . I don't want to rush you. I know it can't be just yet. . . . But I must know my dearest, if you will marry me. Because, if not, life has really nothing more for me. . . ."

Alma spoke at last.

"Oh, Tim dear," she said, "I did so hope it wouldn't come to this."

Tim felt suddenly cold.

"Why not?" His voice was sharp and frightened.

"Because it's impossible, Tim. Absolutely impossible."

. . . A syrupy voice came over the wireless: "National progrem. This is the fuhat news buhletin, copyreht resuhved. . . ." Tim got up abruptly and switched off.

"Alma," he said. His eyes were staring in consternation and horror as he stood over her. "Do you mean you don't love me?"

She stirred unhappily: "Not that way, dear. I can't help it. I'm very fond of you. I think you're one of the nicest men I've ever met. I've valued and enjoyed our friendship. I've been proud of it.

"Please don't spoil it, Tim. Because I know, if you want more, I can never, never give it. I'm terribly sorry to have to hurt you, but I can't help it. Either one can or one can't, one always knows."

Tim was not done. He was not without knowledge of his power. He sat down again, and took Alma in his arms.

"I can't take that answer Alma," he said. "You must love me; I can make you love me." He held her closely to him, kissed her hair, her eyes, her lips.

But Alma suddenly broke free. She faced him with eyes cold and hostile.

"I didn't think you'd do that, Tim. . . . Couldn't you take my word for it?"

"Too soon," he muttered. "Perhaps some day. . . ."

"No!" She spoke sharply. "It's better now than later."

"But why not, Alma?" he pleaded. "We've always been so happy together. I don't understand. . . . Why not?"

She spoke more gently. " Can't you understand, Tim?"

"Do you love someone else?"

She shook her head.

"Is it that I'm too old?"

She evaded a direct reply. "Isn't it enough that I don't, I can't love you that way?"

All the virtue went out of Tim. She did actually consider him too old. It was true—she had been only kind to him. She was not to blame, she had never led him to believe she had more than friendship to offer. He had been living in yet another fool's paradise.

All had been for nothing. He saw in a flash how he had crippled his life, done murder, sacrificed a beautiful and happy home, subjected himself to the terror of blackmail, for the sake of a shadow of a shade. Vanity, selfdelusion. . . . All for nothing. . . .

He got up.

"I didn't see it that way," he said simply. "I'm barely 50; I didn't think it would make all that difference. . . . Of course, I know I look older. . . . It's not a thing one can argue about, though. I see that. . . . Let's go, Alma. I'll see you to the station, and then I'll go my own way. I don't think I'd better see you again, at least not just yet."

His exit, at least, could be made with dignity.

All for nothing!

Tim now began to let himself go. He did not consciously dramatize his eclipse, give a deliberate outward symbolism to his inner degeneration,but whereas he had always in the past faced his problems with confidence and quiet pertinacity, he now ignored them with a hopeless and sullen indifference. He became apathetic.

During the daytime at least, he was able to hypnotize himself into a state when all thinking was practically suspended. He ate, worked, moved from place to place in a kind of numb trance. But during the nights painful thoughts closed in upon him. So long as he had mental occupation he could keep them at bay. He discovered anew the anodyne qualities of patience games and chess problems.

After a few nights of sleepless, tossing misery he gave up going to bed at his usual hour, and sat up till 3 or 4 over his cards or chessboard, till his eyes began to close from sheer exhaustion. Then he would stumble upstairs and fall into a heavy sleep from which he was awakened with difficulty.

Dragging himself up in the morning, he seldom had time for a proper breakfast, for which he had, in any case, no appetite—sometimes not even time to anave himself. He, who had always been so neat and well turned out, became slovenly in dress and appearance. He neglected things. His collars, shirts, and underwear, which he had been in the habit of changing at least every other day, were not discarded till they were unequivocally dirty.

A pair of worsted trousers he had bought in the spring was allowed to lose its crease, get rumpled, and spotted; he was always intending to take it to the cleaners, but somehow never found time, and wore it day after day. No longer did he pay his weekly visit to the barber; he let the back of his hair grow over his collar without giving it any attention.

In other ways, too, his prevailing inclination was to let things slide. With Christmas approaching it became necessary for him to look for accommodation. The furniture at The Wilderness had been Esther's and was now his own; it was only a question of seeking a house or a flat to put it in. But he did nothing about it. So long as he had more than a fortnight at The Wilderness he would not trouble; he could always find something at the last moment.

BEDTIME STORY

By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY'S BIG SHOUT.

As Uncle Wiggily hopped around the corner of his hollow stump bungalow one day he heard a voice shouting:

"Listen now! Twenty-seven. Forty-eight. Lollypop! Shift! One hundred!"

Then sounded the thuds of running feet, grunts, squeals, quacks and barks.

"Oh, my goodness!" thought the rabbit gentleman as his pink nose began to twinkle very fast. "There must be a lot of Bad Chaps there waiting for me—a hundred at least!"

Mr. Longears was about to turn around and hop back into his bungalow, where he knew his wife and nurse Jane wouldn't let the Bad Chaps get him, when he heard a voice yell:

"Touchdown! Teuchdown! We made a touchdown!"

Just a Game.

Then Uncle Wiggily laughed for he knew the noises he had heard were those made by the animal boys playing football. So Mr. Longears hopped on around the corner of his bungalow and there he saw many rabbits, puppy dogs, pigs and pussy cats playing the game.

Uncle Wiggily's own little rabbit boy, Buster, was so covered with dirt you couldn't tell which was rabbit and which wasn't.

"Why, Buster, what happened?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

"Oh, I was making a touchdown and Jackie Bow Wow tackled me," said Buster.

"Football is a wonderful game," said Uncle Wiggily.

"Oh, this is only practice," said Sammie Littletail. "You should come to our real game tomorrow."

"I'll come," promised Uncle Wiggily.

"And will you shout for our team?" asked Buster.

"I will give a very loud shout," promised Uncle Wiggily.

"Hurray!" cried the animal boys who were practicing football.

"That will help us win the game," said Sammie. "We need a good shouter on our cheer team."

"I'll be there " promised Uncle Wiggily.

Then he hopped on through the woods to look for an adventure and soon he came to the hollow stump school. The Lady Mouse Teacher had some classes and through the windows, some of which were open for fresh air, Uncle Wiggily heard Miss Mouse suddenly scream.

"Oh, Miss Mouse, is anything the matter?" asked Uncle Wiggily. He was so anxious to help he jumped in through one of the windows.

"Nothing is the matter, thank you," said Miss Mouse. "I was just trying to do an Indian war whoop for my class."

In the Lesson.

"An Indian war whoop?" asked Uncle Wiggily, puzzled like.

"Yes," said Miss Mouse. "You see we are studying about Indians and how they painted their faces—"

"I know about that," said Mr. Longears, laughing.

"Yes, I guess you do. Well, I don't know much about how the Indians used to whoop or shout to scare their enemies, but I did the best I could like this:" Again Miss Mouse let out a tiny little scream.

"Oh, that isn't the way Indians gave their war whoops," said Mr. Longears. "Listen to this. I'm going to shout at the football game so I may as wel practice now with an Indian war whoop."

Then Uncle Wiggily opened his mouth and gave a loud shout, at the same time patting his mouth with his paw so it sounded like:

"Walla-walla-walla-whoopie-wah-wah-ooie-ooie-coupie-WALLA!"

"Oh, what a lovely Indian war whoop," said Miss Mouse, who had covered her ears. "Now you know, my dears," she said to her class, "what shouters those Indians were."

"Unkie Wig is a shouter, too," said Baby Bunty, laughing.

And if the vacuum sweeper doesn't bite the legs off the chairs I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily teaching school.

Take Pair Of Suspects 200 Miles In Search For Body Of Missing Husband

OTTAWA, Nov. 15 (CP). — Murders are somewhat rare among Eskimos of Canada's Arctic coastline but when they occur the great distances and the slow transport methods make for methods of investigation which would seem strange in more settled districts.

Last winter, according to the annual report of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, two suspects accompanied a police patrol on a 200-mile journey to investigate a supposed murder and in the course of the journey were released.

The patrol in charge of Acting Sergeant Makinson set out from Cambridge Bay on the south shore on Victoria Island for King William Island. One of the objects of the tour was to investigate the supposed murder of an Eskimo named "Koppa" two years before.

Koppa's wife, "Heevogal," had gone to live with an Eskimo named "Kayachloo" after her husband's death. The two were in custody at Cambridge Bay and went along with the police patrol.

When the patrol reached Sherman Inlet an inland trip was made to the scene of Koppa's death in the hope the body might be found. It was not and the two suspects continued with the patrol to Peterson Bay where they were released.

MARMORA

The eighty-third anniversary of her birth was quietly observed by Mrs. Alex. Anderson on Remembrance Day. A birthday supper was arranged by her daughter, Mrs. Otto Ratzlaff of North Dakota, who has been visiting her for some weeks. The guests included her son, William Green, of Belleville, and eleven ladies who are neighbors of this highly-esteemed Marmora resident. Mrs. Anderson, who has been twice married (her first husband being the late John Green), was born in Rawdon Township, a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Enos Wilcox. At her baptism she received the names, Ruth Maretta. Her parents originally lived in Thurlow Township, and her grandparents came to this country from the British Isles. The house in which Mrs. Anderson was born was part log and part frame, and was not demolished until last summer. Mrs. Anderson has been noted for years as an excellent cook and was proprietress of a summer hotel at Crowe Lake for a number of years.

The group of St. Andrew's Women's Association of which Mrs. C. E. McElwain is convenor, held a well-patronized salad tea at the home of Mrs. (Dr.) D. L. Curtis on Friday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Roberts of Toronto were guests at the Royal Hotel on Friday.

Miss Grace Osborne of Peterborough s. nt Thursday at her home here.

Mrs. William Flynn has returned home after visiting relatives at Belleville.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

JANETVILLE, Nov. 15.—Over four hundred attended the annual fowl supper which was held in the Foresters' Hall on Wednesday night under the auspices of the Women's Association of the United Church.

The supper was all that could be desired, with an abundance of hot roast goose and chicken, rich brown gravy, a variety of delicious vegetables and the usual quota of cakes, tarts and pies, including pumpkin pie with whipped cream.

Rev. M. A. Bury, pastor of the church, was the capable chairman of the evening, and following a short address of welcome, introduced the cast of the excellent three-act play, "Lighthouse Nan," which was presented by the Dramatic Society of St. Mary's Church, Lifford.

The play was remarkably well given, and judging from the hearty laughter and rounds of applause, was thoroughly enjoyed by the large audience.

Between acts Miss Vera Strachan favored with two very fine readings, entitled "Papa's Letter" and "Grady's Goat," and Mr. Benjamin rendered two excellent trumpet solos, accompanied by Mr. Robert Sisson of Bethany.

For the first time since it was put on the Quebec statute books at the last session of the legislature, the "padlock" law against communism was called into operation when Quebec provincial police raided the offices of La Carte, French Leftist newspaper, seized copies of the paper and removed files and correspondence. The raid was only the first of many according to Premier Duplessis (LEFT) who told representatives of labor unions to clean out the 'reds' allegedly slipping into trade unions. The Montreal Civil Liberties Union has been enlisted by La Carte to seek an injunction restraining the attorney-general from maintaining the "padlock" for the statutory 12 months. Acting for the union is R. L. Calder, K.C. (RIGHT), well known criminal lawyer and one of the two attorneys for the union.

In the same spirit of procrastination he pushed the question of Adams to the back of his mind. Had he abandoned his plan for a cash-down settlement? He hardly knew; certainly in his new circumstances, with the prospect of what to him was poverty waiting round the corner, some new adjustment would have to be made. But in the meantime he tried to expel the matter as far as possible from his thoughts, and he continued to make his weekly payments without a murmur. He did not even tell Adams that they would shortly have to leave The Wilderness.

His work also suffered. He no longer brought the old concentration to it, setting to with a dull mechanical spirit from which all zeal and interest had been extracted.

One morning, after a terrible night from which he had only conjured a few hours' sleep by drinking over half a bottle of whiskey, he found himself particularly on edge and incapable. Try as he did, he simply could not keep his hand steady. In the course of clearing a nasty cavity in an upper molar of Mrs. Gordon, one of his best patients, his hand slipped, and the drill cut a jagged hole in the gum. It was painful, and bled profusely.

Cleaning it up as best he could, Tim stammered a wretched apology. He had been far from well lately, insomnia; he needed a rest. But from the look in Mrs. Gordon's eye, the chilly incredulity with which she listened to his excuses, he apprehended with dismal certainty that he would not see her again. Looking at himself in the mirror after she had gone, he admitted frankly that he could not blame her. Perhaps then for the first time he told himself that he would have to pull up.

LAKEFIELD CLASS NEWLY ORGANIZED

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LAKEFIELD, Nov. 15. — The first meeting of the "Merry Milk Maids' Class" was held at the home of Miss Muriel Bullock on Wednesday, Nov. 10. There were thirteen members present.

The following officers were elected: Miss Lilian Dunford, president; Miss Minnie Charlton, secretary; Miss Muriel L. Bullock, Miss Allene Mile, directors.

The Merry Milk Maids' Class is going to study the "milky way projects," which is suggested by the Junior Institute. The milky way project consist of making a series of milk menus. The girls are to be given home work (shades of their school days!), and worst of all, they must do it themselves. They can't call on Dad when they get stuck on an especially tricky recipe for milk pudding, no matter how good a cook he may be. Each member must keep a record book of the class procedure, and in June, achievement day will be held, when the girls exhibit their work along with that of other classes.

Any new members are welcome, and are invited to attend the next meeting which is to be held on Tuesday, November 23 at the home of Miss Allene Miles.

Claim Wrappers Used Give Bread Weight

Vancouver, Nov. 15 (CP)

DR. Lyle Telford, leader of the British Columbia Cooperative Commonwealth Federation, said last night he would investigate an alleged flour combine and "unfair spread of bread prices."

Dr. Telford declared a baker had told him of a baking machine capable of putting 144 pounds of water in a 196-pound barrel of flour. Waxed wrappers, the C.C.F. leader said, were used mainly to keep the moisture which gives the loaf its weight—not for sanitation purposes.

CHINA ASKS HELP OF WORLD POWERS THROUGH SUPPLIES

BRUSSELS, Nov. 15—(CP Cable)—When the nine-power treaty conference assembled this morning, Dr. Wellington Koo, the Chinese delegate, in an attack on Japan demanded material help "to enable us to continue our effective resistance."

China did not ask the signatory powers to fight for her but she asked them to "refrain from contributing to the financial or economic resources of the aggressor or feeding her with an uninterrupted flow of arms."

"In our struggle against the forces of Japanese aggression with the whole nation behind us, united in purpose and undaunted in spirit, we do not ask other signatory powers to fight for us, but we need material help to continue our effective resistance," the Chinese delegate declared.

"International peace is like national peace. If it is to be made public, it must be defended!

"Restoration of the defence of peace in the Far East at present calls for concerted action of a moral and material character on the part of other participating powers in the conference.

"Such action must also be timely. For if it is delayed too long because of hesitation and doubt then the violence and disorder now raging in the Far East will soon reach such proportions as will be impossible to restrain and control without undergoing the trials and tribulations of another world war."

MILLBROOK

Among those from Millbrook who motored to Bailieboro on Wednesday and attended the fowl supper, under the auspices of the W.A., of Christ church, were: Archdeacon William Simpson, Mrs. C. M. Westmacott, Mrs. L. H. Bonneville, Mrs. E. H. Barnes, Mrs. H. Attwool, Mr. and Mrs. William Wilkinson, Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Bigelow, Misses Ada Attwooll, B. M. Turner, B.A., Muriel Smith, Emma Hunter, Bella McCorry, M. L. Collins, Margaret Simpson, and Mrs. F. C. Scott.

Local schools and places of business were closed for Remembrance Day, but no public service was held at the Cenotaph as in former years, the general feeling, apparently, being that the special services in the churches the preceding Sunday, particularly as the veterans have their local annual church attendance on that date, met the requirements of the occasion in sufficient manner.

Local veterans of the world war usually prefer going to the larger centres for the Remembrance Day parade and service; hence the decision reached, for the initial time this year, to abandon the usual public service so far as the village was concerned.

ELEVEN KILLED WHEN AIRLINER HITS CHIMNEY

Prince of Hesse Is Among Victims

OSTEND, Belgium, Nov. 16 (AP)—Eleven persons, including five members of the former Royal family of Hesse, died today in the flaming wreckage of a Belgian airliner which crashed into a high chimney near here while trying to land at Steene airport during a fog.

The dead included the Grand Duke George Von Hesse Bei Rhein and his wife, the former Princess Cecile of Greece and Denmark; their two children, Ludwig and Alsenbach; and the Grand Duke's mother, the Dowager Grand Duchess Von Hesse Bei Rhein.

The dead former Princess Cecile was a first cousin of the Duchess of Kent.

Two other Germans were in the party, enroute to the wedding of Prince Ludwig Von Hesse, social attaché to the Germany embassy in London, and Margaret Campbell Geddes, daughter of Sir Auckland Geddes, former principal of McGill University, Montreal. They were to have been married on Saturday.

The two were the Von Hesse maid, Lina Henar, and a man named Z. U. Eisenbach. The crew of three also were killed. The 11th person was not at once identified.

DRIVE IS PRESSED AGAINST OUTLAWS

JERUSALEM, Nov. 16—(CP-Havas).—Brisk fighting was underway in the Safed hill country to-day as strong British contingent pressed a drive against a band of Arab outlaws led by the Iraq chieftain, Fauzi Kaukadgi.

The British detachments, supported by aircraft, killed three bandits in a clash with the terrorists yesterday. Three full companies of infantry and a detachment of border police are participating in the hunt.

While tension continued high in the Holy Land following new outbursts of Arab-Jewish violence, moves by responsible Jewish and Arab quarters raised some hopes for an appeasement of the disorders. Both Arabs and Jews urged a cessation of terroristic acts.

The death toll resulting from Arab-Jewish clashes on Sunday rose to eight yesterday, when one of the injured died. Twelve wounded are still in critical condition.

Armed police patrolled all quarters of Jerusalem and kept vigilant guard over every government building.

Traffic Claims Second Victim

SARNIA, Ont., Nov. 16—(CP). — Second victim of traffic accidents here with 24 hours and fourth this month, John D. Lowrie, about 75, died in hospital here to-day after he was struck by an automobile driven by Mrs. Doris Wilson, 24, Sarnia township.

Lowrie, former race-track starter and horse trainer, was crossing a street intersection when he became confused and after stopping momentarily, started to run and moved into the path of the car, police were told.

Roadway Collapses On Picton Street

PICTON, Ont., Nov. 16 (CP). — Heavy rains were blamed today for undermining the roadway on Mary Street here so that a heavy truck dropped nine feet into a deep hole yesterday. Weakened by rains, the roadway collapsed when the truck passed over it, it was believed.

Douglas Envoy Is Given 6 Months On Libel Charge

Social Credit Expert Held Partly to Blame For Growing Turmoil in Alberta

EDMONTON, Nov. 16.—(CP)—Release on bail pending hearing of their appeals against conviction and sentence for publishing defamatory libel knowing it to be false will be sought today for G. F. Powell, British Social Credit authority, and Joseph H. Unwin, Social Credit member of the Alberta Legislature for Edson.

Mr. Powell, representative of Major C. H. Douglas, British founder of Social Credit principles, was convicted by Mr. Justice W. C. Ives in Alberta Supreme Court yesterday at a non-jury sitting. He was sentenced to six months in jail with hard labor and His Lordship is recommending to the Secretary of State at Ottawa he be deported.

Mr. Unwin, government whip in the legislature, was sentenced to three months in jail last Saturday by Mr. Justice Ives after his conviction by a sixx-man jury. Both the charges against Mr. Powell and Mr. Unwin were laid as result of publication of a pamphlet entitled "bankers' toadies," naming nine Edmonton men.

Will Make An Appeal.

Hugh Calls Macdonald, K.C., counsel for Mr. Powell, announced last night an appeal would be made. Notice of the appeal is slated to be filed at the court house today along with application for bail. R. Frederick Jackson, counsel for Mr. Unwin, previously filed notice of appeal and is endeavoring to have Mr. Unwin released on bail.

Mr. Macdonald and George H. Steer, K.C., who conducted the private prosecution, both addressed His Lordship after all evidence had been submitted. The information on which the charges were laid was sworn by Senator W. A. Griesbach. Senator Griesbach also appeared as a witness.

In passing sentence, Mr. Justice Ives said signs had not been lacking in Alberta that there is a growing turmoil among the people and a growing disrespect for the law. The next phase logically to follow is turbulence and then breaches of the peace could be expected, he added. The evidence clearly showed, said His Lordship, that Mr. Powell is responsible in part for the turmoil.

His Lordship said Unwin could not be considered an accomplice. Unwin was more of a "glorified messenger boy" and did not do anything without approval of his superiors.

Powell, said Mr. Justice Ives, admitted writing or preparing the "bankers' toadies" pamphlet except

SUBURBAN DAIRIES PLAN TO UNDERSELL TORONTO PLANTS

TORONTO, Nov. 16 (C.P.). — Ten suburban Toronto dairies have agreed to sell milk at 12 cents a quart, one cent less than the price set by the Ontario Milk Control Board, it was announced to-day by Dr. Charles Cook, owner of an East York dairy.

Dr. Cook said suburban dairy operators met last night, formed an Independent Distributors' Association, and prepared to sell their product in competition with "big Toronto companies" charging 13 cents.

Milk Board Advised.

Formation of the suburban association was a step in Toronto's two-week-old milk war which started when the price was raised from 12 to 13 cents. An organization of housewives has been formed with the objective of forcing the price down by having householders buy as little as they can get along with.

"We have interviewed the Ontario Milk Control Board and have informed them of our intentions," said Dr. Cook. "We were told that we can form our independent association, and that we will receive such co-operation as the Board can give.

"We must admit that in the past the smaller suburban dairies have cut prices below those set by the Milk Board. Now we are coming out in the open, and we will sell milk at prices prevailing prior to November 1 when the new prices were set."

TORONTO MOTORIST SUES PEDESTRIAN

TORONTO, Nov. 16 —(CP)— For the first time within the memory of court officials, a motorist is suing a pedestrian for damages. Mrs. Jean Wagman, Toronto, asks $10,000 from William J. Lockard, Parry Sound, Ont., for injuries received when as a passenger in her father's car she attempted to save Lockard from being struck.

T. L. Creighton, counsel for Mrs. Wagman, said she was riding in the car in Parry Sound when Lockard appeared about to walk against it.

"To save the man the woman put her arm out of the car window and attempted to push the man out of the way," said Mr. Creighton. "In so doing she fractured her arm and received a bad shock."

H. E. Stone, Parry Sound, appearing for Lockard denied any blame for his client.

PANIC-STRICKEN CHINESE FLEEING BEFORE JAPANESE

By Lloyd Lehrbas
(Associated Press Staff Writer.)

SHANGHAI, Nov. 16 (A.P.). — Thousands of panic-stricken Chinese fled from three of China's great cities to-night to escape advancing Japanese troops and widespread bombing by Japanese warplanes.

A great exodus was under way from Nanking, the capital and object of a Japanese drive into the interior from Shanghai. Similarly, civilians were fleeing from Tsinanfu, Shantung Province capital north of the Shanghai war area, and from Soochow, central point in Chinese defence lines between Shanghai and Nanking.

Japanese planes bombed a widespread area of the Shanghai Peninsula to smooth a way to Nanking for Abduction Threatened Of Howie Morenz, Jr.

Police Believe Phone Calls Are From Mentally Unbalanced Persons

MONTREAL, Nov. 16 (C.P.). — Howie Morenz, Jr., son of the great National Hockey League centre who died last March, was guarded by police to-day after his mother had received telephone calls threatening abduction of the 10-year-old youngster.

Though believing the calls the work of cranks, police said they were attempting to trace them down. One had come from a woman claiming to be Howie's teacher; the other three were from men.

They came, police considered, from mentally unbalanced persons who read that $25,000 had been raised for the dead player's family in an exhibition hockey game and through other sources. The money has been placed in trust for Mrs. Morenz and her three children.

The calls were not regarded by detectives as serious threats. A kidnapper, they declared, would scarcely warn his intended victim.

Young Howie's teachers, though, were asked not to let him out of their sight at school. He attends an English school, whereas the woman who claimed on the 'phone she was his teacher spoke French.

Howie's father, a National Hockey League player for 14 years, died last March 8. He had played with Montral Canadiens for a dozen of his years in the circuit.

REFUSED TO WEAR PANTS

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 16.—(AP).—Harry Hermann, 79-year-old "Hermit of Hollywood," was divorced to-day because he refused to wear pants.

"When we were married in 1920," Mrs. Pearl Hermann told the court, "he wore pants just like other men. Now he goes around nude and wants me to do the same."

Hermann brought almost nude guests to their tin and tarpaper home in the Hollywood Hills, Mrs. Hermann said.

Reports Japanese had landed heavy reinforcements at Hangchow Bay, south of Shanghai, and along the Yangtze added to the concern of Chinese officials.

Foreign Embassies watched the situation closely, preparing for evacuation if Nanking becomes untenable. Red Cross hospital patients and staff were moved upstream to Hankow. Other hospitals considered similar moves.

BULLETIN

Toronto, Nov. 16—(CP)—Four armed and masked men today escaped with a $15,000 payroll from the head office here of Tip Top Tailors. The robbers fired one shot as they fled from the offices, situated beside Lake Ontario near the International League baseball stadium.

Office employees were forced to raise their hands, then were huddled in a corner, while the robbers took the payroll from a strong-room opening off the office.

Chinese Government To Move From Nanking

19 NEW MUNITION FACTORIES.

Japanese Advance From Shanghai Threatens Seat Of Government

NANKING, Nov. 16 (A.P.). — The government decided to-night to move to Hankow, on the Yangtze nearly 300 miles to the west, because of the threat to the capital by the Japanese forces advancing from Shanghai.

The civil departments will be moved, but officials emphasized this did not mean abandonment of the capital and avowed the army would defend Nanking until the last with Premier Chiang Kai-Shek in command.

"If the Japanese break through our defences, our army will retreat fighting for China, determined against compromise or capitulation," said a high official.

Chinese have viewed with increasing concern the advance of Japanese troops on the "Hindenburg" line of Chinese defences some 125 miles miles south-east of here.

Navy May Attack City.

Although officials expected the strongly-prepared line to withstand the Japanese assault, they saw a chance Japanese naval vessels might steam up the Yangtze River to attack the city.

The main barrier to a naval attack was the chain of sunken junks blockading the Yangtze at Kiangyin, 80 air miles to the east. It was might break through.

IMPERIAL HEADQUARTERS

TOKYO, Nov. 16.—(CP-Havas).—The Japanese government to-day decided formally to create an Imperial Headquarers for the more vigorous conduct of the war in China.

The regulations of 1908 establishing Imperial Headquarters created for the duration of the Russo-Japanese war were ordered repealed.

Unable To Question Municipal By-Law Duty To Interpret

Hon. G. N. Gordon Announces Appeal Will Be Taken to The County Judge

Finding that the Court of Revision has no power to question the by-laws of a municipality and that its duties in regard to such by-laws concern only their interpretation, the Court dismissed appeals by Hon. G. N. Gordon, K.C., in which he sought to have raised the assessments of the DeLaval and Raybestos companies, in a finding announced yesterday. Mr. Gordon said this morning that an appeal to the County Court against the Court of Revision finding was being filed today.

Prepared by John A. Harstone, chairman of the Court, and bearing the assenting signatures of Fred Finnie and Thomas Ephgrave, the other two members of the Court, the written finding re-stated the applicant's grounds that the assessments in question are too low and that the by-law giving the fixed assessments effected a renewal of fixed assessments contrary to the Assessment Act and the Municipal Act.

The finding read:

"In respect to the DeLaval Co. Ltd., the by-law in question (No. 3053) was passed on the 6th day of February, 1933 and granted to the Company a fixed assessment of $60,000 (exclusive of school and local improvement rates or taxes) on certain lands of the Company, the buildings, plant and machinery then on the said lands, and thereafter to be placed thereon, including business assessment, for a period of ten years commencing the 1st day of January 1933 subject to certain conditions.

"The evidence shows that the by-law received the affirmative vote of three-quarters of all the members of the council and the assent of over two-thirds of the electors of the City of Peterborough qualified to vote on this by-law and that the conditions of the by-law have been fulfilled. It has now been in operation for a period of nearly five years.

"The applicant argues that this is not a motion to quash but an appeal against the assessment on the ground that the by-law being a renewal is of no effect and cannot affect any assessment, and the Company should be assessed as if the by-law had never been passed. On reading the numerous authorities cited in this appeal and the provisions of the Act I have grave doubts of the jurisdiction of the Court of Revision to determine the validity of the by-law. The Sections of the Assessment Act which deal with the jurisdiction of the Court of Revision are Sections 32, 56, 69,

THREE KIDNAPPERS BIND UP KEEPER ESCAPE FROM JAIL

JAMESVILLE, N.Y., Nov. 16—(AP)—Three men convicted of the kidnapping of John J. O'Connel Jr., of Albany, escaped today in daring fashion from the Onondaga county jail here after they had bound and gagged four keepers, a matron and kidnapped another keeper.

The prisoners were Percy Geary and John Oley of Albany, sentenced to 77 years, and Harold Crowley of New York City, given a 28-year term.

H. H. Paddock, superintendent of the prison, said the three convicts were armed with two guns. Reconstructing the escape, Paddock said the bars of one of the cells in which the prisoners were confined were sawed and placed together with chewing gum to avoid detection.

Stole Keepers Keys

When John Corbett, a keeper, entered the cell block on the ground floor to punch a clock, a routine duty, one of the prisoners pounced on him, bound him with sheets taken from the cell bed and took his keys. The prisoner then liberated the other two convicts and the trio made their way to the guard room on the same floor, Paddock said. There they encountered three keepers, Leroy Pease, Earl Brown and Francis Crowley, Paddock related.

They bound and gagged them with sheets and were ready to leave the room when Mrs. Nellie Hills, a matron, entered, Paddock said.

Mrs. Hills was also bound and left in the guard room with the three keepers, the superintendent said, and the convicts went into the prison yards.

There they encountered Edward Hayes, a keeper who was reporting for work. They forced Hayes to the latter's automobile, took his keys and bound him.

Unable to start the automobile, Paddock said, they liberated Hayes momentarily to permit him to start the car, and then sped away with Hayes unharmed. Paddock quoted Hayes as saying the three transfered to another car.

New York's Snow Gangs To Get Workouts At Lake Placid

Will Then Be Ready To Handle Heavy Snowfalls More Efficiently

By ALAN RANDAL
(Canadian Press Staff Writer).

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—(CP). — Manhattan's snow-removal team will start pre-steason training shortly in Upper New York State.

This was the announcement today from the Department of Sanitation—a sort of unofficial warning to New York's citizenry that winter's snowy months are virtually at hand.

It showed the Department held hope for a more wintry winter than the last one which was so short of snow that most of some $2,000,000 worth of gleaming snow-removal apparatus stood idle in storage sheds.

And because it was never in use there was doubt in the Department that many men knew how to use it. Thus the training camp idea was born.

William F. Carey, Commissioner of Sanitation, said he planned to send about 200 Department employees to Lake Placid as soon as the first heavy snow falls in the Adirondacks.

Woman's Hat Taken For Man's In Court

Windsor, Nov. 16.

SERGEANT Bert Herod's face took on a deep tone of red in Police Court today.

Glancing down the rows of court-room spectators, the court officer sighted a fedora-like headpiece and commanded its wearer: "Take your hat off in the court room, please." Imagine his embarrassment — the wearer was a woman.

"Pretty hard to tell these days," Magistrate David Brodie said as Sergeant Herod offered apologies.

Inquiry Opens Into The Fire On Farm Of Jack Bertram

Barn Was Destroyed During Threshing Operations On August 30 Last

An inquiry into the cause of a fire that destroyed the barn and poultry houses at Spring Garden Farm, on the First Line of Smith Township on August 30 last, was opened at the Court House here this morning. W. J. Scott, Ontario Fire Marshal, was presiding, and W. F. Huycke, K.C., was acting on behalf of the Department.

John A. Bertram, owner of the property and tenant of the stately brick residence built by his grandfather, the late John Bertram, former member of Parliament for Peterborough West, and which was saved from the fire, was represented by Wilfrid C. Field of Toronto. The insurance company concerned was represented by R. H. Greer, K.C., Toronto.

Three witnesses who testified at the hearing prior to the luncheon adjournment provided a recitation of events at the threshing immediately prior to the outbreak of the fire. All of them agreed with Mr. Greer the engine that drove the threshing mill and which was outside the barn could not have caused the fire. They were, however, unable to offer any theories bearing on the cause of the outbreak.

Almost Completed.

Two Cars Wrecked East Of Omemee

LINDSAY, Ont., Nov. 16 (C.P.).—Two cars were wrecked and Mrs. Reg. Grant of Barrie suffered a broken nose in an accident on the highway about four miles east of Omemee last night. A car driven by Miss Jean Lay of Barrie and containing four women passengers sideswiped a west-bound car driven by J. H. Vance (773 Aylmer Street), Peterborough. The impact turned the Vance car around on the highway and caused the Lay car to plunge over a 15-foot embankment 300 yards from the scene of the impact.

When the passengers were extricated from the wreckage it was found Mrs. Grant suffered a broken nose. The other passengers were not hurt.

Grievances Of The Oshawa Employees To Be Aired Before Agreement Drawn

Oshawa, Nov. 16.

GRIEVANCES claimed by union employees of General Motors will be aired before negotiations are started on the new agreement with the company, C. H. Millard, president of the local union, said today when the bargaining committee went into meeting with General Motors officials.

Millard said that 10 days ago the shop committee met with the company over grievances of union employees over wage cuts in some departments.

After another meeting two days some grievances were still not settled and Louis Fine, chief conciliation officer of the Ontario Department of Labor, is acting as mediator in the meeting today.

When difficulties have been solved, Millard stated they expect to go on with negotiations regarding new agreement with the company.

Seven-Tenths Of Industrial Capital In Canada Found To Be Canadian

London, Nov. 16.

"OF every $100 invested in Canadian industry, $70.60 is Canadian, $21.14 American and $7.92 from the United Kingdom, D. H. Ward, Secretary of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, told a Leicester service club today.

Mr. Ward cited these figures by way of reply to suggestions that Canadian industry was dominated by United States capital.

He declared that there are about 1,600 United States controlled or affiliated companies in Canada, but only 68 per cent of them are manufacturing concerns. Of capital invested in these companies, only 24 per cent is in manufacturing. The minority interest in these companies, coming to about 22 per cent, is chiefly Canadian, he said.

INQUIRY OPENED INTO BARN FIRE

of August 30 helping with the threshing there. The work was started about one o'clock and the work was completed an hour or so later. There were only four loads to be threshed.

Witness had been at work in the mow along with Mr. Bertram, and Harry Carver and William Franks had been feeding sheaves into the separator.

Just prior to the outbreak of fire which occurred in the straw pile inside the barn, witness and some of the other men were cleaning up around the threshing machine which was still running. Mr. Bertram had left the barn.

Shield said that before the threshing started Mr. Bertram had asked him to look for matches, adding that he had found two boxes in the hay mow. He pointed out a place in the mow where he believed someone, probably tramps, had been sleeping.

Harry Carver, a neighbor of the Bertrams, said he was cleaning up on the belt side of the thresher when he saw Franks turn around sharply. He looked in the same direction and saw flames in the straw below the blower.

Witness believed that Mr. Bertram was outside the barn down by the gate when the fire started. He said there were two entrances and two exits to the barn. Besides the main door there was a stairway leading from the granary to the ground floor. The granary, he said, was situated about ten feet from the point at which the fire originated.

William Franks, Lot 11, Concession 13, North Monaghan, said the fire started 10 or 15 feet 'possibly more" from the separator. Witness last saw Mr. Bertram prior to the fire by the engine outside the barn. At that time the threshing was still in progress and witness was on the table of the separator pitching sheaves into the machine.

The hearing was proceeding this afternoon.

Niagara Polluted Fish Are Dead

Buffalo, N.Y., Nov. 16.

UNIVERSITY scientists prepared today to make post mortem examinations of fish in an effort to determine the pollution that swept like a pestilence through maskinonge, bass and minnows of the Niagara river here Sunday.

Dr. George E. Symons, chemist for the Buffalo sewer authority, said he ordered the autopsies in hope that "some new light might be thrown on the nature of the poison."

Source and nature of the pollution has eluded authorities since District Game Protector Willard E. Tillman ordered the search after finding the river "white with dead fish" Sunday.

Tillman said he would demand compensation if the sources of pollution is discovered.

VISCOUNT HALIFAX SAILS FOR BERLIN

LONDON, Nov. 16. — (AP).—Great Britain to-day dispatched Viscount Halifax on a "feeler" visit to Chancellor Hitler of Germany, and welcomed youthful King Leopold of the Belgians to her shore for diplomatic talks of possibly far-reaching effect.

A flotilla of British destroyers escorted by nine Royal Air Force planes, steamed out to meet the visiting king in mid-channel.

Lord Halifax, Lord President of the Council, en route to Germany by train and channel boat, will arrive at Berlin to-morrow morning and—among other things—probably will discuss Germany's colonial aspirations with Hitler at Bavarian Berchtesgaden on Thursday.

Lord Halifax's conversations with Hitler and other German leaders were expected to enable the statesman to report to Prime Minister Chamberlain as to whether there is any real basis on which Great Britain and Germany can enter a new friendship.

The Halifax-Hitler talks will cover a wide range of topics, including the new Rome-Berlin-Tokio pact against Communism. Because of reported uneasiness in Paris and Rome over the meeting, Great Britain and Germany will keep their respective diplomatic allies—France and Italy—informed of the progress of the conversations.

HAS NO POWER TO QUESTION LAW

72, 86, 121 and 238. Counsel for the Company and for the Municipality specially brings to the Court's attention Sections 86 and 238. These should be examined. Section 86 reads as follows:

"'It is hereby declared that the Court of Revision, the County Judge, the Railway and Municipal Board, and every court to which and every Judge to whom an appeal lies under this Act have jurisdiction to determine not only the amount of any assessment, but also all questions as to whether any persons or things are or were assessable or are or were legally assessed or exempted from assessment.'"

'It would appear, keeping in mind the history of the legislation contained in Section 86, that it gives wide powers to the Court of Revision, but when it is read in conjunction with Sec 238 which enacts that this Act shall not affect the terms of any agreement made with a municipal corporation, or any by-law heretofore or hereafter passed by a municipal council under any other Act for fixing the assessment of any property, or for commuting or otherwise relating to municipal taxation, it appears evident that it cannot be read to give to this Court any power beyond that of interpreting such a by-law and the cases submitted by the applicant, especially Pringle vs. Stratford 20 O.L.R. page 246 go no further than to show that the Court of Revision may interpret or construe such agreements or by-laws. But I can find nothing in the cases submitted to suggest that this Court has power to declare a by-law or any part thereof invalid, and it would appear that the remedy of the applicant lies elsewhere than in an application to the Court of Revision. In view of the foregoing I have therefore come to the conclusion that the by-law must be recognized as binding upon this Court and accordingly find that the assessment may be confirmed. Taking this view it is unnecessary to deal with the other matters raised in this appeal.

"For the same reasons the appeal in respect to the assessment of the Canadian Raybestos Co. Ltd. is dismissed."

Powell called himself a technician, but Mr. Justice Ives declared this was a misnomer. "You are a propagandist and nothing more," he said.

Associated with Major Douglas for the past 18 years, Powell came to Alberta last June from London as an advisor to the Alberta Social Credit Board. In private life before leaving England he was a consultant on commercial efficiency.

Nine Edmonton men were named in the "bankers' toadies" leaflet on an opposite side to that bearing printed appellations. Senator Griesbach, S. W. Field, K.C., L. Y. Cairns, K.C., testified they were among those named in the pamphlet.

BURGLARS CAUGHT ENTERING STORE

CHATHAM, Ont., Nov. 16 (CP).—Two burglars who removed a window of Dr. O. J. Rochon's drug store at Tilbury, to effect an entry early today walked into the waiting arms of Provincial Constable R. B. Mulholland and Chief of Police Alvin McDowell.

The men arrested were Robert Kett, 19, and George Gerard, 23, of Windsor. They will be arraigned on attempted burglary charge in weekly police court in Tilbury this afternoon.

Yesterday, Dr. Rochon discovered that during Sunday night, putty was removed from a window on one side of the building, and reported the matter to the authorities. It was suspected the work was preliminary to a planned break, with the result that the two officers took up a watch in the store. After they had waited two hours the miscreants arrived. Officers waited until they had removed the pane of glass, and then, moving swiftly, slapped the handcuffs on them.

The officers discovered the pair had travelled to Tilbury from Windsor in a stolen car.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Nov. 16.—Wheat slid down about three cents a bushel maximum in Chicago, and displayed but little power to rally. Corn prices hit a new bottom record for the season.

With assertions persistent that crop conditions in Argentina were better than expected, and with export demand for North American wheat almost nil, the wheat market here tumbled fast at times. A severe jolt resulted from a fall of as much at 4⅜ cents in Liverpool quotations, and from 2,500,000 bushels increase of stocks of wheat afloat for Europe.

Contributing to Chicago wheat market weakness were downturns of securities, together with uncertainty regarding probable legislation at Washington. President Roosevelt's message to Congress had no discernible influence on the wheat market.

Corn, oats and rye values receded with wheat. A huge increase of the corn visible was a disturbing factor. Export purchases of 300,000 bushels of corn were noted.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, Nov. 16—(CP)—Forecasts of frost in southwest Buenos Aires to-night was a chief factor in steadying wheat futures on Winnipeg Grain Exchange to-day. Prices closed ⅝ to ¾ cent higher, November at $1.18¼, December $1.13⅝ to ¾; May, $1.10⅝ to $1.11, and July, $1.05⅝.

Values generally fluctuated fractionally higher in dull trading comprised mostly of inter-market spreading with only a scattered seaboard buying reported.

Though export business in Canadian wheat continued at a low ebb, modified reports of recent frost damage in the Argentine and higher prices at Buenos Aires brought out sufficient support to keep prices around previous levels.

IS BRITAIN LOSING CANADIAN MARKET?

LONDON, Nov. 16 (CP Cable).—A suggestion that Great Britain was losing the Canadian coal market to Russia and other countries was voiced in the House of Commons today.

George Griffiths, Labor, asked if Captain Harry Crookshank, Secretary for Mines, had received statements from the Dominions that they had experienced difficulties in getting supplies from South Wales. It had been said South Wales found it more profitable to ship coal to Italy.

Should South Wales prefer the Italian market, which is temporary, and lose the Canadian market? he asked.

Capt. Crookshank, asking for notice of the question, declared he would not like to express, without notice, an opinion about the relative parts of the export market.

"Isn't it desirable to retain the Canadian market and would it not be suicidal to lose it?" Mr. Griffiths shot back.

There was no answer.

Conservative Women Meet In Paragon Hall.

The Women's Conservative Association met in the Paragon Hall on Monday afternoon with a splendid attendance of members and a number of visitors.

The determination to make the association a living, well-organized body, was the keynote of the meeting. At the regular gatherings during the winter months, the members plan to take up a thorough study of social legislation in the province today.

Mrs. Strickland, newly elected president, was in the chair and thanked the ladies for their work during the last election. One of the oldest members, Mrs. Joseph Mills, addressed the meeting, expressing the hope that all Conservative women would be members of the association before long.

In the unavoidable absence of Senator Iva Campbell Fallis, who had been scheduled as the principal speaker, Mrs. J. Cridland gave a splendid address, in which she stated that the party "cannot live 'on' past reputation, but must live 'up' to past reputation, and the work of men like Sir John A. MacDonald."

G. K. Fraser, president of the Liberal - Conservative Association, spoke briefly to the ladies, thanking them for their assistance in the last election, and expressing the conviction that the women should have more important work to do at election times.

The former president, Mrs. G. S. Cameron, also addressed the meeting briefly welcoming the members present.

Tea was served at the close, the table being charmingly arranged with a lace panel on the damask cloth, and with a navy and crystal tree placed on a reflector as a centrepiece, with silver candelabra holding navy and white candles on either side, and placed on semi-circular reflectors. Mrs. G. S. Cameron presided, assisted by members of the association.

Italy was spoken of as the storm centre of Europe by the speaker, who said, "Dictatorships move more quickly, but in the end democracies go much farther."

It was announced that "Scarlet Fever" will be the subject of Dr. Murray Fraser's health talk to representatives of the Home and School Associations in his office on Wednesday, November 17.

There will be no December meeting of the Home and School Council.

Miss Jean Cameron was heard in a solo, "The Lord is My Shepherd," accompanied at the piano by Miss Marion Armstrong.

A delightful social hour followed the meeting, when tea was poured by Mrs. James Dutton, president of the W.M.S. and by Mrs. Fred Rowan, president of the Fraser Auxiliary. The tea table was attractively arranged with bronze baby chrysanthemums as a centrepiece for the lace cloth. There was a large attendance at the meeting, members of the W.M.S. being guests of the Auxiliary.

Brown-Bongard.

A wedding of interest took place in Norwood on Thursday, November 11, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Bongard, when their only daughter, Yvonne Maude, was united in marriage of Wilfred Gordon Brown of Toronto. The ceremony was performed by Rev. A. S. Cleland.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, looked charming in a gown of blush satin made on princess lines, and wore a veil held in place by a halo trimmed with gold leaves. She wore gold slippers and a corsage of mauve orchids. She entered the living room to the strains of the Wedding March played by Miss Edith Lawson of Toronto.

Following the ceremony a luncheon was served to the immediate relatives and friends.

Later the bride and groom left on a motor trip to the United States. For travelling, the bride chose a dubonnet corded silk dress with accessories to match and a grey kid coat. On their return they will reside in Toronto.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

MAKING A NEW ENTRY

SOMETIMES an apparently unnecessary finesse must be taken in order to create an extra entry to take a finesse in a different suit which is utterly obligatory. In other words, finesses are not merely for the purpose of shutting out some winning card held by the opposition. They are also for the purpose of building extra entries into a hand.

(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable.)

North and South reached a contract of 4-Spades on this deal after an opening bid of 1-Spade by South, 2-Spades by North, three by South and four by North.

The club K was West's opening lead, followed by the A and then a small one to East's Q, in response to East's signals. It was now up to the declarer to cash the remainder of the tricks. This seemed a simple matter after the return of the diamond 8, which was won in the dummy with the A, until the first lead of trumps indicated that East held four. Declarer led to the heart A and finessed the trump 9, but was obliged to give up one trump trick.

There was one more possible entry in dummy, which South should have used, and that was to try the finesse of the heart J. Even if this had failed, it was worth trying, as the contract was set otherwise and there was a 50-50 chance that the heart J would hold. In that event the heart K, overtaken with the heart A, would have provided the third needed entry, and the contract would have been made.

JUST BETWEEN US WOMEN

"Let us take care how we speak to those who have fallen in life's field. Help them up, nt heap scorn upon them. We did not see the conflict. We do not know the scars."

—Fuller.

Dear Friends:

I have had such a sad letter from a man who signs himself "Despairing." It is about the way in which this man allowed himself to fall, and the sufferings she has had since.

He says in part: "Roberta, you seem to have had your share of suffering, and maybe you will give me the sympathy which no one else seems willing to give. I have sinned, but I have suffered, not alone in what I am having to go through now, but in the knowledge of how I let my wife and children down.

Yet, even those I was kind to in the past, seem to think I am only getting what is coming to me, so I don't even get understanding. I am striving to get back what I have lost, but so few will give a helpful word."

Well, here is a helpful word right now, "Despairing," and First I want you to change your pen-name to "Hopeful." It will give you more courage to go on. Now the first thing I want you to do is, try to forget as much as you can what you may have done to bring you low, only remembering enough to determine you will never do the same things again.

You see, if you keep dwelling on them, they will only make you miserable, and keep you from getting back what you have lost. We all make mistakes, God knows we do, but He doesn't expect us to have to pay all the rest of our natural lives for them. So quit letting your regrets punish you so much.

Then keep your thoughts fixed on what you want to regain, pray for it, wish for it, saying the words not just thinking them. Do not let yourself get discouraged because it seems slow. You fell slowly at first remember, so keep going.

Further, do not expect too much from others, as human nature has a tendency to kick a man when he is down, as civilized as we are. Let it be between you and God. He knows your failures and He also knows the fight you put up, and sees the scars.

Never forget what Shakespeare said; "There are more things wrought by prayer than this old world dreams of." Remember also that it is easier to slip down than it is to climb back, BUT IT CAN BE DONE.

Try and get back your confidence in yourself before you look for others to have confidence in you, and slowly but surely you will get back to where you were before, and likely higher.

Don't forget either, that we read of men in all kinds of professions making a "comeback" after seemingly utter failure. Just think that you failed at the first attempt, but you are not going to fail again.

Remember that God wants you to succeed, that He is behind you and that there is great rejoicing in Heaven over the one who repents. The prodigal son had the fatted calf killed for him, and you may wake up one day and find the same thing done for you.

And now, I want you to know I shall be sending out wishes and prayers for your success, and expecting a letter soon to tell me you are much nearer your goal. Try and cheer up, as cheerfulness will carry you better and farther than despondency.

The trouble is not in falling down, but in staying down, and I am sure you wont do that. Best wishes from Your Friend, ROBERTA.

THE STARS SAY . . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLLE

For Wednesday, November 17.

While business may be fairly good, according to the ruling aspects, yet this day may be one of confusion and unsettlement of a rather unexpected nature. It would be wise to postpone new undertakings, and to have definite agreements with feminine friends. Be alert to intrigue and misrepresentations with these, and thus avoid future unhappy consequences.

Those whose birthday it is may encounter a year of change and confusion, with women figuring in duplicity or misrepresentation. Enter into new business with precaution and sound acumen.

A child born on this day may have a changeable and adventurous career. It may have some conspicuous adventures and be subject to intrigues and duplicity.

Everybody's Planning Bigger, Better Parties

Get the gang circulating in a Baggage Tag Mixer. It's fun any time—and a perfect send-off for a cruise party.

Write on each tag the name of a guest and the ship he's to sail on. Assign one man and one girl to each ship.

As the crowd barges in, give men's tags to girls, girls' to men. Each guest must hunt frantically for his "luggage"—the person whose name he has drawn—tag him or her conspicuously. Soon every one knows every one else's name.

Later the man and girl sailing on the same ship will want to get acquainted, be partners for refreshments.

For sure fun, write fortunes—Love, Money, Travel—on ten heavy cards. Each player in turn stands behind a chair, tries to toss the cards into a hat. Fortunes that land squarely in the target come true.

Send 15c in coins for your copy of GROWN-UP PARTY FUN to The Examiner's Home Service, Peterborough. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, and the NAME of booklet.

15 Years Blind Woman Now Sees

LAKEWOOD, N.J., Nov. 16. (AP)—Out of the darkness and into the light after 15 years of blindness, Mrs. Ella Reynolds spends much of the time these days gazing fondly at her three small children she never hoped to see.

Her broken-down home is old and her lot in the Pines of Holmanville some five miles from here is poor, but she is happy with the children she bore but knew only by touch and sound.

"I want to get home and see my children," she said.

Her eyes still need attention. She planned to visit an oculist today and get glasses.

Can't Have It Both Ways

United Automobile Workers is well organized in Detroit and elsewhere under auspices of the C.I.O. The wives of members have formed a Women's Auxiliary, and at the moment the ladies have decided to do some striking while their husbands are working, their aim being to bring down the price of meat. In the city of Flint the strike has taken the form of an "Eat No Meat" campaign, and things were going well enough until members of the United Food Handlers' Union, (also C.I.O.) protested. They claimed the women were doing something which was going to make it hard for the Food Handlers, and if the strike was continued members of their union would have to be laid off or asked to work for lower wages.

The thing has spread in point of interest, and Ralph Harris, president of the Texas Livestock Association, has stated that if the auto workers and their wives boycott meat, then the farmers and ranchers will have to start a "keep-the-old-car" campaign.

The automobile workers organized in order to get good wages for themselves, and yet they are not willing out of those good wages to pay the price for other produce which in turn would guarantee good wages to those in the business of handling or raising such produce. It looks as though the auto workers were going to stub their organized toe on an old economic fact—they can't have it both ways. They cannot work and earn their money in a high-wage state and spend their money and buy in a low-wage market. They may try it for a while but it will not last long.

Coaxing Them To Vote

In London, Ont., a move is being launched to see if more people cannot be induced to vote on December 6, which is the date of the civic election. Last year about one-third of those entitled to do so voted in London. A report from London says: "Mayor Kingsmill pointed out today that it was a sacred duty of every elector to participate in an election because of the fact the type of civic government was their responsibility." Whether that will move them we doubt. We never heard of people voting and regarding it as a sacred duty.

The ratio of people voting in London is remarkably low, and it may be they have become discouraged. And with reason. In a good many localities people have voted year after year, and they may have done so with the belief and expectation that they were going to see under a new administration a lessening of the load which has become lodged against property in the way of taxation. But for the most part they have seen nothing come of it. Instead they have seen their taxes going up. Each succeeding civic administration, although desirous of cutting taxation, has found itself faced with the hard fact of expenditure which it could not control. They have found themselves having to build or repair miles of highway from which the province has secured all the revenue; in recent years they have had to put large amounts in the estimates to pay for relief—and it has all come back on real estate. And the real estate is owned by people who have been voting in new councils to see if taxation would not come down.

That very thing may have been working in London, and it may have brought a good many ratepayers to the point of believing it was not much use going to the polls.

Kicking Out The Bootleggers

A preacher in Alton made the statement a week or so ago that he was going to clean the bootleggers out of his district, and said something as well about using the toe of his boot on any bootlegger found in his church. Of course he secured some publicity out of it, and we noticed where one paper had sent a photographer to Alton and the outspoken preacher was photgraphed and printed.

We find it hard to believe this man had the right idea. We believe a good many ministers would do better work if they knew for a fact that they had a full house of admittedly godless and sinful people on whom to work. The very folk who should be sitting in the pews at church. If the minister has no message for such people then there is something wrong.

Of course churches like to have respectable people attending; people who obey the laws of the land, pay their bills and keep out of trouble. But a church with no other kind of people in it must chill the ardor of a minister and the complacency which such congregation must generate is something which a minister would have to resist rather than embrace.

If it were possible to have a church filled with bootleggers and others who travel in the same general direction we are inclined to believe it would be a challenge to any minister. We believe he would welcome the opportunity of dealing with such folk. If he anounced in advance he would kick them out then they never would come and he would never have a chance to reach them.

In Time We May Learn

It may be the young and energetic men who play Rugby can read and interpret pictures printed in the papers showing some of the plays which take place at the games, and it is probably true that others who follow the game closely can have similar understanding.

But to the average person who never played the game or had particular occasion to learn about it, the printed pictures can mean little enough. It always appears as though a number of people, helmeted, shod and padded and with license numbers on front and back, are piled together in a great heap with here and there an individual looking as though he were emerging from a dugout.

And what they are doing appears to be somewhat of a secret. The plan of play is not open-book style for we learn great secrecy is maintained in the passing of signals.

Nor can we see that the pictures of one game are much different than the pictures of another game, and it must be a rather disappointing thing for a player to see himself in print in a horizontal position on the sod or with his feet up in the air where his head ought to be.

It appears there is a degree of heroism attached to the game which is foreign to all other sports. The weather is never allowed to interfere. If there is mud on the ground then they play in the mud; if there are pools and puddles of water then they play in pools and puddles. And if the season brings snow and slush then the games takes place in snow and slush. So it may be with a bit of study and some instruction from an expert the general public may come to the point where it will see one of those Rugby game pictures and know what it is all about.

For Fifty Years

William Lowe is 71 years of age, and he was in court at Detroit. Which was not so good. When he was 12 years of age William had moved with his parents from Blenheim, Ont., to Detroit, and has since resided in that city. Which means he left Canada in 1875.

William Lowe is in trouble today because it has been discovered he has been voting for 50 years in United States without ever having been naturalized. He said he took it for granted that after his father took out papers his son would become an American citizen upon coming of age, but it does not work out that way at all.

So William Lowe, actually a foreigner, has been voting for half a century in United States. And that of course is bad. Mr. Lowe probably was paying either rent or taxes for years; he was also spending his money in the community for victuals and raiment, but he was a foreigner. It may be the judge in Detroit shivered and shook when he heard of the length of time this foreigner had been marking ballots in the land of the free and the home of the brave. And yet what had been done could not be undone. And William has voted when he had no right to vote, probably making up for some of those who do not vote when it is their right to do so.

Diphtheria Still Exists

Forty new cases of diphtheria have been reported in Quebec city in the last ten days and in that list there have been seven fatalities. In that city there have been 458 cases reported this year and in all 55 deaths. The stubborn truth is there should have been no cases reported and no deaths.

Unfortunately it seems necessary that there should be such outbreaks in order to increase our efforts toward combatting this disease. The experience in Quebec shows we have not conquered diphtheria; that is, we have not brought about its non-existence.

But we have found a way to immunize our children against it, and that requires a constant pressure and a degree of persistence on the part of our health authorities. It is possible that people who live in communities where immunization is carefully and regularly created may hear nothing of the disease because no cases of diphtheria are reported, and under such favored conditions the belief may grow that the disease no longer exists.

The sad experience of Quebec city is the answer to any such belief. The causes which result in an attack of diphtheria are as much in existence as ever, but science has handed us a weapon which will prevent these causes from becoming operative to the point of attacking our children. The fight against diphtheria can be won, but it must always be a fight.

What Is .4 Of A Pie

This we clipped from the editorial columns of the St. Catharines Standard:

Farm knowledge and a Domestic Science degree no doubt qualifies the Editor of The Peterborough Examiner to tell his readers that a pumpkin is 40 per cent. pulp, good for pie-making. Therefor that one in Manitoba of 106 pounds made 678.4 ounces of pulp, and as a pie requires 14 ounces, there were 48.4 pies out of the one fruit. But whoever heard of .4 pumpkin pie?

Wrong. Farm knowledge had nothing to do with it. On the farm there were never a great many pumpkins grown; they were put in some times along with the corn, and most of them were used for cow feed. They were either broken on the wheel of the wagon or chopped with a spade so cows could eat the stuff and not choke.

But those exact figures which the Examiner published telling how much pie material was contained in a pumpkin of given weight were not the result of guess work. It was a demonstration of mathematical exactitude or something like that. Reducing a pumpkin of 106 pounds to exactly 48.4 pies required the services of the statistician at Canada Packers and also of Archie in the front office of the Examiner. Archie is actually a little fellow of steel and keys and handles and such—one of those mechanical devices. It was to Archie we took the problem of the 106 pound pumpkin after being told that 40 per cent. of any pumpkin was pulp and 14 ounces of pulp made one pie. It was Archie who took that large pumpkin and reduced pounds to ounces and then ounces to pies and finally said 48.4. We were moved to wonder ourselves why he made that .4 part of his answer. It was explained to us that the period there was actually a decimal point, and we admit is is difficult most times to tell one from the other. The St. Catharines man should know that .4 of a pumpkin pie means just a little left over. It could be used to make the 48th pie a little fatter than the other 47 and thus come out even. But Archie does not do things that way. He is a stickler for decimal points and he is always right. When there is a problem to be worked and an exact answer required we take it to Archie and then we can use his answer secure in the knowledge that no one can say it is wrong. And it is a fact that Archie gave us assistance in reducing a 106-pound pumpkin to 48.4 pies and in so doing we have been making contribution to the sum total of the world's useful knowledge.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Is a treaty meaningless? asks a Toronto paper. Or for that matter is a contract with the Hydro?

There are said to be 300 hunters in South Bruce for every deer and figuring in the licenses alone that means that the cost of an average deer is about $10 a pound.

British politician paying a short visit to this country announces that Canada is over-governed, helping to confirm a suspicion that has been long held by a lot of folk throughout the Dominion.

Thirty Chinese were arrested during a raid in Toronto and the charge is they were gambling on Sunday, something which the Christian people of Toronto never do.

Carden township man killed a wounded deer in his own barn yard with a club after the injured animal, shot in the leg, had been followed for one and a-half miles by hunters. All that may come under the head of sport—but not in the opinion of a good many folk.

Charge was made in Oshawa court that a wife had hidden her husband's pants in order to keep him from going out. We have no desire to get mixed up in this case, but it would appear that the woman had taken a most effective method of accomplishing her purpose.

JOYFUL NOISE

(By A. R. K.)

¶ I heard an anthem by the choir, it set my memory all on fire, as it went high and low; it set me thinking while they'd sing, to days when I helped do the thing, most forty years ago.

¶ According to what people say, the choirs are better trained today, they sing subdued and low; when I sang in the village choir, we used to set the notes on fire, when I sat next to Joe.

¶ There weren't so many people there, so some one had to fill the air, with notes both large and round; so Joe and I decided then, we'd be the cheerful sort of men, and make a joyful sound.

¶ And all the notes that went down low, they were pursued and hit by Joe, he let not one pass by; while I was tuned to diff'rent key, the job that was assigned to me, was catching them up high.

¶ The organist was quaint but proud, she said that Joe and I were loud, she wanted us subdued; she wanted quiet like close of day, so she'd be hearing what she'd play, nice tones soft-color hued.

¶ They never muffled me and Joe, we always up and let her go, had no artistic poise; so when we'd sung our anthem through, why me and Joe we always knew—we'd made a joyful noise.

STANDING 10 feet high the memorial statue to King George V showing that monarch in naval uniform and wearing Garter robes will stand on a site near Westminster Abbey and will face the Victoria Tower of the Houses of Parliament. Sir William Reid Dick R. A. will be the sculptor for the statue itself and the architectural features of the memorial well be the work of Sir Giles Gilbert Scott R. A.

Cast in bronze, the statue will cost only £100,000, instead of £350,000 as originally projected. This will mean that a large proportion of the £600,000 subscribed to the Memorial Fund will be devoted to playing fields, known to be the cause dearest to King George's heart.

First the razor was cleaned and sharpened with special tools by a master-metal worker and then fitted with a temporary handle. Altogether the blade was subjected to more than 20 processes.

Unloading a Peterborough Car

World-Spectator, Moosomin, Sask.

THE UNLOADING of a car of fruits and vegetables at Moosomin has brought to our attention more closely the generosity of our neighbors in the eastern provinces of Canada.

The daily papers of Saskatchewan have carried notes each day of car upon car of donated food stuffs from the east being unloaded at some point on this vast dried-out region. The cars bring to us the welcome articles which the parched gardens and fields here failed to produce.

It is our time of need for the sixth or seventh year and as ever the east responds generously. Never will the west forget the kindness of eastern friends in these days of drought, dust, and grasshoppers.

No doubt many hundreds of personal notes of thanks have gone to donors of goods, but may we add our word of appreciation to the east, and especially to the people of Peterborough, Ont., for the carlot of foodstuffs unloaded here last week.

Letters To The Editor

Correspondents Discuss Various Topics.

SHARP CRITICISM

Editor Examiner:

Sir: The recent and annual "Book Fair" at Toronto brought out some unusually sharp criticism from Canadian authors who have had to go abroad to get an intelligent public. This all may be true but we are not yet out of the belief of our childhood that anybody who "does" anything is trying to show off especially if it takes place in print. No doubt we are intellectually far behind other nations but we cannot excel in everything and just now all we care about is "stocks." It is the dollar that appeals to us and with the loss of the hope of a future life which the higher critics are taking away from us we do not understand why we should concern ourselves about penetrating deeply into the causes of things or seeking to do well that which we do not consider worth (in dollars) doing at all. The really magnificent men we used to have in the pulpit and in politics are no more or nearly so. Is it because we cannot rise to their level and hence like our public writers they have to go elsewhere? However we have advanced in one tiny particular if no further. It is now "bad form" to write anonymously. Even the editors have to come out in the open.

J. H. BURNHAM.

PERPLEXED

Editor Examiner:

Sir: I am fifty-nine years old, been a resident in Canada for the most useful 27 years of my life. That 27 years in this land of promise, has had its bright spots, when I would take advantage of every opportunity to get out and study the beauties of God's creation; I was thankful then, I went to church in thankfulness, I believed in the goodness of God, and His protecting hand: because I was then considered successful.

I walk the street now, meeting many old acquaintances like myself, unemployed; have been like that for some time now; we used to say, good morning "nice morning" but time travels. There are no more nice mornings, if there are, they are not meant for me. True, the sun shines, the birds sing, cars rush by, but I only see these things as one in a dream. I am a prisoner upon earth. At 59 years of age, intelligent, alive, one time religious, in the real prime of experience, yet discard, awaiting death, insecure from day to day. When young and I could claim the asset of youth, I did not need assistance from anywhere, God or man. Things came my way, though I prayed and attributed much to prayer. That was my religious training perhaps. But since you must have youth to be permitted to live, the efficacy of my prayers seems to have died with my youth. Has God joined the moderns, and listens only to youth? I see few clergy now. Their teachings anyway, are good for successful people only. Now when God is really needed, well, we do not seem to contact.

If you think the fault is mine, offer me a sense of security by any means you will, and see. Yet the beauties of creation are there, even though I am only permitted to look upon them as from a prison, yet such beauty cannot come from a heedless God, beauty is reflected everywhere. The trouble is we cannot partake of it, why? Is God, or man, responsible, I wonder. Poor clergy, they seem to be found wanting when their services are most needed.

No future torment has any terrors, greater than the present insecurity.

When Are Men Too Old to Keep Working?

Coming of Machines Has Made Some Tasks Easier; Others Say a Man's Getting Too Old at 35

(St. Thomas Times-Journal)

ACCORDING to Mr. W. J. Cameron of the Ford Motor Company, Detroit, that company employs a large and increasing number of men over 40, men in their fifties, sixties and even seventies men having reached these ages while in the Ford employment and also recently hired. Mr. Cameron attributes this to the fact that modern machinery makes work easier so that the working life of men is extended. They are just as efficient by being able to do with machines what formerly had to be done by hand or by less competent machines, and there was no reduction of their earning capacity.

Mr. Cameron seemed to believe that this was general and not limited to the Ford Company. But Secretary of Labor Perkins stated at Bridgeport, Connecticut the other night, that there is discrimination against middle-aged workers. In her position she had found employers reluctant to hire men over 45, some put their hiring limit at 40 and she had even found men who were regarded as "too old at 35." Against that, however, she submitted data from a recent working test among 1,500 Works Progress Administration workers which showed that the older men had a better record of productive work than the younger men. The average age for those labeled "excellent" was 47½ years, and the average age of workers labeled "inferior" was 41.

Similar tests have been made before with the same results and if Secretary Perkins is right and Mr. Cameron wrong—and the Secretary has more information available—it is difficult to understand why there is discrimination against men who, to say the least, are past middle age. The experience of men on the wrong side of 40 is all too often discouraging. Yet, official investigations show that these are better producers. They are, in fact, better profit-makers for those who employ them. They have that valuable thing which youth cannot win or buy—experience. They know what to do in emergencies, they are more settled in their ways and are not such easy marks for professional agitators. Ask the man of 45, whether he works with his hands or his head, if he knew as much as 25 as he does now, and he will very probably say he did not know half as much. A factory or office that has a fifty-fifty proportion of age, and youth, or at least 40 to 60, is in a position to get the best results.

LIVING COSTS IN CHINA.

(New York Times)

EVIDENCE that Japan is in China for no selfish reasons may be found in Carl Crow's book "400,000,000 Customers." Mr. Crow says that in the course of relief work in China he found that a man could live on five Chinese dollars a month, which at the present rate of exchange is $1.50 in our money. At a pinch, even a white man could do it. A survey conducted by a mission university in Shantung found that the food expenditure among the well-to-do-middle class was five cents a day per capita.

A Bible Message For To-day . . . .

AWAKE, AWAKE; put on thy strength, O Zion; put on thy beautiful garments, O Jerusalem, the holy city: for henceforth there shall no more come into thee the uncircumcised and the unclean. . . . How beautiful upon the mountains are the feet of him that bringeth good tidings, that publisheth peace; that bringeth good tidings of good, that publisheth salvation; that saith unto Zion, Thy God reigneth! Thy watchmen shall lift up the voice; with the voice together shall they sing: for they shall see eye to eye, when the Lord shall bring again Zion. Break forth into joy, sing together, ye waste places of Jerusalem: for the Lord hath comforted his people, he hath redeemed Jerusalem.—Isaiah lii, 1, 7-9.

Let thy work appear unto thy servants, and thy glory unto their children. And let the beauty of the Lord our God be upon us: and establish thou the work of our hands upon us; yea, the work of our hands establish thou it.—Psalms xc, 16, 17.

One thing have I desired of the Lord, that will I seek after; that I may dwell in the house of the Lord all the days of my life, to behold the beauty of the Lord, and to enquire in his temple.—Psalms xxvii, 4.

ALL CAN'T BE GOOD.

(W. L. C. in Windsor Star)

JANET GAYNOR, diminutive movie star, admits that all her pictures are not top-notchers. But she has a good explanation. She says:

"I know a lot of my pictures have been trash, but what can you expect? How many good books come out in a year? How many good plays are written?

"People ask why don't I get a good story? The answer is there is only one in a hundred. Bear in mind there are thousands of picture theatres that have to be filled with a product, and there just are not enough brains in the world to fill these theatres with good stories."

What with double features and shorts, the demands on the movie producers keep them bumping to turn out enough films to provide entertainment for the millions of patrons who daily attend theatres in all parts of the world.

And as Miss Gaynor says, some of the products of the studios can't be as good as the cream of the movie crop. After all, the industry has to have some pictures that are only "superlatively super-colossal." All the movies cannot be "super-superlatively super-super-colossal epics of a genius."

Grace Presbyterian Church Marks 103rd Anniversary

Capacity Congregations Gather In Millbrook Church For Special Services

MILLBROOK, Nov. 16.—Capacity congregations gathered in Grace Presbyterian church on Sunday, November 14, when its one hundred and third anniversary was observed with fitting services.

The services in Centreville church were withdrawn for the day, and so large was the morning congregation at Grace church that some had to be turned away for lack of seat-in accommodation. The guest speaker at morning worship was the Rev. William Thomas, M.A., of Cooke's Presbyterian church, Toronto, who brought an inspiring message from the text, "Let us make here three tabernacles, one for Thee, one for Moses, and one for Elias" (Matthew 17:4). Vividly portraying the Transfiguration, the value of vision, followed by practical service, was stressed.

Special musical selections were provided by the choir throughout the day, and in the morning duets by Mr. and Mrs. Chisholm, of Cooke's church, Toronto, were much enjoyed, while in the evening, besides the anthem, "Abide With Me," a solo, "Beautiful Garden of Prayer," by Miss Vanita Ingram, appropriately followed the sermon.

The altar was banked with a profusion of lovely chrysanthemums, the gift of Mrs. Milton Fallis, who annually grows these flowers for the church anniversary occasion, bringing the fragrance and beauty of nature into the sanctuary.

In the evening St. Andrew's United church withdrew its service in honor of the sister church's anniversary, the pastor, Rev. A. L. Sisco, assisting the minister of Grace church, Rev. H. R. Williams, with the service.

The guest preacher at night was Rev. J. B. Rhodes, M.A., of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church, Cobourg, whose chose for his text, "I have made and I will bear" (Isaiah 46:4), his message of comfort urging that the God who made this vast universe, the magnitude of which is beyond human comprehension, is surely able, and abundantly willing, to share every one of His children's burdens, and find a way out of every difficulty.

Resident Of Zenda Dies At The Royal

TORONTO, Nov. 16 (CP)—Andrew Fewster, 52, retired Oxford County farmer, suffered a heart seizure and died here Saturday as he was attending cattle in a stable at the Coliseum. Mr. Fewster, resident of Zenda, was one of the villagers who flew to New York during the summer in connection with the premiere of the motion picture, "The Prisoner of Zenda."

For many years Mr. Fewster was a storekeeper at Zenda. He was one of the pioneers in organizing the annual Zenda garden party, one of the largest in this part of the province, and had held every office in the Zenda lodge of the Canadian Order of Foresters.

CURVE LAKE CHURCH HAS ANNIVERSARY

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CURVE LAKE, Nov. 16.—On Sunday, November 14, the anniversary services of Curve Lake United church were fittingly held with very large congregations filling the church for both morning and evening services.

The church was usually attractive, being prettily decorated by members of the Ladies' Aid who received great praise for their splendid arrangement.

In the morning there were many visitors present including some friends from Burleigh Falls, Clarina, Lakehurst and a large delegation from Wesley church. Wesley church choir, with Miss Mary Nicholls, contributed leadership in the service of praise and rendered very appealing anthems, "Onward, Onward Soldiers of the Cross" and "Hear My Prayer."

Ken Stewart, the student minister, preached from Acts 11:26. The disciples were called christians first at Antioch," and gave a thought-provoking and challenging discourse on the text.

At the evening service the Curve Lake Indian Choir sang effectively the anthems, "Straight Is the Gate" and "Hallelujah!" Other musical numbers were the hymns, "To God Be the Glory Great Things He Has Done," "Face to Face with Christ My Saviour," "Come Every Soul by Sin Oppressed" and "Abide With Me." Mr. Stewart again preached from Rev. 21:13 and Luke 13:29.

At both services a fitting tribute was voiced by the minister to those who have laboured so faithfully for the church, and by whose loyalty and devotion to Christ the church's needs are met.

MILLBROOK BAND SCORES SUCCESS IN FINE CONCERT

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MILLBROOK, Nov. 16.—A large and appreciative audience gathered in the Town Hall on the evening of Remembrance Day for the concert given by the Millbrook Citizens' Band, under the leadership of Lieutenant William Peryer.

The program included the march "On Parade"; a group of hymns; cornet solos by Donald Ford, "O Dry Those Tears" and "My Task," with Miss Everett accompanying at the piano; a selection, "The Boys of the Old Brigade," dedicated to the veterans; a cornet quartette, "Drink To Me Only With Thine Eyes," by N. Chiles, C. Wood, Tom Best, and Lieutenant Peryer; a march, "The Iron System"; and "Campus Memories," the cornet solos being taken by Clifford Wood, Nelson Chiles, and G. E. Burnham, and saxophone solo by H. Gilmour.

During the intermission, Reeve Percy Stinson was invited to the platform to conduct the draw for the lucky number, and after congratulating the leader and the band on the fine program they were presenting, and on the improvement being steadily made in their membership and performance, he shook up the container holding the tickets. Bobby Gray, a grandson of Lieutenant Peryer, was asked to make the draw, the winners being: Harry Ball (460); Charles Sanderson (469); Mrs. Elizabeth Armstrong (494); E. H. Barnes (371); and E. Spencer of Ida (556). Three geese and two ducks were thus distributed.

The band concluded its concert with an overture, "Empire Builders"; a characteristic fox trot, "Creole Belle"; the hymn, "Abide With Me," which the leader said had probably been played in every city and town in Ontario in connection with Remembrance services that day; the National Anthem closed an enjoyable program.

Annual Veterans' Dance

The annual dance, under the auspices of the Veterans' Association, was held in the Armouries on Thursday, November 11, with an unusually large attendance, including many out-of-town guests.

Music was furnished by the Serenaders' Orchestra, Orville Wainman making the draw for the door prize, which was won by Jack Whittington, with ticket number 36; he received $2.00. The "spot light" dance prize went to Ed Williams and Vivian Mercer, the latter a daughter of Reeve Cecil G. Mercer, of Hope township, recently elected member for Durham to the Provincial Parliament. The prize was a large box of chocolates.

Hot dogs, coffee, etc., were on sale for the supper hour, and the veterans realized quite a substantial sum as the result of the evening's enjoyment.

ROTARIANS HEAR ADDRESS ON INDIA

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 16.—Rotarians listened with interest as two guest speakers and one of the club members gave brief addresses at their noon-day luncheon held in the St. Lawrence Hotel on Monday. Commenting briefly on his recent attendance at the Rotary Convention at Ottawa and Hull, where Murice Duperry, president of Rotary International, addressed a large gathering attended by representatives from twenty-six countries, Mr. Brunelle relinquished the time allotted for his remarks in order that the club might hear a few words from Rev. Dr. McKae and Rev. Dr. Mitchell, missionaries from India and China, who are in town to take part in a missionary rally being conducted at St. John's United Church.

Introduced by the Rev. Harold B. Neal, Dr. McKae, who has spent 28 years as a missionary in India, and is at present home on furlough, said that in Canada 92 per cent. of the children were literate, while in India it was just the opposite, with the same percentage being illiterate. Referring to the economic conditions, he stated that 85 per cent. of the people were farmers and it took nearly 80 per cent. of their income to even pay the interest on their debt—in fact if they had neither to pay for food nor clothing it would take three years to pay off their debt. In British India the land mortgages are said to total some 32 billion dollars, but to prove that there is still plenty of money in some places, he averred, to the fact that the state jewels of the premier state are valued close to 500 million pounds. The British Government has done work of inestimable value in the building of railways and canals which have served to nullify the effects of the recurrent famines for which India has long been noted. People affected by the famines were given relief by their work in building the great transport roads while the British irrigation system has redeemed an estimated forty million acres of land. Under the modern farm program incorporated by the British it is no longer possible for certain organized business men to make a study of the grain situation and boost prices to the sky when it became apparent that a famine was eminent. The government now keeps in reserve enough grain to take care of such emergencies.

Over 200 million pounds of British capital has been invested in the canals, railways and irrigation systems of India. Only recently when engineers saw traces of an old river bed in the great desert the people were amazed and fell on their knees to praise God for the great "miracle" which had taken place when they saw the water flooding down the new canal as it was diverted from a number of smaller streams by a barrage and brought down from the Himilayas. Nearly 87 thousand miles of canals have been built by Britain.

Proportional Representation Political Football In States

Taxpayers In New York Are Said To Be The Probable Losers Of The Game

By SAM ROBERTSON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—(CP)—Proportional representation, a form of voting used in many parts of Western Canada, has been made a political football in New York. The taxpayers are strongly indicated as the probable loser in the game.

P. R. was introduced this year to revise a city council that was no longer proportionally representative of the five boroughs which go to make up New York City. The council had been elected under a constitution drawn up when Manhattan was the most populated borough. Now that Brooklyn and the Bronx have surpassed it in that respect, the council was lopsided in that the larger borough had the smaller voice in its affairs.

But P. R. was opposed from the start by politicians who had prospered under the old order. Any innovation was viewed by them as a possible evil. P.R. was fought in the courts without success. Now an effort is being made to discredit it on the grounds that it is responsible for delays in counting and confusion as to the outcome, as well as a breeder of fraud.

Are Still Counting.

Since Nov. 3, the day after the election that returned Mayor Fiorello Laguardia and most of his ticket, 1,660 counters have been tabulating the P. R. ballots. But the make-up of the next council can only be guessed at to-day.

By political manoeuvring, the Democratic and Republican organizations ensured all the counters would be members of their political clubs. Four of these counters now face indictment for fraudulent tabulation. Many others have been discharged for "soldiering" on the job and holding up the count. Charges of ballot tampering at the polls are heard.

Such fraudulence as has been uncovered has not been of sufficient scope to indicate it was aimed at controlling the outcome of the election. The shenanigans have been as nothing compared to those known in the 1860's when "Boss" William Marcy Tweed ruled the city from the Tammany throne. It seems more likely the current tampering is directed at discrediting P. R. as impractical.

Regardles of this, the cost of the tabulation may be enough to kill P. R. in New York for all time. It has cost $250,000 to date and may reach $1,000,000 before it is completed.

Tammany Control.

If Tammany and its Democratic allies are able to secure a majority on the new council—and the count so far indicates they might— they will be in a position to hobble the second Laguardia administration.

The Daily News views the Tammany forces as making a stubborn fight for control of the council in an effort to preserve 27 county offices and their patronage plumes. Something like $5,000,000 in annual salaries and approximately 1,300 jobs are at stake.

The newspaper says a council friendly to Laguardia "will undoubtedly kick all five county sheriffs, all five county registrars and the Bronx and Manhattan commissioners of records right out of the window."

The people voted two years ago to abolish these offices, but the Democrats, which has the majority vote on the last council, blocked fusion efforts to carry out this mandate.

Among these job-holders Hyman Schorenstein, Brooklyn commissioner of records, has become the best known through Laguardia's repeated but unsuccessful efforts to remove him. Schorenstein, a strong Democratic vote-getter, has been attacked on the ground that he can neither read nor write.

Special Classes In Prospecting Will Be Conducted In The City

Department Of Mines Announces Classes Will Open On November 22

Announcement of special classes of instruction in prospecting under the direction of Dr. H. C. Horwood, Toronto, geologist of the Ontario Department of Mines, should appeal to young and older men of the county who wish to obtain practical information in this branch of mining.

The classes will be held in the auditorium of the Public Library from Monday, November 22, to Friday, two hours every afternoon beginning at 2 o'clock with an hour in the evening from 8 o'clock to 9; and on Saturday, November 27, a concluding class will be held in the Y.M.C.A. from 10 a.m. to 12.

Samples of ore found in Peterborough county will be displayed showing their mineral content, and the tools and equipment needed for prospecting will be exhibited and explained.

Alex L. Elliott, M.L.A., told the Examiner today that men who would like to learn practical phases of prospecting for minerals should be attracted to these classes. No prior educational qualifications are required. Some of the lectures will deal with the identification of various mineral bearing rocks that are found in Peterborough county, and to help in the demonstration Dr. Horwood will have an assistant.

Ontario has made such rapid strides in mining development during the last ten years or more that an increasing number of men have obtained profitable employment in this industry. Short courses in mining have been held in some parts of the province, one of the most recent having been at Marmora in the centre of the Hastings county mineral country.

It is expected that the response to the government's course of training may determine the extent in which this work may be carried on in future. Young men from the city and county who have the interest and time to devote to a week's study of prospecting are invited to report for the first lecture next Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Public Library.

Mr. Picobac's WEATHER GAUGE

Talk in the store had turned upon the comparative reliability of squirrels, wood chucks and patent medicine almanacs as long-distance weather forecasters.

"I got a better system than any of them," declared Mr. Picobac, smacking the down-turned bowl of his pipe upon the palm of his hand.

"And what's your system?" inquired Mr. Henry Cotton of Cotton, Higgins (Dry Goods, Groceries and Hardware).

"I watch the wood pile," said Mr. Picobac, puffing vigorously. "When it's low I know it's just my luck to run into a cold spell, and I'll have to get busy with the buck saw. But if I happen to have plenty of wood ready cut, split and piled, the weather turns mild. We run into a soft spell sure. Never fails."

Mr. Picobac chuckled.

"But I don't care how cold it gets," added he. "Let the wind howl. Give me a hot fire of good dry maple and plenty of Picobac tobacco and I can tough it out. Yes, sir — a mild . . . cool . . . sweet smoke near a good wood fire — that's what I call COMFORT."

Half A Century Of Married Life For Mr. and Mrs. Beamish

Happy Gathering As Hastings Couple Celebrate At Old Homestead

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, Nov. 15.—Prominent in the life of Hastings village and Percy township, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Beamish celebrated their golden wedding on November 14, and received the congratulation and best wishes of their many relatives and friends on this, the milestone that marks fifty years of happy married life.

On November 14, 1887, Victoria Donald was married to Samuel Beamish at Consecon, Ontario, by the Rev. A. R. McLean of the Presbyterian Church. The bridesmaid was the bride's sister, Annie Donald, now Mrs. Joseph Pickens of Hastings, who was among the guests at the golden wedding celebrations held on Saturday. The groomsman was the bride's brother, Mr. Alexander Donald, now deceased. Following the wedding ceremony of 50 years ago, the happy young couple left the next day through the rain with horse and buggy for their new home in Percy township, 50 miles distant.

Mrs. Beamish was born at Hillier, in Prince Edward county, the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Donald, pioneers of Ontario, who came from Scotland. As a bride she made her first trip to Percy township to reside among strangers, but on account of her very jovial manner she soon became one of the favorites of the neighborhood. Her only acquaintance was a girl friend, Sarah Williamson, who seven years later became the bride of Matthew Waddell, and has always since been a very close friend and neighbor. On the Sunday pervious to their anniversary, Mr. and Mrs. Waddell entertained Mr. and Mrs. Beamish and her bridesmaid and husband, Mr. and Mrs. J. Pickens, to a wedding dinner at her home.

Son of Pioneer

Mr. Beamish is the son of pioneer parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. Charles Beamish, who were among the first settlers of this district. His parents,both born in Ireland, came to Percy township to the farm where Donald Beamish now lives, and which has had the name of the Beamish homestead since the early 40's. Mr. Beamish has in his possession the crown deeds of 150 acres; some of the land being purchased for $2.50 an acre. This esteemed couple lived on the same farm until their son, Donald's, marriage, and then moved to the farm where their son Arthur now lives. For the past five years they have lived in a comfortable bungalow in the village of Hastings, where they have laid aside many of their social activities, content to bask in the sunshine of their declining years.

Many Changes

In the past half century Mr. and Mrs. Beamish have lived to see many changes and improvements throughout the district, although Hastings 50 years ago had many more stores and industries than Hastings of today. Mr. Beamish has always taken a keen interest in the national life and the trend of political events throughout the country and both hafe been valued members of St. George's Anglican Church and Mrs. Beamish, a helpful member to the W.A. Typical of their church life was the fact that the bride and groom had planned to attend St. George's Church on Sunday morning with their sons and daughters, as a conclusion to the wedding festivities. On account of Mr. Beamish having a cold and under the doctor's care they were unable to be present, but as a tribute to their parents all the family in Ontario attended in a body, the church they attended as children.

The wedding festivities were held on Saturday at the old homestead, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Beamish, when the sons and daughters, their husbands and wives, their nineteen grandchildren, aunts and uncles, celebrated in their honor. While those in Ontario were seated at the noon hour in the living room, prettily decorated in a color scheme of gold and white and enjoying the bountiful wedding dinner, the family in Western Canada were listening to the radio broadcast, congratulating their mother and father on their 50th anniversary. The table was lovely centred with a four-tier wedding cake, made and iced by the oldest daughter, Mrs. Harold Morrow, and surrounded with golden tapers in silver candlesticks. On either side were baskets containing beautiful yellow roses the gift of the grandchildren and great grandchild in the West and chrysanthemums, the gift of their son Gordon of St. Catharines. Misses Winnifred Beamish, Ruth Morrow and Kathaleen Morrow looked smart with their yellow caps and aprons and were assisted in serving the guests by Howard Gibbins and Philip Ford.

Address Is Read

Following the repast all assembled in the drawing room while the wedding march was being played by Donald Beamish. As Mrs. H. Morrow read an appropriate address two tiny grandchildren, Isabelle Beamish dressed as a pretty little bride and carrying yellow roses, and Charlie Beamish as a cute little groom, presented the bride and groom with a large gilt-edged Bible and a bouquet of flowers, the gift of the family.

To their union were born twelve children, three now deceased, Charlotte who died in infancy; Charles passed away in 1919 and Fannie (Mrs. Robert Pulfer) died in Western Canada. The remaining nine children are three in Western Canada, (Ella) Mrs. W. Gibbins of Assiniboia, Sask.; Thomas of Willowbunch, Sask., and (Clara) Mrs. Russel King of Stewart Valley, Sask.; and six in Ontario; Mary (Mrs. Harold Morrow) of Dartford; Mabel (Mrs. Virgil Oliver) of Percy; Gordon of St. Catharines; James, Donald and Arthur of Percy.

They are also the proud grandparents of forty-two grandchildren and one great grandchild.

Mr. Beamish's two sisters are Mrs. Thomas Newcombe of Warkworth and Mrs. T. Tyler of Parry Sound, and Mrs. Beamish has one sister besides Mrs. Pickens, Mrs. Susie Gordon of Brockville. Hhese were unavoidably absent at the celebration.

Present at the Saturday festivities were Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Pickens of Hastings, Mr. and Mrs. Dr. J. Smith of Wellington, Mr. Wm. Raycroft of Hastings, Mr. and Mrs. H. Morrow, Stanley, Victor and Margaret of Dartford, Misses Ruth and Kathaleen Morrow of Norwood, Mr. and Mrs. James Beamish, Clifford, Wilma and Charles of Percy, Mr. and Mrs. D. Beamish, Winnifred, Donna, Isabelle, Samuel and Murray of Percy, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Beamish, Jocely Carrol and Barbara of St. Catharines, Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Oliver, Dorothy and Lloyd of Percy, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Beamish and Kenneth of Percy and Mr. Howard Gibbins of St. Catharines.

SISTER M VALERIA

On November twelfth, at Hotel Dieu Hospital, Cornwall, Ontario, Sister M. Valeria of St. Joseph's Community, Peterborough, peaceful met death as a messenger of the Divine Master to Whom she had pledged her life and into Whose hands she trustfully surrendered her soul. Death had no terrors for her; it was but the gate-way to life eternal. She who had loved God from her earliest days, who from St. Theresa of the Child Jesus, had learned the "Little Way" to a holy life, feared not death but smilingly and with the child-like confidence of her little Patroness, Theresa, answered the Saviour's call.

Sister Valeria (Anna Calnan) was the daughter of the late Thomas Calnan of Grafton, Ontario, whose family was known for its staunch Catholicism and unbounded charity and goodness. No sacrifice was ever too great for her good parents to make for God and for their children. Sister, who was a graduate of St. Joseph's Academy, Lindsay, entered the Novitiate on September 8, 1928, and since then has been an active member of the teaching staff. The past five years were spent in the Convent School, St. Andrew's West.

The virtues of kindness, self-sacrifice and patience were reflected with ever increasing beauty in her words and actions. Although Sister had been troubled with a serious affection of the heart, such was her love of her profession, such her generosity with God and her desire to give of her services, so long as she was able, that the first week of this month found her performing her duties in the classroom where she endeavoured to instil into the minds of her pupils the principles which guided her own saintly life.

Sister, was pre-deceased a short time ago by her father and mother. To her sorrowing sister, Agnes and to her five brothers, we offer our sincere sympathy.

Escorted by a body guard comprised of High School pupils the remains was brought to St. Andrew's church, where a Requiem Mass was celebrated by His Excellency, Most Reverend Felix Couturier, Bishop of Alexandria.

The body was then brought to Mount St. Joseph, Peterborough, where on Monday morning the solemn Mass of Requiem was celebrated by His Excellency, Most Reverend Denis O'Connor, Bishop of Peterborough, assisted by Rev. P. J. Galvin, P.P. Grafton, deacon, and Rev. E. A. Welsh of the Cathedral staff as sub-deacon; honorary deacons, Rev. J. V. McAuley, P.P., Campbellford and Rev. V. Corkery; Rev. P. J. Kelly Rector of St. Peter's Cathedral, high priest, and Rev. E. Grant as Master of Ceremonies.

In the sanctuary were: Rev. J. J. O'Brien, pastor of Sacred Heart church; Rev. P. Costello, P.P., Hastings; Rev. J. J. Garvey, P.P., Lakefield; Rev. G. Wolfe, Cobourg; and Rev. C. J. Begley and Rev. J. Walsh, of Immaculate Conception church.

Rev. P. J. Galvin, Rev. J. V. McAuley and Rev. E. A. Welsh officiated at the cemetery. May she rest in peace.

COLBORNE PUPIL NORTHUMBERLAND CONTEST WINNER

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, Nov. 16.—Rita Turpin, of Colborne public school was adjudged winner in the Northumberland county finals, public speaking contest, held in the town hall here, Friday night, from a field of fourteen contestants, before one of the largest crowds ever to pack the hall.

Miss Turpin, one of the smallest of the contestants, was number thirteen as they were called to the platform, which proves that that number is not always unlucky. Her teacher and coach is A. G. Cracknell of Colborne. R. B. Dawson, chairman for the evening and president of the trustees' and ratepayers' association for the United counties, presented the president's trophy, his donation, and emblematic of the United Counties' public speaking championship, to the little lady.

Second prize, the Fraser trophy, was awarded Douglas Edgar, of Warkworth, who caused many laughs as he endeavoured to give his interpretation of how he would broadcast the news, should he realize his ambition to become a radio announcer.

Third Prize Winner

Jimmie Umphrey, of Trent River, was winner of third prize, the McArthur Trophy. His subject was "Deer Hunting" which introduced much humour. Fourth prize, the Nelson Trophy, presented by its donor, ex-Warden H. Nelson, was won by Shirlie Goodfellow, of Brighton township, who gave as her topic "My Idea of Our New Course of Study." In addition to these awards, 14 miniature cups were given each contestant, which they may retain for good. Their challenge cups must be handed in after they have been held for the year. Fourteen sweater coats were also given the children.

Among those present at the affair were: R. W. Dawson; A. A. Martin, Public Schools Inspector; R. Bateson, vice president of the Association; Ex-Warden Herb Nelson; Ed. Quin, secretary treasurer of the association; Col. Odell and T. A. Coughlan, Hastings president of the Association. Several members of the executive were also present.

Acting mayor, Stanley Stevenson, addressed words of welcome to the huge gathering and suggested a plan of home improvement would have been in order had the attendance been any larger.

A program of music was given intermittently between speakers. Pupils of the Public school opened with a chorus. Doreen Brown of Trent River, gave a pleasing solo and was encored. The public school pupils rendered a second chorus, followed by Cameron Baker of Warkworth, who gave a solo. The last number of the evening was sung by the entire crowd, "The Maple Leaf Forever."

Mr. Martin, in his address, urged the contestants' parents, not to put the teachers on the spot because they did not win first prize. The contest is for the purpose of having the school pupils, on a platform, before an audience to see what it feels like to face an audience and for its educational values.

The Trustees' association in Northumberland county is the best in Ontario because it is the most alive, further stated the speaker. He hoped that the people would get behind the organization and give it their full support. Other speakers on the platform were, Col. Odell, Ed. Quin, R. B. Dawson and T. A. Coughlan.

Hastings was given the honor of hearing the first county finals to be held here, on Friday night, and it will probably be some time before such a talented group of young speakers will gather here on an occasion such as this was. Miss Turpin has been given the honor of representing the United Counties at the district finals which will take place in Brighton next week.

Miss Sarah Glenn of Chester, S.C., arrived at Nanking to-day and reported Soochow virtually deserted following heavy Japanese bombardment yesterday. Thousands of Chinese leaving the city crowded roads and canals.

Plan Campaign in South.

Japanese planes and warships bombarded the Wutung and Shutzuwei forts in the vicinity of Amoy, South China seaport. A party of Japanese marines was said to have explored landing possibilities, indicating that Japanese planned a campaign in that section.

(Despatches from Tokyo reported continued friction between Japan and Soviet Russia. The Japanese Foreign Office protested to Russia against what was termed forcible migration inflicted on Koreans living in Soviet territory.

(The Brussels conference on the Chinese-Japanese conflict was in recess until next Monday, when the delegates will reassemble to discuss a Chinese demand for aid to China and withholding of supplies from Japan.)

The bombardment of Fushan paved the way for an expected attack on Kiangyin, China's Yangtze River defence point some 30 miles to the west. There the Japanese navy must destroy a barrier of sunken junks in order to proceed 80 miles upstream to Nanking.

BEST CHEESE IS NOW EN ROUTE TO BELLEVILLE

BELLEVILLE, Ont., Nov. 16. —(CP)—The best cheese in Canada is en route to Belleville to-day for judging by non-nibbling experts who will sniff their way past 600 specimens. They won't take a single bite.

For the first time, cheese from every part of the country will be judged at the 10th annual convention and exhibition of the Central Ontario Cheesemakers' Association here Nov. 30 and Dec. 1. Judging starts Nov. 26.

In an especially decorated auditorium of the City Hall will be arrayed on long tables 100-pound Cheddars, virtually all factory-made, white and colored cheese from every province, 10-pound Stiltons and other staple varieties.

And for the task of determining the choicest of this delectable offering, judges from the Dominion Agricultural Department will arm themselves with knives.

Instead of nibbling, they sniff. With mirror-finished, semi-circular knives they withdrawn plugs from the cheese, smell it, break it down in the hand. The perfect cheese will be awarded 45 points for flavor, 25 for the texture, 15 for "closeness," 10 for color and five for finish.

Prizes amount to more than $1,000.

At Lake Placid the men will receive intensive training in the use of the new equipment under the tutelage of Edward C. Nugent, City Superintendent of the Department.

The 1937-38 team will journey to the training camp in relays of 30. Each squad will spend three days there, learning the ins and outs of the machines on the Lake Placid race track and airport, which have been placed at the disposal of New Yorw authorities.

Carey said he believed training the snow squad would result in such a speed-up of actual winter snow removal work that any cost to taxpayers from the training camp would be more than balanced.

She based the play—"Homespun"—on the romance of Elaine Barrie, her friend and classmate, with John Barrymore.

TELEPHONE TALKS IN THE WATSON FAMILY

"It does our shopping!"

"Nellie Marshall dropped in this morning" said Doris Watson to Aunt Mary, "and I did feel sorry for her: she'd been shopping and was just about ready to drop." "But why doesn't she shop by telephone as we do?" asked Aunt Mary. "She will from now on," replied Doris. "I convinced her that being without a telephone was a sacrifice, not an economy."

Simcoe Settlement Scheme Been Justified Veterans Told

Lt.-Col. J. A. Dewart Addresses Monthly Meeting of Canadian Legion

The land settlement scheme at Barrie, although still in the experimental stages has so far justified itself that the Soldiers' Aid Commission by whom it is administered, is to seek a further government grant to extend the project, Lieut.-Colonel J. A. Dewart, M.C., a member of the Commission told members of Branch 52 Canadian Legion whom he addressed last night.

Started in the face of keen opposition on all sides due to the failure of other land schemes in the past, Colonel Dewart said the Barrie project had advanced to the stage "where the Commission feels it has got a hundred per cent. investment on its money." To date, he said, a total of $10,357 had been expended on the scheme, which included clearing land, erecting cottages, plowing, discing, surveying, implements, fertilizer, transportation, etc.

"If after a fair trial of another three or four years the scheme continues to be a success," Colonel Dewart said, "I see no reason why it cannot be extended throughout Ontario and even across the Dominion."

Sixty-four persons are being supported on the 363-acres of land near Barrie, and each family has an allotment of 7 acres with exception of the Hawkins family from Peterborough, who have 10 acres.

A Real Worker

The speaker paid high tribute to Hawkins who was selected by Branch 52 of the Legion, declaring he had set the pace for the whole settlement and has put every inch of his land under crop during the past summer. Hawkins an ex-member of the 21st Battalion worked so hard, Colonel Dewart stated, that at the present time he is in Christie Street Military Hospital, though he is expected back home within the next few days.

Introduced to members of the Branch by President M. R. Sloan, the guest speaker spoke on some of the phases of the work of the Commission and took the opportunity of congratulating the Legionnaires on the success of the Remembrance Day parade and services. "It was a model for any city in Canada," he believed.

Declaring that the Commission was originally established in 1915 for re-establishing ex-soldiers in civilian life, Colonel Dewart showed how it had later come to look after the children of soldiers who had paid the supreme sacrifice. He compared the work of the Commission in this regard to the Children's Aid Society, stating that at one time the Commission had 584 wards.

As the children steadily continue to attain their majority, the number is decreasing until at the present time there are only 133 wards left. All of them are in approved foster homes.

Administers Frust Fund

A trust fund administered by the Commission on behalf of the wards last year amounted to $39,102 representing accumulated pensions. The trust monies are paid when the wards attain to the age of twenty-one years and they are advised by the Commission as to the manner in which they might properly invest their money.

Among several estates which the Commission administers, Colonel Dewart spoke of the Hammond estate as being the largest, and incidentally one that has been the cause of much litigation.

Under the terms of the will of the late Mrs. Hammond whose husband was killed-in-action, Colonel Dewart explained, a huge estate was left for the benefit of war widows. The difficulty the Commission has in handling the estate was, he said, that the money could only be used for widows whose husband were killed in action, and did not apply to widows whose husbands had otherwise died as the result of war services.

Speaking of the various forms of relief administered by the Commission, Colonel Dewart made an announcement of general interest to war veterans in this city. He stated there was a fund available for providing ex-soldiers in need, with eye glasses and dentures.

An Invitation

He invited any needy ex-serviceman who was in need of such treatment to communicate with the secretary of the local branch or with Captain D. A. Loomis, M.C., who would investigate the circumstances of the applicants. He promised that on recommendation of the Legion eye glasses and dentures would be provided in any worthy case.

Paying tribute to Captain Eddie Baker, chairman of the Commission who was blinded while on active service during the Great War, Colonel Dewart stated, "Never have I been privileged to meet a more splendid person." He said he hoped at some future date to arrange for Captain Baker to come to Peterborough to address a meeting of the Legion.

ENGLISH STAMPS

Some of the first stamps of the new issue in Great Britain have reached Peterborough residents on mail from Old Country relatives and friends. The one-penny denomination of stamp is novel in design including a modernistic profile engraving of George VI on a rose-color background. In the respective four corners of the stamp are engravings representing a rose, a Scotch thistle, a leek and a shamrock.

HOUSES ARE SCARCE.

As a proof of how scarce houses are in Peterborough at the present time, a local real estate man told The Examiner today of a family which had given up their house, expecting to have no trouble in locating another. They have failed so far in their hunt, and in the meanwhile have had to accept hospitality from a friend. There are nine people in one family and eight in the other, so that conditions are only faintly described when they are called crowded.

The waste paper is sent directly from Peterborough to various paper mills in Ontario where it is reground and used again in the manufacture of new paper.

Peterborough District No. 44, I.O. O.F., were hosts last night to two officers of the Grand Lodge in the persons of Deputy Grand Master Dr. G. C. R. Hall, and Grand Chaplain, Rev. P. C. Howard.

Dr. Hall's address entailed the five objectives as outlined by the Grand Master, and pointed out that if the principles of Odd Fellowship were carried out throughout the entire world there would be a world wide peace and wars would be no more. The two outside links of the chain of Odd Fellowship are Friendship and Truth, but these are linked together by that great central link called Brotherly Love with which all things advance and live in harmony and peace.

Rev. Howard's few remarks substantiated those of Dr. Hall and his message was one of sincere optimism for the future of Odd Fellowship. The Rebekahs catered for the occasion.

HERBERT CLARK KILLED IN GALWAY BY FALLING TREE

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LAKEFIELD, Nov. 16. — A falling tree crushed the life out of Herbert Clark, 43, of Galway Township, in the bush four miles south-east of Kinmount on Monday.

He was helping his uncle, Reeve John Clark of Galway-Anstruther, in cutting wood. Misjudgment of the direction a tree was about to take in falling was believed to have been the cause of the fatality. A limb struck Herbert Clark on the head, crushing his skull.

Dr. J. C. Smith, coroner, was notified, and on investigation decided that death was accidental, and an inquest was not necessary.

SOIL DEPLETION TO BE STUDIED

Fifteen meetings in five days from one end of the county to the other is the rigorous program J. J. Duffus has mapped out for the week of November 29. The itinerary has been left to him, but the burden of speaking is being taken over by Professor Henry G. Bell of the Ontario Agricultural College and A. D. Runions.

The purpose of this week's campaign is to extend the interest of farmers in the problem of soil depletion, to explain the effects of the deficiency of natural mineral content from arable fields, and to urge the necessity of adequate fertilization. Three meetings will be held daily, morning, afternoon and night. The first day will be spent in the north-western section of the county, the opening meeting to be in Galway, the afternoon in Harvey and at Buckhorn in the evening.

Mr. Duffus told The Examiner today he would like to attend as many of the meetings as he could and would invite the assistance of men like G. A. Gillespie, Gordon Hancock, Alex. Huston and others who have been making a study of soils from the practical standpoint of the farmer.

Able To Do Much Better Work Since He Married Dinesen Says

J. K. Dinesen, Peterborough Artist, Is Giving Private Exhibition

Home with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Dinesen, 267 Carlisle avenue, for a few days, J. K. Dinesen of Hamilton, is giving an exhibition of his paintings to his friends here.

The youth, who holds great promise as an outstanding Canadian artist, in the opinion of critics, is a nephew of the celebrated Danish artist, Oscar Hullgren, now living in Stockholm, Sweden. Hullgren, a gold medallist at San Francisco World Exposition and holder of other honors, is acknowledged as the foremost Scandinavian painter of marine views and ships.

Young Dinesen also has the ability to paint seascapes and ships, but it is probable that his highest form of expression is found in his sunny landscapes and realistic trees.

Marriage Helped Work

Although in his early twenties, the young artist told a reporter he was doing so well with his paintings in Hamilton, "that I had the courage to get married." What is more he acknowledged that since he has become married his work has improved tremendously.

Relating the romantic manner in which his friendship for Norma Draper, formerly of Montreal, developed and ripened into a life partnership, Dinesen stated, "Like all artists I am temperamental and ca only work when the mood gets me. But now it is a case of necessity and I find it is being reflected in the growing quality of my work."

He met the girl who was to become his wife, when as a lad of sixteen she accepted an invitation to a party at the home of his parents. He talked to her of his work and her interest in it cemented a friendship that grew and developed.

About a year ago, Dinesen went to Hamilton, invited there by friends of the girl he married last spring. He exhibited his paintings at Eaton's store in that city and created so much interest in them that he is now operating his own studio and making a favourable living.

Started Early.

Dinesen started drawing at the tender age of three years. When in Public school here he always took highest marks in art subjects and his work won the favourable attention of Trevor Miller, a former teacher at King George school.

Mr. Miller liked the lad's work so well that he asked Dinesen to paint for him some clipper ships in oils. It was not long after that he was exhibiting his works of art at the Boys' Hobby Show sponsored by the Y.M.C.A., and he acknowledges the help he received at that time from James McClenaghan, Boys' Work Secretary.

His earliest efforts were with pencil, water colors and crayon, and it was not until he attained the age of fourteen and received the encouragement that he did from his school teacher and others, that he ventured to work in oils.

Chance To Shoot Bear Passed Up

But while he brought down a deer at comparatively long range, it is reported he missed the chance of a lifetime and failed to shoot at a bear that appeared on the trail a few yards ahead of him.

Graham told fellow hunters he feared if he had shot at such close range he might only have wounded the animal. He was not taking any chances on bruin's rage under such circumstances. Believing discretion to be the better part of valor he released his itching finger from the trigger and the bear ambled on past him unharmed. It went by the hunter almost within touching distance.

Burley Reid used his gun very effectively. He shot a buck and a doe. The buck, one of the finest specimens shot in the district this season, weighed 206 pounds dressed, it was stated.

Other members of the hunt party were: Ray Best "who had the usual amount of shooting but no luck," to quote an intimate friend of his; George Hall, who had no luck at all, not even to the extent of seeing live deer on the runways; Alex Fitzgerald, captain and Garnet Dunsford.

DR. MIDDLETON RE-ELECTED HEAD OF TRINITY MEN

Dr. J. E. Middleton was re-elected president of the Men's Association of Trinity United Church Monday night. The other officers are: Duncan Walker, first vice-president; J. W. Pierce, second vice-president; W. S. Derry, secretary-treasurer; and the executive: R. J. Kidd, C. S. Cummer, Ray Brown, B. V. Moore and A. W. Pratten.

The business meeting followed a fathers' and sons' dinner, served by the ladies of the church, and was featured by an address by Rev. Dr. Harold Young of Toronto, former minister of George Street United Church. The presence of the young guests struck the dominant note of the after dinner session. A toast to the sons, given by Cliff Hall, was responded to by Ormie Henry; and a tribute to the fathers was paid by Arnold Noftall, whose toast was replied to by W. A. J. Giles. R. F. Downey proposed the toast to the ladies.

The memory of the late Perry J. Giffen, former managing director of The Examiner, and second vice-president of the Men's Association, was recalled by Dr. Middleton, and was honored by two minutes' silence. The report of the nominating committee by A. B. Gates was unanimously adopted, and was accepted by the president with an expression of appreciation of the confidence shown in the officers by their re-election.

Closer Relations.

Rev. Dr. Young's address dealt with the importance of closer relations between fathers and sons, stressing the need and influence of paternal understanding of the problems and the ideals and outlook of youth. Guidance at an impressionable and critical time of a boy's life in the development of character and directing him to fulfilment of his capabilities were major aspects of the father's responsibility. Encouragement should also be given in broadening boys' interests beyond themselves. Dr. Young paraphrased effectively the parable of the prodigal son, substituting in the leading role the father who neglects his son, passing over the opportunity of being a real and helpful companion to him. Appreciation of Dr. Young's address was expressed by Rev. G. S. Easton.

DAN LIVINGSTONE LABORITE DIES

WESTVILLE, N.S., Nov. 16 (CP) —Preparations were being made today for the burial of Daniel (Dan) Livingstone, president of district 26 of the United Mine Workers in the turbulent days when J. B. (Jim) MacLachlan was secretary-treasurer.

The careers of the two were closely allied. Both were expelled from office by International President John L. Lewis after the executive called an outlaw strike. Both faced sedition charges, arising from circulation of a letter among the unions, but Livingstone never was found guilty. MacLachlan served part of a two-year sentence before officials released him because of failing health.

Both were fluent and witty speakers. Both gradually sank from the limelight after their expulsion. Both fought for what they considered the rights of the workers.

Work Hard And Be Contented Recipe Offered For Long Life

Mrs. Ellen Fowler, 290 Stewart Street, Celebrates Her Ninety-Second Birthday

"Work hard and be contented. That's my only recipe for a long life." So declared Mrs. Ellen Fowler, 290 Stewart street, as she celebrated amidst members of her family and her many friends her 92nd birthday anniversary yesterday.

"I always worked hard myself," Mrs. Fowler said. "I kept myself busy looking after my family and was contented. Contentment is the main thing. Sometimes I think the present pace at which the world moves is a little too fast for the good of people."

The picture of health and still enjoying all her faculties, the aged resident was born in Cavan township on a farm on which Ebenezer United Church stands at present. Her parents were the late Mr. and Mrs. Edward Anderson, early pioneer settlers in Cavan, her father a native of Ireland and her mother a native of England. She was second oldest in a family of ten.

Mrs. Fowler spent the years of her youth on the Cavan farm before her marriage. After shorter stays in Bethany and Lindsay, she came with her husband, the late Edward Fowler, to this city a half century ago.

"Peterborough is much different today than when we first came here to live, but the change has been so gradual that I haven't noticed it much," she said. "All the city's larger buildings have been built since we came to live here. The life of the city was concentrated along George street and Water street between Charlotte and Hunter."

Hobby Useful

Mrs. Fowler said she believed a hobby to be a useful thing in keeping people busy and out of mischief. Her own hobby of recent years has been quilting and tatting. In one recent winter alone she made 16 quilts and is constantly busy at the hobby. She has presented a quilt to each of her 13 grandchildren.

She has five children, 13 grandchildren and 5 great-grandchildren. Her children are J. E. Fowler, A. A. Fowler, Mrs. Malcolm McIntyre and Mrs. J. Grimson, all of this city, and Norman Fowler of Toronto. Three brothers live in the West.

She celebrated her birthday quietly yesterday. Many handsome presents were tendered by visitors who paid their respects during the afternoon and evening.

LIONS BOYS' BAND GETS 14 RECRUITS

Interest in the Lions Boys' Band is steadily expanding. A new class of fourteen boys is being organized at the South Central school Wednesday night to study the rudiments of music, and as soon as their progress warrants it they will join the band in a group, bringing the membership to thirty-one. These boys are providing their own instruments, largely because their parents wish them to be associated with the young organization the Lions Club is sponsoring. Max Swanston, chairman of the band committee, gave a report of the boys' advancement at last night's meeting of the Club. The director of the band is William Stuart.

It was also reported that tickets for the Richard Halliburton address were selling well and reserved seats will be placed on sale next Wednesday.

BRIDE AND GROOM TAKEN FOR RIDE

Friends of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Renwick of the sixth line of Otonabee are still celebrating their wedding. Down at the community hall tonight it is going to be a shower and dance, preceded last Friday by a modified and moderated charivari. Just to add a little zip to the honeymoon period, Mr. Renwick's friends surprised him Friday evening, calling at the house near the railway crossing north of Keene and inviting them to take a ride to the village. The promoters of the affair had provided a light buggy for the recent bride and groom to make the short trip down cherry blossom lane to the road. Buggy and all were loaded on to a truck and headed for Keene where the buggy was set down on the road again at Nelson's garage and paraded around the village. Presumably it takes a brave man to get married in the Sixth Line district if he has to face that kind of music, but the neighborhood will square the account with tonight's shower at Lang.

Servant For 14 Years Thought A Man Found After Death To Be A Woman

Oyster Bay, N.Y., Nov. 16.

MYSTERY confronted detectives today as they sought to unravel the secret of "Alfred" — the "perfect gem" among servants whose death revealed "him" to be a woman.

For 14 years, "Alfred" had been chef, butler and major domo among the 16 servants on the estate of Joseph M. Sears, retired millionaire publisher.

"His" abstemious habits, personality and skill in domestic arts had won "him" the place of confidant and trusted companion, Sears related.

Unlike some of his predecessors, "Alfred" never asked for a day off and never left the Sears estate until a year ago, when "his" health began to fail.

Thinking a change would improve his servant's condition, Sears rented a room for "him" in an Oyster Bay boarding house, and sent his personal physician to conduct an examination. "Alfred" threatened to jump out the window if the physician entered the room.

Saturday "Alfred" fell unconscious and two physicians — Dr. Raymond Lease and Dr. George R. Fair—were summoned.

While the servant was dying, the physicians discovered "Alfred" was a woman.

Not a single feminine accoutrement was found in the room. Sears said the servant had given the name of 'Alfred Grouard" when hired 14 years ago.

Lost His Two Hands In Punch Press Alex Sjoberg Hopes To Be A Lawyer

DEPRIVED of a place in industry, when through an accident he lost both his hands in a punch press at the C. G. E. factory here last March, Alex Sjoberg, 22, of Carlisle avenue is looking to the professions. And he has chosen that of law.

Fired with the ambition to become a barrister, Sjoberg has commenced extramural studies to complete his matriculation and will write off part of his examinations at the Collegiate Institute here next Spring, he expects. He then plans to complete university entrance requirements at a Toronto business college.

On completing his matriculation, Sjoberg will try and obtain work in a law office in preparation for three years' study at Osgoode Hall. Or he may take his degree at University of Toronto.

One finger on each hand is all the accident left him, but with renewed courage he is facing the future with confidence in his ability to overcome this physical handicap.

"One soon learns to adapt oneself to circumstances," he remarked philosophically. With the two fingers left to him, Sjoberg is learning to manipulate a typewriter keyboard and hopes to attain a speed of 45 words per minute. He writes with a pencil he attaches to a leather wrist band.

Last Quarter Comeback Keeps Losers From Whitewash Score

(Examiner Correspondence)

LAKEFIELD, Nov. 16.—The Lakefield Preparatory School rugby team gave their local rivals for rugby honors a pretty thorough trimming here Monday when they defeated the Lakefield High School gridders 34 to 12 on the Grove field. Up until the middle of the last quarter, the High School had scored only one counter, made when Loyst kicked the ball over the line for a single point. It looked for a large part of the game as if the High School were going to be completely whitewashed, for the Grove played a consistently good game, their main strength being in their line plunging and end runs, though their several attempts at forward passing netted them points. The High School team couldn't seem to make any impression at all on their opponents, and though Mr. Munro's squad have been showing up well at tackling all season, they somehow failed to click in that field Monday.

Simpson scored four touchdowns for the Grove, and McLean planted the ball across the line twice. McCrimmon did the remainder of the scoring when he converted one touch and kicked a field-goal from the 25-yard line for a 3-point score, to make a grand total of 34.

About five or ten minutes before the final bell, when High School supporters had about given up hope of a major score for their team, Quigley managed to get the ball and made a lovely run for a touch which was converted by Julian Morin. Just before the final bell, F. Loyst scored a second touch for the High School, but the team failed to convert.

The line-ups:

Prep. School—Snap, McLaren; insides, Foster and Pease; middles, Stewart and Peace II.; outsides, Frewer and Morley; halves, Rose, Harris, Simpson, McLean; quarter, Carson; alternates, McCrimmon and McGinnis.

Lakefield High—Snap, Bob Brown; insides, Windsor and D. Smith; middles, Stabler and Morris; outsides, Birch and Tanner; halves, Julian Morin, S. Loyst, J. Quigley and J. Morrison; quarter, F. Loyst; alternates, Bob McCracken and F. Hudson.

Brains And Maroons On Casualty Lists

BOSTON, Nov. 16 (CP).—Charley Sands, Boston forward, suffered a gashed nose in practice yesterday and it appeared doubtful if he would be in the Bruin lineup tonight for a National Hockey League game against Montreal Maroons.

Art Ross said he doubted if Ray Getliffe would be in the Maroon game either. Getliffe suffered a pulled internal lateral ligament when checked heavily by Art Coulter, Ranger defenceman, Sunday night.

Argos Eliminate Tigers Fr om Big Four Football Race

Under leaden skies and on a gridiron that was bordering on the soupy stage, Toronto Argonauts and Hamilton Tigers clashed in an important Interprovincial Big Four game at Toronto. Hamilton had to win this all-important game to stay in the hunt for the title. The conditions were made to order for Hamilton, as the Scullers are at their best on a dry, fast field, but that seemed to have no bearing on this tussle. Argos knuckled down to business right from the start and ousted the Tigers from any further competition this season by handing them an 18 to 5 defeat. The action photo ABOVE shows the players of both teams covered with mud, as they piled on one another during a line play.

TWO YOUNGSTERS GET BALL CHANCES

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 16 (UP).—When Steve Mesner and Robert Mattick report to the training camp of the Chicago Cubs next spring their promotion will break up the youngest infield in organized baseball during the 1937 season.

The combination, that of the Los Angeles club of the Pacific Coast League, was composed of players whose ages averaged 20½ years—Mesner, third base, 19; Mattick, shortstop, 21; Ken Richardson, second base, 21, and Glen Russell, first base, 21.

Mesner, despite his youth and comparative inexperience, already has had one tryout with a major league club. After a year with Ponca City of the Western Association upon leaving school, he came directly to Los Angeles. He remained here for three years with exception of a few months last year when he worked out with the Chicago White Sox, but was returned.

A strong hitter, his batting record for the past season was .325, but his fielding lacks polish.

Mattick came up from the St. Louis sandlots in 1934 and became regular shortstop with Los Angeles the past season. He is the son of Chick Mattick, former White Sox outfielder. A good fielder, he hit .289.

Defeats Champion

One of the biggest upsets in the billiard world came, when Irving Crane, ABOVE, sensational Livonia, N.Y., cue wizard, defeated Ralph Greenleaf, defending titlist, by a score of 125 to 72. Although he does not become world's champion, Crane's victory toppled Greenleaf, 15 times champion.

SPORTS DAY BY DAY

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

TONIGHT AT eight in Duffus', a meeting of the Senior City Hockey League will be held. Officers and team delegates, or prospective entries, are urged to be on hand. This is the closing date for entries in the lively Blood and Thunder League and clubs wishing to climb aboard should have a representative on deck this eve. Those in now are Millbrook, Bewdley, Westclox and Pla-Mors. Room for two more, and we'd like to see either Lakefield or Hiawatha and another city squad round out the circuit. There is the possibility of the league affiliating with the O.H.A. to get a bye and send a team into the intermediate "B" playdowns, if the different entries favor the plan. Various matters will come up for discussion this evening.

* * * * * * *

ALL QUIET on the local O.H.A. front for the nonce, but soon we'll be stickhandling up and down the frozen surface of this pillar, maybe bandying names around like Vitarelli, Weir, Barnes, Creighton, Brown, Whitton, Clarke, Harding, Grattan, Loucks, Starr, Kingdon, Walker, Brady, McNabb, Crowe, Tompkins, Evers, and so on and so on. Meantime, some transfer applications are in, group plans are afoot, and prize draw is going merrily ahead. Five big prizes to be drawn for next month and tickets are cheap. More again ere long.

P. C. I. SENIORS are readying up for their crpocial contest in Riverside Park on Saturday, and they hope to gosh it doesn't come up mud again! They play Albert College of Belleville in a sudden-death C.O.S.S.A. playdown game, starting at 2.30 o'clock, and the winner goes into the senior school semi-finals of Ontario. The losers take a rest for a year. The Bamforth boys hope to be in the pink and they expect a full squad out—with the Clark brothers probably back in the lineup—for this mighty important tussle. The Albert outfit is rated highly down around the Quinte district, but then so were the Trenton Fliers. And the Belleville champs will need to be good to rub out the smart Garnet and Gray gang. This will be a nifty wide-open senior school scrap and will pack in the fans and fannettes.

OUR ORFUNS played an open brand of rugby here last Saturday but O.R.F.U. teams as a rule stick more to straight grid tactics. They find 'em more effective in the gruelling, low-scoring style which marks melees between these hard-bitten veterans. Another reason for the difference between O.R.F.U. and school play is that the latter lads are younger and able to gallop around all afternoon—and they do not have to slug away all day earning their bread. They sleep-in mornings, go to school and practise early in the eve. Their group competition isn't so keen, either.

BELLEVILLE KEY-POUNDER comments: "Up in Peterborough the Orfuns revenged last winter's hockey humiliations by trodding rough-shod over the Fliers and applying the whitewash brush. The Orfuns' powerhouse plays saw the Fliers helpless before the home-town onslaught. As the Airmen won 5-1 at home, Peterborough won the round 22-5. Though the R.C.A.F. gridders are rather quiet on the matter, it is rumored the rugby game was no pink tea party. The game was played on a mud-soaked field that added to the rising tempers, resulting in the officials repeatedly having to pry apart some of the contestants. Punches were exchanged at long range and close quarters, many the odd jab escaping the eyes of the officials."

* * * * * * *

LINDSAY POST contributes: "Peterborough Orfuns are getting plenty of orchids now so we'll just add ours to the bouquet. After losing a week ago to Trenton they came home and their anti-aircraft guns grounded the Fliers by a 21-0 score. There is little we can say about that. We didn't see the game but reports are that the Petes blocked kick after kick and had the Fliers on the run all during the game. Loucks scored two touches and put on some of his dizzy-dancing runs. The Petes are in the third round so Central Ontario fans will be pulling for them to keep on winning."

* * * * * * *

AND OSHAWA speaks: "Out at Peterborough, the Orfuns proved a thing or two when they trounced R.C.A.F. Fliers by 21-0. Loucks the import plunger from Lindsay, scored two touchdowns, while Gerow suffered a dislocated shoulder. There were a lot of fights in the game—apparently the Fliers couldn't take it. Then again, it looks like the Orfuns pulled a fast one to build up the attendance at home. Losing 5-1 at Trenton and then coming back home to win 21-0 looks a little fishy. One thing, Cobourg trounced Kingston and Peterborough easily disposed of Trenton, proving that the Central Lakeshore section had it over the Eastern division of the group." Sure, they did. But we fear the Motor City gent gives the locals too much credit. They are not so good as to drop a playdown game and figure on winning out in the return joust. It was simply a complete reversal of form, plus a fighting spirit, and plus that hometown winning habit.

WHILE THE O.A.S.A. are flirting with the new Sports Federation of Ontario, they have decided to stick with the Central branch of the A.A.U. of C. in Ontario for another year. They also expect to extend the length of softball bats one inch next season to conform with the U.S. style of club. The executive was unable to decide on the intermediate "A" title for this year, both Sudbury and the Toronto Eagles—the latter team having defeated our Westclox gang—claiming honors. Arrangements will not be made now, but the teams might possibly playoff in the Spring. Otherwise they'll split the 1937 championship. Havelock won the junior "B" honors, being the only squad in this neck of the woods to go through. Annual meeting may be at Sarnia.

* * * * * * *

HITHER AND yawn: Jerry Creighton played for P.C.I. juniors in Lindsay on Sat'day and suffered a badly twisted leg . . . The Scugog squad are checking up on Bowmanville using senior players, still hoping to get the group honors which P.C.I. knocked 'em out of with a 7-6 win here last month . . . . Senior puckists in Oshawa start physical training drills tonight . . . . When do local hockeyists open their P.T. workouts? . . . . Church Cage Loop is slow getting started this season, the players not showing their usual interest . . . . The proposed cricket league in Central Ontario for '38 has fallen through . . . . O.H.A. is asking clubs to send in entry fees now, six bucks a team . . . . Nothing official yet on Orfuns' next game . . . . Wonder what Ted Reeve thinks now of Kingston Garrisons; they lost to Fliers and Cobourg—both of whom lost to Peterborough . . . . POME: There was mud and blood and also thud on the banks of Otonabee; there was splash and smash and Trenton hash as Orfuns went on a spree; (Uncopyrighted).

WINNIPEG BLUES WANT NEW SERIES

WINNIPEG, Nov. 16 (CP)—Winnipeg Blue Bombers, Western football champions, are not interested in suggestions they participate in a Dominion semi-final unless the Quebec senior champions, Montreal Westmount, provide the opposition.

Westmounts are booked to play the Ontario Rugby Football Union champions, Sarnia Imperials, at Sarnia Nov. 20. Winnipeg rugby club executive decided last night to propose to the Canadian Rugby Union that Blue Bombers meet Westmounts at Montreal Dec. 4 with Sarnia and the eastern Interprovincial Union champions in another semi-final the same day.

Under the Winnipeg plan the national final would be played Dec. 11. A semi-final with the winner of a Sarnia-Westmount series would be opposed.

FAVOR JUNIOR FINAL

REGINA, Nov. 16 (CP)—Regina Dales, junior football champions of Western Canada, are continuing training in hopes of a national final with the eastern titleholders although no Dominion junior championship has been played for in several years.

Dales sought to arrange exhibition games with Vancouver Meralomas, British Columbia champions, and Winnipeg Blue Bombers, Western senior titlists, but both clubs refused to consider the proposal.

Army Officers Mourn West Point Defeat Monk Meyer Arrested In Clean-Up

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Nov. 16—(UP).—A session of "mourning" West Point's defeat Saturday by Notre Dame in a football game resulted Monday in disturbance of the peace charges against Lieutenant C. R. (Monk) Meyer, former all-American football star, and two other army officers.

It was charged that the mourning included plans to "clean up San Antonio," starting with several Deputy Sheriffs at the Bexar County Courthouse.

The army officers, Meyer, Lieutenant F. E. Trussell and Lieutenant T. R. Davis, arrived at the courthouse early Sunday, Deputy Sheriff John Klevenhagen said, and announced the house-cleaning intention. Klevenhagen said he questioned the wisdom of the plan, and three other Deputies joined him.

The army officers and the Deputies all suffered superficial bruises in the battle that followed.

The officers were arrested, charged with disturbing the peace of the courthouse, and were released on $200 bond. Justice of the Peace Bat Corrigan set Thursday for a hearing.

Badminton

R. O. BENSON

JUNIOR CLASS—From 30 to 35 members of the junior section of the Armouries Club turned out on Saturday afternoon to follow in the footsteps of their elders. The girls far outnumbered the masculine element and as a matter of fact, so great has been the female response the executive is finding it necessary to place a limit on this side of the section particularly. Several of the older players were there giving the youngsters a few pointers and generally extending the helping hand. Mr. Hardill was giving his son Jack a workout and the boy seems to be responding nicely to the treatment. Howie Shields and Cliff Cadd, two seniors who are going to look awfully good if they keep going the way they are headed, were giving instruction in the rudiments of the game to a couple of the young ladies. Betty White and Frances Merrett teamed up in fine style in a ladies doubles contest. Billy Hall and his pal Doug Quirt are two of the junior boys who should crash the big time with some more experience. Betty Detcher and Pat Grahaeme along with Helen Ballard, Babs Rushor, Silvia Boorman, and Peggy White are a few more who look like comers. Miss Detcher, an all-round athlete shows remarkable strength and appears to be a fine prospect.

AT THE MARKET HALL—The school-age members had a good afternoon of it, too. The junior membership at this club is also a large one, the full quota having been reached. Horace Steer, boys' captain, is unanimously rated by his mates to be of the Class AA type. Girls' captain is Mary Richardson, another outstanding player in her section. The Social Committee consists of Ruth Robinson and Margaret Westoye. John Bannister and Bob Ingrim looked good on Saturday and we are told they always make a good showing. Mary Lowry and Bob Scott, two of the beginners, were starting out together. Evidently Bob is keeping up the tradition of the keenly athletic Scott family. Mary and Jane Strickland and Jean Ketcheson play not without commendable skill. Mary Hall and Eleanor Scott are possibly the two best of the girls. They show a natural aptitude for badminton and their standard strokes and wrist flicks are pretty to watch.

IN SPOTLIGHT—At Trinity, Saturday evening saw a number of members out who haven't done a great deal of playing so far this term. We think particularly of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Fanjoy and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Renlf. Harold and "Big Bill" joined in a weird combination which was productive of more laughs than cash results against Murray Gates and Lorned Reynolds, who were somewhat steadier especially in the last few points. Final score was something like 15-6. When the la-

HUGH STIRLING LEADS SCORERS ON GRIDIRON

TORONTO, Nov. 16.—(CP).—The highest scorer on the East's gridirons during the 1937 schedules was Hugh (Bummer) Stirling, but statistics show the Barnis backfield ace was the leader in only one individual point-making department.

The Big Four and Intercollegiate gridders, who play two more games than those in the Ontario Union, took the majority of individual honors. But the Bummer's versatility makes him tops when the counting of totals is completed.

Placement kickers, becoming a more important part of football scoring machines each season, were led by Cam Gray of University of Toronto, who finished second in total points with 27 to the Bummer's 36. Cam, who topped the Intercollegiate, booted six placement field goals, one more than Ottawa's Tiny Herman.

Touchdown Famine.

In a season of touchdown famine, Art West of Toronto Argonauts bagged four. But line-smasher Ormond Beach's average was better, the Imperial star scoring three in four games while the long-legged West needed six games for his. There wasn't another player in the section who scored more than two touchdowns.

Herman, only lineman to head either of the three Unions' scorers, bagged the majority of his 22-point total, the best by two in the Big Four, through placements. Stirling's versatility was shown by his two touchdowns, three field goals, 11 singles and six converts. His convert total was the best in the East.

6 Touches in 24 Games.

The Intercollegiate Union, where defence is stressed so much that only six touchdowns were scored in 24 games, produced a co-leader of the singles-kicking department, Johnny Munro of Queen's tying Montreal's Abe Eliowitz with 14 each. It was Abe's lowest scoring total in several seasons.

Imperials, through the courtesy of Hamilton Panthers, rolled up the best team total, scoring 81 points while holding the opposition to 19, the lowest number of points scored against any one team. Argos led the Big Four with 72 points and Queen's the Intercollegiate with a mere 36.

It was a big season for several gridders unaccustomed to reaching the point-scoring heights. Among the best performances were those of Annis Stukus, Argonaut quarterback, who rolled up 17 12 through placements, and the 16 of Queen's Bernie Thornton.

Sports Spice

By EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK, Nov. 16—(AP)—Nebraska toted $65,000 out of that Pitt game Saturday and will spend part of the dough on a new eight-acre practice field.... Most coaches say they don't need it.... Rice still looks like the winner in the Southwest Conference and this week's Rose Bowl candidates are California and Pitt.... Note to Van Mungo, Pageland, S.C.: Brooklyn has definitely determined to trade you this winter, rain or shine.

Babe Ruth played three of the nine holes against John Montague, et al, with his shirt tail flapping in the breeze.... Walter Johnson has a radio voice strikingly similar to that of the late Will Rogers.... Football men hereabouts can't figure out a Michigan investigation into subsidizing.... Michigan's football record certainly doesn't indicate anything out of the way.... Glenn Lee, crack coast middleweight, and his manager, Joie Greenberg, hit the stem to-day to talk business with Mike Jacobs.

Extra: One of the first deals made at the December baseball meetings will see old Al Simmons changing scenery again.... The score of a negro football game at Bastrop, Tex., the other day was 136-0 when the referee stopped the thing in the third quarter.

Harry Costello, football's No. 1 press agent, was around Pittsburgh trying to steam up a Pitt-Louisiana State game on a winner-take-all basis, but Pitt only laughed at him.... Washington newspapers hint Joe Cronin will succeed Clark Griffith as president of the Senators if and when Joe can get away from Boston.

ROUGHRIDERS ARE INSISTENT

OTTAWA, Nov. 16 (CP).—Ottawa Rough Riders will insist the two-game playoff with Toronto Argonauts for the Big Four title, be held on succeeding Saturdays, it was decided yesterday at an executive meeting of the club.

The first game definitely will be held here Saturday, but Argonauts have requested the second be postponed until December 4, the first open date for the University of Toronto Stadium.

The Rough Rider Executive in effect have told Argonauts it is up to them to find grounds for the second game November 27. If the game is held on that date, it will be transferred to Hamilton or Montreal. Lansdowne Park is available although it is unlikely Argonauts would play both games in Ottawa.

If the two clubs cannot agree on a date and site for the second game, the executive of the league will intervene, Dr. Andy Davies, president, said. The decision of the local club was sent to him yesterday.

ABE ELIOWITZ QUITS CANADA

MONTREAL, Nov. 16 (C.P.).—"Through" with Canadian football, Abe Eliowitz, versatile backfielder, who came to Montreal Indians via Michigan State University and Ottawa Roughriders, packed his trunk last night for Detroit, where he will take up permanent residence.

"You know," the able Abe said last night, "it's time I settled down." He has been playing the game for ten years as a prep school, university and Big Four star. And in five years he has played Canadian football, Abe scored 141 points, being named to The Canadian Press all-star team every season. This year's is yet to be released.

Abe's departure brings to an end two years' association with Johnny Ferraro's Indians, during which he established himself as one of the best all-round "imports" ever to play the Canadian game.

Eliowitz's football days may not be over, though, for he is on the negotiation list of Detroit Lions. National Football League entry. He may turn out for Lions, he said, if he can spare the time from his business.

ODD ITEMS FROM A SPORT SCRAP BOOK

COLORED ATHLETES

It is a generally accepted fact, today, that all things run in cycles, and sport has long supported this supposition. Anyone who has kept a curious finger on the pulse of the athletic world knows that the popularity of any sport goes through a period of both lean and prosperous years, dependent upon its position in the cycle.

This fact is probably the reason for the prominence of colored athletes in recent years. They dominate the track and field portion of the sport curriculum, and were more than conspicuous in other branches.

Some would have attributed the remarkable success of the colored athletes in the Olympic games to the longer heel bone of the negro, claiming that it gave him better leverage than does the comparatively small one of the white man. But this has been proven a falsity by none other than Jesse Owens, generally acclaimed to be the greatest track athlete living today.

Jesse maintains that the prominence of his fellow men of recent years is due solely to the fact that they are at the height of their sport cycle.

Jackson, Barry And Romnes In Third Place In Two Sections With Five Each

MONTREAL, Nov. 16 (CP).—Gordon Drillon, one of Toronto Maple Leafs' rookie sensations of last winter, leads the parade of the National Hockey League point-getters in the first official scoring statistics issued by the League last night.

The young Toronto winger, in less than a fortnight of campaigning, has bagged four goals and four more points on assists for a one-point margin over his team-mate Charlie Conacher. The Big Bomber has five goals and a brace of assists.

Charlie's sharpshooting also put him at the top of the league in actual goals. Tied with Drillon for second place in this category is Harvey Jackson, still another Leaf, whose four goals and one assist also put him in a third-place tie for total point honors.

Marty Barry of Detroit Red Wings, with three and two, and Doc Romnes of Chicago Black Hawks, with two and three, are the others tied for third in the point list.

Just to help make it pretty much of a sweep for the Leafs, Drillon and one more team-mate, Defenceman Red Horner, are in a first-place tie with Paul Thompson of the Hawks for most assists. Each has helped out on four goals.

In the penalty list, where Horner used to shine, Montreal Canadiens and Maroons split the doubtful honors. Baldy Northcott of Maroons and Babe Siebert of the Canadiens each has spent twenty-five minutes on the bench, mostly because of a fist fight here last Thursday night.

In the team standings, it's Leafs again. Their six-game points give them the leadership of the Canadian section and are two better than either Boston Bruins or Chicago, tied for first in the American division.

CHING JOHNSON IS LIKELY TO PLAY FOR AMERICANS

(By the Canadian Press.)

No hockey impresario ever had a better break handed him on a platter than President Frank Calder of the National League is proferred to-day. He has a chance to provide New York with the thrill of the season and demonstrate that Conny Smythe and Tommy Gorman hold no corner on showmanship.

To-night Red Dutton's New York Americans, controlled in a way by Calder, as the League operates the club, meet Lester Patrick's Rangers at Madison Square Gardens in the first league clash of the New York teams.

With Americans playing fighting hockey and holding a chance to tie Toronto Maple Leafs for division leadership there is tremendous interest in the game along Broadway. The 15,000 crowd Americans drew Sunday against Montreal Maroons may be bettered.

And Calder has the opportunity of dropping old Ching Johnson, a garden idol, into the scene in an American uniform to oppose the team he shone with for so many years. The set-up is a natural that no showman would miss.

Be Grand Reception.

Imagine the reception New York would give the battered old veteran if he returned to the ice in an American uniform after being discarded as a player by Rangers before he believes his days is through. Tex Rickard would have moved mountains to stage a scene like that in the Gardens.

And it is admitted there is very little money involved. Calder and Johnson talked terms yesterday in New York and came near an agreement. If they signed a contract to-day old Ching could be on the ice to-night even if he appeared only long enough to bounce one or two Rangers into the boards.

That would be the highlight of to-night's N.H.L. battling, but the only other game scheduled may provide some fireworks. Montreal Maroons meet Bruins in Boston and the expectations are that it will be no tea party.

The two teams roughed it up plenty when Bruins beat Maroons 4-2 more than a week ago and Maroons have shown no disposition to play milder hockey since.

FLYING DUTCHMAN WANTS TO RETIRE

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—(AP).—Earl Harry Clark, Colorado's "Flying Dutchman" of the United States professional gridirons, wants to retire from active competition after this season because, he insists, he's "slowing up."

Nine other clubs in the National League will be glad to get this news, though they will believe it's true when they actually see Clark staying on the bench next year. They not only doubt the declining powers of the Detroit club's versatile playing coach, but they still rate him, by long odds, the greatest all-round performer in pro football.

"It's fun working with the great bunch of fellows we have on the Detroit club," said Dutch. "They've kept their college spirit. I like my own job and I think I'm still able to take my share of the hard knocks but I've been playing football for the better part of 15 years and my legs are beginning to feel it."

An "All Time Great."

Clark has threatened to retire before but has yet to make it stick. The man that pro football followers compare most often with Jim Thorpe, Ernie Nevers, Walter Eckersall and others, when the subject of "all time greats" comes up for debate, says the pace is getting faster all the time in the pro game.

"Then, too," he pointed out, "there isn't the prejudice against pro fotball that formerly existed among college men. It not only draws bigger and better crowds, but attracts more good college players than ever before. That's because it opens the way for many of them to get good jobs and establish themselves, in or out of athletics."

WARMAN. Barbara Anne.—At her home, Otonabee street, suddenly on Tuesday, November 16, 1937, Barbara Anne Warman, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Warman. IN MEMORIAM

BOLTON.—In loving memory of a dear son and brother, Wilbert Percy Bolton, who was killed five years ago to-day, November 16.

In Little Lake peacefully sleeping
Where the flowers gently wave,
Lies the one we loved so dearly,
The one we could not save.
And deep in our hearts is a picture
Worth more than silver or gold,
It's a picture of you, dear Wilbert
Whose memory will never grow old.
—Sadly missed by Mother, Father, Brothers, and Sisters.

dies went at it. Misses Lois Stewart and Anne Franks put up quite a battle against Mrs. Fanjoy and Mrs. Rehill. Many of the long rallies were well played out.

AT THE MARKET HALL — H. A. Toole, out for the first time, was doing a specialty number, a sort of string symphony, as a major portion of a male quartette.

ABOUT THE LEAGUE — Expectations are to hold an organization meeting some time next week. As you know, it will be a city league for clubs with but one or two courts and second teams from the Armourier and Market Hall, if they wish to come in. Secretaries should discuss it with their executives and either attend the meeting themselves or arrange for representatives to be sent. eDtails of the date and time of the meeting will be in later.

A letter from Lindsay states that the St. Paul's Badminton Club of that town would like to have a tournament with one of the smaller clubs here. Any interested should write to Miss Madelene Coley, 22 Cambridge Street South, Lindsay, for further information.

Remember When—

(By The Canadian Press)

"Tiger" Flowers, former world's middleweight boxing champion, died in a New York hospital 10 years ago today following a minor operation for removal of a growth over his left eye. Only negro to hold the title, Flowers reached the top Feb. 26, 1926, with a 15-round decision over Harry Greb. He lost his crown to Mickey Walker.

JEWISH STARS MARKED

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 16.—(AP).—Leaders of an alleged anti-semitic plot to bomb Jewish film notables' homes are under surveillance, but no arrests have been made since the District Attorney's office began an inquiry six weeks ago, Chief Investigator Eugene Williams said to-day.

"Apparently the conspiracy never got beyond the conversational stage" Williams added. He did not explain why he disclosed the plot.

SIX HUNDRED FOLK AT ANNUAL DINNER

(Examiner Correspondence)

CAVAN, Nov. 16.—Cavan United church annual fowl dinner served in Cavan Community Hall on the evening of Remembrance Day, was a very successful event. Fully six hundred people were served a sumptuous dinner. Two hundred and sixty nine dollars was the amount of the door receipts.

The tables presented an attractive appearance, with appropriate Remembrance Day decorations, and laden with abundance of appetizing food.

It opened with a piano duet by Mrs. Caldwell and Miss Wilson. Piano solos were given by the Misses Hanna and Wilson. Mr. Lawrence Dunbar pleased the audience with his fine tenor voice. Mrs. Caldwell read a synopsis of the one-hour play "Marrying Off Father," and the cast of characters, three men and three ladies.

The play, which was humorous, was well given, each person aptly playing his or her part. Miss Wilson, gold medalist in the 1936 Muscial festival, was the accompanist.

Although the hall was filled beyond its seating capacity, there was good order and good attention given the play.

CHAPTER 36.

Tim's resolution to pull himself together, weak enough in conception, proved stillborn, for presently a fresh discouragement took away all heart and will to put it into effect. Looking over his books, the day after the mashup with Mrs. Gordon, he noted that two of his most regular and lucrative patients had not been to see him for some time.

One was a retired schoolmaster of the name of Lucas, the other a wealthy widow, Mrs. Bullick. Both belonged to the class of patient the conscientious dentist always holds up as a model to their less careful brethren; they took great pride in their teeth, and never failed to have them inspected at least once every six months. Tim discovered that they were both overdue; Lucas should have been along early in October, and Mrs. Bullick a few weeks later. Their visits had always been so regular as to be predictable, and this lapse was quite unprecedented.

It was only the next day that Tim met Lucas in the tobacconist's a few doors from the surgery. The assistant was at the back opening a new case of Lucas' special mixture, and the two exchanged a few words about the weather. Lucas was a slightly built, nervous man, with a perpetually hunted look, as if he could never quite believe he had really escaped from a world of harassing, unruly boys; and he had a habit of stammering in moments of embarrassment. He was stammering now.

"You haven't been along to see me for quite a time, Mr. Lucas," said Tim, rather unprofessionally, but the thing was worrying him. "I made it out you were due over a month ago."

"Really? I m . . . ust have let it s-s-s . . . . lip." Lucas' affliction was painfully evident. "I'll ph . . . one you in a day or two." He seized his mixture, handed over a coin, and rushed precipitately from the shop. "Your change, Mr. Lucas," called out the assistant. Lucas came back and took his money, looking a fool, then bolted out again.

"Must have something on his mind," said the assistant, who was rather a coarse young man. "Perhaps he's in love."

Tim did not reply. Quite suddenly he had realized Lucas was not coming to him any more. Mrs. Bullick was not coming to him any more. No doubt there were others. There were some people whom the merest breath of scandal was sufficient to frighten.

Esther's death the coroner's well-intentioned, but really damaging exculpation of Tim, had shaken his reputation. He might be a murderer. It was not likely, but it was possible. And nervous people do not care to make use of the professional services of a possible murderer. . . . Especially a doctor or a dentist, who wield such formidable power over the body.

This, then was the real explanation of Mower's change of mind. Tim saw it all. In the interval between his approach to Tim and the lunch at the William and Mary Mower had been getting some of Tim's patients. He had become aware that Tim's reputation was blown upon. No wonder he was no longer prepared to buy a partnership with a dentist whose patients were beginning to come to him, without any effort or unprofessional conduct on his own part.

The discovery left Tim without the desire and motive needed for the effort to pull himself together. This new misfortune was something beyond his power to check or control. The rot had set in; very well, he argued, he would do nothing to stem it. . . . It proceeded apace.

Tim had always been a very abstemious man; but now he began to drink. He found that whiskey, while at first stimulating his perceptions, eventually dulled them. Drinking did not bring him any happiness, even a fugitive one, but it produced a condition of anesthesia.

So there was something rotten at The Wilderness. Tim drinking Adams drinking and loafing about with nothing particular to do, the effect on the discipline of the household was not long in showing itself.

Meals were badly cooked and served late; the cook, who had been at The Wilderness for 12 years, seemed to have lost all interest. The parlormaid gave notice, left, and was not replaced. The housemaid, with no one to check her, gave up all but the most perfunctory efforts to keep the place clean, and spent most of her time larking with the boy who came in daily to take over Adam's work, or with Adams himself.

Dust lay everywhere, and a prevailing grime settled over a house which, a short while back, had been one of the cleanest, best kept and most attractive in the neighborhood. Tim dismissed the gardener, and lost all his own interest in the garden; he took, indeed, a malicious pleasure in fostering the decay and disorder. The Wilderness Neddy would find on his return to England would be a very different place to what he had known.

Through it Tim moved listlessly, in a kind of aphasia. And now, on top of everything, Adams began to give trouble again.

Adams, as has been said, had been drinking. But it was not through drunkenness that he again began to obtrude himself on Tim's notice. The drinking itself was a symptom of something more fundamental. He was suffering from a disease not uncommon among people of no particular intellectual resource who have been in the habit of working, but have to work no longer—he had nothing to do with his time.

His five or six hours daily at the surgery had never been spent in anything more active than opening or shutting doors, a certain amount of dusting and cleaning, and some mechanical work on dentures. He still did a bit of cleaning, in the perfunctory way he felt he owed to his now condition of independence, but the work on the dentures he had soon abandoned, in the first flush of emancipation. He would not have been sorry to have it back now, but was disinclined to make by his resumption of it the tacit confession that he was at a loose end.

By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY TEACHES SCHOOL.

"Bang! Bang! Bang!" sounded a knock on the door of Uncle Wiggily's hollow stump bungalow one morning.

"Oh, my goodness!" squeaked Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy, the muskrat lady housekeeper, who was so nervous she dropped from the end of her tail the rag she had tied on to wash the dishes. "Bad Chaps!" cried Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy. "Bad Chaps!"

"No, it isn't," said Baby Bunty the orphan rabbit as she looked out of a side window. "It's Mr. Rat, the nice janitor from our Hollow Tree School. Good morning, Mr. Rat," greeted the orphan rabbit as she opened the door. "Did you want to see Unkie Wig?" Bunty asked.

"If you please," said Mr. Rat, making a low and polite bow.

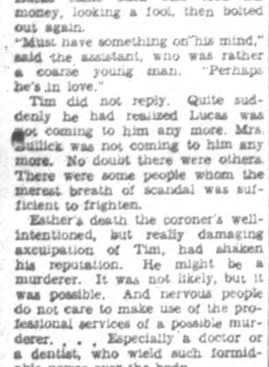
"Here I am!" called Uncle Wiggily sliding down the stair bannister railing which he always did when in a hurry. "What is it?"

"The Lady Mouse Teacher is ill with a sore throat today," said Mr. Rat. "She telephoned me, after I opened the school, that she can't teach. She wants to know if you will teach school for her."

Substitute.

"Certainly I will, with pleasure," said Uncle Wiggily politely. "I suppose Miss Mouse got a sore throat trying to show her class, yesterday, how the old Indians used to war whoop and shout to scare their enemies, eh, Mr. Rat?" asked the rabbit.

"That's it," said the rat janitor gentleman. "Then will you soon come to teach school, Uncle Wiggy?"



"I'll hop right over," promised Mr. Longears. Soon he was at the desk of the Lady Mouse Teacher starting the morning exercises. Though the animal children were sorry Miss Mouse was ill, they were glad Uncle Wiggily was going to teach them.

Mr. Longears heard lessons in reading, writing and arithmetic. Then he let the different classes sing and Baby Bunty sang a song all by herself. Very cute the little orphan rabbit was, too.

"This afternoon," said Uncle Wiggily, "instead of having any lessons I am going to tell you a true Indian story."

"You mean how they war whooped and painted their faces and shot arrows, Unkie Wig?" asked Baby Bunty.

"Yes," said Mr. Longears.

"Oh, goodie!" laughed Bunty. "I love Indians, don't you " she asked Lulu Wibblewobble, a duck girl.

"I like 'em if they don't take my feathers for their arrows," quacked Lulu.

Big Game.

But, all of a sudden, Buster, one of the rabbits said:

"If you please, Daddy Teacher, there isn't to be any school this afternoon."

"No school this afternoon?" said Uncle Wiggily, surprised.

"No," said Buster. "We arranged it with Miss Mouse. No school. Our football team is going to play the team from Briar Bush School and you promised to be there and about and cheer for us."

"So I did!" laughed Mr. Longears. "All right. No school on account of the football game! I'll tell you an Indian story some other time," he promised the class.

So school was let out and all the pupils went to the football game. It was very exciting. First the Hollow Tree School team was ahead and then the Briar Bush School team. But when it seemed that Buster's side was going to lose, all of a sudden Uncle Wiggily gave his mighty, loud shout like an Indian war whoop and this made Buster's team so brave they made two touchdowns and won.

And if the feather duster doesn't pretend to be an Indian and wake up the gas stove when it is making toast for the coffee pot, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily's rugs.

Seamen Floating On Planks Had To Fight Off Sharks

Seven Members Of Crew Of 28 Lost When Greek Vessel Foundered

NORFOLK, Va., Nov. 16 (AP). — Fifteen dishevelled survivors of the sinking on Saturday of the Greek freighter Tsenny Chandris arrived here to-day aboard the coastguard cutter Mendota and, through interpreters, told their story of men against the sea.

The captain of the crew of 28 seven of whom lost their lives, bore a bright red gash across the bridge of his nose to witness his story of how one seaman on the raft with him went mad in the harrowing hours before the rescue, and bit his captain in the face before he died.

An English seaman said he felt the heavily laden freighter give two lurches, and "walked off the deck into the water." He couldn't swim but grabbed a piece of timber and kept afloat, fighting off sharks that nipped his ankles.

"I was the last to leave the ship and I the last to be picked up," said Joseph Corrie, 49, of White Hiben, England.

The captain, George Coufopandelis and the other 14 survivors were taken to the Marine Hospital for treatment for exposure. All were suffering from parched and swollen throats.

Commander Henry Coyle of the Mendota said the rescue was "extremely difficult," as the heavy swell made it almost impossible to see the men floating on small pieces of wreckage.

Coyle said he was told the radio operator and another member of the crew jumped from the stricken ship without life preservers and drowned. A third was pulled through a life belt by a shark. A fourth, the one who went mad and bit the captain, died on the raft and his body washed into the sea.

CAR THIEF NABBED 40-MINUTE CHASE

LEAMINGTON, Ont., Nov. 16 (CP)—Just 40 minutes after he is alleged to have escaped with an automobile belonging to the Southern Ontario Gas Company here during the week-end, Nathan Girardin, 27, Leamington, was on his way to Leamington police station. He will face a charge of auto theft.

Those 40 minutes, however, were thrilling for police, gas company employees who gave chase and for the occupant of the stolen machine who sought to elude pursuers by driving more than 80 miles an hour over country roads.

The car is owned by W. C. Howard, manager of the gas company's office here, who gave chase accompanied by employee Bill Mariott when he saw the machine being driven away. Other employees also took up the chase and police were notified.

Wolves Snarled In Shadows Of Fire

Midland, Nov. 16

LEN Cowdry of Midland was safe today after having been lost in the Parry Sound area during the week-end. He was recovering from his experience of having huddled close to a fire Saturday night while wolves snarled and howled in the shadows 15 feet away.

Cowdry went hunting last week with Roy Fenton and Lewis Boyce, both of Midland, and Joe Richards of Toronto. He lost his way Saturday morning and when night arrived was lost after trudging through heavy bush all day.

He has only a few matches and no food. He heard the howling of wolves and said their shadowy forms were distinguishable slinking around the outside of circle of light made by camp fire.

HASTINGS PARTIES HAVING GOOD LUCK

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, Nov. 16.—Deer hunters from Hastings and district, are having good luck and have every prospect of getting their full quotas, in spite of the rains which have hampered them, according to reports from hunters, who were home temporarily over the week-end.

Reeve Fairman who is with a party of five, stated, they had shot three to date. Fred Richardson and his son Elmer, with a party of ten, have been successful in bringing down seven. A party of five with Constable Wellman of Hastings and George Hoover of Roseneath as members, returned home Saturday night with their full quota. Mr. Hoover had a buck, which he claimed, weighed 250 pounds.

A.Y.P.A. SPONSORS SOCIAL EVENING

MARMORA, Nov 16.—A pleasing social evening was held in Deloro Hall, on Friday eevning, when St. Paul's A.Y.P.A. entertained members from the branches of Campbellford, Havelock, Stirling, Frankford, Christ Church, Belleville, and Trenton. A goodly number of local residents swelled the attendance. Rural Dean A. B. Caldwell extended words of welcome to the visiting members and Robert Scott, president, also gave a short speech. Presidents of visiting A.Y.P.A.'s spoke words of appreciation at having been present. Rev. T. H. Floyd, Campbellford, and Rev. A. Smith, Trenton, accompanied their respective branches. The eveing was chiefly spent in dancing. A delicious lunch was served at midnight.

Jap Aviators In Chinese Prison Keep Fit

Eleven captured Japanese airmen are shown in the prison camp at Nanking doing their morning exercise to keep fit during their periods of internment. They are some of the scores of Jap aviators who have been shot down by Chinese snipers during the protracted "undeclared war", and who hope to "live to fight another day."

For the rest of the days, and during the week-ends, his situation was like that of a boy left behind at school after the holidays had begun. He simply did not know how to amuse himself. The charms of liberty lost their freshness in a very few days. Idleness, however, fed on itself, and combined with the absence of the spur of compulsion to produce a state of mind in which he shirked the effort to find himself new distractions.

Adams could now of course afford to tap sources of pleasure formerly beyond his reach, but his spirit was sluggish, and he fell back on a mere intensification of his old habits. At first the Goose Quill saw him at opening time instead of half past 8; he would drink a good deal more, stand treat a good deal more, boast and throw his weight about a good deal more.

The result of these indulgences, however, was to give him a daily morning hangover, so that presently he became a less regular patron, and two or three times a week he would not go down until after supper or not at all. Then, of course, he had to fill in the time somehow; and that was where Tim came in.

DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS
TREATMENT FOR BACKACHE HEADACHE RHEUMATISM BLADDER TROUBLES

BRITAIN LEADING ALL IN TELEVISION ROTARIANS TOLD

That Britain is leading the world in television was one of the interesting impressions brought back from a trip to the British Isles by Rotarian Rev William Tanton of the Simcoe Street United Church, Oshawa who addressed the Peterborough Rotary Club at its weekly luncheon at Empress Hotel on Monday. Vice-president James Dutton who presided in the absence from the city of President Art Runions introduced the speaker.

Guests today included Mayor George A. Macdonald, Ald. Walter Stocker, chairman of the Board of Health and Dr. Murray Fraser, Medical Officer of Health. Chairman Dutton explained that it had been hoped to have also present the doctors conducting the chest clinic here so that Rotary might pay tribute to the work that was being done, in which the club was greatly interested.

William Brown delighted the gathering with a solo, the rollicking sea ditty "Captain John McPherson" rendered in most acceptable fashion. Another feature was the first singing of the club's new song written by Rotarian Rev. Dr. A. T. Barr and sung to the tune of "Mandalay."

Finds Changes

Comparing conditions in Britain now with those prevailing on his last trip 16 years ago Rev. Mr. Tanton said that while history and nature and the climate remained the same he had found many changes. One of these was the great development in transportation that had taken place. Whereas on his previous trip he found people in some of the villages who had never travelled far beyond the borders of their own communities today the most complete system of buses ran to all parts of the British Isles. The railway service too was commented upon by the speaker who said that for fast and comfortable and cheap travel Britain was in the forefront.

Another thing that had impressed him greatly was the immense building program that was going on. Old villages were being surrounded by new villages built on their outskirts, old towns had new ones built around them and the same condition was true of cities. He had found that while 16 years ago the people were leaving Britain to come to Canada today they were leaving Canada to reside in England and were doing well there. The building program had provided jobs for thousands of workers and there was no unemployment except in the mining areas.

Interesting spots visited by the speaker were the oldest monastery in England and one of the camps where refugee Basque children from Spain were being cared for.

Rotary Compared

Comparing Rotary in England with the movement in Canada the speaker said that one main difference was that there was no singing at the English meetings, with the exception of the National Anthem. He had heard some most interesting addresses at the English clubs including one on the growth of automatic machines by a manufacturing executive who said that his company could not keep up with the demand for these slot machines. However while there were thousands of machines in use in England none of them were for gambling purposes; they were all designed for service.

Of television the speaker said that he had witnessed a demonstration in London that convinced him that Britain was leading the world in that field. There were 3,000 sets in London and last week people sat in their homes and actually watched the madman who interrupted the service at the Cenotaph and through their television sets saw the police deal with the disturber.

Rotarian Alex. Mowat expressed the thanks of the Rotary Club to Rev. Mr. Tanton for his interesting address.

NAVAL OFFICERS ARE DISGUISED AS FISHERMEN

Japanese Officers In Canadian Hamlets

TORONTO, Nov. 17 (CP)—Archdeacon F. G. Scott, Canadian wartime padre, said today he was "informed on good authority" that Japanese naval officers in disguise are living in "so-called Japanese fishing villages in British Columbia."

Archdeacon Scott said he favored immigration of people from the United States with democratic ideals "in order to protect the North American bloc."

"The war in the Orient and the aggrandizement of Japan threaten Canada and the United States on their western shores," he said. "There now are 40,000 Japanese in Vancouver alone and Japan knows every inch of our western coast, besides owning enormous timber limits in those regions.

"Japan also has large vessels engaged in the salmon industry there. They may belong to the class of mystery ships which England used in the war."

Canada Defenceless

The noted Quebec soldier-preacher said Canada is actually defenceless.

"The politicians are throwing dust in our eyes by declaring that before Canada enters another war a special parliament will be summoned and the people will decide whether this country will remain neutral," he asserted.

Every British nation would be a target for the enemy should England become involved in war "and Germany wouldn't wait for Mr. Jones from Halifax and Mr. Smith from Vancouver to arrive at Ottawa for a session of parliament before sending over bombing airplanes."

He added: "Such airplanes, flying the route north of Labrador where there are no anti-air defences, could swoop down on Canadian cities and harbors in four days."

KING LEOPOLD IS GUEST OF LONDON

LONDON, Nov. 17—(CP).—King Leopold of Belgium, received the homage of the City of London today after exchanging with King George mutual pledges to strive for peace.

King Leopold was presented with addresses in gold caskets by the City of London, but did not receive the honorary freedom of the city because he is a ruling monarch.

The Belgian King's busy schedule included a reception for the diplomatic corps, a luncheon at the Guildhall with the Duke of Kent and the Lord Mayor, Sir Harry Twyford, a dinner at the Belgian Embassy attended by King George and Queen Elizabeth, and a state ball in the evening.

Come to Her Aid

Confidence that if Belgium were again threatened Great Britain would go to her aid, as in 1914, was expressed by the visiting monarch last night at a banquet given in his honor at Buckingham Palace.

Speaking in English in response to a toast proposed by King George, Leopold said:

"When the hour struck, she (Great Britain) at once and without hesitation made good her word, and we are confident that if ill-fortune should befall us again, we should always find in her that sure support which, joined to our own unshakeable determination to defend ourselves, would successfully repeal all danger from our soil."

"I am certain," King George had said, "that the future holds the most valuable guarantee of peace, which we believe all nations of the world at heart desire, in the common determination of our two countries to promote the cause of good faith and fair dealing in international affairs."

Minister Announces National Council To Study Nutrition

Council Directs a Nation-Wide Study Under Chairmanship of Dr. R. E. Wodehouse

OTTAWA, Nov. 17—(CP)—A National Council on Nutrition in Canada was announced today by Health Minister Power. It will have a membership of possibly 25 under the chairmanship of Dr. R. E. Wodehouse, deputy minister of the department and will include representatives from 17 national administrative branches or voluntary organizations.

Others designated to the council are Prof. Andrew Stewart of the University of Alberta, Prof. E. G. Young of Dalhousie University, Prof. W. D. McFarlane of MacDonald College, McGill University and Prof. E. W. McHenry of University of Toronto.

The council will direct a nation-wide study on:

What are the food requirements of the various stages of human developments?

In particular, what are the working man's requirements and how can they be ascertained?

What resources are available to meet requirements?

How can available resources be actually applied to satisfy those needs?

How can the study of the problem of nutrition be organized in the best interests of public health?

Protecting Food Supplies.

For many years the Department of Pensions and National Health has had the responsibility of protecting the food supplies of the public in the enforcement of the Food and Drugs Act. In recent years it has enlarged its laboratories for a special program directed at the control of advertising and merchandising of foods reputed to contain vitamins of varying kinds in varying quantities.

The Canadian delegation at the September, 1936, meeting of the Assembly of the League of Nations supported a resolution, afterwards adopted unanimously, urging members of the League to set up national nutrition committees. To-day's announcement was in line with the League's resolution.

LABOR'S OLD GUARD STILL IN SADDLE IN BRITISH HOUSE

LONDON, Nov. 17—(CP Cable)—Labor's newly-elected front bench—a ginger group of 12 chosen to assist party leaders in debate—went modestly into action in the House of Commons today. Despite the clamor over the need of young, vigorous blood, the new front bench differs little from the old. The familiar faces are still there. The old guard has neither died nor surrendered. Sir Stafford Cripps, the only new "ginger man" of importance— Sir Stafford came forth in today's front bench ballot—was not there.

Yet, undeterred, back-benchers led snappy flank attacks against the government. The failure of the Brussels conference to negotiate a peace in the far east lent an opportunity. Arthur Henderson, particularly, was anxious to know whether the British government would recommend to the governments concerned the desirability of withholding all further supplies of arms and munitions from Japan while continuing to supply China.

Considering Attitude.

Viscount Cranborne, under-secretary for foreign affairs, diplomatically replied that the powers which participated in the Brussels conference now were considering their attitude.

"But if China is to be helped," Mr. Henderson, a son of the late foreign secretary, pressed, "will not some action have to be taken more positive than passing resolutions?"

Did the government recognize any obligations under the Brussels conference? questioned Wedgwood Benn.

"Are any measures for collective action in the Far East in contemplation?" asked Vyvyan Adams.

But down these paths Lord Cranborne declined to be led. He said nothing.

Russia gave William Gallagher, the East Fife Communist, a chance to make an offer of smiling martyrdom. Captain Archibald Ramsay, Conservative, had asked about the comintern and subversive propaganda in the United Kingdom. Lord

FIVE YEARS IN JAIL

DRUMHELLER, Alta., Nov. 17 (C.P.). — Oren Switzer and Guy Hiltz, captured last week after they attempted to rob a general store at Sheerness, 126 miles north-east of Calgary, were sentenced yesterday by Magistrate A. G. R. Bond to five years each in jail.

They pleaded guilty to three counts —breaking and entering, stealing an automobile, and stealing two horses.

CHINESE THROW FRESH TROOPS INTO NEW LINES

150,000 Szechwan Men Arrive at Nanking

SHANGHAI, Nov. 17 (AP)—Reinforced Chinese forces struck back at Japanese invaders today in a counter-attack along the "Hindenburg" line defending Nanking, some 135 miles away.

Thousands of fresh troops from the interior marched to bolster Chinese forces southeast of the capital. Civilians fled from Nanking to the west and evacuation of government offices was under way.

Chinese commanders said the counter-attack had been permitted them to form new lines and declared:

"We will not capitulate or compromise with Japan. We will fight to the last ditch."

General Chiang Kai-Shek had several hundred thousand trained troops at his disposal. A force of 150,000 Szechwan province warriors arrived at Nanking from the upper reaches of the Yangtze. West of the capital there was a double stream of traffic—civilians evacuating to the interior and troops marching to the front.

Japanese forces pushed southward in Shansi province the main body heading for Linfeng, new seat of the provincial government after the evacuation of Taiyuanfu.

Civil departments of the Chinese government were divided into three groups for evacuation of Nanking. The first left yesterday, a second was to leave today, and a third Friday. They were assigned to Hankow, Changsha and Shungking.

Evacuation of 70 American, 38 British and 100 German subjects was being arranged by foreign embassies.

ATTACK IS DENIED

LONDON, Nov. 17 (CP-Havas). — Reports that the British freighter Cardium had been attacked by unidentified airmen off the Spanish coast were termed incorrect by the Admiralty today.

The reports from Barcelona announcing the attack were due to a misunderstanding, the Admiralty said. The captain of the Cardium merely wirelessed a nearby warship that an unidentified airplane had flown over his ship.

Brantford Police Staging Clean Up

BRANTFORD, Ont., Nov. 17 (CP). —Third raid in two nights, police last night visited a place on Market Street and seized two card tables, a punch board, back-gammon game, poker chips, racing slips and cards. The raid was the result of a campaign Police Chief Harry Stanley started some months ago to clean up the bootlegging and alleged gambling joints.

Four men were found in a store in front of the room raided. They were playing a friendly game of cards. No one was in what a police report termed a card-room.

Timmins Firemen Rescue Four From Drowning

Boy Crashes Through Ice And Three Others Fall In During The Rescue

TIMMINS, Ont., Nov. 17 (CP) — Four persons today were recovering from duckings in Gillies Lake yesterday and praising Timmins firemen for their rescue work.

Donald Beauseigle, 14, was riding his bicycle across the lake when the ice gave way. Bill Barilko, 11, thinking Beauseigle was his brother, rushed out to warn him the ice was soft just as the rider plunged. Barilko too went through the ice.

X. Thiboutot, who lives nearby, heard cries for help and rushed to the lake with a ladder. Another boy attracted to the scene by the cries volunteered help. He crawled out on the ladder as Thiboutot held it on shore. Attempting to pull beauseigle and Barilko out, the third boy fell in.

Thiboutot then went to the rescue. He fell in too. By this time the firemen had received several calls and were on the scene. They pulled all out.

Father Is Killed Rescuing Children

PORT ANGELES, Wash., Nov. 17. (AP).—High tension wires, grounded by the heavy week-end snow, took the lives yesterday of a father and his two small children.

Three other young members of his family watched as the three were electrocuted in the alley near their home.

Merle and Ardith, accompanied by their three brothers and sisters, were playing in the alley when they came in contact with the charged wires. Hendrickson, seeing their plight, rushed from the house and attempted to save them.

Members Summoned To Make Changes In Succession Act

Challenge of Section in Inquiries Brings Action; Organized Opposition to Collections Charged

TORONTO, Nov. 17.—(CP)—Formal notification went to Ontario legislature members today summoning them to attend a special session December 1 which probably will keep them in Toronto a week. Sole purpose of the session, announced last night by Acting Premier Harry Nixon, will be to obtain necessary amendments to the Succession Duty Act, challenged in the courts in at least four public investigations where the government sought collection of succession duties.

The session—first of the 20th legislature elected October 6—will be the second special one in a year. Last January at a brief session bills were passed to protect the Hydro-Electric Power Commission against possible court judgment arising out of the government's cancellation of Quebec power contracts.

Has No Alternative.

Mr. Nixon, leading the government in the absence of Premier Hepburn in Northern Ontario, said the administration, with validity of a section of the act challenged, "has no alternative" but to ask the legislature to amend the section. He said the proposed amendments to the act would be the only matter under debate.

For several weeks solicitors from the treasury and Attorney-General's Departments have been preparing amending legislation, he said, adding it would be "a thorough revision of the present law." Mr. Nixon said the government was "determined to collect all the monies properly owing to the Crown from estates which are now under re-investigation."

"Ever since the present government embarked upon its campaign of re-investigation estates from unpaid succession duty, it has met with obstacles of various kinds and so strong has become the organized opposition to the government's program that Prime Minister Hepburn has decided to call a special ses-

FRANCE PUTS BAN ON EXPORTATION OF ARMS TO CHINA

PARIS, Nov. 17 (CP)—Authoritative sources last night said France had clamped a ban on the passage of men and munitions into China through adjacent French Indo-China.

The move was designed to prevent the Chinese-Japanese conflict from developing international complications similar to those of the Spanish civil war, these sources indicated.

French and Japanese authorities said France took the action voluntarily without any prodding from Japan.

An official French source said war materials ordered before the start of hostilities were permitted to cross into southern China but that armament orders placed since fighting began were barred.

The official source said France's action was "something like that done for Spain."

Delegates to the nine-power treaty conference in Brussels were reported by French observers to have held a number of private conversations over the possibilities of incidents arising from arms shipments by way of France's railway from Hanoi, French Indo-China, to Yunnanfu, in southern China.

No Japanese Protest

A French foreign ministry official said no Japanese communication on the subject had been received while a Japanese embassy spokesman said his government considered such action unnecessary.

The French ban was put into effect, said the Japanese embassy spokesman, shortly after the Japanese government learned munitions were reaching China by way of Indo-China to circumvent Japan's naval blockade of the Chinese coast. The ban was not made public at the time, however.

"It is possible the Japanese government may ask France to make the restrictions more effective for the good of international relations," the spokesman said, adding the ban was not strict enough to satisfy some Japanese government officials.

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 17 (AP). — Jackie Coogan, who rose to fame and fortune as a child actor, and Betty Grable, blond movie star, will be married Saturday in St. Brendan's Catholic Church.

BRITISHERS SEEK TO SCALE EVEREST

LONDON, Nov. 17 (CP).—The lofty heights of snow-crested Everest will be the goal of a British expedition in January. Numerically one of the smallest on record, the expedition of only half a dozen members will represent the Alpine Club and the Royal Geographical Society.

Personnel of the expedition has not been made known.

"Goddess Mother of the Mountains," the world's highest peak, measures 29,140 feet. This is the sixth British attempt to conquer its treacherous walls.

In 1922 the first expedition reached a height of 27,300 feet but was impeded by an early monsoon. Two years later a group under the leadership of General Bruce reached the 28,000-foot mark and two members —Mallory and Irvine—tried to press on alone but were never seen again. The belief has been expressed they reached the top and died there.

A third expedition in 1933 under Hugh Ruttledge, also reached 28,000 feet despite violent storms. A year later a lone climber, Maurice Wilson, died at 20,000 feet, and in 1936 the Ruttledge expedition made the fifth attempt and got only as far as 23,000 feet.

German Grand Duke Weds Daughter of Sir Auckland Geddes

LONDON, Nov. 17 (AP)—Grand Duke Ludwig von Hesse Bei Rhein, a second cousin to King George, was married today to Miss Margaret Campbell Geddes in a private ceremony cloaked with the tragedy of an air crash that killed nearly all the bridegroom's family.

After the service at St. Peter's Church in Eton Square, the mourning newly weds started for Ostend, Belgium, to claim the bodies of the Duke's mother, brother and his brother's wife and sons and take them to the family seat at Darmstadt, Germany.

They were among 11 persons killed yesterday when a London-bound airliner crashed in flames near Ostend in a fog, as they were enroute to London for the wedding. The plane hit a chimney.

Postponed Once

The Duke and Duchess of Kent and German ambassador Joachim von Ribbentrop headed the wedding guest list. The ceremony had been set for Saturday but was moved forward because of the tragedy. It already had been postponed on account of the death of Ludwig's father a week before.

The bride, who became a grand duchess by today's ceremony, is the Six Suspects Are Being Held In Toronto Payroll Robbery

Money Had Just Been Delivered To Plant Of The Tip Top Tailors

TORONTO, Nov. 17 (C.P.). — Six young men, held by police for questioning in the $13,000 Tip-Top Tailors payroll holdup here yesterday, appeared before Magistrate A. L. Tinker to-day on vagrancy charges and were remanded to November 24. Police asked bail for each be set at $5,000.

Thomas B. Horkins, counsel for the six, said the bail was too high, and final settlement of it will be made later. The six are: Thomas Hayes, Tony Cimino, Milton Weingarten, Frank Stephenson, Leon Dymond, and Frank Kurin.

Meanwhile police appealed to citizens generally for information regarding the bandits who invaded the paymaster's office yesterday, herding four women and the cashier into a corner, and escaped with almost $13,000 in cash.

One gunman fired his revolver at Russel Hagerman, the paymaster, when he grabbed a telephone to summon assistance. Then the four, with the money in loose packages of currency, ran out of the plant to an automobile on the Lakeshore highway and drove eastward to downtown Toronto. The bullet missed Hagerman's head by 18 inches.

Ottawa, Nov. 17.

THE Finance Department cannot find a qualified Canadian willing to take a job at $5,400 a year.

Aimee McPherson Told By Judge To Keep Family Quarrels Out Of Court

Los Angeles, Nov. 17 (AP)

AIMEE Semple McPherson emerged from her latest lawsuit today with a $3,000-a-year attorney she does not want and a judicial rebuke for airing family squabbles in court.

Judge Joseph Vickers, upholding Jacob Moidel's suit to have his contract as Angelus Temple attorney declared valid, made this barbed comment yesterday.

"It is a sad state of affairs when a family brings its disagreements into court especially when that family is connected with religious organizations. No amount of money could justify this action."

Inquiry Into Bertram Fire Is Concluded By Fire Marshall

Owner Of Property Gives Evidence At Concluding Session Of Hearing

Taking of evidence in the inquiry into the cause of a fire last August 30, that destroyed the barns and poultry house on the farm of John Bertram on the First Line of Smith, was completed shortly before noon today.

Ontario Fire Marshal W. J. Scott, who presided, in declaring the proceedings here closed, announced that he would submit his report to the Attorney-General within the next few days and would file copies of the report with Colonel R. H. Greer, K.C., W. F. Huycke, K.C., and Wilfred C. Field of Toronto, the counsel concerned.

Mr. Bertram, the owner of the property, gave evidence this morning, and declared that at the time the fire started he was in the house. The threshermen came to the farm right after dinner and Mr. Bertram said he helped them place the machine in operation, and afterwards worked on the mow forking sheaves that were to be fed into the separator.

Just before the work was finished, witness said, he left the mow and went to the granary. While there he put a handful of wheat in his overall pocket.

Subsequently when on his way from the barn, he declared, the engineer on the steam engine requested a drink of water. Witness went to

Collection Plate Note Causes Church Exit

Frederick, Md., Nov. 17

REV. Dr. Amos John Traver plucked a note out of the collection plate in Evangelical Lutheran Church, eyed the congregation apologetically and said:

"I don't like to make the announcement at this time, but several persons now in church have been tagged by the police."

Band Of Terrorists Trapped In Valley

JERUSALEM, Nov. 17 (C.P.-Havas). — Four hundred British troops to-day closed in on a band of Arab Terrorists trapped in a valley of the Safed region, North Galilee.

The Arabs, led by the Iraq chieftain, Fauzi Kaukadgi, have been chased by the British troops for several days, with some brisk skirmishes marking the drive.

Despatches reaching here said the outlaws had been cornered in a valley close to the frontier. One of the outlaws sought to slip through the encircling troops to-day, but was captured. A number of airplanes have been aiding the British land forces.

Conscience May Be A Great Thing But Mother-In-Law More Effective

Chicago, Nov. 17

But it wasn't the force that impelled Harry Burns, 49, to surrender for an offense committed 33 years ago. Burns, father of eight children, told police he fled from the Northumberland County, Pa., prison in 1904 after serving six months of a 2½ years sentence for theft of $20.

"Conscience, my eye," replied Burns. "Conscience had nothing to do with my giving myself up—it was my mother-in-law. She knew I had escaped from jail and the last couple of years she had constantly held that over my head."

Ontario Is Ready To Facilitate Jobless Insurance

Premier Hepburn Declares Plan, to Be Effective, Must Be On a Nation-Wide Scale

SAULT STE. MARIE, Nov. 17.—(CP)—Ontario, "anxious" to assist Prime Minister Mackenzie King in establishing a plan of national unemployment insurance, is ready to waive its constitutional rights if by doing so it will facilitate the setting-up of such a scheme.

But to be effective unemployment insurance must be on a nation-wide scale Premier Hepburn told a dinner meeting of Sault Ste. Marie service clubs here last night. If only one province put such a scheme into operation, unemployed from other areas would flock in to share in the benefits.

Prime Minister King disclosed in Ottawa last week that letters had been sent to all provincial premiers suggesting agreement on a constitutional amendment to empower the Dominion government to enact and administer a national unemployment insurance scheme. British Columbia, Manitoba, Prince Edward Island, Saskatchewan and Ontario have expressed their desire to co-operate in the move.

Waive Rights.

His Government "welcomes the gestures of the Federal Government," Premier Hepburn said. "So far as Ontario is concerned we are ready to waive any constitutional rights which may be involved in order to assist in establishing unemployment insurance on a nation-wide scale."

There was no better time than the present to establish the scheme. It should be put into operation before another possible depression set in. The Premier said a time might come when the prosperity based on the the pump and got the water, afterwards going to the house.

On Way Back To Barn.

Inside the house, he said, he showed his wife the sample of threshed grain and was on his way back to the barn when he heard someone yelling. He was by the apple tree some fifty feet from the house when he heard the cry and stopped in his tracks. Continuing on past the chicken house he saw smoke billowing out of the barn door. He returned to the house and telephoned for the fire department, after instructing the men to save the house.

While awaiting the arrival of the fire department, Mr. Bertram stated, he assisted in saving a tractor from the blazing barn. He gave a detailed description of the efforts of the firefighters.

Questioned by Colonel Greer as to his financial position at the time of the fire, Mr. Bertram said that in 1937 he received $8,200 from his late grandparents' estate. He paid off all he owed with the money and was solvent at the time of the fire, despite the fact that a couple of years ago he lost a herd of cattle which was ordered to be destroyed because of disease.

Interest from the estate, he said, brought him an annual income of $300. Other sources of income were $15 per month for the rental of the west half of the double house on the farm; and money received from the sale of eggs and milk. Taxes on the property were $96 per year.

Liabilities Met

"At the time of the fire we were holding our own. Liabilities had been met and I was planning for the future," he told Colonel Greer.

Mr. Bertram said the house was bought by his late grandfather, John Bertram, former member of Parliament for Peterborough West in 1878. He bought it because parliamentary candidates were required to own property as one of their qualifications. Witness was born on the property known as "Spring Garden Farm."

He agreed that in two statements he made to fire insurance adjustors in September there were certain inaccuracies, concerning a milk cooler valued at ninety dollars, but he explained he was worried at the time and had not intended to mislead the investigators.

Mr. Bertram disagreed with previous witnesses, who stated there was an exit from the upper level of the barn through the granary. Before the fire he said he had reported to Provincial Constable David Silvester the finding of an empty match box in one of the mows, which he believed had been dropped by a tramp or tramps sleeping in the hay.

Maid Testifies.

The only other witness at the morning session was the maid employed in the Bertram household. She agreed that Mr. Bertram came to the house and was on his way back to the barn when the fire alarm was raised.

While she was emphatic in stating she had not discussed the fire with Mr. Bertram or his wife, the witness placed the time of the fire at 3.30 p.m., as Mrs. Bertram had done the previous afternoon. In his evidence the Fire Chief stated the alarm was received by his department at 3.18 p.m. The maid said she recalled the time because she remembered looking at the electric clock in the kitchen.

Her only explanation for disagreeing with the time given by the Fire Chief and other witnesses, was that the clock had been stopped earlier that day while she plugged the washing machine into the socket. She had set the clock herself and had guessed at the time, and there was the possibility it might have been some minutes fast.

Tuesday P.M. Evidence.

John Bethune, an insurance underwriter, was among several witnesses who on Tuesday afternoon testified at the resumed inquiry before Ontario Fire Marshal W. J. Scott, into the cause of a fire on August 30 last which destroyed the barns and other outbuildings on property known as Spring Garden Farm on the First Line of Smith Township.

It was revealed in evidence that on August 24 last John Bertram owner of the property, increased his policy in the London-Canada Insurance Company by the sum of $1,900 to a total of $9,300. He placed an additional $600 on barns numbered 1 and 2, and the remaining $600 on an automatic water pump, water tank, motor, milk cooler and other pump house equipment.

The witness Bethune gave it as his opinion the amount of the claim filed by Mr. Bertram following the fire was a reasonable one.

In some correspondence which W. J. Thompson of the Davis-Thompson Company here had with the Ontario Fire Marshal relative to the fire on the Bertram property, it was stated Mr. Bertram called at the firm's office on George street about a week prior to the fire and stated he wished to increase the amount of fire insurance he carried on his property.

Insured New Equipment

The reason given by Mr. Bertram for wishing to increase the insurance, was stated in the letter, to be that he did not feel his insurance was sufficient in view of the replacement value. He further stated he had added new equipment to the pump house, on which there was no insurance.

There had been some talk by Mr. Bertram at that time of the approaching visit to his farm of the threshing crew, and he expressed a dread of having the threshing machine on his premises, the letter said.

It is worthy of note that the Davis - Thompson Company has handled insurance matters not only for Mr. Bertram, but also for his father and his grandfather. The latter was ormer member of parliament for Peterborough West and was a personal friend of the late George Cox with whom the family insurance was originally placed.

All members of the threshing gang were called to the witness box and were agreed that at the time the outbreak of fire started in the straw shed, Mr. Bertram was not in the barn. They could offer no theories as to the cause of the fire.

Was At The House

Mrs. Bertram the last witness to be called before the hearing was adjourned late in the afternoon, declared shortly before the fire alarm was raised her husband came to the house. He told her that the threshing was nearly finished and showed her a sample of the grain that had been threshed.

"I was standing by the window at the west side of the house, and Mr. Bertram had just gone from the room, when I heard someone shout 'Throw off the belt boys she's afire'," the witness declared. When she saw flames coming from the barn she took her children to her mother's place in the car and she believed her husband telephoned for the fire brigade.

She told R. H. Greer, K. C., representing the insurance company the livestock on the farm comprised four cows and 2 calves. There were no horses. A tractor was used in the Spring to do the cultivating and seeding. Two years or so ago, she agreed, a herd of cattle had to be destroyed because of disease. She agreed the loss of the herd had caused her husband a severe financial setback and that he was in the position where he had practically to start all over again.

Owned Thresher

William Steinkrauss, owner of the separator which was destroyed when the Bertram barn caught fire said his outfit cost $1,855 eight years ago. Its value at the time of the fire was $900, he said. The machine was insured for $400 and the amount of his claim had been paid.

Mr Steinkrauss was not at the machine the day of the fire, it was in charge of Albert McConnell of Emily Township. John Brown also of Emily Township was a member of the Steinkrauss threshing crew and Andrew Hie of Baltimore was running the steam engine that provided the power for the threshing mill.

Fire Chief George Gimblett testified that when he arrived at the scene of the fire in response to an alarm the barn was enveloped in flames. It was impossible to save any of the outbuildings so he directed the efforts of firefighters towards saving the house.

Just before pulling out after being at the fire for two hours, the Chief related he asked Mr. Bertram if he had any idea how the fire started and Mr. Bertram had replied, he could not say because he was at the house when the alarm was raised. Both Mr. Bertram and his wife were grateful for the efforts of the Department in saving the house, the witness added.

NORMAN ARMOUR U.S. MINISTER OPENS THE ROYAL

TORONTO, November 17—(CP)—A "fuller and richer" rural life in Canada and the United States, which have a common heritage in the soil, would result in closer co-operation between the agricultural economies of both countries were developed, according to Norman Armour, United States Minister to the Dominion.

Officially opening the Royal Winter Fair here last night, the first time any other than a Canadian had performed the ceremony, Mr. Armour said he sometimes doubted the "fundamental necessity" of competitive features which, he said, had developed between the two nations in the agricultural field. Closer co-operation would provide a higher standard of living for the farmers of both countries.

The 16th annual show of Canada's agriculture opened with a record-breaking crowd in attendance. Twenty thousand children gave a tumultuous welcome to the parade of livestock which until November 26 will circle the judging ring. In the evening, after the official opening, Fair activities were centered at the horse show.

U. S. Team Wins

The international jumping contest, premier event of the evening, was won by the United States army team which had only one fault as the horses jumped abreast around an eight-hurdle course. A Canadian army team was second with three faults and the Irish Free State entry third with seven. Nine teams were entered.

In his address, the United States minister said the current problem for the farmer "is not so much one of isolation as it is of fitting the farmer into the commercial structure." The farm "business problem" was as complet "as life itself," and Mr. Armour hoped Canada and the United States could eventually solve it to their common advantage.

"The problem is not necessarily one of large farms or of small farms, or of any special commodity or crop of commodities," he said. "It is as complex as life itself and in fact is the life of millions of our people on both sides of the border."

Hon. P. M. Dewan, Ontario Minister of Agriculture, extended to Fair visitors "a royal welcome in this royal year at the fair." Agriculture ministers from four provinces attended: Hon. W. H. Dennis, Prince Edward Island; Hon. J. A. McDonald, Nova Scotia; Hon. J. G. Taggart, Saskatchewan, and Hon. D. B. Mullen, Alberta.

BRITISH COLUMBIA IS STILL WAITING HEALTH INSURANCE

VICTORIA, Nov. 17 (CP) — The British Columbia government was criticised by Co-operative Commonwealth Federation members in the legislature yesterday for failure to establish a health insurance scheme.

Earlier Dr. Frank Patterson, Conservative leader, said the British Columbia people were opposed to projected annexation of the Yukon Territory by British Columbia "on any basis." Hon. T. D. Pattullo, Liberal premier, announced the planned annexation prior to the June 1 provincial election.

Mrs. D. G. Steeves (CCF-North Vancouver) claimed the government had committed "a serious breach of faith" in failing to implement the health insurance act passed by the last legislature.

She moved a resolution, first on the order paper, that the "legislature is of the opinion that the government has forfeited the confidence of the people in neglecting to put the health insurance act into operation." The resolution was still being debated at adjournment.

Mrs. Steeves said she did not know why the plebiscite, taken at the June 1 elections and asking whether voters approved the principle of health insurance, had been taken.

"It was purposely or accidentally stupidly worded and confused the people's minds as to whether they were voting for the (health insurance) act or the principle. But the fact remains that the plebiscite carried with a bigger vote than the government received," she said.

She charged the medical profession, in opposing the health insurance act, had adopted an anti-social attitude, "protecting their vested interests instead of working for the good of the public health."

Franco Building New Airports

HENDAYE, Franco-Spanish Frontier, Nov. 17 (AP).—General Franco was reported today to be pushing construction of airports behind the Aragon, or northeastern, Spanish front to assist his prospective major offensive eastward.

The newest base for insurgent aerial forces was said to be located at Tudela, west of the Tudela-Pamplona highway. Others were scattered from the French frontier to the mountains of Cuenca Province, more than 200 miles to the south.

MONTREAL LIVESTOCK

MONTREAL, Nov. 17. — (CP). — Prices moved slowly along unchanged channels on all divisions of Montreal livestock markets Tuesday, due to the strike of butchers in public abattoirs which restricted trading to mild activity.

Medium good steers went around $6.50 while butcher cows brought from $2.50 to $4.50.

Medium veal calves sold at $6.50 while common lights made $6 with grassers at $3.50.

On lamb section, good ewes and wethers sold at $7.50 with lambs weighing 100 pounds or more at $6.50.

Bacon hogs, fed and watered, brought $8.35 with selects at the regular $1 premium.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Nov. 17 (AP).—Sudden upturns in Chicago wheat values took place last Tuesday after the market earlier had nervously shifted its trend several times.

Moreover, harvest weather in northern Argentina was reported to be adverse, with rains impeding field operations and threatening to reduce the quality of wheat.

Chicago futures closed ⅛-⅞ above Monday's finish, Dec 89⅝-90; May 90¼-⅝, July 84⅜-½; Corn ¼-⅝ up, Dec. 53⅝-64, May 57-57⅛, Oats ¼-⅜ advanced, Rye unchanged to 1¼ cents bulge, and provisions varying from 20 cents setback to a gain of 2 cents.

Much notice was taken of persistent rumors of active export demand for wheat from North America. It was doubtful if the scattered European purchases of United States and Canadian wheat totalled 400,000 bushels. As the day drew to a close, however, attention focused chiefly on misgivings in regard to Argentine crops.

Chicago July wheat today fluctuated the most widely, covering a range of about 2 cents. December, though, scored the best net gain at 89⅝-90 cents, up ⅞ overnight.

Corn, oats and rye rallied with wheat, but not until corn had touched season new low price records.

Provisions reflected hog market downturns.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG, Nov. 17—(CP). — Wheat futures climbed the five-cent allowable limit on Winnipeg Grain Exchange to-day on good outside buying. Light offerings contributed materially with final prices 4⅞ to 5 cents higher, November $1.23; December, $1.18⅜; May, $1.15⅝, and July $1.10⅝.

Frost damage in the Argentine overnight and forecasts of frost to-night sent buyers scurrying into world wheat markets with substantial gains posted on all exchanges.

Prices at Winnipeg rose more than two cents in opening deals. A moderate export demand, estimated at 500,000 bushels of Canadian wheat, sent cash wheat prices up a maximum of two cents.

LABOR'S OLD GUARD STILL IN SADDLE IN BRITISH HOUSE

Cranborne told of previous representations to the Soviet Government. Then Mr. Gallagher blandly offered himself as a willing sacrifice.

"Is the honorable gentleman not aware," he said, "that I am a member of the Communist International. Does he consider it essential to suppress my subversive activities." The Communist member was interrupted by a roar of laughter. He then continued with a dry reference to his parliamentary indemnity "in view of the fact that the Chancellor of the Exchequer provides me with the necessary cash." Lord Cranborne joined in the general amusement.

Russian Schoolbooks.

Edward Keeling, Conservative, asked whether the foreign secretary had seen Russian schoolbooks saying 10-year-old children were at work in English coal mines and that English colonies were struggling for independence.

The government, Lord Cranborne said, was considering whether it would be desirable to make representations in the matter. But one Welsh Labor member, objecting to the question, saw it from another angle. What right had anybody to call them English colonies, he demanded. Were Wales, Scotland and Northern Ireland not equally parts of the United Kingdom. But again Lord Cranborne declined to be drawn.

Lower Form Examinations By Department Abolished

Third Major Change In Present Year To Educational System Announced

TORONTO, Nov. 17.—(CP).—Revamping of Ontario's primary and secondary school education programs, begun with the 1935 appointment of Dr. Duncan McArthur as Deputy Minister of Education, was carried a step further yesterday when the third major change to be effective in the present school year was announced.

A circular from the Department of Education announced abolition of all departmental examinations in lower forms of Collegiate Institutes, High schools and Fifth Form classes in the Public schools.

Completely new secondary school courses became effective with first-year classes at the opening of the present term. More training in manual and practical arts is being provided in the first two years of the courses and Latin has been dropped from first term course.

New Public School Course.

In the primary grades a new course for the first six grades became effective with opening of schools in September. According to Dr. McArthur the course is experimental but reports from teachers and parents show an unexpected interest and zeal on the part of children in their school work because of certain changes, he said.

Department officials are busy drafting a revised curricula for seventh and eight Public school grades, sometimes called junior and senior fourth class, and it is likely this will become effective next September.

The long-term program of the department, as announced by Hon. Dr. L. J. Simpson, Minister of Education, to the Ontario Educational Association, contemplates gradual elimination of written departmental examinations from the school courses though for the present they will be retained in middle and upper forms of secondary schools.

Course Now Divided

When the secondary school course changes were announced, Dr. Simpson said the present curricula had been devised with matriculation, entrance to university for training in the professions, only in view. The new course divides itself after the lower school work.

A pupil not intending to proceed to university may go on a course that will provide him at the end of four years with a certificate of graduation from the high school. Instead of being a preparation for university, this secondary school course will be complete unto itself and give the pupil a rounded basis to pursue his own studies.

Only secondary school pupils hitherto required to write departmental examinations in the first and second years have been those intending to enter normal school for training and public or separate school teachers.

Two Conditions

Two Conditions are attached to yesterday's circular. These are:

The pupils must pass tests given by the teachers concerned before being certified for promotion.

The inspectors must report favorably on the teaching and organizing of the classes in which these pupils are enrolled.

SAME AS IN B.C.

VICTORIA, Nov. 17 (CP)—Abolition of departmental examinations in the lower forms of collegiate institutes, high schools and fifth form classes in the public schools of Ontario was described yesterday by the British Columbia department of education as similar to provisions of the new curriculum introduced in the Pacific coast province during the past two years.

The Ontario Department of Education announced in a circular that examinations had been abolished and that more training in manual and practical arts was being provided in the secondary school courses.

The British Columbia curriculum revision was extended this year to include all schools in the province. Abolition of high school examinations will not become effective until the early summer of 1940 when present 10th grade pupils will become eligible for matriculation and entrance to the University of British Columbia.

Missionaries Speak Campbellford Y.P.U.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 17.—Visitors from the English Line, Board's and Petherick's Corners made up the large gathering which attended the special missionary rally conducted by the St. John's Young People's Union on Monday evening. Rev. Dr. McKae who has spent some forty years as a missionary in India and Rev. Dr. Mitchell, who for twenty-eight years has been a missionary in China, were the guest speakers of the occasion. Rev. Mitchell spoke of his work in China and of the spread of Christianity there, while Rev. McKae referred to the religious differences which intensified India's political problems.

Rev. Harold B. Neal introduced the guest speakers and George Bick, president of the English Line group assisted by reading the scripture, while Rev. Dr. C. S. Reddick of Zion church led in prayer. In conclusion Rev. Neal expressed his thanks and appreciation to the guest speakers for their splendid addresses.

DRIVER OF CAR DIES OF INJURIES

PICTON, Nov. 17.—Harley Cole, driver of the car which crashed into a tree near Bloomfield last night, bringing instant death to his companion, Burdette Williams, 51, of Demorestville, died of his injuries in Picton Hospital this afternoon.

Besides fractures of the skull, knee cap and elbow, he was severely burned about the lower part of the body when the car caught fire after striking the tree with great force. William's body was burned beyond recognition while Cole was dragged from the flaming wreckage by Norval Lowder and Fred Hendricks.

No inquest will be held into Cole's death, but an inquiry into Williams' death will be proceeded with Monday night. Williams leaves a wife and six small children. Cole, unmarried, is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs Durward Cole; four brothers and a sister.

One Tiny Voice Calls For Peace In China

Huddled in terror against the unyielding pavement of a Shanghai street as Japanese war-aeroplanes roar overhead and bursting bombs and the shells from big guns turn his world into a holocaust, this little Chinese baby wails pitifully for the mother who was struck down by an invader's bullet. Many hours he lay unnoticed on this road near the Jessefield railway bridge while men talked in Brussels and a bloody battle raged unchecked —one little peace-seeker in a city gone mad with war.

MISSION CIRCLE PRESENTS GIFT

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MILLBROOK, Nov. 17—Mrs. John Rowland, with her daughter, Miss Sadie, were hostesses for the November meeting of the Golden Links Mission Circle on Monday at 8 p.m., a large number of members and visitors being in attendance.

The chair was taken by the president, Miss Sadie Rowland, and the annual thankoffering worship service was followed from the official program. Miss E. L. Hetherington offered prayer, and the thankoffering was received as well as the regular contribution. The treasurer reported $8.65 realized from the afternoon tea for which Mrs. J. McKnight had given the use of her home last week, a vote of thanks for this kindness being heartily extended.

Scripture text calendars are still on sale by Circle members, and returns are urgently asked by the December gathering, which will be at the home of Mrs. John Ridge.

The third chapter in the study book, dealing with the history, and missionary activities, of the United Church, was taken up by Miss Burnham, and after the benediction the hostess, assisted by her mother, served homemade candy.

A highlight of the social hour was the presentation of a china sandwich set, in dainty pattern, to Miss Sadie Rowland, whose marriage takes place in St. Andrew's United Church on Wednesday, November 24. Mrs. D. Lunn read the appreciative address, and little Betty Lunn offered the gift. Much regret is felt by the Circle members in losing an officer who has made a very efficient president for the past two years.

The election of new officers will take place at the December gathering, which is also the annual meeting.

May Get Throne

Informal approval is said to have been given by both Great Britain and Germany to the restoration of the Spanish monarchy under Don Juan of Bourbon, ABOVE, 24-year-old son of Alphonso, former ruler of Spain. While the two nations are said to approve Infante Juan, the Vatican is said to favor the installation of Prince Xavier, Carlist pretender, as king.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Harmful poisons go into the body, and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

A mere bowel movement doesn't always get at the cause. You need something that works on the liver as well. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up". Harmless and gentle, they make the bile flow freely. They do the work of calomel but have no calomel or mercury in them. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name! Stubbornly refuse anything else. 25c

DRIVER ESCAPES DEATH

LONDON, Ont., Nov. 17 (C.P.).—How a motorist escaped from a motor car that was smashed to matchwood by a light engine on the Highbury Avenue crossing of the Canadian National Railways main line last night proved a mystery to police and railway officials. Identity of the driver was as much of a mystery as no trace could be found of him after the crash.

When the engine crew stopped and returned to the mangled mass of wreckage there was no one in the car. The train crew said they saw no one leaving the crossing. Little remained of the car which was tossed over on to the other track.

FALLIS LINE L.O.L. GUESTS AT SUPPER

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MILLBROOK, Nov. 17—Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Fallis extended the hospitality of their large and comfortable homestead to over one hundred guests on Friday evening, when, following their annual custom, they entertained the members of Fallis Line L. O. L. No. 40, with their wives, to a fowl supper and social gathering.

Included with the guests of the evening were a bus load of members of L. O. L. No. 4, Toronto, headed by their Worshipful Master, Brother G. Blair, the visiting brethren putting on a part of the program. Rev. A. L. and Mrs. Sisco, Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Roddy, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Paul, and Mr. and Mrs. Sweeting, of Fraserville, were also among the guests.

The attractively-laid tables were filled three or four times before all guests had been served with the abundant hot supper, and afterward James Roddy, prominent for many years in the Orange Order, took the chair for the part of the program presented by local talent, including musical selections by Jean and Robert Todd, and Keith Porter; a duet by Colleen Blair and Francis Tickner; solos by Keith Porter; a recitation by Colleen Blair; and an address by Rev. A. L. Sisco.

Oldest In Ontario

Number 4, L. O. L. Toronto, claims to be the oldest Orange Lodge in Ontario, the Worshipful Master explained and the oldest member, Mr. Jennings, who has been connected with the Order for fifty-four years, spoke briefly; other visiting brethren from Toronto who made short addresses Messrs. Ames, and Kelly, the former mentioning having been a visitor to Millbrook a few years ago when the Black Knights of the district held a celebration on August Twelth in the village.

A feature of peculiar interest during the evening, was connected with the fact that the Toronto Lodge had recently been presented with an entirely new set of officers' regalia, and had brought with them, and presented to Fallis Line Lodge the set of collars they had been previously using, which are in excellent condition.

The midnight hour was long past when the happy gathering finally broke up, with many expressions of appreciation to the host and hostess for their hospitality.

Not Easy To Grasp

Woo Da Ling, Secretary of the National Committee of the Y.M.C.A. in China, and a fourth-year student at Trinity College in Toronto, addressed students of the University of Western Ontario in London, telling of conditions in his land. He predicted the end of the war with Japan was not in sight and intimated that fifteen years might be the length of time necessary to settle the affair.

Woo Da Ling said he did not favor a boycott against Japanese goods by the people of other countries, and his reason for that was stated like this:

"China alone wants to suffer. A boycott against Japanese goods would hurt the average Japanese worker—the man on the street."

It may be better to read that through a couple of times because it is not easy to grasp at once. The Japanese have been creating a species of hell in China, and yet this Chinese speaker does not want anything done which will hurt the average working man in Japan. Actually that is a trifle over our head.

And come to think of it we send missionaries to that land to teach these people—but it may be some of our efforts are coming back to us in the form of a Chinese speaker who can express views which are well in advance of anything this country has ever attempted.

It Seems Rather Small

Two brothers who own adjoining farms on the Erieau onion marsh, were in court at Blenheim because they could not agree about the building of a line fence. They apparently have a common right-of-way from their land to the lake front, and brother A was going to build a fence which would cut brother B off from this right-of-way.

Already the brothers and members of the families have been in police court about it. When the dispute began the township fence viewers went to look the situation over and decided to recommend that the fence be built, but that there be two gates, so that both brothers A and B might in that way have access to the right-of-way to the lake front. But that did not satisfy brother B and an appeal against that decision was taken before the county judge.

Of course we know nothing at all about brothers A and B, but one might well think that when they lived on farms fronting the lake and in a district where they were in the same kind of business there would be every good reason for getting along together. But the fence viewers, the police magistrate and finally the judge have been called in to try and settle something which should never have needed any outside settling. Some day in the future neither brother A nor brother B will be on the onion land of Erieau and perhaps all they will leave behind will be a memory of the dispute over a line fence.

Who Pays The Wages?

Journeymen plumbers in Windsor have gone on strike, demanding to be paid at the rate of $1.15 per hour. They have been receiving $1 per hour, and that is said to be the highest wage for plumbers paid in Canada.

The Master Plumbers' Association announce they will offer a settlement at the rate of 90 cents per hour, the same as the rate in Toronto, and that will be 25 cents per hour less than the wage the plumbers went on strike to establish. Employing plumbers say the state of trade does not warrant any expectation of increased wages.

If all the men engaged in the building trades for instance, kept on pressing for higher wages and were successful in getting them, it would mean the cost of building would be so increased that few people would be interested in building. That is, the average individual would not be able to buy the services of people whose earnings had gone beyond his own average. A man earning 45 or 50 cents per hour would not be in a position to engage for long the services of a plumber at $1.15 per hour, and the figure would be higher by the time the employer's profit was added. High wages are fine, but if the people who ultimately have to pay them—the consumers—can't do it, then what?

They Were All Dead

Perhaps there appears to be more tragedy today because we hear so quickly of anything which happens. But tragedy there is.

A car was driven off a seldom-used dock at Windsor and two men and two women were drowned. A wrist-watch on one of the victims had stopped at 12.52, so it is accepted that at that early hour of Sunday morning the accident took place.

The Coroner at Windsor says he does not believe there will be an inquest because no person saw the tragedy. No person knew anything about it until people were moving about on Sunday morning, and by that time the car and the bodies in it had been in 20 feet of water for hours. The people who could have told what a coroner might desire to hear are all dead.

As a rule this paper believes in inquests. One of the women in the death car was a divorcee; the other was reported as having been separated from her husband. One of the men was a widower and the other was a married man. An inquest might possibly provide a fair enough account of the way in which the evening had been spent prior to the death trip.

Collecting From Public Men

Word from Dundalk tells of there being considerable elation among members of the Women's Association of a church in that place. The ladies were trying to get a piano paid for and funds were not sufficient, so they sent an appeal to Premier Hepburn and Hon. Earl Rowe, and we learn that in each case there was a donation sent, and the story ends with the glad tidings "The piano is now paid for."

Mr. Rowe does not go to the church in Dundalk, nor does Mr. Hepburn, but they are men in public life and a good many people seem to have the idea that such an individual is fair game at any time. There is no closed season for them. We recall having seen the late Hon. T. A. Low of Renfrew sorting over a number of tickets and cards in his office at Ottawa. He had been made honorary president of three or four baseball teams; he held office in a number of agricultural societies; he was also honorary president of a debating society. There seemed to have been few offices to which he had not been named, and none of them came by his solicitation. He was supposed to send along a contribution and being made honorary president or patron was used as a nice way of asking for a gift.

There have been men in public life who have not frowned on this means of collecting money; they have looked upon it as a fairly good investment to keep their name before the public in a favorable way. But at best we cannot see anything commendable in it and there are plenty of men in public life who cannot afford to be asked many times for donations. If they give because they feel they have to do so then the motive is wrong. And if a man in public life believes he can stay there by reason of his donations to this and that then he is in the wrong place.

Statistics And Sausages

We live in an age when nearly everything reverts to statistics. At the end of any given month we can be told to a decimal point whether the cost of living had advanced or receded and how much. Likewise how many births, deaths and marriages there have been in the community and exactly the standing of the relief roll.

So it comes as no surprise at all to find the Atlantic cables being used to send word out of Berlin that the people of Germany ate 1,500,000 yards of sausages during the year. Of course sausages are not sold by the yard although they look as though they ought to be, and speaking of 1,500,000 yards is not so very definite either. One can get at it better by reducing it to miles. In miles it amounts to 852.2.

In Canada we have some distances which are fairly straight, and it is 832 miles from Calgary to Winnipeg, so we could put a string of sausage along there and have 20 miles left over which would take us from Peterborough to Bewdley on Rice Lake.

Of course there is no way of knowing how many pigs went into the making of that great string of sausages. Some years ago the number would be much less than it is today. The packers and the world in general does not yearn for big pigs today, but prefers to cut them off in the full bloom of youth. Some years ago a pig became large and heavy before the day of departure was near, and we believe had one of those pigs been turned into sausages that the string would have been sufficient to rope off one of those diaminds where the young folk gather to play soft ball. But with pigs going to their end when they are more sprightly and young there is no safe basis on which one can work to find how many pigs joined in making the 852.2 miles of sausages which the folk in Germany are credited with eating in a year.

Says Women Are Drinking

Cardinal Rodrigue Villeneuve in a pastoral letter to Catholic churches in Quebec and Levis took occasion to refer pointedly to the increase of drinking by women. In one part he said: "Notably we must denounce the cocktail and other intoxicating mixtures indulged in by women."

Perhaps it is an old-fashioned idea to say the Cardinal is right. There is a growing feeling today that women can do just the same as men and no person has the right to question such right. There may be some force in the claim as it would be difficult to find justification for maintaining two standards, one for men and the other for women.

Allowing for that though the plain truth is the world at large expects something better and superior of its women. One of the most sacred memories a good many men have today is of their own mother. They recall her as a sweet and noble person who made all manner of loving sacrifice to build the home. She may even have been what some people today would call "A slave to the family," but it was slavery of the sort which bound not only the mother to the family but the family to the mother. And she didn't drink cocktails.

This Protest Is Right

City Council at Chatham passed a resolution urging that municipalities be relieved of the cost of preparing and printing Part Three of the voters' lists. The resolution will be forwarded to the Provincial Government. Part Three of the list contains names which are used only in provincial elections, and it is of no use whatever to the municipalities.

We cannot see anything wrong with that Chatham resolution. The same question has been raised a good many times before but nothing has been done about it. So we suppose there is nothing else to do but keep on mentioning it until the question is settled.

At the moment we can think of not one reason why the municipalities should have to bear the cost of preparing a voters' list which the province, and not the municipalities themselves, is going to use. It would be just as reasonable to tell the municipalities to pay for printing the ballots and pay for all the officials required to conduct a provincial election.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Wingham farmer had his cow shot in mistake for a deer. He probably feels that he was lucky the hunters did not get him in place of the cow.

It is perhaps a coincidence but the bucks that the hunters almost shot seem to have been like the fish that got away last summer—the biggest of the lot.

The boys who started an automobile in a Goderich show room smashing through a door at least demonstrated that the machine was fast in the pickup.

We suppose that it could be said of a great many of Saturday's victorious rugby teams that their heads were muddy but unbowed.

A Royal Canadian Mounted Police report says that the Eskimos now ask for luxuries. However, we do not suppose there is much of a demand among them for electric refrigerators.

At an Irish wedding the best man was accidentally married to the bride while the groom looked on. That seems to have been the first case in which the title "best man" was really deserved.

We hear of a new device used in the places where they test eyes for glasses. If the customer can see the 1938 auto markers at a distance of six feet then it is decided no glasses are needed.

Six persons were injured in Toronto traffic at the week-end, and three of them were over 70 years of age. One may be too old to work at 50 but not too old to be struck at 70.

After having been married for 32 years a woman in London, Ont., is asking for a divorce. No matter what the circumstances may be the tragedy of unhappiness in middle age becomes none the less painful.

Mussolini has called all non-commissioned officers and men of the 1908 and 1909 army classes back for military training. If Il Duce keeps on he'll have some of his troops turning out for drill in wheel chairs.

The Royal Winter Fair, now open, has become one of the greatest events of its kind on the continent. In some of its agricultural features it even puts the Canadian National Exhibition in the shade.

Hon. C. D. Howe and Hon. Colin Campbell are the first two civil engineers in the Empire to become cabinet ministers. The profession is probably too much accustomed to finding the straightest road to become good politicians.

COUSIN EZRA

(By A. R. K.)

¶ My Cousin Ezra called last night, to ask if I were feeling right, some place 'tween eight and nine; and I was feeling fairly good, and answered friendly like I should, that I was feeling fine.

¶ Then Ezra asked if I would come, there was some job that must be done, and so I got my hat; but when I started through the night, I wondered if the thing was right, I sort of smelled a rat.

¶ Well there was paste on Ezra's nose, and there was more upon his clothes, and he could hardly crawl; he had a paperin' ladder high, and Ezra thought that I might try, to stick it on the wall.

¶ He couldn't get the ceiling done, that's why he asked me if I'd come, and help him with the room; he had a chair stuck on the table, he reached as far as he was able, I helped him with the broom.

¶ We put four strips cross that way, then Ezra's wife came in to say, the worst she'd ever seen; she chanted then her hymn of hate, because the paper was not straight, and there were cracks between.

¶ So me and Ezra peeled the stuff, and it was stuck there rather tough, at twelve we had that done; and I was ready for my bed, and we weren't then one bit ahead—of when we had begun.

You may find it HERE

IN GERMANY a short time ago engineers tested a tiny car which has a speed of fifty miles per hour, does forty miles an hour on a gallon of gas and sells for approximately $300. The car is a four-seater sedan with the engine at the rear.

✧ ✧ ✧

It has been designed because Adolf Hitler was eager to build an automobile that would be available to the masses of the people. The main object in its construction has been to cut the initial price and cut running costs to a minimum—particularly important in a country where gasoline sells for around 60 cents a gallon.

✧ ✧ ✧

Together with its low initial cost a graded system of instalment payments has been worked out according to the income of the purchaser. Thus after the first $30 deposit a man earning up to $140 a month will be able to pay for the same car at the rate of about $12 a month. He will not however take delivery of the machine until after payment of his fourth instalment.

✧ ✧ ✧

For smaller wage-earners it is proposed that the Labor Front should establish a "Motor-car savings bank" to which the workers may pay in small sums each week.

✧ ✧ ✧

At least one company has been established already to produce the car although its commercial future depends upon many factors—including the attitude of other German manufacturers of small cars. The idea of the "people's car" has many opponents, among them Dr. Schact who argued that the idea involved the expenditure of too much foreign currency for raw materials and would inevitably lead to increased gasoline and rubber imports.

The Show Goes On

RECENTLY a fashionable London audience sat in the Wigmore Hall and clapped somewhat impatiently because the concert was late in starting. They had come to hear Segovia, the world-famed guitarist play. Meanwhile the artist sat in his dressing-room, his olive-skin face bleached, his nerves struggling for control. In the audience waiting for him was his wife.

✧ ✧ ✧

What they knew and the audience did not know was that Segovia's thirteen-year-old son Leonardo had touched a high-tension cable of an aqueduct near Geneva and had been killed instantly.

✧ ✧ ✧

Pulling himself together the grief-stricken musician walked on to the stage and played Bach, Haydn and Mendelssohn — beautifully. "Afterwards he said "I was the same age as my boy when I began to play the guitar. My son loved music too."

✧ ✧ ✧

A short time ago a volume came off the presses of the British and Foreign Bible Society. It was St. John's gospel printed in Sakata—a language spoken in the Belgian Congo,—the thousandth language into which the Bible had been printed and the 713th language on the Society's list.

✧ ✧ ✧

In a test vote taken among Britishers of all classes it was found that 37 per cent. placed the United States as the foreign nation they liked best with France ranking second with 28 per cent. and Germany third with 16 per cent. A poll on the same question in the United States found 55 per cent. placing Britain first, and France second.

✧ ✧ ✧

On the basis of a survey covering 22 cities, the United States Department of Commerce says that in most cities about 25 per cent. of the family income goes for rent. Tenants in Wichita Kan. however pay an average of only $200 a year in rent or 19.3 per cent. of their average annual income of $1,085. Trenton N. J. rentals show the highest ratio to income 30.3 per cent.

Perhaps Cheaper Coffee.

BRAZIL, LEADING coffee producer of the world has recently reversed a 31-year-old policy. The government has announced that henceforth it will base its external policy relative to coffee on free competition with other nations. This means lifting coffee export limitations and reducing the export tax—probably by 75 per cent. While some measure of internal control may continue fewer coffee beans will be destroyed because more of the surplus will go abroad.

✧ ✧ ✧

The result of the announcement was a speedy drop in the price of coffee on the New York Coffee and Sugar Exchange, when all-time low figures were reached.

✧ ✧ ✧

As the leading coffee-producing nation Brazil has tried almost every conceivable means to obtain a better price in world markets. From 1906 on the government successively put a duty on exports, bought up excessive supplies, lent producers funds to withhold surpluses from market and during the past seven years has destroyed coffee beans at the rate of 7,000,000 bags annually.

✧ ✧ ✧

Like most attempts to control prices artificially, the program has failed. Other coffee-growing countries increased their shipments as fast as Brazil cut down. The effect of the new policy should be lower prices for American and Canadian consumers.

✧ ✧ ✧

Scotch whisky has become an important item in the westbound Transatlantic trade. This year imports into the United States are expected to run between 3,500,000 and 4,000,000 cases. It is claimed that in the past two years the sales of Scotch whisky in the United States have increased 275 per cent. as against an increase of 125 per cent. in American brands.

✧ ✧ ✧

In the last 25 years wage earners of the United States have gained 13.68 years in length of life according to figures of life insurance actuaries.

Deer Hunting Not Such a Serious Affair

Dogs Should Not Be Allowed to Sleep in Bed Hunters Should Be Allowed to Sleep in Late

(Sault Ste. Marie Star)

SOMETHING like one in every 20,000 people in Ontario take out a gun-hunting license. These are usually regarded as blood thirsty souls who go to the woods to indulge a desire to slaughter.

Here and there in every hunting party there is a man whose ability with a rifle requires him to make the effort to justify his reputation, but the great majority of hunters care little whether they "fill their license," or not. They go for the jinks of the evenings in camp, for the freedom of the woods, for the good fellowship of the hunt, to argue about their dogs, about politics, about everything they can think of. They will sleep on uncomfortable camp beds, put up with less conveniences than their woodsheds at home offer, eat stuff that the wife wouldn't care offer them, and get up in a freezing dawn to cheerfully go out on "stations." What makes them do it?

They are convinced they are having a good time, but only the hardier repeat often.

This whole business of deer hunting has to be revised if it is to prosper. The dogs should not be allowed to occupy the same beds as the hunters. The cook should be required to take the pledge. Deer should be prohibited from parading up and down in front of the camp until it is light enough to see them. Hunts should start when the hunters want to get up—not when the cook feels that breakfast is ready. And the beds—well, as a rule they are hardly worth while talking about.

When a man comes back from the hunt he needs a rest. His three expression wasn't acquired following deer trails. Not at all. Only a tenderfoot falls for that. He has had $1.39 playing rummy with a ringer, stuffing himself with pork and beans (when he is invited to soda crackers and milk at home) and some lightsome companion has grabbed the best pair of socks in a very grey dawn.

We once knew a man who brought a .965 rifle, a lot of expensive ammunition, a duck outfit fit for an Eskimo, a pair of 6:8 high boots, a set of truck drivers mitts, a compass, a safety match box and a fur cap with earflaps. He spent his time helping the cook to cut the wood and carrying the water and had a splendid time. A lot they worried about the time about there.

A deer hunt is like the war in China. It sounds good before you get into it, is disappointing while it is on, and is at least equal to the asses. This is first hand information.

The Farm Boy Now Steps Out in Front

He Is Taking His Place at the Big Exhibitions; His Knowledge Too Is Based on Sound Training

(Toronto Globe and Mail)

IN THIS PROVINCE at least there must be a refurbishing of the picture of the barefoot boy, carefree and virtually running wild during the summer. A generation ago he was ubiquitous on country roads, either on the way to school or back, or trudging home from the postoffice. He was the rural mail carrier of his day. True, there were chores to be done, but the barefoot boy had a lot of time for his own simple devices.

Perhaps it is not the fashion to go barefoot nowadays, but a few decades ago it was the springtime ambition of a normal country lad to shed the boots—generally long boots with red top-pieces—and leave them off till the snow began to fly. The soles of his feet were hardened to resist thistles or stubbles as he cut across the fields—he travelled the shortest way to his destination, if he had any in view.

Occasionally he was lamed by that bane of his kind, the stone-bruise. Then he journeyed painfully on his toes. He walked warily, and needed the poet's benediction: "Blessings on thee, little man." The barefoot boy is not met so frequently now, and in a way it is a pity.

What has happened this indifferent country lad? Plenty. Visitors to the Royal Winter Fair will—as they did at the Canadian National Exhibition—see him judging live stock and grain, and judging it with a knowledge that will put to the test the most expert of his elders. He has an interest in the farm, an interest that has been developing gradually but certainly during the recent years. Dad has given him a plot of land, or a couple of calves, a few pigs, perhaps a flock of poultry, and told him to see what he could do "on his own hook." The idea has spread throughout the province — in fact, throughout all the provinces—and how the boy is an exhibitor and a prize-winner at the C. N. E. at the Royal, and at smaller fall fairs throughout the country.

Wherever possible, the ambitious farm boy is taking a course at an agricultural college, where he studies soil conditions and fertilizers, crop rotation, the best seed to be sown, and he learns the value of reforestation. He is wise enough to know from the experience of his elders that the allure of the cities is—chiefly allure; and he is going to make farming—skilful, scientific farming—his life work. He is proud to be known as a young farmer. This ambitious youth, no longer the thoughtless barefoot boy, is the rising hope of agriculture in Canada.

Is There a Firebug In Brockville?

Several Large Places Have Been Destroyed; Fires All Get Started After Hour of Midnight

(Brockville Recorder and Times)

WHEN THE municipal year comes to a close, it will be found that Brockville's fire loss, at a very low figure for a number of years, has suddenly attained large proportions, for the year has witnessed a number of disastrous and costly fires, so similar in the nature and time of their occurrence and in the class of building affected that the series of outbreaks within a few months' time can scarcely be regarded as only a coincidence.

Familiar landmarks have vanished or have been altered through the year's fire record, and it is worth remarking that nearly all these fires occurred, or were discovered, in the early morning hours, that they affected highly flammable premises and that, in general, those premises were unoccupied. The Arena went up in smoke and flames at a time which facilitated its destruction and so did the old main building at the fair grounds, the plant of the Brockville Lumber Corporation, the western part of the former Cossitt industrial establishment and, more recently, the New Theatre. All these were fairly large buildings, only one or two of them were in active use for any purpose, and all the fires took place in the hours after midnight.

Is it possible that we have a firebug in our midst, some criminally misguided individual who likes to hear the brigade on its way to an outbreak, who rejoices in smoke pouring from a burning building and flames shooting skyward? If so, he is a very dangerous person for any community to harbor and one who should be rooted out and put under restraint at the earliest opportunity. At any rate, the current fire situation in Brockville is not at all comforting and demands the most searching investigation that it is possible to give it.

WHEN TO KICK.

(George Ade, in Rotarian Magazine)

IT ISN'T always advisable to be satisfied with things as they are. It is all right to advocate optimism and smiling faces and serene confidence for the future, but sometimes it's a good idea to be a grouch and register an occasional kick. In other words, don't accept halfway results and compromises as an easy way to solve problems. Be the devil's advocate and try to find out what is wrong with your surrounding conditions instead of taking it for granted that everything is "O.K."

TWO OF A KIND

The clergyman was walking through the village, when he met one of his parishioners.

"How's your cold, Donald?" he asked.

"Verra obstinate," replied the parishioner.

"And how's your wife?"

"About the same."

A Bible Message For To-day . . . .

THE FORMER treatise have I made, O Theophilus, of all that Jesus began to do and teach, until the day in which he was taken up after that he through the Holy Ghost had given commandments unto the apostles whom he had chosen, to whom also he shewed himself alive after his passion by many infallible proofs, being seen of them forty days, and speaking of the things pertaining to the kingdom of God; and, being assembled together with them, commanded them that they should not depart from Jerusalem, but wait for the promise of the Father, which, saith he, ye heard of me. . . . And when he had spoken these things, while they beheld, he was taken up, and a cloud received him out of their sight.—Acts 1, 1-4, 9.

If ye then be risen with Christ, seek those things which are above, where Christ sitteth on the right hand of God. Set your affection on things above, not on things on the earth. For ye are dead, and your life is hid with Christ in God. When Christ, who is our life, shall appear, then shall ye also appear with him in glory.—Col. iii, 1-4.

MRS. ROOSEVELT'S SNUB.

(Windsor Star)

AFTER ALL THE accounts of the cancellation of the Duke of Windsor's trip are sifted, it appears that Mrs. Roosevelt's snub of the Duchess put the clincher on the postponement.

The Duke and Duchess had looked forward to being received as royalty. When they learned that instead of a State Dinner, President Roosevelt was only going to tender a luncheon, they were disappointed. But, when it was made known that Mrs. Roosevelt was not intending to be at the luncheon, the affair took an even more serious turn.

That was a snub on which Edward and Wally had not counted.

DE FACTO."

(London Daily Express)

AT THE STATE opening of Parliament a unique figure shows up—an Ambassador in search of a country. In the pages of the Evening Standard you may have seen his picture, arrayed like Solomon in all his glory, Dr. Martin, of Abyssinia-That-Was. Now, Dr. Martin, from Addis Ababa, has no more State power or political authority than Mr. Jock Johnson of New York. Abyssinia is Italian, a colony of Mussolini's empire. Why do the British Government go on pretending otherwise? They do not deceive the public. They only deceive themselves. Self-deception is the most dangerous of all forms of deception.

A Bit of Nonsense

NEVER INSULTED

The young man had been overjoyed at getting a job as commercial traveller, as he had been out of work for many months, but by the time he had been working for a week, and had reached Plymouth, he began to feel rather fed-up.

"How are you getting on?" inquired an old hand at the game.

"Badly," was the reply. "I have been insulted at every place I have visited."

"That's strange," was the reply. "I've been on the road 40 years. I have had my samples flung into the street, I have been taken by the scruff of the neck and hurled downstairs, and I don't deny that I have been rolled in the gutter. But insulted—never!"

MOOSE RIVER MINE SOLD TO BELGIAN

HALIFAX, Nov. 17—(CP). — The Halifax Mail, in a newspage story today, said Baron Jean Empain, Belgian multi-millionaire, was reported to be the financial backer of a corporation which purchased mining property in the Moose River area.

"Negotiations were completed several days ago, and the property was purchased outright for cash. Large scale operations are being planned for development of the property, it was said," the Mail reported.

Baron Empain's "night club" romance with Rosepell Rowland, burlesque's "Golden Girl" from Columbus, Ohio, culminated in marriage during a big game hunt in the Belgian Congo.

He is thus pictured in this most recent photo. The three Soviet ambassadors who have been relieved of their duties are Constantine Yureneff, envoy to Germany; Leon Karsky, envoy to Turkey, and Y. H. Davtian, ambassador to Poland.

QUEBEC REPORTS THREE NEW CASES

QUEBEC, Nov. 17—(AP). — Three new diphtheria cases were reported to city authorities since yesterday and the total number under treatment now is at 51, Dr. Valmont Martin, Quebec's Health director, said to-day.

Up to last week-end seven deaths had resulted from the disease, described by the Health Director as "near the epidemic stage," in ten days, but since Saturday no cases have proved fatal.

More than 450 cases of diphtheria were reported to Quebec City's Health Bureau since the start of the year and there were 53 deaths.

The figures were slightly above last year because of Quebec's "impossible climate" this Fall, said Dr. Martin. The disease struck many school children, he believed, because of extremely variable temperatures since the summer months and because of the weather's extraordinary dampness.

GRANT EXTENSION TO HAVAS WRITER

BERLIN, Nov. 17 (CP-Havas). — Paul Ravoux, 41-year-old head of the Berlin Bureau of the Havas News Agency, today was granted a four-day extension of the expulsion order issued against him last night when he was ordered to leave Germany within 72 hours. The order charged him with writing "malicious" dispatches.

M. Ravoux was informed by the Gestapo (Secret Police) that he would be permitted to remain in Germany four additional days after French Ambassador Andre Francois-Poncet had called at the Wilhelmstrasse in connection with the order.

The Ambassador informed Foreign Minister Konstantin von Neurath that the expulsion was in direct contrast with the spirit of conciliation shown by the French Government with regard to German correspondents in France.

The Ambassador's visit to the Wilhelmstrasse followed delivery of a written order to M. Ravoux's residence at 6.45 a.m., directing him to leave German territory within three days.

An official communique blamed the journalist, who has been the chief Havas correspondent in Berlin throughout the Nazi regime, for writing an allegedly biased account last Saturday of the foot-and-mouth disease currently prevalent in several farming districts.

Man Bowled Over By Alderman's Story

Toronto, Nov. 17

CITY council was discussing the alleged requirement that men to get jobs on the new airport here must have the approval of Liberal executives. Ald. Allan Lamport started the council laughing when he declared it was regretable an unbiased body like the city council should be brought into politics.

"As one who had conducted council affairs entirely apart from politics—"

Just here a man in the gallery slipped and the council turned to see what caused the thud.

"That was too much for him," said Ald. Ernest Bray. "It bowled him over.

Japanese Reply Attacks Russia

BRUSSELS, Nov. 17 — (AP). — Japanese officials here to-day issued a sharp counter statement to the Brussels Conference declaration criticising Japan for her action in China.

A statement from the Japanese Embassy attacked Russia, as a non-signatory of the Nine-Power Treaty, but a participant in the conference, and referred to the part played in framing the declaration by nations which "repudiate payment of their war debts to the United States" and "vote things to which they do not adhere."

Dinner Date
Kept by Dentists.

From a Chicago newspaper of November 14, we have the following interesting bit of news about Dr. and Mrs. D. M. Somerville, who once resided in Peterborough. The dinner date will be kept tomorrow, as it will be remembered that Thanksgiving Day in the United States is observed on the third Thursday of November.

Carl James Harper will be married Thursday in Elgin to Miss Lucile Ferris, daughter of Mrs. Tillie Morgan of Elgin.

Costume Tea
All Saints' W.A.

Native costumes from Africa, India, China and Japan were worn by a number of the ladies and several children at a most popular "Costume Tea" served by the Afternoon Branch of All Saints' Women's Auxiliary on Tuesday afternoon in the Parish Hall.

The many little tea tables, with their pretty cloths and colored candles or bouquets of baby chrysanthemums, were quickly filled, and moving about among them, the ladies in colorful and interesting garb worn by the women of other lands, made a charming and unique novelty. On a side table, many curios were displayed, including dolls, ornaments, jewellery, and little mats, from the foreign countries.

The guests were received by the president, Mrs. John Edgar, and Mrs. Frank Dawson, deanery officer of the W.A.

Mrs. M. McCulloch was in charge of the table of curios, and at intervals spoke to the guests, explaining the costumes, and mentioning the names and work of the missionaries in the lands from which they came. Costumes were worn by Mrs. H. C. Jay, Mrs. Collingwood, Mrs. A. T. Connolly, Mrs. S. Worsencroft, Mrs. M. Metheral, and by four children: Anna Metheral, Joy Edgar, Peggy Boddison and Joan Penhall.

Mrs. Annie Williams was general convenor for the tea-room, and was assisted by many members of the W.A.

A delightful musical program during the afternoon included piano solos by Mrs. Glover; vocal solos by Miss Olive Rome, accompanied at the piano by her sister, Miss Marguerite Rome; vocal solos by Mrs. J. Morley, accompanied by Mrs. Glover; a charmingly sung and acted solo by little Betty Mather, accompanied by another talented little girl, Adele Fitzgerald; a duet by Eleanor Glover and Elsie Chambers.

A table of Christmas cards and calendars was in charge of Miss Myrtle Dark. The costumes and curios were lent to All Saints' Women's Auxiliary by the Diocesan W.A. in Toronto.

Scottish Humor
Subject of Address

John Donaldson was the speaker at Tuesday night's meeting of Knox Young People's Union. "Scottish Humour" was the subject of an interesting and well-prepared address, in which the Scottish sense of humour was compared with that of other countries, and a new insight given the audience into the often ridiculed Gaelic wit.

Pointing out that frankness and hatred of sham was the main trait of Scotland's humour, Mr. Donaldson showed the influence of religion, love of country, and frugal habits, in developing a distinctive type.

Miss Edith Boddy had charge of the devotional service, assisted by the Misses Ruby Milburn and Gladys Gerard.

An enjoyable series of contests were conducted by Ross Allen to close the meeting.

Tribute To
Mignon Telgmann

The following, clipped from the "Woman's Point of View" by Bride Broder, in the Globe and Mail of Monday, November 15, will be of interest to many Peterborough people. Mignon Telgmann a few years ago conducted a studio in this city, and lived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Renwick. (Mr. Renwick was organist of George Street United Church.) Many friends will remember Mignon and her delight-giving violin, heard in solos in her church and at recitals. Her home is in Kingston, though this article refers to her as now teaching in Toronto.

"Round the brick walls of the dimly lighted crypt of a church in that part of the city where they know too much about joblessness and the lack of houses, there arose the appealing music of a violin—Mignon Telgmann was interpreting the lighter moments of some of the great composers for an audience that had come to appreciate it. And as the notes rose and fell, as the bow swept over the strings and skilful fingers plucked them, we thought of the time, quite a long while ago now, when, though we were living in a small city, we heard many of the great musicians and orchestras of the day. But then, living in that same small city was Oscar Telgmann, and he it was who was responsible for bringing the world-famous there. It is true that he seldom made money out of the venture, in fact, he quite often lost it. But what was money to "Telgmann," as he was always known when he himself could spend a couple of hours listening while the masters of music sang or played, and when he could bid to the feast of lovely sound those who would also feed their souls upon this fare? His daughter, still little in stature, as her name implies, is carrying on the tradition in which she was brought up, and her young pupils are winning gold and silver medals in open competition in this great city. It must be a great reward for the musician, ageing now, who counted money loss little if he could further appreciation of the art he loved. Sometimes the pioneers in many of the arts are forgotten. We are glad to be able to pay this slight tribute to one who made good music better known."

CUT THEM DOWN

CUTTING DOWN the number of tricks taken by the enemy is exactly the same thing as taking more tricks yourself. There will be thirteen in every deal. If your keeping the opponents from running a suit decreases their allotment, it automatically raises your side's total.

(Dealer: South. East-West vulnerable.)

Against South's contrast of 3-No Trump, West led the spade 2, on which East played the A and returned the spade 3. Declarer won with the spade K and immediately forced out the club A, whereupon two more spade tricks were lost, but the declarer was then able to win any return and run the five clubs, two hearts and one diamond, which, in addition to the spade already won, gave him his game.

East was a little hasty in returning the spade lead. The lead of the spade 2 by his partner indicated that they held four each in that suit, so that three spade tricks and the club A would not set the contract.

Instead of returning the spade, the important thing for East to have done was to have knocked the diamond A out of dummy. This should have been particularly clear to East, as he himself held the club A. With the diamond K led by him, South would have had to win with the A in dummy and he would then have been limited to two tricks in clubs, being set one trick.

Moving Pictures Of The Holy Land

Remarkable and beautifully colored pictures of all that interests a Christian traveller in the Holy Land were shown in Murray Street Baptist Church on Tuesday evening by Dr. Gordon Jones of Hamilton, taken by himself on his recent trip to Palestine.

Beginning with views in Italy, including smoking Mt. Vesuvius; in Rome, ancient architecture and the huge modern buildings of Mussolini, with a number of pictures of small children being drilled as soldiers, the audience was taken by Dr. Jones' camera through other cities to Cyprus, where the first marks of Eastern life became evident.

Pictures of Haifa were shown, a city whose population has grown from 5,000 to 120,000 in a few years, and whose buildings include a castle built by the Crusaders; views of Tyre, become merely a place of fishermen and their nets; and the Dog River Pass into the great plains around Damascus, through which the different invaders have come through the centuries. Outside Damascus Dr. Jones found Boy Scouts camping in the hills. Views in Damascus included some of "The Street Called Straight," and scenes, taken from a hotel window, of a riot in progress.

"Palestine is a barren country," said the speaker, "partly because it has been the battleground of the ages, and invaders, including finally the Turks, have cut down all the trees, and partly because the great herds of goats are so destructive, and the trees even cannot withstand their attacks." It is a country of stoney hillsides. "In a good car Palestine can be travelled from one side to the other, if people wish to just skim over the surface."

Lovely tints in water and sky appeared in pictures taken around the Sea of Galilee, which showed also a lack of signs of habitation. At Nazareth, Dr. Jones visited a little Baptist Church, and saw the missionary and his wife. A larger Baptist Church was also visited in Jerusalem.

Many views of the ancient dark and narrow streets of Jerusalem were shown, including the one along which Christ carried His Cross, and of the Church of the Holy Sepulchre, where a Moslem sits as the doorkeeper, because of the quarrels of Christian sects through the ages.

The Jews' Wailing Wall was shown. "It is the scene of frequent rioting," said Dr. Jones, "as the Arabs go there to insult the Jews." Only at the impressive and beautiful Y.M.C.A. are the Arab and Jew at peace together. Rural pictures contrasted modern methods of farming used in Palestine by the Jews, and the ancient methods of the Arabs, who fear giving unemployment if they adopt the new machinery.

Colored portrayals of the Garden of Gethsemane showed many flowers growing among the ancient olive trees, and there were distant views looking toward the Mount of Olives. In Bethlehem, Dr. Jones visited the Church of the Nativity, where the doorway was made small enough that an infidel could not ride through on horseback, and pictures were taken of the Shepherds' Hills, which have become terraced through the years.

The Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe spoke words of appreciation to Dr. Jones, whose lecture was sponsored by the Women's Mission Circle of Murray Street Baptist Church.

Cape Breton Lady Is 101 Years Old

BADDECK, N.S., Nov. 17 (CP).—A little old lady, Mrs. John F. MacRae, took afternoon tea and chatted of old times with friends in this shire town of Victoria County yesterday as she quietly celebrated her 101st birthday. The centenarian's hospitality was known to many travellers in North Cape Breton years ago.

THE STARS SAY . . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLLE

For Thursday, November 18.

This promises to be a day of exceptional opportunities for important coups in business. The prospects are good for speculation, expansion and the co-operation of those in influential positions. Seek favors from employes and those in high places with assurance. Corporations, political and diplomatic as well as secret organizations, will be friendly.

Those whose birthday it is are assured a year of great progress and prosperity, with new ventures and speculation under presage for expansion. Large corporations and "big business" may be sought for friendly support in furthering meritorious propositions.

A child born on this day may be energetic, ambitious and have excellent qualities for promotion, expansion and high position. It may also have great personal popularity and prestige.

Plans Discussed For W.M.S. Annual

The executive staff of the Peterborough Presbyterial Woman's Missionary Society of the United Church of Canada met on Monday to arrange for their coming annual meeting in January, with fifteen members present. In the course of the afternoon a resume of the year's work was given in brief reports by the officers and secretaries of departments showing a keen interest has been kept up throughout the Presbyterial, and that a sucessful year has been the result. Mrs. C. M. Scott, the president, who lent her home for the meeting, was in the chair and presided over the informal program. Among the memebrs present were Mesdames A. I. Brown, W. W. Leonard, W. W. Yale, Lakefield; H. Alton, William Stevens, B. Tucker, Norwood, R. C. Hanbidge, Fairmount, W. Zeihr, H. Clegg, H. Rehill, E. Mesley, W. H. Morton, E. J. Wagar, and Miss Helen Bannister.

Pleasing Program X.L. Circle Meets

Miss Jessie Martin, president of the X.L. Mission Circle of St. James United Church presided over a very successful meeting held on Monday evening at the pretty, new home of Mrs. Gerald Cuff (formerly Jennie Smart).

In a brief business session the minutes were read by the secretary, Effie Rowe and approved and a detailed statement given by the treasurer, Jean Hammond, who received the monthly envelopes. It was decided to hold the election of officers in December, by nomination and a nominating committee was appointed to meet on Friday evening.

The announcement of the marriage of Miss Helen Robertson, missionary to Africa was made by the president. As Miss Robertson was one of the missionaries adopted for prayer by the X.L. girls, a letter of congratulation will be sent to her and her husband by the advisory president. The Circle has kept in touch with their two missionaries through correspondence as well as in prayer, for several years.

"When I Get to the End of the Road," was the delightful solo contributed by Geneva Sedgwick, who sang unaccompanied. The study for the month "From Sea to Sea" was in charge of Connie Wagar, who introduced the work of the early Canadian Christians with an interesting map talk, after which she was assisted in dramatizing the chapter by four girls, Effie Rowe, Doreen Elliott, Gladys Langton and Marjorie Kitchen, who wore the realistic costumes of our early settlers.

A clever contest, founded upon the study proved an interesting and very informative climax to this opening chapter of "A New Church Faces a New World" which promises many pleasant evenings during the coming year. The service of refreshments by the committee which included Mrs. D. Sedgwick, Alma Welch and Gladys Langton and a happy social half hour concluded this successful Circle meeting.

The December meeting will be held at the home of the advisory president, Mrs. E. J. Wagar on the regular night.

Plaids And Tweeds That Are Warm And Chic

For Walk Wear Wool Coat, Suit For Convention

(By Central Press)

Warm coats for school, business or clubs are the particular interest of every woman since the cooler weather has been with us. Fur coats, sports coats, suits with top coats that will stand the wear and tear of everyday activities and keep us warm and look smart are the ticket.

For a walk in Central park, New York, or any jolly park on any happy morning, the new double-breasted square box coats in plaid wool in rust, brown and beige, is good. The turned-up felt hat is the correct thing to wear with this coat.

Off for the club convention might well be the young woman wearing the smartly tailored suit. It is a tweed with the new hairy surface. The coat has that new straight-line back. It comes in brown, green or rust, with collar either of polo wolf or raccoon; or in black tweed with platinum wolf collar.

Two-piece tweed suits with contrasting jackets continue to be favorites with well dressed women at smart outdoor events. The hat made of the suit material is an individual style that intrigues women who like their clothes that way.

And, speaking of tweeds, next spring's coats and suits of that justly famous material are going to be pretty lively as to color, especially in sports wears. Rich mixtures combining from four to nine colors are going to be popular, say stylists.

Brightly colored woollens in rough finish are an indispensable part of the wardrobe, and as women feel they can have dress clothes and everyday garments (since the days of the depression when we had to make one set do,) it is more practical and economical to buy some colorful rough woollen garments to wear for motoring, in the country, for business, shopping and general wear.

These need not be expensive. A smart little two-piece, short jacketed suit with a rough-and-ready type of topcoat, will make not too much of a dent in your budget, if you choose them carefully.

—Shakespeare.

Dear Friends:

Another lady has done me the honor of telling me her troubles in a letter. She says she has lost hope, and I can sympathise with her sincerely, for many times Hope and I have parted and bleak was the time until I found her again.

Did YOU ever lose Hope? Did you ever feel as if all your labor had gone in vain, all your toys had been taken from you and you seemed shut off from all those around you, just as a child feels when sent to bed without supper, and in disgrace.

And memory gets in its deadly work reminding you of the many times you have been a loser in this game called life. Your spirits sink and sink, clear down to the bottom where it is all muddy and nasty.

You hoped against hope, but one thing after another was lost. You tried this and you tried that but failure dogged you on every side, until you felt like doing what Job advised to do, "Course God and die."

But if you remember dimly what Job said: "Even if He slay me, yet will I worship Him." You think of all Job had to bear, much more in every way than you have had, but it does not comfort you for that was his problem and you are facing yours.

You feel as if you were caught in a trap with no way of getting out. Your mind seethes with indignation and resentment that this should have come upon you, and despair settles its clammy hands on your heart and spirit.

Now, it is very easy for the one who is going through all this to get a lot of advice which will only aggravate their trouble. It is so easy for people to take other people's troubles lightly, and to go about their business forgetting the one who suffers.

It would be easy for me to say to this woman "Cheer up." But if she has little to cheer her up, how is she going to do it?

Yet I can assure her that her troubles are almost over. How do I know? Because of my own experience. I have found that when the wheel of life has gone down as far as it can go, it must go up for it never stands still.

I have found that when despair had me by the neck almost choking the life out of me, something good was heading my way. It is not so long ago where I read in the Examiner about a man who had gotten so far down in the depths of despair and had completely lost hope so that he committed suicide.

Yet, the very next day, just twenty-four hours later, a letter came telling him that he had been left twenty thousand dollars. We are not all so lucky or fortunate as to fall heir to that sum, but if we wait we can see a rift in the clouds that hang over us, and Hope returning.

So, Mrs. L. H. do believe me when I say your troubles will shortly leave you and the sun shine for you again, so that you will enjoy the compensations God will send you. So take heart and wait, it won't be long, and IT NEVER FAILS. Your Friend, ROBERTA.

Happy Relations Parent and Child

By GARRY C. MYERS, PH.D.

Offering in this column some suggestions for solving a problem, I have, occasionally, proposed to the father that he "have lunch out" with the problem adolescent son. For some months I have had a column on this subject stirring inside of me. Here it comes. You might think I were in the restaurant business. Well, I'm not. But if my advice is taken, there will be a little added business at public eating places.

In towns and cities many fathers eat lunch down town. Let him who has a boy over ten or twelve that seems to be a problem, invite this lad every now and then to take lunch with him, going to the most attractive place he ever goes alone.

Be it on a Saturday, they might attend a ball game or a movie, together. If there are younger children, no matter. Their turn will come by and by. The very fact that the boy is singled out in this way makes him feel more worthwhile in his relationship to dad. Besides, it affords opportunity for closer father-son companionship. Occasionally the son might well bring his best friend along, dad being host to both of them.

Consider also what it might mean to the farm boy of 'teen age if his dad, every month or two, would go to town with this son and have a dainty, toothsome meal with him. I believe it would be good investment, offering rich returns in father-son relationships.

Applies to Mother-Daughter

The same principle should apply as well to the mother and her adolescent daughter. It's fine to see them go shopping together, take lunch out together and attend a movie together, now and then. Such father-son and mother-daughter experiences together help prevent problems as well as correct them.

Now and then it also may be excellent for father and daughter or mother and son to lunch out together, particularly in the later 'teens. More often than not, busy dads do not know their daughters very well, and such little outings should be helpful. However, the major problem is the cultivation of closer father-son and mother-daughter comradeship.

Apropos are the mother-daughter and father-son banquets sponsored by churches and Parent-Teacher associations. They render a valuable service to happier family relationships. I wish, however, that the price were kept within the reach of all that are interested, and that those who just could not afford even a very small price might be enabled to attend by the help of others, and without anybody else knowing where the help came from.

Rust, Ruby, Rose For Fingertips

By GLADYS GLAD

RESEARCH workers have found that, among certain tribes of people, women for generations have practiced the art of enhancing their charms by the use of red. Not the fingernails alone are painted red by these women, but the entire hand.

Women in civilized countries, of course, use more subtle methods. They rely on brilliant, well-groomed fingernails to make their hands attractive. There are any number of different shades of red nail lacquer now on the market, and rust is one of the latest and smartest versions of this vogue for red fingertips. The rust shade, it seems, harmonizes much more effectively with the suntanned hands that have resulted from a summer of exposure.

The special virtue of rust nail polish is its yellow lights that give the skin a flattering, creamy tone. According to cosmetic experts, the natural tones of the skin take on a new sparkle under the effects of powders, rouge and polish that reflect pertain carefully worked-out, dusky-yellowish highlights.

Best For Yellowish Shades

This type of makeup and polish is best for costumes in any color that has yellow in it, such as suntan, aqua, tomato-red, russet, greens and brown. For all other colors, generally, a powder should be chosen that is on the peach-bloom side, and polish used should be rose or ruby.

Remember to watch the color of your costume in choosing your cosmetics therefore. The "three R's" in polish—rust, ruby and rose—will see you through with anything you wear. But be careful which you select.

Don't forget, however, that your nails need care as well as color. Healthy nails depend on well-balanced diet, exercise and the same treatment to prevent dryness that you give your skin. Exercise can be given in the form of massage. Stroke each finger outward toward the nailtip, or massage gently between thumb and finger of the other hand—always toward the nailtip. This stimulates the circulation and helps to keep the nail in good condition, reducing breakage and peeling of the nail that result from poor circulation.

Massage a good cuticle oil or cream gently into the base of each nail, too! Do this as part of your routine every night, while you are giving your face its evening coat of nourishing cream, and guard your nails against dryness as faithfully as you do your face, for only then will your favorite nail polish help to enhance the loveliness of your dainty fingertips.

Carrot-Red Hair Cost $50,000

NEW YORK, Nov. 17 (AP).—Now it can be told. That six-foot torrent of carrot-red hair worn by the late Mrs. Leslie Carter, famous actress—it was the envy of women of two continents—was false, and it cost her $50,000.

Hair Merchant Albert Simonson disclosed today that the actress, during her 16 years on Broadway, bought ten new sets of hair, paying $3,000 each time. She also paid $20,000 for repairs.

Simonson, who obtained Mrs. Carter's locks from peasant girls in Austria-Hungary, said false hair also had helped make public idols of Lillian Russell, Richard Mansfield, and Jeanne Eagles.

Women Have Part In Peace Garden

TORONTO, Nov. 17 (AP).—Maintenance of "The Institute Acre" in the International Peace Garden on the boundary line between Manitoba and North Dakota, is one topic for the 10th biennial convention of the Federated Women's Institutes of Canada, being held here Nov. 11-22.

Living memorial of 122 years of peace between the United States and Canada, the enterprise originated by H. J. Moore, of Toronto, was supported in its earliest stages in 1932 by the Women's Institutes of the Dominion. Today the Institute acre is entirely landscaped, with walks laid out, fences erected and perennials started. The Federation and affiliated branches have voted various grants to the memorial.

Work on the International Garden generally has progressed slowly but the Dominion Government now has provided money for operations on the Canadian side. The United States has also established a permanent camp where 200 to 300 men were working continuously. For a time plants sent by the Canadian Women's Institutes were cared for in American nurseries.

Raise Your Blood-Count
And You'll Feel "In the Pink"
NORMAL BLOOD has a count of 4,500,000 red corpuscles. With a low blood count you're bound to be always tired, easily upset, nervous and depressed, without appetite, sleepless, under weight. Everything is drudgery.
You needn't go on in this way! Take Dr. Williams Pink Pills. Originated by a Canadian physician, this tested tonic quickly raises your blood count. You get new energy and vigour, your depression and nervousness disappear, your appetite and normal weight return, you sleep soundly, and your life is worth living again. If this is not your experience your money will be refunded. 50c at all druggists.

To Relieve Bad Cough Quickly, Mix This at Home
Does the Work in a Hurry. Saves Money. Easily Mixed.
Here's an old home remedy your mother used, and, for real results, it is still a very dependable thing for distressing coughs. Try it once, and you'll swear by it.
It's no trouble at all. Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments until dissolved. No cooking is needed—a child could do it.
Now put 2½ ounces of Pinex into a 16 oz. bottle, and add your syrup. This gives you 16 ounces of really superior cough remedy—more than you could buy for four times the money. It keeps perfectly, tastes fine, and lasts a family a long time.
This splendid home mixture has a three-fold action. You can feel it take hold at once. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and helps clear the air passages. This explains why it gives such prompt, pleasing results.

HAMILTON, Bermuda — The British cruiser Appollo of the West Indies fleet will sail today for Plymouth bearing the body of J. Ramsay MacDonald, Britain's only Labor prime minister.

Nerves Were So Bad Could Not Stand The Children Playing

The happiness of every home depends largely on the health of the wife and mother. If she is nervous, peevish and irritable, worried by the cares of the household, and tormented by the pains and irregularities that accompany a run down system, there can be no happiness in the home for the husband and children.

Women who are weak and run down, nervous and irritable should take a course of Milburn's Health and Nerve Pills to help restore them to the blessing of good health.

Mrs. Thomas Kirk, Neston, Alta., writes:—"I was in such a weak, run down condition before I started using Milburn's Health and Nerve Pills I could not do my housework, and would be so nervous I could hardly stand the noise of the children at their play. Now, after taking three boxes of H. & N. Pills I feel like a different person.

I shall always tell anyone not feeling well to use your medicine."

Makes Protest

Soviet Russia's protest to Italy against Italian adherence to the German-Japanese pact against communism will not be given a formal answer according to well informed circles in Rome. The protest was lodged with Foreign Minister Count Ciano by Soviet Ambassador Boris Stein (ABOVE) upon orders from his government. Stein informed Ciano that Italy's signature to the pact constituted "an unfriendly gesture" violating the friendship and non-aggression treaty signed by the two nations in 1933.

Study Our Resources.

Canada should study its resources, reduce its capital debt, and avoid "wild spending sprees," said Mr. Hepburn. Governments must act to develop domestic resources and help enlarge the domestic market for the products of industry. The tourist industry must be developed.

The Premier said no greater example of possible development could be found than in the country north of Sault Ste. Marie. Cheap power was there in abundance, he said. The north's timber resources had an ever-increasing value, while the values of its deposits of precious metals had not yet been determined.

Want to Avoid Delays.

To avoid delays which might extend over a period of years, he said the Provincial Treasurer (Premier Hepburn) had no alternative but to ask the Legislature to amend the offending section of the Succession Duty Act.

Opening of the session will be without "frills," it is expected. Possibly the only business prior to the succession duty action will be re-electing Hon. H. O. Hipel as Speaker.

Meanwhile, Conservatives will meet in caucus here Nov. 22 to choose a House leader and possibly fix a date for a party convention. Hon. Earl Rowe, Conservative leader, was defeated in Simcoe Centre in the Oct. 6 election and is directing the party from outside the house. There are 23 Conservatives and 67 Liberals in the 90-member Legislature.

WOMEN WHO SUFFER

WOMEN who suffer in silence often pay a double penalty for wearing this gag of unselfishness or silly pride. Painful periods are nature's warning that something is wrong and needs immediate attention. Growing girls as well as women in middle life are often sufferers from female irregularities. They find Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a dependable tonic. Read what Mrs. John Roth, Route 4, Embro, Ont., said: "I lost weight, suffered from headaches and my strength was completely gone. It was almost impossible for me to eat. Mother advised me to take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and in a short time I was feeling fine again." Now sm, tabs. 50c. Buy now!

At The Sickbed Of Roumania's Dowager Queen

BUTTER, CHEESE EXPORTS SHOWN

TORONTO, Nov. 17—(CP)—Sudden declines occurred in butter and cheese exports last week, with butter shipments fading to below 2,000 boxes or slightly over 100,000 pounds and cheese decreasing by more than 16,400 boxes. So far this season, however, cheese clearances are running well ahead of last year, showing an increase for the period of 161,250 boxes or in the neighborhood of 13 to 14 million pounds. An approximate decrease of 270,000 pounds is recorded for butter.

Shipments made during last week were reported by the Dominion Department of Agriculture at 1,805 boxes, which compare with 15,366 boxes in the previous week. Exports for the season to date, May 1 to Nov. 13, amounted to 64,872 boxes as against 69,673 boxes in the same period of 1936. Cheese exports for the week totaled 32,876 boxes and compare with 49,290 boxes in the preceding week. Total clearance for the season to date aggregated 859,287 boxes against 696,037 boxes in the like period of last year.

An easier underton developed in graded eggs on the local produce market today, but cheese to the retail trade firmed a shade. Prices were firm and unchanged in butter.

Slackened demand with the pick-up in production resulted in weaker prices in graded eggs on the egg market. Shipments were clearing at 41-42 for A-lage, 37-39 for medium, 30-31 for pullets, 26 for B's and 22-23 for C grades. Other sections held former values.

With less cheese being offered, prices on the wholesale market hardened. New, large paraffined traded at 14¼-½, twins at 14½-¾ and triplets at 14¾-15.

No change occurred on the butter market.

$12,800 PAYROLL ROBBERY TORONTO

gunpoint were telegraphed to Montreal in case the men attempted to reach that city. Police said they thought the men were local men, aided by someone familiar with the plant's payroll delivery. If the raid had been staged a quarter-hour earlier or later it would have been likely to fail.

The cashier and two women assistants were in the room, sorting the just-delivered pay envelopes for more than one-third of the company's employees, when three men barged through the door and held them up. The money had been delivered to the plant a few minutes earlier.

Familiar With Routine

Because the payroll was the heaviest of three delivered weekly to the Tip Top plan, police said they believed one of the four men involved was familiar with the pay routine.

G. R. Hagerman, cashier and Miss E. Culham and Miss Muriel Jones were in the pay office when the robbers entered. "I had counted the petty cash in the cage and came out to transfer it to the petty cash box in my desk when they appeared," Hagerman said. "There was about $500 in the petty cash. As I bent over the desk I could see two strangers in the doorway." Hagerman said the robbers must have entered by a side door. "They forced us over here," he said, indicating a corner of the office, 'and then they grabbed the piles of bills in their arms and left. As the first one left by the factory door I grabbed the telephone to call police. The last one turned and fired at me."

The bullet tore its way through moulding around a glass door leading to the cage.

Prevented From Entering

A member of the general office staff, 18-year-old Phyllis Heaton, was prevented from entering the pay office by the third robber who poked a gun in her ribs as she was about to walk into the room where the holdup was taking place.

"He said, 'come on sister, stick up your hands'," Miss Heaton related.

She said she had a good look at the robber's face. "He was young and was wearing a dark brown overcoat," she said.

Dislocated Elbow Led to Neuritis

Could Not Straighten Her Arm

Four months ago, this woman dislocated her left elbow. Although the elbow was properly set, she developed neuritis and could not straighten her arm. She was ordered to take Kruschen — with the happy result described in this letter:—

"I had an accident four months ago, and my elbow was seriously dislocated. Fortunately, it was set right there and then, but afterwards, I could not straighten the arm to its full extent. It was X-rayed, and the surgeon told me I was inclined to be rheumatic. I was ordered to take Kruschen Salts — one teaspoonful in a glass of hot water on waking. Now I am getting along famously. The pain in my elbow is better, and, daily, I am able to extend the arm more easily."—(Mrs.) P.

Rheumatic conditions are often the result of an excess of uric acid in the body. Two of the ingredients in Kruschen Salts have the power of dissolving uric acid crystals. Other ingredients assist Nature to expel these dissolved crystals through the natural channels.—Advt.

Sling-Shot Boy Shows Up Hunters

BROWNSVILLE, Md. — Fourteen well-armed hunters aren't bragging about this story—but they admit it's true. All converged simultaneously on a lone rabbit in a field near here and blazed away with both single and double barreled shotguns. The rabbit was killed by a boy who bowled it over with a stone.

Parliamentary Debates Have Been Declining In Quality

Lack Of Special Training One Of The Weaknesses Of Present System

Lack of special training of its members was one of the weaknesses of the parliamentary system of government mentioned by Dr. A. S. H. Hill in his lecture to the Workers' Educational Association at the Collegiate Institute Monday night.

Earlier in the present course Dr Hill had reviewed the attractive features and strong points of representative government, with special emphasis on its fundamental democratic basis, with government by the people and for the people. Turning up the other side of the picture he suggested that in our governments men are for the most part untrained for the responsibilities to which they are elected. This deficiency applies not only to the ordinary members, but also to the Cabinet Ministers.

Too Many Government Bodies

Dr. Hill also said that there were too many legislative and governmental bodies in Canada for the population of the country. According to his assertions the quality of parliamentary debate has declined both in Great Britain and Canada, and in that connection he said there was today no Gladstone in Britain and no Macdonald or Laurier in Canada. Increasing number of commissions performing the duties of governing bodies was a sign of weakness, Dr. Hill said, or at least an admission of a lack of confidence in parliament's ability to administer the same services with at least equal efficiency.

Public impression of comparatively narrow limits of effectual parliamentary action in the economic sphere was another sign of defect in the system.

FOUR MILD CASES OF SCARLET FEVER REPORTED IN CITY

No serious alarm is warranted by the recent outbreak of four cases of scarlet fever here, Dr. G. Murray Fraser told the Board of Health last night. The four cases were all children, and comparatively mild, the medical officer reported.

"Scarlet fever usually occurs in the autumn months," he stated. "The presence of these cases is therefore typical of the disease."

Dr. Fraser reported the first dose of diphtheria toxoid has been given to 122 pupils of the Separate Schools. Subsequent doses will be given at intervals of three weeks. "It is gratifying to have parents co-operate in securing protection against this disease for their children," he commented.

R. M. MacPherson, newly-appointed sanitary inspector, assumed his duties on October 5, it was reported. During the first days of his work, Mr. MacPherson carried out lesser routine duties, taking instruction in preparation for assuming the full duties of the office.

Made 168 Visits.

Public Health Nurse Zeta Kearney reported she made 168 field visits during the month, providing health supervision in 33 cases. A total of 75 cases and contacts were visited in connection with tuberculosis work, four patients being sent to sanatoria, she indicated. The nurse visited 15 cases and contacts in connection with general communicable disease work.

The Board was informed a total of 13 attended two chest clinics conducted during the month by Dr. F. C. Neal and Dr. C. B. Waite. A total of 13 attended two mental health clinics held by Dr. J. D. Grieve of the Ontario Hospital at Whitby.

MRS. S. W. HOWARD.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MILLBROOK, Nov. 17—Word of the death of Margaret Maud Hicks, beloved wife of Samuel W. Howard, widely and well-loved citizen of Toronto, was received locally through her son, W. R. Howard, M. A. of Millbrook, who for the past month has been in that city taking a course in military training for his captain's degree.

PETERBORO CHEESE MAKERS COMPETING IN BIG EXHIBITION

Five cheese makers of this district are forwarding entries to the Dominion Cheese Exhibition to be held at Belleville from November 25 until December 1 under the auspices of the Central Ontario Cheese Makers' Association whose convention on Tuesday and Wednesday, November 30 and December 1, will conclude the Exhibition.

The Peterborough men who are entering the competition are Rexford Wilson of Selwyn; Andrew Wilson of Young's Point; J. J. Brethour of Pine Grove factory in Dummer; Ralph Wasson of Warminster factory also in Dummer and George Brooks of Trent Bridge.

W. J. Moore, district dairy instructor, told the Examiner today that all the cheese makers of the district would probably attend the convention, and that groups of factory patrons should try to visit the exhibition on one of the convention days, preferably Wednesday for the banquet that evening.

Generous Prizes

Judging of the cheese begins Friday, November 26, and all cheese will be sold by auction the following Wednesday. For nine classes of cheese in the competition $868 will be distributed, and for four other classes $200 has been granted by the Dominion Government. In these classes Ontario entries are excluded. Many other special prizes and trophies are offered and five counties, including Hastings and Northumberland-Durham, have made grants up to $100 to be awarded to the cheese makers from their counties. These prizes amount to $375.

John M. Wilkinson of Tweed, president of the Central Ontario Cheese Makers' Association, will preside at the convention sessions. Among the directors are J. J. Brethour of Lakefield, G. Anderson of Campbellford, and D. Turney of Morganston. The counties comprising the Central Ontario district are Peterborough, Victoria, Northumberland, Prince Edward, Lennox and Addington, Hastings and Prontenac. James L. Irwin of Belleville, government grader, is the Honorary President of the Association, and has been one of the most ardent promoters of the cheese exhibition which is open to all provinces.

District Leadership

The enterprise of the Central Ontario Association is expected to be rewarded with a greater display of cheese than last year. Cheese from this area ranks with the finest product from the Dominion, and often brings a premium in the British market. The cheese industry has been making substantial recovery during the last three years. Production has been increasing, prices have been attractive to dairy farmers, and as the business is actually based on the dairy farmers it is hoped that many of them from Peterborough will attend the exhibition.

The purpose of the exhibition is essentially to stimulate interest in the cheese business, as an important branch of the dairy industry of this country, and by that interest to raise the quantity and quality of cheese to higher levels.

Notable Speakers

Samples of cheese from Great Britain, New Zealand, South Africa and Canada will provide material for demonstration purposes at the afternoon session of November 30 to be conducted by Joseph Burgess, chief of the division of dairy products of the Dominion Department of Agriculture.

Speakers Wednesday morning include George Barr, director of dairying for Ontario; M. H. Hudion, chief of the dairy branch of the Quebec Department of Agriculture; W. H. Sproule, Professor of Dairying, Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph; L. A. Zufelt of Kingston and Dr. J. A. Ruddick of Ottawa.

The afternoon program will present addresses by T. J. Hicks, Senior Dairy Produce Grader, Montreal; J. F. Singleton, Dairy and Cold Storage Commissioner, Ottawa; A. C. Fraser, secretary-manager of the National Dairy Council of Canada, and others. The banquet in the evening will be held in Johnston's Academy.

GETS HERE JUST THE SAME.

A letter merely addressed to a number on Bolivar street but with the name of Peterborough omitted arrived in the mail yesterday to be delivered. Canada's postal staff is never beaten by any such little obstacle as having to deal with a piece of mail upon which the address is incomplete.

IS SWORN IN.

Alex. Elliott, M.L.A. for Peterborough, was sworn in on Tuesday as a member of the Ontario Legislature by Major Alex. C. Lewis, the clerk of the House. Mr. Elliott was notified along with all other members several days ago to be sworn in with the least possible delay. Since the order went out the calling of the special session of the Legislature has been generally anticipated.

COMMUNITY USE OF LEAVES

Leaves gathered by the street cleaning department of Belleville are carted to the city dump or are given to citizens who apply for them for their gardens. Peterborough used to cart its leaves to the dump or incinerator until Alderman Stocker decided to pile them up in compost heaps which in a year or two become valuable fertilizer for the city's parks and boulevards.

GAVE THEM A SCARE.

There have been exciting scenes around the Auburn mills on several occasions this summer but no episode was any more lively than the one reported the other morning when a little black and white animal strolled in to the gatehouse filled with workers just ready to enter the mill and in a split second scattered the whole gathering quicker than tear gas could do the trick. The unusual visitor fortunately behaved like a perfect gentleman but he gave the Auburn bunch a bad moment or two.

OCTOBER PUMPAGE UP

Pumpage into the Peterborough water system was up more than 2,000,000 gallons in October over October 1936, Waterworks Department figures show. The total last month was 77,512,000 gallons as compared with 75,433,000 gallons in 1936. The department reports all fire hydrants in the city were oiled and tested in readiness for the winter season. Seven new water services were laid in the city and six were repaired. A crew of men were given work laying 508 feet of 6-inch main on Centre and Caddy streets.

ELECTRICAL PRICES INCREASING.

The gradual increase in prices of electrical equipment during recent years was commented upon by members of the Utilities Commission, as they discussed the price of the new 3,000 K.V.A. transformer they are buying for the Aylmer street substation Tuesday. An almost identical piece of equipment was bought for $9,176 in 1927. Another bought in 1929 cost $10,740, and one bought in 1935 cost $11,075. The prices being paid for the present transformer is $11,300.

HUMANE SOCIETY

The following inspector's report was read at the regular monthly meeting of the Humane Society held in the council room of the Chamber of Commerce—Horses examined 27, dogs brought to shelter 31, destroyed 26, placed in homes 3, cats brought to shelter 50, destroyed 48, placed in homes 2, animals examined (cattle, sheep, pigs) 150, poultry houses and crates 30, complaints investigated 16, warnings issued 10, emergency calls 17, stables inspected 2, telephone calls 224. The report covers 2 months and Dr. Johnston in going into detail explained a few of the cases of cruelty which had been reported to him and promptly investigated. In a barn which had been destroyed by fire a horse's dead body was found with its back legs broken and showing signs of great suffering. Two dogs had been worrying sheep—8 were killed by the dogs and 10 had to be destroyed.

DOG SAVES BOATMAN

SOUTH HARWICH, Mass., Nov. 17 —(AP)— Philip Mitchell, 24, of South Harwich, owes his rescue from an earless, foundering skiff to William Reade Hersey's airedale. The dog spotted Mitchell's flares a half-mile from shore last night and barked until Hersey called police.

CANADIAN GENERAL GIVEN CONTRACT FOR TRANSFORMER

Under-bidding nine other electrical companies, the Canadian General Electric was awarded the contract for a new 3,000 KVA transformer for the Aylmer street substation by the Utilities Commission at a meeting Tuesday afternoon. With necessary switching gear, the installation will cost $13,710.

Manager Ross Dobbin was instructed by the Commission to go ahead with the order in view of a fact a breakdown of any unit at the sub-station at the present time would drop the station's capacity below the current daily peak demand. The peak demand so far this month has been 7,800 kilowatts and present capacity of the station is 9,000 kilowatts, he pointed out.

It is expected the new transformer will be ready for installation in January, bringing the sub-station capacity to 12,000 kilowatts.

Peak Up 1,800 H. P.

The Electrical Department report for the month of October indicated another big gain in the Peterborough power demand for that month. The October peak was 9,500 horsepower, an increase of 1,800 over October, 1936. A large portion of the gain was represented in an increased demand from the C.G.E.

Commercial power demand was up 16 percent and during the month 993,066 kilowatt hours were sold compared with 856,938 during the same month in 1936. A gain of 12.3 percent in the commercial lighting demand was noted, a total of 346,354 kilowatt hours compared with 308,530 last year. The gain in domestic lighting was 5.2 percent, 348,513 kilowatt hours being sold compared with 331,334 last year.

An improved position in this year to date as compared with 1936 was reported by the Gas Department. Net gain to the end of October shown in the operating statement was $6,152.57 compared with a net gain to the same date last year of $5,661.86.

TWENTY DAYS FOR OVERCOAT THEFT

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MILLBROOK, Nov. 17—Earl Harrington, who was arrested in Peterborough on Saturday, following the theft of two overcoats from the Armouries on Thursday night when the Veterans held their annual dance here, was sentenced to twenty days in the County goal, when tried in Cobourg before Magistrate Campbell on Monday.

The coats belonged to Earl Barnard, of Bailieboro, and Lorne Foster, Millbrook, and when recovered had had the labels removed, apparently preparatory to being sold.

Peterborough police made the arrest, and notified Constable E. C. Richards, of Millbrook, who took the prisoner to Cobourg for trial.

Harrington had attended the dance at Millbrook, investigation showing that he had been seen leaving the Armouries with the extra overcoats in his possession.

DRUNK DRIVING CHARGE FOLLOWS 3-CAR ACCIDENT

Three cars tangled in a traffic accident on George street, north of Townsend street, about seven o'clock Tuesday evening with a consequent charge against Sidney Scobell of driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor. He pleaded not guilty in police court this morning and was remanded by Magistrate Langley for one week.

According to information obtained by Police Constable Sexsmith, Mr. Scobell was driving south on George street, followed by A. P. Stock, 526 Water street, and J. J. Stante, 173 Albertus avenue was going north. It is stated that Scobell's car was following "a weaving course" and moved toward the centre of the street as Stock tried to pass him. In an effort to avoid Scobell's car, Stock turned further to the centre and collided with Stante's car, and at the same time was sideswiped by the Scobell car.

Leo McGarrity, 616 Lock street, passenger in the Stante car, suffered a cut on the forehead that required five stitches at the Standard Medical Clinic. All three cars were damaged; estimated repair bills for the Stock and Stante cars being around $200.

WOMAN IS JAILED ON LIQUOR COUNT

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LINDSAY, Nov. 17. — After an all-day session of the Police Court on Monday, with an adjourned session yesterday, Mrs. O'Toole, a resident of Kinmount, was sentenced to two months in jail by Magistrate Gee on the charge of keeping liquor for sale. The charge followed a raid made on the O'Toole home by Provincial Constable Adair and Corporal Woods, R.C.M.P., on the evening of November 8. A large quantity of liquor and beer was seized, and it decorated the front of the court room during the trial. The case was featured by a wordy battle between County Crown Attorney Anderson and C. G. Frost, who represented the accused. A brother of Mrs. O'Toole named Askey was found not guilty on a similar charge.

Aged Man Robbed.

A Lindsay man named Thomas Teevins was picked up in the early hours of the morning by Provincial Constable Adair in a badly intoxicated condition. In court yesterday he told of having been robbed by an unknown person and seventeen dollars and a watch were extracted from his pockets. He could not tell who his associates were during the night. He is seventy years of age and the recipient of the old-age pension.

Col. George W. Peacock, second in command of the Salvation Army in Canada, was the guest speaker at the Kiwanis luncheon. The subject of his address was "Motivating Force of Service."

The November session of the County Council opened yesterday at the Court House with Warden Moncrief of Omemee presiding. In his address the Warden announced that there would be small surpluses in both the general and the county road system accounts.

The funeral took place yesterday of a well-known resident of Ops Township, in the person of James Farrelley. Solemn Requiem High Mass for the deceased was celebrated at St. Mary's Church. The late Mr Farrelley is survived by his wife, two daughters and one brother.

Firemen To Assist Decorating Streets

Fire Chief George Gimblett and his men are not satisfied with being most useful assistants of Santa Claus in the fine work they do in repairing and renovating toys. This year they are helping the jovial old gentleman in another way. The Chief and his staff are co-operating with the Peterborough Businessmen's Association in making the visit of Santa Claus to Peterborough on December 3 a huge success by undertaking the task of decorating the Santa Claus parade route through the downtown section with evergreens. Hundreds of trees will be used in the process, and during the Christmas shopping season the business section will be a Yuletide fairyland with its trees and colored lights.

DURHAM BOYS PLACED FOURTH PETERBORO 7TH

Grenville county won the boys' livestock judging competition at the Royal Winter Fair on Tuesday. Durham county's team was placed fourth and Peterborough, winners successively in 1935 and 1936, was seventh.

Thirty-seven teams competed, the largest number of boys' teams in the history of the Royal. Leeds county won second honors and Prince Edward third. The members of the Peterborough team, coached by A. D. Runions, were Bruce Graham of Asphodel, Arthie Clysdale of Otonabee and Ralph Hanbidge of Ennismore.

Harry Kennedy of Cavan, a member of the Durham team, scored the highest marks in the judging of dairy cattle, winning the E. H. Stonehouse memorial trophy, and he ranked third in the individual honors of the entire competition. The distinction of winning highest individual honors in the aggregate for all classes of livestock judged went to William Burchell of Spencerville in Grenville county, in the same section where Mr. Runions attended school.

Bruce Graham of Asphodel attained seventh place in the general standing. Both he and Harry Kennedy of Cavan made a fine showing in the exceptional strong contest in which 111 boys from all parts of the province took part. Grenville's team won the premier honors for that county's first time.

ODOR OF LIQUOR ON BREATH OF DRIVER, EVIDENCE OF CHIEF

Chief Constable W. Hendren of Lakefield testified in Police Court this morning that he smelled liquor on the breath of Brock Wright shortly after his collision with a car owned by William Brown of Young's Point in front of Hill's grocery store west of the canal bridge at Lakefield at 7 o'clock in the evening of October 20. Mr. Wright was charged with being intoxicated while driving his car.

Mr. Brown was changing a tire of his automobile at the side of the highway and was painfully injured in the accident.

"Wright came over to talk to me and fell against me," Chief Hendren said. "His speech wasn't clear and his breath smelled of liquor. Only one headlight of his car was on when I got there, and it was very dim. There was plenty of room for a car to pass Brown's car."

Chief Hendren quoted certain measurements of skid marks in front of the store. He said he had taken them at the time of the accident, and made note of them. T. J. Carley, defending Mr. Wright, elicited the fact that Mr. Hendren had copied the notes from his book some time after his investigation at the place of the collision. Magistrate Langley stated that he could not accept the transcribed notes, and added that he had enquired of the witness whether he had written them in the course of his enquiry that evening. The case was continued this afternoon. Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., conducted the prosecution.

CRASHES OWN PLANE

TOKYO, Nov. 17.—(AP)—A Japanese navy communique said today that Japan's war ace of the Shanghai front, Captain Sadao Sheriaso, sacrificed his life in the "traditional manner" of Japanese airmen by deliberately crashing his bomb-laden plane into a Chinese position at Soochow.

The communique said Sheriaso, bombing Chinese machine-gun nests failed to score a hit so he power-dived into a Chinese emplacement which was destroyed by the crash. He was credited with shooting down 32 Chinese planes.

Evidence Continues To Pile Up Against Louis Title Fight In Chicago For Next June

Promoter Mike Jacobs Warned To Keep Fight In New York

(By Central Press Canadian.)

CHICAGO, Nov. 17. —The evidence is piling up against the probability of Chicago being selected as site of the heavyweight title bout between Champion Joe Louis and Max Schmeling next June in the wake of reports that this city has the inside track to the contest.

Nevertheless every effort is being made to bring the match to Soldiers' field where Gene Tunney successfully defended his championship against Jack Dempsey before 145,000 spectators who paid $2,650,000.

The latest report said that the encounter would be held in Chicago at the insistence of Julian Black and John Roxborough, co-managers of the titleholder. Inasmuch as the two pilots are guided by the advice of Mike Jacobs, head of the Twentieth Century Sporting club, which holds contracts for the Louis-Schmeling fight, it is believed th. partners really haven't a great deal to say about the matter.

Report Jacobs Warned.

As much as prominent Chicagoans, such as Joe Triner, chairman of the Illinois boxing commission, who was instrumental in bringing the Louis-Braddock bout to this city, would like to see the next title engagement held in Chicago, it is said Promoter Jacobs is morally bound to present the combat in his native Manhattan.

"Jacobs has been warned by the New Yorw commission not to take any more major bouts out of New York," an intimate of the promoter declared recently.

The implication was that Jacobs, who promoted the half million dollar Braddock-Louis match in Chicago in conjunction with Joe Foley, would lose caste with the New York board if he manoeuvres the Schmeling-Louis encounter out of Gotham.

"Jacobs cannot afford to get in bad with the men governing fighting in New York at this time," it was pointed out, "if for no reason than that he is obliged to offer 16 shows at Madison Square Garden within the next two years at a minimum aggregate rental of $80,000. To operate at a profit he needs the co-operation of his commission."

Anti-Nazi Feeling Stressed.

The anti-Nazi feeling in New York was stressed as the reason that the Schmeling-Louis scrap would be offered in this metropolis. Even so, gate receipts at the first battle involving Bomber Joe and Schmeling were $647,531, of which Louis and German Max were paid

The proposed boycott of the championship match concerning Braddock and Schmeling, scheduled at Madison Square Garden bowl last Sept. 26, ostensibly caused Braddock to cancel the engagement in favor of the clash in which he lost the crown to Louis at Comiskey park three months earlier.

No outward sign of a similar campaign against the impending scrap, for which Louis will receive 40 per cent. and Schmeling 20 per cent., is apparent at present. On the other hand when it was rumored Aug. 20 that the meeting would take place in this city the Chicago division of the American Jewish Congress immediately started a movement to ostracize the contest on behalf of its 40,000 members interested in boycotting the goods of Nazi Germany.

War Admiral Entered In Santa Anita Assuring Meeting With Seabiscuit

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 17 (A.P.).—War Admiral, undefeated champion of United States three-year-olds, was entered to-day as a candidate for the $100,000 Santa Anita Handicap, virtually assuring a meeting with Seabiscuit on March 5.

Charles S. Strub, head of the Los Angeles Turf Club, announced Owner Samuel D. Riddle telephoned from New York to nominate the Admiral for the big race.

Nominations do not close until December 1, but Riddle said he wanted no slipup in getting his Kentucky Derby champion in the classic.

Seabiscuit, beaten by a nose by William Dupont's Rosemont in the 1937 Santa Anita, finished the season with $168,642 winnings, but the Admiral retired undefeated in eight starts and with a comfortable nest-egg of $166,500. The two horses never met.

DEATH CLAIMS 'TIP' O'NEILL

CHICAGO, Nov. 17 (AP)—Death took another of the few remaining pioneers of baseball yesterday — Norris L. (Tip) O'Neill, 70 years old.

The famous character, associated with Chicago White Sox for forty years, died in a hospital of a heart ailment after a brief illness. He was a devoted friend of the late Charles A. Comiskey, owner of the White Sox and helped him pioneer the game.

O'Neill was known wherever the sport was played. He was a gabby, witty Irishman, with a gracious smile and natty attire, always ready to talk baseball as long as anybody would listen. He saw great stars of the American League come and go, and was Comiskey's most sympathetic counsellor when the Old Roman, broken-hearted over the famous White Sox scandal of the 1919 World Series, wrecked his team to cleanse it.

Nobody was closer to Comiskey than O'Neill, who started his baseball career a half-century ago as a minor league catcher. He was Comiskey's personal representative when the White Sox and the New York Giants, then under the leadership of the late John J. McGraw, made a world tour in 1913. He served as a personal scout for Comiskey, digging up players who later became White Sox stars.

O'Neil, because of his devotion to Comiskey, always made his headquarters at the White Sox Park, even when he served as President of the Western League for eleven years. He finally gave up the presidency of that circuit, rather than live within league territory, as the magnates had defiantly decided.

POINT SEABISCUIT FOR MONEY MARK

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—(UP). — Seabiscuit, handicap champion and leading money winner of 1937, is out to earn more gold than any other horse in history.

The four-year-old son of Hard Tack and Swing On, who has earned $210,065 in three years, will attempt to bring that figure above the all-time record of $376,744 created by the great Sun Beau over a five-year period.

Seabiscuit's owner, Charles S. Howard, announced to-day that his charge would be a "fighting champion" in 1938 and would seek to create several track records as well as attempting to crack Sun Beau's purse mark.

Howard, here to supervise shipment of a carload of horses to California, said Seabiscuit will leave Maryland to-day for the west coast, where he will make his next start in the Marchbank Handicap, a $10,000 added event at a mile and a sixteenth at Tanforan, Dec. 18.

SPORTS DAY BY DAY

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

WHAT THE Belleville Redmen would like for an intermediate O.H.A. setup this season is a five-team group consisting of Belleville "B" team, Oshawa "B", Trenton Fliers "A", and Peterborough "A" and "B" teams. With an interlocking schedule and every game counting as a win or loss, regardless of the "A" or "B" classification. Quinte scribe thinks Oshawa and Peterborough should both have "B" entries, as well as Belleville, which—along with the Petes and Fliers as "A" squads—would make an ideal group. For Belleville, of course. He says Eddie Thomas is going to the O.H.A annual meeting Saturday and is likely to be convenor in Central Ontario again. No doubt, Thomas will try to get such a profitable group going.

* * * * * * *

BARRING ANY better arrangement, such an idea might work out. It might have to do. Since it looks like the Fliers and the Petes will be the lone "A" entries into O.H.A. intermediate competition up through this part of the Province. We're not recommending this five-team grouping, but it may be necessary if we want any competition at all. Provided of course that both Oshawa and Peterborough put "B" squads in this winter. We would certainly insist—if the plan goes through—on having all games count in the group standing. None of this exhibition stuff any more.

* * * * * * *

THE SITUATION seems to be the same in the Motor City and here, both clubs should have a surplus of good players. But the local Hockey Club may not feel like financing three teams in the O.H.A. It is rather risky as the fans might not support all three sufficiently. We have the material for intermediate "A" and junior "B" entries—and plenty left over. And this town has always been situated wrong geographically for ideal puck groupings. We have to take makeshift loops quite often. The matter of an intermediate "B" entry is being considered here, as in Oshawa, and something may come of it after the annual O.H.A. session in Toronto on Saturday.

* * * * * * *

AND NOW seven teams want in the Senior City Hockey League, as it was shown at last night's meeting. They are: Millbrook, Bewdley, Lakefield, Westclox, Pla-Mors, Johnson Motors and C.G.E. Entry date closes Nov. 30th at another meeting, it being extended in case another squad wants in. Dope on the meeting is published elsewhere tonight. Referees should apply to Walter Dinesen, 257 Carlisle avenue, by Nov. 30th. Executive will then pick one or two, pay being a buck a game once again. Some games may be played in Lakefield, that is between city teams and Lakefield, if the clubs agree to it at their next session. Otherwise, it'll probably require two nights a week at the Brock for this Blood and Thunder Loop.

* * * * * * *

THE DELEGATES decided against allowing O.H.A. players to take part in City Loop games. Of course, if a guy was signed and released by the O.H.A. team before Jan. 15th—and hadn't played an O.H.A. game that season—he could then sign with a City League club. It's a good idea as there are plenty of good pucksters around without using O.H.A.-ers, and also the village teams around deserve an even break with the city squads. Entry fee is two bucks again with money refunded if the loop can afford it—which it could and did last season. This lively circuit is going ahead by leaps and bounds each season, having completely replaced the old E.P.L., and it is getting more popular with players and fans all the time. Nothing more yet on the possibility of sending a team from it into O.H.A. intermediate "B" playdowns. Further dope will come after the Nov. 30th meeting.

* * * * * * *

GRID FANS will go for the C.O.S.S.A. playdown fixture here Saturday betwixt Albert College of Belleville and P.C.I. seniors at 2.30 o'clock. It is a sudden-death tussle between two highly-rated senior school squads, teams that play brainy open football. Coach Beach of the Albert outfit agreed to play here, for a percentage, since his games all season in Belleville have lost dough. He admits 'tis risky to switch gridirons when so much is at stake but seems to think his crew will be tough to take anywhere. But so is Coach Bamforth's nifty local machine. It ought to be a honey of a scrap, the winner going into C.O.S.S.A. semi-finals and the loser dropping out of further competition. Having had his fingers scorched in pointing with pride to Trenton Fliers 'gainst Orfuns, the Quinte writer will not pick the Alberts over the P.C.I.-ers this week.

* * * * * * *

AT THIS writing, the Orfuns were still awaiting word as to their next O.R.F.U. playdown game. They sort of expect to journey to Toronto on Saturday to meet the ex-Westsides (who rubbed out Lindsay last season) now known as the City Club. It may be the semi-final round. The Peterborough players have stiff drills tonight and tomorrow, with a chalk talk Friday. Following Thursday night's practise, they will be given instructions as to their chore for Saturday, whom they'll meet, what time to leave, method of transportation, et al. The lads are keyed up now and confident they will continue to play first-rate rugby the rest of the route. Coach Bill Turnbull isn't sparing the whip any, either; he is hounding 'em hard and rightly so.

* * * * * * *

LINDSAY WARDER writer saw the game last Saturday here and—though he made a few errors—says, in part: "Orfuns may be better mudders than the Fliers but that is not the reason they won, the better team won. They took command from the drop of the hat with one of the most glorious openings ever seen in a grid game. Peterborough made the Fliers look like a bunch of kids—the latter were sadly lacking in pep and power. Gibson seemed to just waddle along as compared to Kearns and Loucks, Orfuns' speed artists." And so on. Yeah, the grounded Airmen were trimmed to a fare-thee-well by a better team. But the locals mustn't let down now; future rivals will be much tougher than the over-rated Aviators.

PICKING 'EM off the grapevine: Percy Bond left today for the big A.A.U. of C. conclave in Montreal; he goes from there to Toronto for the annual O.H.A. session on Sat'day . . . . Trenton Fliers have entered the Kingston pre-season puck loop with Belleville, Kingston, Perth and Garrisons . . . . Starts Friday and final playoffs end Jan. 17th . . . . Motor City scribe says Oshawa might have two intermediate "B" hockey teams, one in our group and one in the Lakeshore loop . . . . Wonder why rugbyists don't dribble the ball more on fumbles; it is a potent weapon . . . . Jerry Creighton has a sore ankle and may not play for P.C.I. on Sat'day . . . . ATHLETIC BOARD BARS N.Y. PRESS

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—(AP)—The New York State Athletic Commission has landed a one-two punch on the boxing writers. At yesterday's meeting it was decided to close the doors at all further sessions and then it banned service charges on all complimentary tickets, thus lending a hand, if they needed it, to the "moochers."

Hereafter recipients of "Annie Oakleys" will be charged only State and Federal taxes and 25 cents (reduced from 50) fee for the National Sports Alliance Fund for indigent boxers.

In announcing the ban on reporters, Commissioner Bill Brown explained: "I battled for freedom of the press at commission meetings two years ago and had them opened for the first time. But I find some reporters can't get a story straight."

Fear For The A.A.U's Future With Hockey Outside Realm

Winter Pastime Association Turned Over Most Money To Parent Body

MONTREAL, Nov. 17.— (CP). — When the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association broke away from the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada this year, the parent body was bereft of its most powerful member. The C.A.H.A. had on its roll the greatest number of athletes of any subsidiary organization and it had turned over to the A.A.U. a greater amount of money than any other.

Effects of the C.A.H.A. breakaway will be divulged to-morrow when financial and enrolment reports are read at the opening of the A.A.U.'s annual three-day convention here. Some opponents of the C.A.H.A. in the quarrel which prompted the split maintain the parent body can get along without hockey. Others are gravely concerned over the A.A.U.'s future.

The Canadian Amateur Basketball Association and the Canadian Amateur Lacrosse Association, other strong units, followed hockey's lead in throwing off A.A.U. affiliation. Direct cause was the refusal of the A.A.U. at its Regina convention last year to pass a "three-point clause" broadening the definition of the word "amateur."

Backed most strongly by hockey men, the proposal would have let an amateur: (1) Accept money for time lost from work in playing; (2) Use athletic ability to obtain work; (3) Play against professionals in exhibitions, and would have left a professional in one sport play as an amateur in another.

Delegates from the C.A.H.A. went back to their branches from Regina to report their endeavors and failure in promoting the broad legislation. The branches backed them and the C.A.H.A. stepped from the A.A.U. fold at its Toronto annual last spring.

Fear For Future.

Among those who fear for the A.A.U.'s future with hockey outside the realm is G. Sydney Halter of Winnipeg, second vice-president of the A.A.U. of C. and head of the Manitoba branch. He will introduce an amendment to the constitution designed to bring back the three lost organizations.

Halter's amendment would give each sport the definition of "amateur" laid down by its own International controlling body, leaving the rules broad in one field and narrow in another. The present A.A.U. definition, blanketing every member body, is taken from the code of the International Amateur Athletic Federation, controlling track and field organization.

In the event of the prospective defeat of Halter's amendment there is a possibility amendments to the amendment will be introduced by those working to attract the C.A.H.A., the C.A. and the C.L.A. back into the fold. In any event, the argument promises to be hotter and more extended than the three-point debate at Regina.

HONORED BY SUSSEX

BRIGHTON, England—(CP).—In recognition of his feat in scoring 3,000 runs and taking 100 wickets last season, J. H. Parks is to receive a cheque for $248 and a silver salver from Sussex County cricket club.

Still Gassing

DIZZY DEAN

Jerome Dean, better known as Dizzy, has kept out of the limelight for months, but don't think he still isn't gassing. Of course, this is the real thing as you can see by this picture taken at Bradenton, Fla., where Diz sells gas in the liquid form, not of the airy variety.

RALPH GREENLEAF HOLDS CUE TITLE

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 17.—(AP). —Ralph Greenleaf, hardy perennial of pocket billiards, had $1,500 prize money and his 16th world championship to show to-day for his playoff victory last night over Irving Crane, 23, of Livonia, N.Y.

The New York city veteran defending champion, marched roughshod over Crane, ended with his best run of 176. His winning margin was 125 to minus 1 in 11 innings. The runner-up prize netted Crane $1,100.

Bruins Keep Record Clean By Defeating Maroons 1-0 Meet Leafs On Saturday

Goldsworthy Scores On Assist By Cowley In The Third Session

TORONTO, Nov. 17 (CP) — The National Hockey League's two undefeated teams—leaders of their sections and fast pounding forces—aimed today for their first meeting of the season. A single game stands between maintenance of a flawless record for each machine before their collision at Toronto Saturday.

Toronto's young Maple Leafs, who have been tied twice in four starts, will be at home to Boston's bruising Bruins, who have won two of their games by one goal and the other by two. To come up to that game unbeaten, Leafs must hurdle the Canadiens at Montreal tomorrow and Boston must get by the Americans at New York. Taking those obstacles, the group leaders will enter a "natural" at Toronto.

Rangers Beat Americans

Bruins kept their sheet unmarred when Leroy Goldsworthy scored in the third period of a gruelling contest against Montreal Maroons for a 1 to 0 victory at Boston last night. Rangers stepped into a second-place tie with Chicago by handing Americans a 1-0 beating on Neil Colville's first-period goal at New York.

The games were in contrast to the prolific scoring shows staged in the league's first 14 games, when 69 goals were rapped in.

There never were sterner rivals than Bruins and Leafs, who have met three times in Stanley Cup playoffs since 1932-33. Now they have assembled two of the league's speediest arrays of forwards and no defences hit harder. The goaltending edge lies with Bruins, where Tiny Thompson's experience and steadiness puts him ahead of Walter Broda.

Art Ross of Boston and Conny Smythe of Toronto, are arch-rival managers and neither reveals in anything so much as a win over each other. In the first two weeks of the current campaign the showings of their clubs in stepping ahead of last winter's division champions have been by far the big features.

Boston's decision which shoved Maroons a little deeper into the Canadian division cellar was achieved after two rough periods. Bill Cowley beat his way past the Maroon blue line and passed to Goldsworthy. The flying wingman got by Defenceman Allan Shields and let fly from 15 feet out.

Two Players Out of the Game.

The victory was doubly convincing in view of the fact Bruins were without two injured players, Ray Getliffe and Charlie Sands. They were replaced by Red Hamill and Mel Hill, amateur stars in Ontario's nickel belt last season.

Dave Trottier of Maroons and Cooney Weiland came close in a first chapter dotted with penalties and in the second Bill Beveridge had to weather a storm of Boston drives while his club was shorthanded. Porky Dumart was penalized in the third but Tiny Thompson stood up gallantly under continual pressing by Baldy Northcott, Jimmy Ward and Bob Gracie and Maroons' last chance went when Jerry Shannon was sentenced for tripping in the late minutes.

Colville brought Madison Square Garden's 16,000 fans to their feet as he stepped through American's defence in the first period to settle the All-New York scrap. Alex Shibicky fed him the pass which started the scoring play.

Colville and Joe Jerwa were given major penalties in the third period when they broke into a fight as Americans battled desperately to tie the score. A free-for-all, nothing new to Ranger-Amerk battles, was narrowly averted as the pair were pulled apart.

OSHAWA SENIORS YOUTHFUL TEAM AVERAGE AGE 22

OSHAWA, Nov. 17.—With every prospect pointing to what may be the youngster O.H.A. senior team in history, Oshawa General-Motors seniors held their first workout last night when they were put through P.T. at local auditorium. With the season schedule slated to start in two weeks' time and ice at the local arena also two weeks off, the local entry hopes to arrange ice practices in Toronto within the next few days.

With the players' average age less than 22 years, Coach Doc Rowden, perennial star of Oshawa squads, will be the oldest playing member at a time when most stars are reaching their peak of effectiveness.

The players counted on to form the Oshawa entry with their ages, are as follows: H. Armstrong 24, W. Bagnell 23, Ab. Barnes 22, S. Benham 22, A. Chisholm 22, J. Cooper 22, R. Covert 22, W. Hastie 20, W. Jamieson 21, W. Morrison 22, E. Patten 20, I. McCullough 20, J. McEwen 21, K. Sanders 20, G. Salter 22, J. Shortt 22, C. Smith 22 and D. Rowden 27.

The only newcomers to the city are Armstrong, who hails originally from Pembroke and Benham, who played for Biggar, Sask., last season. The players from last year' good junior squad who are trying to make the grade in the senior series are: W. Hastie, centre; K. Sanders, utility; E. Patton, defense; and L. McCullough, defense. W. (Squeak) Morrison, who played junior and senior hockey for Oshawa previously, is back with the squad after missing all of last season's games.

Kent Can Still Show His Heels

Like Tennyson's brook, Hugh Kent apparently intends to roll on forever. With 54 years of competitive track events behind him, the 75-year-old athlete can still show a clean pair of heels to many of the youngsters. The world's record time of 12 seconds flat for the three-legged raceover a distance of 100 yards was set by Hugh and his brother John. Incidentally, the record is still unbroken. Hugh Kent, ABOVE, at 75, demonstrates the crouch start now in general use by track runners. At the beginning of Kent's track career, the standing start was in favor.

DRILLON RETAINS LEAD IN N.H.L.'S BIG 7 SCORERS

TORONTO, Nov. 17 (C.P.). — First scoring famine of the new hockey season left the National League scoring leaders unchanged last night though Neil Colville's goal and Alex Shibicky's assist left the Ranger players with three points each, just one outside the Big Seven minimum.

This week's first release of official figures put Gordon Drillon of Toronto in first place with eight points and Charlie Conacher of Toronto second with seven. George Mantha and Armand Mondou, Canadiens, Mush March and Paul Thompson, Chicago, and Red Horner, Toronto, are tied for sixth place with four.

The leaders:

	G	A	Pt
Drillon, Toronto	4	4	8
Conacher, Toronto	5	2	7
H. Jackson, Toronto	4	1	5
Barry, Detroit	3	2	5
Romnes, Chicago	2	3	5
Mantha, Canadiens	3	1	4
March, Chicago	3	1	4
Mondou, Canadiens	1	3	4

MORE TEAMS ENTER CITY PUCK LEAGUE

Seven teams signified their intention of entry into the Senior City League last night at a meeting held in Duffus'. The teams were: Bewdley, Millbrook, Westclox, Marino's Pla-Mors, Johnson Motors and C.G.E., the last not a definite entry as yet. Closing date for entries was extended to Nov. 30th when another meeting will be held at eight p.m. in Duffus'. President Leo Allen presided at this session.

It was decided that no O.H.A. players be allowed to compete in the league this season, it being pointed out that any signed O.H.A. player was ineligible to compete in this league unless he had been released before Jan. 15th from his O.H.A. certificate and had not played an O.H.A. game. No overtime will be played in scheduled games, tied teams taking a point each, but 30 minutes of overtime in case of a tie will be played in playoff contests, 15 minutes each way.

Referees to Apply

Applications for referees will be accepted by the secretary—his address being 257 Carlisle Ave., city—till Nov. 30th, the executive then picking the referee. He will again be paid 50 cents by each team every game. A protest committee was named with Bill Prindible, Vince O'Connell and Bill Murphy comprising it. Entry fee for teams is two dollars again, money to be refunded if league finances warrant it. Games will consist of two 15-minute and one 20-minute periods, with five minutes rest between. Games must start on time, or time will be deducted from their play. A dance may be run to help teams get started, this matter to be decided again.

The Lakefield delegate proposed that city teams play some of their games with Lakefield on the latter's ice, Lakefield club to pay the referee and to pay the visiting club 15 per cent of the gate. It was agreed that if local teams are willing this matter may be arranged before the schedule is drawn up—the executive granting permission—and the schedule accordingly. Other matters were left till the next meeting.

Schmeling Never Saw Football Game But Is Picking Grid Winners

Ossie Solem can step up and take another bow...His Syracuse eleven which they said couldn't finish in the black, already has won five games and tied another...If you are looking for longshots Saturday, put a bob on Columbia over Dartmouth, Princeton over Navy, Colgate over Syracuse, Purdue over Indiana and Stanford over California.

One guy getting a lot of mail these days is Dukes Duford, former Marquette fullback and now coach of St. Ambrose College at Davenport, Ia....Since he took charge in 1931 Dukes' teams have won 45 games, lost only nine and brought in three titles...He is undefeated in the Iowa Conference since 1933 ...If he's in a new and bigger post next year, don't be surprised... Some of the New York experts are blasting Army's "outmoded attack" ...We still say they'll sink the Navy ...It now turns out that the Notre Dame team which played Minnesota had more Swedish blood in the lineup than the Gophers.

Mustangs Have Oldest Player In Ranks Of Intercollegiate Football Pastime

LONDON, Ont., Nov. 17.—(CP).—William (Bill) Ewener, if he can ward of a knockout blow from either Father Time or Old Man Injury, will undoubtedly earn the distinction of being the oldest player in Intercollegiate rugby before he graduates from the University of Western Ontario. Providing he recovers from a shoulder injury, Bill will be at inside wing when the Mustangs line up against University of Toronto in Saturday's sudden-death playoff game.

The Peruvian Indian from Sarnia—he worked for five years in the Peru oil fields before enrolling at Western—is in the third year of a seven-year medical course. He refuses to make public his age, although most second-guessers have it as between 30 and 35.

Bill's brittleness last year became a byword in the western camp and after every game he invariably was found in the hospital. This year has been no exception. In the game against Queen's he suffered a concussion. This did not prevent his getting in the line-up in the McGill contest from which he emerged with a dislocated shoulder.

Despite all his hard luck, Ewener has yet to miss a game this season.

FARR HAS SETTLED WITH BROADRIBB

LONDON, Nov. 17 (CP-Havas).—A provisional settlement of the dispute between Tommy Farr, British Empire heavyweight champion, and his manager, Ted Broadribb, was announced yesterday by solicitors for Farr.

Farr, who made a gallant bid for the world's heavyweight championship held by Joe Louis, split with Broadribb recently, accusing him of "irregularities" in his post as manager to the Louis bout last September. Broadribb started a suit against Farr, seeking to obtain a cut of Farr's earnings until their contract officially expires. Broadribb also sought to obtain an injunction restraining Farr from taking part in a Nov. 1 boxing show at Birmingham.

The manager charged Farr with breaches of two written agreements under which Broadribb became manager. Farr maintained their bonds were broken off by mutual agreement.

Under the terms of the provisional settlement Farr will pay Broadrobb £3,000, (about $15,000) and indemnify him for all costs. Broadribb will hand over all contracts signed by Farr and leave him to act as his own manager.

Frankie Battaglia On Comeback Trail

NEW YORK, Nov. 17 (C.P.). — Frankie Battaglia, black-browed Winnipeg veteran, comes back to the New York ring to-night after a three-year absence, to do 10 rounds—or less—of fisticuffing with solid Solly Krieger, middleweight toughy from Brooklyn. Odds favored the Brooklyn biffer 6 to 5.

Frankies last New York appearance was in the finals of a middleweight elimination tourney to determine a championship challenger. Ben Jeby, New York Hebrew, fairly tore his title hopes to shreds. Since then Battaglia has turned farmer with a 300-acre plot at Palmyra, Wis.

FIVE-TEAM LEAGUE FOR VAN HORNE CUP

KINGSTON, Nov. 17 (CP).—Five teams will make up the George Vanhorne Memorial Trophy senior hockey series this season, entries closing Monday night when the schedule was drawn up. Trenton Air Force, champions of last year, returned to the league, while Prescott decided not to compete this winter.

The five teams in the league are: Kingston, Trenton Air Force, Garrison, Belleville and Perth, the latter a new comer. The Garrison team will likely have an exceptionally strong line-up, as they will have the use of some of the signallers, who performed for the Camp Borden team last year.

First game in the senior series will be played Friday, when Perth and Garrison clash in the second game of a doubleheader, which sees Perth and Napanee juniors tangling. The schedule will be completed January 5, after which the semi-finals and finals will be played.

Goldsworthy Scores On Assist By Cowley In The Third Session

TORONTO, Nov. 17 (CP) — The National Hockey League's two undefeated teams—leaders of their sections and fast, pounding forces—aimed today for their first meeting of the season. A single game stands between maintenance of a flawless record for each machine before their collision at Toronto Saturday.

Toronto's young Maple Leafs, who have been tied twice in four starts, will be at home to Boston's bruising Bruins, who have won two of their games by one goal and the other by two. To come up to that game unbeaten, Leafs must hurdle the Canadiens at Montreal tomorrow and Boston must get by the Americans at New York. Taking those obstacles, the group leaders will enter a "natural" at Toronto.

Rangers Beat Americans

Bruins kept their sheet unmarred when Leroy Goldsworthy scored in the third period of a gruelling contest against Montreal Maroons for a 1 to 0 victory at Boston last night. Rangers stepped into a second-place tie with Chicago by handing Americans a 1-0 beating on Neil Colville's first-period goal at New York.

The games were in contrast to the prolific-scoring shows staged in the league's first 14 games, when 69 goals were rapped in.

There never were sterner rivals than Bruins and Leafs, who have met three times in Stanley Cup playoffs since 1932-33. Now they have assembled two of the league's speediest arrays of forwards and no defences hit harder. The goaltending edge lies with Bruins, where Tiny Thompson's experience and steadiness puts him ahead of Walter Broda.

Art Ross of Boston and Conny Smythe of Toronto, are arch-rival managers and neither revels in anything so much as a win over each other. In the first two weeks of the current campaign the showings of their clubs in stepping ahead of last winter's division champions have been by far the big features.

Boston's decision which shoved Maroons a little deeper into the Canadian division cellar was achieved after two rough periods. Bill Cowley beat his way past the Maroon blue line and passed to Goldsworthy. The flying wingman got by Defenceman Allan Shields and let fly from 15 feet out.

Two Players Out of the Game.

The victory was doubly convincing in view of the fact Bruins were without two injured players, Ray Getliffe and Charlie Sands. They were replaced by Red Hamill and Mel Hill, amateur stars in Ontario's nickel belt last season.

Dave Trottier of Maroons and Cooney Weiland came close in a first chapter dotted with penalties and in the second Bill Beveridge had to weather a storm of Boston drives while his club was shorthanded. Porky Dumart was penalized in the third but Tiny Thompson stood up gallantly under continual pressing by Baldy Northcott, Jimmy Ward and Bob Gracie and Maroons' last chance went when Jerry Shannon was sentenced for tripping in the late minutes.

Colville brought Madison Square Garden's 16,000 fans to their feet as he stepped through American's defence in the first period to settle the All-New York scrap. Alex Shibicky fed him the pass which started the scoring play.

Colville and Joe Jerwa were given major penalties in the third period when they broke into a fight as Americans battled desperately to tie the score. A free-for-all, nothing new to Ranger-Amerk battles, was narrowly averted as the pair were pulled apart.

OSHAWA SENIORS YOUTHFUL TEAM AVERAGE AGE 22

OSHAWA, Nov. 17.—With every prospect pointing to what may be the youngster O.H.A. senior team in history, Oshawa General Motors seniors held their first workout last night when they were put through P.T. at local auditorium. With the season schedule slated to start in two weeks' time and ice at the local arena also two weeks off, the local entry hopes to arrange ice practices in Toronto within the next few days.

With the players' average age less than 23 years, Coach Doc Rowden, perennial star of Oshawa squads, will be the oldest playing member at a time when most stars are reaching their peak of effectiveness.

The players counted on to form the Oshawa entry with their ages, are as follows: H. Armstrong 24, W. Bagnell 23, Ab. Barnes 22, S. Benham 22, A. Chisholm 22, J. Cooper 22, R. Covert 22, W. Hastie 20, W. Jamieson 21, W. Morrison 22, E. Patten 20, I. McCullough 20, J. McEwen 21, K. Sanders 20, G. Salter 22, J. Shortt 22, C. Smith 22 and D. Rowden 27.

The only newcomers to the city are Armstrong, who hails originally from Pembroke and Benham, who played for Biggar, Sask., last season. The players from last year' good junior squad who are trying to make the grade in the senior series are: W. Hastie, centre; K. Sanders, utility; E. Patton, defense; and L. McCullough, defense. W. (Squeak) Morrison, who played junior and senior hockey for Oshawa previously, is back with the squad after missing all of last season's games.

Kent Can Still Show His Heels

Like Tennyson's brook, Hugh Kent apparently intends to roll on forever. With 54 years of competitive track events behind him, the 75-year-old athlete can still show a clean pair of heels to many of the youngsters. The world's record time of 12 seconds flat for the three-legged raceover a distance of 100 yards was set by Hugh and his brother John. Incidentally, the record is still unbroken. Hugh Kent, ABOVE, at 75, demonstrates the crouch start now in general use by track runners. At the beginning of Kent's track career, the standing start was in favor.

LONDON, Ont., Nov. 17.—(CP)—William (Bill) Ewener, if he can ward of a knockout blow from either Father Time or Old Man Injury, will undoubtedly earn the distinction of being the oldest player in Intercollegiate rugby before he graduates from the University of Western Ontario. Providing he recovers from a shoulder injury, Bill will be at inside wing when the Mustangs line up against University of Toronto in Saturday's sudden-death playoff game.

The Peruvian Indian from Sarnia—he worked for five years in the Peru oil fields before enrolling at Western—is in the third year of a seven-year medical course. He refuses to make public his age, although most second-guessers have it as between 30 and 35.

Bill's brittleness last year became a byword in the western camp and after every game he invariably was found in the hospital. This year has been no exception. In the game against Queen's he suffered a concussion. This did not prevent his getting in the line-up in the McGill contest from which he emerged with a dislocated shoulder.

Despite all his hard luck, Ewener has yet to miss a game this season.

TORONTO, Nov. 17 (C.P.). — First scoring famine of the new hockey season left the National League scoring leaders unchanged last night though Neil Colville's goal and Alex Shibicky's assist left the Ranger players with three points each, just one outside the Big Seven minimum.

This week's first release of official figures put Gordon Drillon of Toronto in first place with eight points and Charlie Conacher of Toronto second with seven. George Mantha and Armand Mondou, Canadiens, Mush March and Paul Thompson, Chicago, and Red Horner, Toronto, are tied for sixth place with four.

The leaders:

	G	A	Pt.
Drillon, Toronto	4	4	8
Conacher, Toronto	5	2	7
H. Jackson, Toronto	4	1	5
Barry, Detroit	3	2	5
Romnes, Chicago	2	3	5
Mantha, Canadiens	3	1	4
March, Chicago	3	1	4
Mondou, Canadiens	1	3	4
Horner, Toronto	0	4	4
Thompson, Chicago	0	4	4

MORE TEAMS ENTER CITY PUCK LEAGUE

Seven teams signified their intention of entry into the Senior City League last night at a meeting held in Duffus'. The teams were: Bewdley, Millbrook, Westclox, Marino's Pia-Mors, Johnson Motors and C.G.E., the last not a definite entry as yet. Closing date for entries was extended to Nov. 30th when another meeting will be held at eight p.m. in Duffus'. President Leo Allen presided at this session.

It was decided that no O.H.A. players be allowed to compete in the league this season, it being pointed out that any signed O.H.A. player was ineligible to compete in this league unless he had been released before Jan. 15th from his O.H.A. certificate and had not played an O.H.A. game. No overtime will be played in scheduled games, tied teams taking a point each, but 30 minutes of overtime in case of a tie will be played in playoff contests, 15 minutes each way.

Referees to Apply

Applications for referees will be accepted by the secretary—his address being 257 Carlisle Ave., city—till Nov. 30th, the executive then picking the referee. He will again be paid 50 cents by each team every game. A protest committee was named with Bill Prindible, Vince O'Connell and Bill Murphy comprising it. Entry fee for teams is two dollars again, money to be refunded if league finances warrant it. Games will consist of two 15-minute and one 20-minute periods, with five minutes rest between. Games must start on time, or time will be deducted from their play. A dance may be run to help teams get started, this matter to be decided again.

The Lakefield delegate proposed that city teams play some of their games with Lakefield on the latter's ice, Lakefield club to pay the referee and to pay the visiting club 15 per cent of the gate. It was agreed that if local teams are willing this matter may be arranged before the schedule is drawn up—the executive granting permission—and the schedule accordingly. Other matters were left till the next meeting.

Schmeling Never Saw Football Game But Is Picking Grid Winners

Ossie Solem can step up and take another bow . . . His Syracuse eleven which they said couldn't finish in the black, already has won five games and tied another . . . If you are looking for longshots Saturday, put a bob on Columbia over Dartmouth, Princeton over Navy, Colgate over Syracuse, Purdue over Indiana and Stanford over California.

One guy getting a lot of mail these days is Dukes Duford, former Marquette fullback and now coach of St. Ambrose College at Davenport, Ia. . . . Since he took charge in 1931 Dukes' teams have won 46 games, lost only nine and brought in three titles . . . He is undefeated in the Iowa Conference since 1933 . . . If he's in a new and bigger post next year, don't be surprised . . . Some of the New York experts are blasting Army's "outmoded attack" . . . We still say they'll sink the Navy . . . It now turns out that the Notre Dame team which played Minnesota had more Swedish blood in the lineup than the Gophers.

FARR HAS SETTLED WITH BROADRIBB

LONDON, Nov. 17 (CP-Havas).—A provisional settlement of the dispute between Tommy Farr, British Empire heavyweight champion, and his manager, Ted Broadribb, was announced yesterday by solicitors for Farr.

Farr, who made a gallant bid for the world's heavyweight championship held by Joe Louis, split with Broadribb recently, accusing him of "irregularities" in his post as manager to the Louis bout last September. Broadribb started a suit against Farr, seeking to obtain a cut of Farr's earnings until their contract officially expires. Broadribb also sought to obtain an injunction restraining Farr from taking part in a Nov. 1 boxing show at Birmingham.

The manager charged Farr with breaches of two written agreements under which Broadribb became manager. Farr maintained their bonds were broken off by mutual agreement.

Under the terms of the provisional settlement Farr will pay Broadrobb £3,000 (about $15,000) and indemnify him for all costs. Broadribb will hand over all contracts signed by Farr and leave him to act as his own manager.

FIVE-TEAM LEAGUE FOR VAN HORNE CUP

KINGSTON, Nov. 17 (CP).—Five teams will make up the George Vanhorne Memorial Trophy senior hockey series this season, entries closing Monday night when the schedule was drawn up. Trenton Air Force, champions of last year, returned to the league, while Prescott decided not to compete this winter.

The five teams in the league are: Kingston, Trenton Air Force, Garrison, Belleville and Perth, the latter a new comer. The Garrison team will likely have an exceptionally strong line-up, as they will have the use of some of the signallers, who performed for the Camp Borden team last year.

First game in the senior series will be played Friday, when Perth and Garrison clash in the second game of a doubleheader, which sees Perth and Napanee juniors tangling. The schedule will be completed January 5, after which the semi-finals and finals will be played.

CHAPTER 39.

It became quite customary for Tim, returning to The Wilderness at half past 5 or 6, to be accosted by Adams in the familiar style which, because it had now become quite natural and carried no hint of defiance, was more subtly insulting than ever. "Hurry up with your tea, Kennedy," he would say. "I want a game of something or other."

Sometimes they would play a two-handed poker, but as Tim was able to hold his own in this field, they generally adjourned to the billiard room. There the procedure was almost invariable; Adams would fix the money stake, give half the game as a handicap, go slow until Tim looked like winning, then take control and run out. Once he overreached himself and Tim won the game, but Adams demanded another on the basis of double or quits, and Tim had to be content with the negative satisfaction of not actually having lost any money.

He had to put up with all this, and a great deal more—Adams helping himself to his whiskey, or lounging in armchairs in any room he fancied, or taking the morning paper before Tim had a chance to look at it, or turning on the wireless when the whim seized him, or whistling and shouting about the corridors, or boisterously playing about with the housemaid on the stairs. He made free of Tim's property as he chose.

One Sunday afternoon after lunch Tim, who had been intending to drive to Brighton, found his car missing. He learned from the boy that "Mr. Adams and a gentleman" had taken it. Tim still had some shreds of selfrespect left. "Oh, yes, of course, I forgot," he said to the boy. "I told Adams he could take it yesterday." It was one of Adams' public-house cronies, no doubt, as Adams himself did not drive.

The car had not returned by the time Tim went to bed that night, and next morning he found it in a dreadful condition—splashed all over with mud, a bent mudguard, and a dent in the radiator. "You might at least have asked me if you wanted the car," he ventured to protest when he saw Adams. "Sorry, must have slipped my memory," was the grinning reply. "And you might have cleaned it," Tim added. "Look at the state you've left it in." Adams shook his head. "Not my job any longer," he said. "What's a garage for, anyway?"

It seems that a streak of sadism, always latent in the man, had been brought to full flower by lack of occupation. Adams became even more vicious in his persecution of Tim, let pass no opportunity of rin, causing him humiliation and chag-

It was not long before he became aware of his victim's degeneration; the matter gave him something to think about, and he started on a new line. He came into the dining room one morning as Tim was fiddling with his breakfast, and sat down at the table.

"Look here, my lad," he said. "It's time I had a word with you. What d'you think you've been playing at lately?"

"What are you talking about?" he asked.

"Just look at yourself!" exclaimed Adams indignantly. "Positively bleary-eyed! Your hair wants cutting, and your mustache hasn't been trimmed for a week. You've got egg on your shirt, and I don't believe you've washed your neck this morning. You certainly haven't shaved. What are your patients going to think of you?"

"That's my business," Tim muttered.

"It's my business, too, Kennedy, and don't you make any mistake about that. Do you think people are going to a dentist who can't even keep himself clean? You'll lose your practice if you don't pull yourself together pretty sharp, and then where shall I be? Understand, this has got to stop, and no mistake about it. You're on the boose too, aren't you?"

"You ought to know the symptoms."

"I don't want any lip from you, my boy. What you need is a nursemaid. I see I shall have to take you in hand myself. We'll start right away. What time's your first appointment?"

"Half past 9."

"Well, you've got about 20 minutes. Finish your breakfast, run upstairs, wash and shave yourself properly, and change your shirt. And you're to go to the barber's this evening. I think that'll do for the present."

From that moment Adams assumed an almost complete physical dominion over his former employer. He took an evident relish in his self-appointed task of keeping Tim up to the mark, and he contrived to execute it in as brutal and humiliating a way as possible.

Every morning, before Tim was allowed to have his breakfast, a kind of inspection took place. The unhappy dentist was made to stand up, and his clothes, his shoes, his hair, his teeth, his fingernails, were all examined, with the hostile and exigent scrutiny of a martinet on the parade ground.

Tim's apathy was not proof against the mortification of this daily Calvary. He began to take a grip on himself in sheer self-defense. At the end of a week he was almost as spruce as of old, but by this time Adams had just warmed up to the fun of the game, and he did not relax his vigilance.

He even evolved another means of turning the knife in the wound. With the same virtuous aim of making Tim into a good citizen again, he deprived him of his chief source of consolation. He caused all the alcoholic drink in the house to be placed in the dining room sideboard, and took charge of the key.

The William and Mary and other houses in town were put out of bounds, Tim was made to report at certain fixed hours, when his person was searched for contraband liquors. In mitigation, Adams doled out a modest ration at dinnertime, and sometimes, perhaps when his usual victory at billiards made him feel magnanimous, he conceded a nightcap.

Certainly this tyranny did Tim a certain amount of good. When away from Adams he was affected by the suggestion of a decent and respectable appearance; at times he felt almost like his old self. Some of his confidence returned. Possibly Adams was building more than he knew.

BEDTIME STORY

By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY'S RUGS.

"Look out, Nurse Jane!" called Mrs. Longears, the rabbit lady, as she looked from a window in the hollow stump bungalow one day.

"What's the matter?" asked the muskrat lady housekeeper. "Are the Bad Chaps coming?"

"No, but Uncle Wiggily is," said the rabbit lady wife. "He is hopping this way fast. His pink nose is twinkling like a traffic light and his ears are twiddling. He has something on his mind, sure!"

Surely enough when Uncle Wiggily hopped into the bungalow he asked his wife and Nurse Jane:

"What about the rugs?"

"What rugs?" asked Nurse Jane.

"Our rugs—my rugs," said the rabbit gentleman. "They must be cleaned for Thanksgiving. I was just over to the den of Mr. Stubtail, my jolly gentleman bear friend. He is having all his rugs cleaned for Thanksgiving."

"My gracious goodness me, Wiggy," laughed his wife. "We don't expect to eat rugs for Thanksgiving, do we?"

Naughty Rugs?

"Oh, no, certainly not," replied Mr. Longears. "But we must have the bungalow clean and neat for Thanksgiving so the rugs must be whipped."

"Dear me! Have they been as bad as that?" asked Nurse Jane.

"Oh, you know what I mean!" said Mr. Longears. "The dirt must be whipped or beaten out of the rugs. I told Old Dog Percival to come over this afternoon to whip the rugs. He does a very nice job by wagging his tail against them. Come on, get the rugs ready!"

"Oh, dear!" said Nurse Jane.

"Oh, dear!" said Mrs. Longears.

"What's the matter?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

"We were just going to the movies," said the rabbit lady wife. "If we have to get the rugs ready for Old Dog Percival to clean we'll miss part of the picture. And it's a lovely one called 'Carrots and Lettuce Mystery'."

"Oh, I wouldn't have you miss that," said Uncle Wiggily. "You two ladies go to the pictures. I'll get the rugs ready for Percival. He will clean them in time for Thanksgiving."

"Oh, you are very kind, Wiggy," said his wife.

So she and Nurse Jane went to the movies. Uncle Wiggily began to roll up the rugs making sure Baby Bunty, the little orphan rabbit, didn't get rolled up in any of them by mistake.

Has a Nap.

"Well, I guess that's about all the rugs. Now I'll rest," said Mr. Longears. "There's only one more rug to go. I'll lie down on that and rest until Percival comes."

Uncle Wiggily stretched out on the rug in the living room. But the windows were open, to let the dust blow out. In came the wind and it blew the rug around the rabbit rolling him right up in it as he slept. Pretty soon along came Old Dog Percival.

"Ah ha!" barked Percival. "Wiggy has the rugs all rolled ready for me to put in my auto and take to the vacant lot so I can knock the dust out with my tail. Here I go!"

Percival began to lead the rugs into his auto. But when he picked up the one in which Uncle Wiggily was rolled all of a sudden the shouted:

"Let me go! Put me down! Police Dog! Bad Chaps! Police Dog!"

Percival was so surprised he dropped the rug. It unrolled and out popped the rabbit.

"Ha! Ha! Ha!" laughed Uncle Wiggily.

"Ha! Ha! Ha!" laughed Percival.

Then everbody was happy. And if the snow shovel doesn't take a straw hat to get a pint of milk in, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily's pop gun.

Direct Cause Of Cancer Lies In Secretion Of Injured Cells

Cancer Is Said To Resemble An Over-Enthusiastically Healing Injury

CINCINNATI, Nov. 17—(AP). — Tracing 10 years of experiments, Dr. George Sperti, internationally-known scientist and director of the Institutum Divi Tomae, published today in the institution's journal results of researches showing a direct cause of cancer lies in secretions given off by injured body cells.

"Quite definitely, we have no cure for cancer," said Dr. Sperti. "But, of course, that is a goal toward which we and many other scientists are working.

"It may be a year, 10 years, or a century, before any cure for cancer is found, although we believe our discovery is a step toward that end."

Dr. Sperti, at 37, is a member of the Pontifical Academy of Sciences.

Dr. Sperti modesty credited the find to two members of his staff, Dr. John R. Loofbourow and Sister Cecilia Marie Dwyer, S.C.

Dr. Loofbourow asserted the secretions given off by injured cells was found to stimulate cell proliferation such as occurs in healing and that "cancer resembles an over-enthusiastically healing injury."

Dead cells, he said, do not expel the cancer hormone. Wounds, such as cuts or burns, kill most of the injured cells and malignancy does not result, but if large volumes of cells are injured over long periods of time, the production of stimulating products may be sufficient to cause malignancy

Dr. Loofbourow said secretions given off by the injured cells caused nearby cells to multiply. Such growth, uncontrolled, he believes to result in cancer.

Prisoner Asks Lash Instead Of Jail But Cadi Refuses To Believe Him

Victoria, B.C., Nov. 17

PATRICK O'Malley, convicted of possessing stolen clothing, today pleaded for lashes rather than a jail term, but his request was not heeded by Police Magistrate Henry Hall. O'Malley was sentenced to six months' imprisonment.

After a long list o fO'Malley's previous convictions had been read in court, the prisoner said:

"Judge, if there is anything in the Criminal Code that will give me lashes instead of going to jail I'd appreciate it because I want to go and see my sick mother."

Magistrate Hall said he did not believe the story and imposed the jail term.

Says Mackenzie Was A Patriot

TORONTO, Nov. 17 (CP).—Edwin C. Guillet, Toronto, author of historical works, discussing William Lyon Mackenzie's part in the rebellion of Upper Canada (1837), told a national book fair audience here that Mackenzie would be ranked by posterity as a patriot rather than a rebel.

"It is the opinion now of the majority of Canadians that Mackenzie and his followers, fighting against Sir Francis Bond Head (Lieutenant-Governor of Upper Canada) had a very considerable claim to the name of patriots. In general I think the revolution was justified by results."

PONTYPOOL PUPIL WINS SCHOLARSHIP

(Examiner Correspondence.)

PONTYPOOL, Nov. 17. — On Wednesday evening the Cheerio Group of the Women's Association held a social evening in the basement of the United Church. The evening was spent in playing community games, led by Rev. W. F. Riding. The ladies had provided lunch which was served and a social time enjoyed.

Miss Jean Coulter is receiving the congratulations of her friends in obtaining the scholarship prize of $125 for obtaining the highest marks on all subjects over a period of three years in Newcastle High School.

Fall work is nearly completed in this district. Although there has been a lot of weather unsuitable for outdoor work during the last week, a lot of ploughing has been done.

Fall grain has done well and has a fair top for winter. Fall pasture has also been good and very few ranch cattle have been taken home yet. Farmers are glad of this, as in some places the crops were light and a mild open fall will mean a wonderful saving on feed.

A Missionary fair was planned for Friday evening, November 19. Slides costumes and exhibits were being obtained by Rev. Mr. Brown, pastor of the church. Lunch to be served during the evening with a small admission fee.

Mrs. M. Johnston invited the ladies to use her home for a quilting, sewing bee and Pot Luck dinner they are planning for Tuesday, November 16, to supplement a bale given by Mrs. George Patton, to be sent to Mr. Drew in the dried-out area of the West.

An invitation to hold the December meeting at her home, was extended by Mrs. Harold Rowan.

The program was in charge of Miss Esma Johnston, who now took the chair. Following the singing of the National Anthem, Mrs. J. Grandy gave an interesting article on Peace. Other numbers with bearing on Armistice day were given by Mrs. O. Dunford in a poem and Mrs. W. Bowles in a poetic reading. Mrs. L. Whittington gave an article on temperance. Miss Johnston sketched partially the book "Before They Call," by Nellie McClung. She also read two letters from student missionaries in Saskatchewan, which lent the personal touch as they told of conditions and experiences amongst the people.

Expression of thanks was extended to Mrs. Johnston for her kind hospitality and to the lunch committee. Lunch was served at the close.

SIX PERSONS ARE KILLED LEVEL CROSSING CRASH

HEAVY FIGHTING NEAR KASHING IN JAP DRIVE

One of Gates of City Is Reported Captured

SHANGHAI, Nov. 18 (AP)—Japanese army spokesmen announced tonight Japanese troops driving to break through China's "hindenburg" line between Shanghai and Nanking had captured one gate of the walled city of Kashing, southern keystone of the line.

Chinese and Japanese reported heavy fighting in the area around Kashing, 60 miles southwest of Shanghai and 30 miles south of Soochow, main point of Chinese defences.

Chinese told of a spirited engagement at Seven Star Bridge, four miles northeast of Kashing. Japanese said they were unable to state officially that their forces had captured the city.

News of the Japanese push against the southern wing of the defences stretching from the Yangtze River south of Hangchow Bay came a few hours after an unofficial government warning spurred mass migration of civilians from Nanking.

For 24 hours, Chinese had held their own along the length of the defences to which they retreated after Shanghai fell into Japanese hands Nov. 9.

Chinese Stop Advance

Although the Japanese received reinforcements for the new onslaught today, their only advance apparently was on the southern front. They were unable to push forward toward Soochow, along the Shanghai-Nanking railroad. Fighting desperately, Chinese stood their ground between the Cheni and waiting stations.

Chinese reported their troops, aided by 30 warplanes, had counter-attacked and pushed Japanese back toward Cheni. They also asserted Chinese had repulsed three Japanese attempts to effect a landing at Fushan, 120 miles downstream from Nanking on the Yangtze.

Japanese explained that Chinese lines from Soochow north to the Yangtze were protected by a network of creeks and canals and defended by 120,000 troops under the command of General Pai Chung-Hsi, leader of the Kwangsi province forces and once a bitter foe of General Chiang Kai-Shek.

In the same area, they said, 100,000 additional defeated Chinese troops were attempting to reorganize.

Chinese said their troops still held Wukiang, 15 miles south of Soochow, and said Japanese were concentrating motorboats for attempted crossing of Taihu Lake, which lies behind the main Chinese defence lines.

NURSE SHORTAGE FEARED AT BORDER

DETROIT, Nov. 18—(CP). — Possibility of a shortage of nurses in Detroit hospitals resulting from the immigration ban against Canadian nurses was seen today by Mrs. Ellen Stahlnecker, superintendent of nurses at Herman Kiefer Hospital, Detroit, and secretary of the bureau of registration for the State of Michigan.

"Hospital work is fairly slow at the present time and I don't think the hospitals are experiencing any great shortage of nurses but there will be dange rof a shortage during periods of stress when the work is heavier," Mrs. Stahlnecker said.

"The late winter months and the early part of the spring are usually times of stress," she said.

"Canadian nurses prefer coming to the United States to work because salaries are higher here," she said. "We have no objection to their coming so long as they meet our qualifications and are properly registered. In the United States we have plenty of poor nurses but we have a shortage of good nurses," she added.

Britain And States Will Negotiate For Trade Treaty

Decision May Result in Far-Reaching Economic and Political Implications

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18—(CP)—The United States and Great Britain agreed today to negotiate for a reciprocal trade pact, a decision fraught with far-reaching economic and political implications.

The decision was announced by State Secretary Hull in a statement asserting merely the United States "contemplates" such negotiations.

Actual start of the negotiations, expected within a few weeks, will climax more than a year of explanatory work by representatives of both governments in London and Washington.

Hull's announcement, released simultaneously with a statement to the British House of Commons on the subject, gave no hint of the basis of approach agreed upon nor any details of the long preliminary conversations.

There appeared good reason to believe, however, that the British government probably consented to consider granted to some American products treatment equal to that which it now accords to goods from the British dominions under "Empire preference."

Worked for Treaty.

Secretary Hull has striven, since his reciprocal trade program started in 1934, to obtain an agreement with Great Britain in the conviction that closer Anglo-American economic co-operation is essential to any general lowering of world trade barriers.

He was represented as believing that more intimate commercial ties between the two nations not only

KEITH HUGHES, 22 KILLED IN CRASH TWO ARE INJURED

ST. THOMAS, Ont., Nov. 18.—(CP)—Keith Hughes, 22, of Aylmer, a native of Peterborough was killed last night when the automobile in which he was a passenger blew out a tire going down the New Sarum Hill on No. 3 highway eight miles east of here and crashed into a bridge.

Norman Geer, 22, Corinth, was injured critically; George Brant, 19, Aylmer; suffered minor injuries and Kenneth Miller, 21, Aylmer, and Wilbur Newell, 21, Corinth, escaped injury in the crash.

The five men were returning from St. Thomas where they attended night school classes. Police said the car was driven by Miller.

Hughes was born in Peterborough and was educated in local schools. He left this city three years ago when his parents removed to Aylmer. A brother, Norman, resident here, left for Aylmer when informed of the tragedy this morning.

Activity Of Japanese Not New To Minister

Canadian Intelligence Service Well Informed But Private Citizens Should Co-operate

VICTORIA, Nov. 18 (C.P.).—Defence Minister Ian Mackenzie said last night the subject of Japanese activity on the Canadian Pacific Coast was "not a new one to my Department."

The Minister, commenting on a despatch from Toronto in which Archdeacon F. G. Scott was quoted as saying Japanese naval officers in disguise were living in British Columbia coastal villages, said his Department was kept informed upon all matters affecting Canada's safety.

"We have an intelligence service and it is well-informed upon all matters affecting the safety and well-being of the country," the Minister said.

"If private citizens have information of importance to the defence of their country, I think it is their duty to furnish it to the Department of National Defence. It will be cordially welcomed.

"It is the policy of the Canadian Government, and I am sure, the desire of the Canadian people to live at peace with all nations.

"Recognizing the disturbed condition of the world, the Government had, during the past year, initiated an extensive defence program in which the Pacific Coast has a prominent place."

Temptation Too Great Man Is Fined $20

Sarnia, Nov. 18

DOUGLAS Zavitz of Dawn township pleaded guilty today to a charge of unlawfully killing deer November 13. He was fined $20 and $24.25 costs.

"The temptation was too great," Zavitz said when asked why he had shot the deer which appeared near his home.

Pioneer Plant Is To Be Auctioned

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 18—(AP)—Two generators and an unwieldy engine, the equipment of Thomas A. Edison used 44 years ago to introduce commercial electricity to a skeptical world, will go on the auction block, December 22.

Franklin Institute, where the relic has been exhibited since 1933, announced to-day it would be one of the bidders.

The pioneer electric plant was placed on sale to settle the estate of Phillip Brackley Shaw, who provided financial backing to try out Edison's weird new light without flame.

Mussolini Is Seeking Loan In Britain – Chances Are Slim

Double For Draper Gets Salute At Royal

Toronto, Nov. 18.

HE opened the door of the police station at the Royal Winter Fair and stepped inside. Two or three constables glanced toward him, suddenly straightened up and snapped to attention.

"Pardon me, officer," said the dead ringer for Chief Constable D. C. Draper, "I was just wondering if you could direct me to the flower show."

Former Italian Finance Minister Will Likely Have To Return Empty-Handed

LONDON, Nov. 18—(CP-Havas).—The Daily Herald (Labor) to-day said the former Italian Finance Minister, Count Giuseppe Volpi, believed to be in London to negotiate an Italian loan, will have to return to Italy "empty handed" and tell Premier Mussolini "there is nothing doing."

"Count Volpi would have liked £20,000,000 ($100,150,000) to £30,000,000 for two or three years," The Herald said. "But he has found no encouragement at all. Even in circles politically sympathetic it is recognized that lending money to Italy at however high a rate of interest is too risky a game for sober bankers.

"Apart from short term trade credits, no private institution would dream of an Italian loan without a guarantee from the Treasury or the Bank of England.

"It is known that there is not the remotest chance for such a guarantee, at any rate while Italian policy remains as it is, so Count Volpi must go home empty handed and tell Il Duce there is nothing doing. And Il Duce must think again."

Churchill Would Permit Writers A Depreciation On Mental Powers

LONDON, Nov. 18.—(CP).—Winston Churchill, speaking as both an author and a former Chancellor of the Exchequer, recently suggested writers should be allowed to write off every year against income tax a substantial sum for the depreciation of their mental machinery through wear and tear and through age and use.

Mr. Churchill was opening the National Book Fair.

The author, he declared, was the cause of spring from which there came the ever-broadening flow of intellectual and commercial activity. He was therefore a highly desirable citizen and ought to be cherished and honored and substantially rewarded by an enlightened community.

A wise Chancellor of the Exchequer would allow authors his suggested relief. When he was Chancellor, he said, he refrained from motives of delicacy but he thought that some of his successors might put the measure through.

ERNEST SIMPSON WEDS U.S. WOMAN AT BRIDGEPORT

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Nov. 18.—(AP)—Ernest Simpson, former husband of the present Duchess of Windsor, and Mrs. Harry Kirk Raffray were married here today.

The wedding took place in the ballroom of the Brooklawn Country Club.

Mrs. Raffray who met Simpson through the Duchess of Windsor before her marriage to the Duke of Windsor, obtained a divorce at Reno last week.

A Justice of the Peace married the couple. Simpson's parents, the bride's sister and a few close friends were present. A luncheon followed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Philo C. Calhoun.

Simpson and his bride went to the Town Hall at nearby Fairfield for their marriage license.

The license gave the bride's age as 41 and said the marriage was her second.

Mrs. Raffray said she was born in Baltimore, the daughter of Henry Child Kirk and Ethel Edith Huntermuller. She listed London as her present address.

Simpson said he was 40 years old and gave his occupation as a ship broker. The son of Ernest L. Simpson and Charlotte Gaines, he said his marriage to Mrs. Raffray was his third. He too listed London as his address.

The Connecticut five-day marriage law was waived by Probate Judge Brafor Boardman, thus making it possible for the couple to be married at once.

NO BROADCASTING BRITISH DEBATES

LONDON, Nov. 18—Britain's parliamentary battles will not be broadcast. Prime Minister Chamberlain, amid Conservative applause, told the House of Commons today he did not think the proposal would commend itself to any considerable section of the public.

Ellis Smith, Labor, who raised the question, pressed the Prime Minister to reconsider. Did he not know that a real democratic country like New Zealand already adopted it. Did he not think a broadcast preferable to news owned and controlled by two lords.

"Will the Prime Minister not agree to television?" drily suggested another Labor member.

Mr. Chamberlain was amused but still declined.

GASOLINE TAX INCREASE

ROME, Nov. 1.—(AP).—The Italian government, furthering its program to raise money for self-sufficiency development of the Empire, clapped a 40 per cent increase on the gasoline tax to-day.

The levy raised the price of gasoline in Rome by 25 per cent., the new figure being 3.32 lire a liter or 66 cents a gallon.

Court Decides Family Of Man Who Lost Memory

Goat Charges Car Did Not Like Image

Cooksville, Ont., Nov. 18

JAMES Halsey returned to his home here after visiting a friend near Paris, but his shiney new car was a bit bruised and dented. A goat, apparently angered by its reflection on the body of the car, had charged the image several times, incidentally denting the car while he was at it.

After 19 Years Of Litigation French Soldier Finally Finds a Home

RODEZ, France, Nov. 18.—(CP-Havas).—After 19 years of litigation, the case of a French soldier who lost his memory in the Great War and was claimed by hundreds of bereaved mothers as their son was decided by a civil court here yesterday in favor of the Montjoin family of Sante-Maure.

Early in 1918 the young Poilu, suffering from head injuries and ignorant of his name or previous history, arrived in this southern city with wounded comrades.

He was unable to speak and his tattered uniform could not tell his origin. The task of identification formed a sad episode in the war's aftermath.

Speech returned to him but he could not recall his name or any fact of his past. His memories began with revival from coma at the Rodez hospital.

Records Explored.

Military authorities took up the case. Army records were explored. Newspapers published the "living unknown soldier's" photograph. In reply, hundreds of mothers whose sons were "missing" came to Rodez.

Many thought they detected the features of their child in the homeless Poilu. Years of investigation gradually weeded out the claimants to a handful who had lost a son of approximately the soldier's age. At last one of them, a Mme. Mangin, addressing him by the name of her child, Anthelme, succeeded in awakening a faint reaction. On the basis of this, he was provisionally named "Anthelme Mangin."

But another mother, Mme. Montjoin, pressed her claims.

Legal and medical authorities re-examined evidence and the soldier, now well into middle age. The court pronounced him "Octave Montjoin," native of Sainte-Maure, in the Indre-et-Loire Department.

JOB INSURANCE NOT PROMISED COLDWELL SAYS

VICTORIA, Nov. 18—(CP).—M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. member of the House of Commons for Rosetown-Biggar, told a by-election campaign meeting last night that the Federal Government had made no provisions for a depression that "will shake the world to its foundations."

"We are following the same path as that which led us to the 1930 depression," the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation member said. He was speaking at nearby Esquimalt on behalf of Prof. J. King Gordon, C.C.F. candidate in the November 29 Victoria by-election.

Mr. Coldwell mentioned the social legislation instituted by governments premiers, asking if they will agree and suggested that what could be done in those countries also could be done in Canada.

Just Asking Premiers

Prime Minister Mackenzie King had not promised unemployment insurance, he claimed. "All he is doing is writing letters to the provincial premiers, asking if they will agreed to it. Unless Quebec changes its views, they will not agree to it.

Prof. J. King Gordon, Co-operative Commonwealth Federation candidate in the three-cornered contest, told an audience in nearby Esquimalt that Canada could not contribute to rebuilding world peace and "at the same time assist in the aggression of Japan."

"Why does not Canada place an embargo upon exports to Japan in the same way it did against Spain?" the C.C.F. candidate asked. "It is because, in the latter case, no great profits were affected.

"We should insist that this government place an embargo on these exports to clear our national honor," Prof. Gordon said.

New York Acclaims Plays Written By Ontario Lawyer

Finely Chosen Cast Is Brought Out For a Dozen Curtain Calls

NEW YORK, Nov. 18 (C.P.). — New York's drama critics, who have been hoping for a miracle in this theatrical season of many disappointments, sang their hosannas today over "Father Malachy's Miracle" and Brian Doherty, the young Toronto attorney who fashioned it for the stage.

"Truly a tender and lovable play," said The Herald-Tribune's Richard Watts, Jr.

"An original, genuinely humorous play that shines like a good deed in this naughty neighborhood," added Brooks Atkinson of The Times.

Burns Mantle of The Daily News rejoiced that he had "come upon a comedy boasting simple, old-fashioned virtues for a change."

There was no doubting the audience at last night's brilliant premiere shared the views of the critics. They brought the finely chosen cast out for a dozen curtain calls. They shouted "bravos" at the 30-year-old Canadian who dramatized Bruce Marshall's 1932 novel and made of it wholesome entertainment.

No Small Miracle.

They were quietened only when Al Shean, the venerable old comic who headed the cast in the role of Father Malachy, threw them a kiss.

Three Young Men And Three Girls Die In Wreckage

Girls Remained Unidentified Several Hours After Railway Crash at Vineland Crossing

VINELAND, Ont., Nov. 18.—(CP)—Bodies of six young persons lay in a Beamsville morgue today, toll of one of the worst level crossing accidents in the history of the Niagara Peninsula. Three young men and three girls died when their car was struck by a speeding train.

The dead:

James Fisher, 20, driver.
Robert Colley, 17.
Steven Sutch, 17, all of Welland, Ont.
Madge Rita Jordan, 15.
Ruth Janetta Wright, 14.
Sophia Nicol, 15, all of Thorold, Ont.

The girls remained unidentified several hours after the crash. They were believed to have met the young men in Thorold and were on a pleasure drive when their slowly-moving automobile pulled into the path of a 50-mile-an-hour through freight on the Canadian National Railways crossing here last night.

Railway and provincial constables joined to investigate the multiple tragedy. Five of the six occupants of young Fisher's car were killed when it was struck broadside and demolished. The sixth died enroute to hospital.

Sea Cadet Troop

The young men were members of a sea cadet corps in Welland. They were identified by relatives, but authorities remained ignorant for hours as to identity of the girl companions until, hearing they may have been Thorold girls, they asked the police there to check.

Thorold police got in touch with the parents of several young women and finally traced the victims. Sorrowing families thus learned of the accident and the fathers of two of the girls and a brother of the third went to the Beamsville mortuary of J. W. Buck and Sons to identify the girls.

Those who made the sad journey were John Jordan and John Wright, fathers, and John, the brother of Sophia Nicol. A driver's permit in the name of Fisher led to identification of the young men. The automobile, a 1931, sedan, was registered in the name of Elsie Fisher.

Fisher was found dying 20 feet from the pile of car wreckage. He died at nearby Jordan while being taken in a car to St. Catharines Hospital. He worked at a Welland grocery store and had been buying the machine from his father on a weekly-instalment arrangement.

The car was thrown about 150 feet

RECOVERY GENERAL IN 7 PROVINCES DURING PAST YEAR

TORONTO, Nov. 18 (CP) — So strong has the tide of recovery run in the last year that Canada's national income of approximately $5,000,000,000, was the largest in the last seven years, the annual meeting of the Canadian Bankers' Association was told today by its retiring president, S. H. Logan, president of the Canadian Bank of Commerce.

S. G. Dobson, general manager of the Royal Bank of Canada, was elected to the presidency of the association. Native of Sydney, N.S., the new president is 54 years old. His entire business life has been devoted to banking.

The 12-month period which ended in September was called the "fourth year of recovery" by Mr. Logan who said the rate of economic advance was greater than that of any year in the last decade except 1934. Only in Saskatchewan and Alberta, where crop failures were unprecedented in extent, were factors unfavorable.

Alberta Legislation

Reference was made to recent Alberta legislation disallowed by the Dominion government, which would have licensed bankers in Alberta. Mr. Logan said:

"In the early part of this year the Alberta legislature passed several acts providing for the licensing of banks and bankers and for the establishment of local directorates. These acts were disallowed by the Dominion government.

"The legislative assembly at a further session this fall passed new acts somewhat similar in tenor and added to these one which increased by approximately tenford the very heavy burden already borne by the banks in the province.

"An act was already passed affecting the press. The lieutenant-governor's assent to these acts was withheld and they have been referred to the Supreme Court by the Dominion government.

Willing To Co-operate

"We have repeatedly assured the provincial authorities that the banks would be willing to co-operate with them in any steps to improve the financial situation in Alberta provided the action which the banks are asked to take is within their legal powers and in accordance with recognized principles of safe banking. That assurance still stands."

Favorable factors in Canadian economy were cited. Mr. Logan said in the year ended in September 150,000 persons were added to payrolls and salary lists reported to the Dominoin government. This

COLONY QUESTION TO BE DISCUSSED

BERLIN, Nov. 18.—(AP).— Social aspects of Viscount Halifax's Berlin trip served to-day to conceal the British statesman's mission in coming here to talk with Chancellor Hitler and German leaders.

It was believed generally the talks revolved around Germany's colonial problem. The Lord President of the Council, for the second time since his arrival from London, went to the hunting show to-day.

What was regarded as a good clue to his mission was the satisfaction with which the German press recorded the proposal by Lord Allen in the House of Lords yesterday to have the League of Nations consider Germany's demands for colonies.

It also was considered likely that Lord Halifax and Hitler, conferring to-morrow at the Chancellor's Berchtesgaden estate, would discuss German efforts at mediation of the Chinese-Japanese conflict.

Wife 'Killer' Is Given 15 Years

HAILEYBURY, Ont., Nov. 18. — (CP)—Thomas Romanchuk, convicted last week of manslaughter in connection with the death of his wife, was sentenced to 15 years in penitentiary today by Mr. Justice Ainslee Greene. The trial jury reduced the charge against Romanchuk from murder.

Romanchuk, proprietor of a pool-room at Kirkland Lake, allegedly kicked his wife to death in the kitchen of their home May 3 during a religious holiday celebration described as a "drunken debauch".

Jap Legation Denies Naval Officers Disguised As Fishermen On Coast

OTTAWA, Nov. 18 (CP).—Reports Japanese naval officers disguised as fishermen were operating on the British Columbia coast were described as "utterly groundless and malicious propaganda against Japan," in a statement issued today by Commander K. Takeuchi of the Japanese Legation here.

"I do not know whether the press report is accurate or not. Anyhow, I can assure you that such a statement is utterly groundless and malicious propaganda against Japan," said Commander Takeuchi. "At the same time the report betrays the astonishing ignorance of the inventor of this shocking frabrication. I cannot believe that such a fine gentleman as Archdeacon Scott of Canada is responsible for the propagation of this most ridiculous news.

Debt Is Reduced By $33,098,165 In The Province

Public Accounts Reveal a Surplus Of $9,313,938.54 in Ontario in Past Year

TORONTO, Nov. 18.—(CP)—Ontario public accounts for the fiscal year ending March 31 showed today the province had a surplus of $9,313,938.54 and a gross debt reduction of $33,098,165.39.

Expenditures for the year, including a direct relief bill of $13, 270,057.29 paid out of ordinary revenue, were $71,-174,501.41 and revenue $80,-488,439.95.

Basing his statement on 10 months actual and two months estimated figures, Premier Hepburn in his budget address last March 9 had announced expenditure of $84,-874,079.78 and revenue of $90,221,809-.51. This compared with a deficit of $13,496,609 in the previous fiscal year.

Major portion of expenditure in the 1936-37 period was the $13,270,-057.29 relief bill which compared with relief expenditure of $20,363,-645 for the previous fiscal year.

Provincial treasurer's department yielded the greatest revenue $45,-344,211.91 and of this $15,991,350.80 consisted of succession duty collections. In his budget speech the Premier placed succession duty collections at $15,500,000.

Other large sources of revenue were: Attorney-general's department, $1,390,658.33; highways, $26,-976,444.23; lands and forest, $2,-974,907.54; mines $2,110,581.32.

BOSTON BALKING AT MEAT PRICES

BOSTON, Nov. 18 (CP).—Bostonians are face to face to-day with the alarming proposition that beef is becoming too expensive to eat, that hijackers are plundering precious shipments of meat as they do liquor and furs, says The Transcript.

Steaks and beef cut prices are so high that restaurants report they lose money every time they serve a choice tenderloin. Market men say good corn and milkfed stock have become almost a scarcity commodity. Prices have jumped more than 30 per cent over the last year in many instances.

Housewives are turning to vegetables and fish to budget their menus. Instead of buying thick slices of sirloin, top of the round and roast cuts, which now are and will continue to be alarmingly high, especially in New England, the housekeeper has been ordering lamb, veal, poultry and native turkeys.

Five Provinces Signified Readiness For Job Insurance

Cabinet Members Express Pleasure At Progress Made To Date

OTTAWA, Nov. 18.—(CP)—Satisfaction was expressed in Government circles to-day at the response to Prime Minister Mackenzie King's request to the Provinces for co-operation in the establishment of a national unemployment insurance scheme.

Public statements from the Premiers of Ontario and Prince Edward Island yesterday brought to five the number of Provinces that have already signified their readiness to waive such constitutional authority as may stand in the way of Federal administration of the plan.

Four Replies Waited.

Several replies have been received at the office of the Prime Minister but it is not expected any formal statement will be made until all the Provinces have answered the letter sent them Nov. 5 containing the proposal. Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Quebec and Alberta have yet to state their position, so far as could be learned to-night.

If the Provinces unanimously agree the Senate and House of Commons, early in the forthcoming session, will be asked to adopt a joint resolution petitioning the United Kingdom Parliament to make the necessary amendment to the British North America Act. The

TWO KIDNAPPERS ARE RE-CAPTURED

SYRACUSE, N.Y., Nov. 18.—(AP).—Heavily guarded, two recaptured members of a gang convicted of the 1933 O'Connell kidnapping, were lodged to-day in separate cells while state and city officers continued hunt for the third participant in the jail break.

The pair, John Oley and Harold "Red" Crowley, who said he "liked his freedom like anyone else," were moved yesterday from Syracuse police station to the detention quarters in the Onondaga county court building to await prosecution on escape charges.

Identified By Janitor.

The third, Percy Geary, was still at large following his leap from a bathroom window of a Syracuse rooming house where Oley and Crowley meekly surrendered yesterday to officers, directed there by a janitor—Ivan Whitford.

Whitford earlier had walked into headquarters, drew Patrolmen Harold Kelley aside and casually remarked, "Do you want to catch the kidnappers?"

Oley and Crowley were seized almost 36 hours after they escaped from the Onondaga county penitentiary at Jamesville, N.Y., with the aid of Geary, who cut his way through cell bars to truss the prison guard staff of six and escape in a stolen car.

Oley and Geary were sentenced to 77 years for the kidnapping of John J. O'Connell, Jr., of Albany. Crowley was sentenced to 28 years.

District Attorney William C. Martin declared he would seek a court order to-day to impanel a special grand jury to investigate the escape.

Flinton Man Gets Suspended Sentence

TWEED, Nov. 18. — Gilbert Jackson, Flinton, was convicted of assaulting a police officer in the execution of his duties and given two years' suspended sentence by Magistrate J. L. Lloyd in County Police Court held in Flinton on Monday afternoon. Jackson was charged with assaulting Chief Constable C. J. Hayes of Tweed, upon a recent date, when the accused and an alleged companion, set upon Chief Hayes when he was about to arrest the companion. Steven Woods on a charge of theft, last week pleaded guilty to the original charge of theft and is at present confined to the County Jail. A charge of assaulting a police officer while in the execution of his duties has been preferred against Woods. His case will be heard in a subsequent court sittings.

was about one-third of the employables reported idle a year ago.

Construction increased by one-quarter and new records for production were set in metallurgical, chemical, wood pulp and newsprint industries, and in certain plants devoted to machinery and other equipment. Tourist trade increased 15 per cent. to a value of $300,000,000.

Dealing with the banking situation the president indicated the banks played a substantial part in the advance, commercial loans in Canada having increased by $100,-000,000. He said:

"In the 12 months ending September the combined assets of the chartered banks increased by $135,-000,000 to $3,340,000,000. Included in these assets were cash, cash items, and bank balances in Canada and abroad aggregating about $490,000,-000; security holdings of $1,446,000,-000, which rose by $66,000,000 over September, 1936; and commercial loans, mostly Canadian, of $943,-000,000, about $100,000,000 higher than those of the previous year."

READINGS FEATURE YOUTH GROUP MEET

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 18. — A reading by Miss Doreen Cochrane on "Stuttering" was much appreciated by member of the Campbellford Youth Group at their regular meeting held on Monday. Earl Johnson, missionary convenor, arranged the program for the evening and was assisted by Harry Bensinger, who gave a reading on cars; a discussion of missionary work by Miss Amy Gibbs; vocal trio, Doreen Cochrane, Betty Bennett and Lilly Pickering. The meeting was opened with a hymn, following which Captain D. Sharp led in prayer and Miss Betty Bennett took the Scripture reading. In conclusion, the members took part in a contest arranged by the social secretary, Mrs. Sharp.

St. Andrew's Y.P.S.

Miss Helen McGee, the devotional convenor of St. Andrew's Young People's Society, was in charge of the program presented by the Young People at their meeting held in the church basement on Monday evening. The topic for the evening, "The Christian's First Loyalty," was taken by Mrs. P. H. MacMillan. An enjoyable feature of the program was a Bible contest which was arranged by Miss McGee, after which a hymn brought that portion of the program to a close. The president, Mrs. Bruce Grills, presided over the balance of the meeting, which was opened with a devotional period, during which the Lord's Prayer was repeated in unison and the Scripture was read. The remainder of the evening was devoted to the roll call and the regular business portion of the meeting. The literary convenor, Miss Jean Hendy, was placed in charge of the program for next Monday.

INDIAN LOST 20 HOURS

ASHLAND, Wis., Nov. 18 (A.P.).—Earl Beauregard, 18-year-old Chippewa Indian, was lost 20 hours in the wilds of the Bad River Indian Reservation.

Did Earl look for the mossy side of the trees or tell the directions by the stars, send up smoke signals, or rely on the red man's wood lore to get his bearings?

Earl did not. He merely looked for the white man's electric power line and followed it into the village.

44 ESTATES ARE OWING PROVINCE HEPBURN SAYS

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., Nov. 18—(CP).—Special session of the Ontario Legislature opening December 1, will pass additional legislation to enable collection of duties from estates of millionaires "flagrantly defrauding" the province, according to Premier Hepburn.

Investigation showed 44 estates owed the province $50,000,000, he said, and added: "We'll pass legislation at this special session to make it possible to collect that money. After all, the courts only interpret the laws passed by the people's representatives.

Mr. Hepburn addressed a mass meeting last night in the interests of Hon. Colin Campbell, Minister of Public Works, seeking a seat in the Legislature at a by-election in the Sault riding November 30. R. M. Meekin resigned to make way for the minister who failed of election in the October 6 general elections.

Present at the meeting were two other cabinet members, Hon. Paul Leduc, Minister of Mines, and Hon. Peter Heenan, Forests Minister. Legislature members and members of parliament from Northern Ontario constituencies also were present.

Better Times Ahead

"Times have changed—we're on the march back to prosperity," Mr. Hepburn said. In three years under his Liberal Government thousands of men were returned to work and revenues increased as his govern-

BRITAIN, STATES TO NEGOTIATE TRADE TREATY

would react to their own advantage through freer exchange of goods but would set an example for other nations to join in a general movement to remove or adjust trade restrictive measures.

Apart from the strictly economic aspects, some observers attach potential political significance to the action. They express the view that it would emphasize the close co-operation already evidenced between the two governments at the Brussels Far Eastern Conference and that it would constitute, in effect, an answer from the leading exponents of democratic government to the new alliance between Italy, Germany and Japan.

Hull invited interested persons in the United States to submit suggestions to the State Department as to products that should be considered in the trade negotiations. A formal notice of intention to negotiate, to be issued later, will contain a list of goods on which the United States will consider granting concessions to the United Kingdom. Public hearings will precede the opening of actual negotiations.

Largets Foreign Market.

The United Kingdom long has been the United States' largest foreign market, while this country is second only to Canada in the purchase of British goods.

For many years the balance of trade between the two countries has been heavily in favor of the United States.

American exports to Great Britain in 1936 were valued at $440,122,000. This represented nearly 18 per cent of this country's entire export trade with all countries during that period. In 1935 the figure was $433,399,000 and in 1929, the last year before the disastrous international trade recession, it was $848,000,000.

Imports from the United Kingdom in 1936 were valued at $200,385,000, representing about eight per cent of this country's purchases from all countries. This compared with $155,-282,000 in 1935, and $329,751,000 in 1925.

Preliminary figures for the first nine months of 1937, the State Department said, indicate a continued expansion of Anglo-American trade.

Last year's trade statistics showed that leaf tobacco, fruits and nuts, meats and fats and petroleum products constituted the most valuable items of American exports to the United Kingdom.

Whisky and spirits, and undressed furs represented the chief purchases by the United States from Britain in point of value.

Of Interest To Canada.

OTTAWA, Nov. 18 (CP). — Announcement in Washington today by Cordell Hull, Secretary of State, that the United States and the United Kingdom contemplated negotiations for a trade agreement, confirmed reports current since early this year and particularly since the Imperial Conference in London.

The proposal has been one of particular interest in Canada since the reports have involved this Dominion to the extent that some of its preferences on the British market would have to be sacrificed to facilitate the negotiations.

Prime Minister Mackenzie King has consistently refused to comment on any phase of the proposed negotiations.

It was considered possible some comment might be forthcoming from the government after perusal of the Washington story containing Secretary Hull's announcement. Cabinet will meet this afternoon.

Since rumors of the proposed agreement have been current, the possibility has been held that Canada would abandon some of the British preferences gained by the Ottawa agreements of 1932 in order to facilitate the negotiations.

Canada made a reciprocal trade agreement with United States two years ago, but without disturbing the Canada-United Kingdom trade agreement of 1932.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Nov.18 —(AP). — Excited over indications of rapidly enlarging frost damage to Argentine crops, wheat prices whirled upward 5c a bushel on Wednesday, the furthest immediate limited allowed.

Forecasts pointed to another frost threatening Argentine last night, the sixth frost in there weeks.

Adding impetus to stampede purchase movements in wheat future were estimates that 1,500,000 bushels of North American wheat had been bought yesterday for export to Europe, and that an equal amount of United States corn had also been taken for overseas.

Although Chicago July wheat reached a new peak price record for the season, December contracts were strongest, closing with 5c net gain at 94⅞ to 95c.

Corn, oats and rye emulated wheat action. Yesterday's export corn purchases were the largest yet on the 1937 crop.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

Lead Winnipeg Grain ... ...

WINNIPEG, Nov. 18—(CP). — World wheat prices retreated from yesterday's high marks and closed to-day three or more cents lower. Futures on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange slumped in featureless dealings to close 3⅜ to 2¾ cents off; November at $1.19⅝; December, $1.15⅝; May, $1.12½ to ⅝, and July $1.07⅞ to ⅞.

Dominated by action of Liverpool and Buenos Aires, North American prices dropped off due to profit-taking, lack of export demand, and hesitation of the part of brokers to await clearer reports on frost damage in the Argentine.

When predicted frost for last night over large areas of the South American country apparently failed to materialize, general liquidation resulted in Liverpool which supplied the key to actions of other markets.

NEW YORKERS ACCLAIM PLAY

performed by the 30-year-old son of Manning Doherty, former Ontario Minister of Agriculture and now treasurer of the Toronto Stock Exchange. He wrote the play while goin gto Osgoode Hall. It was done in his spare time, as a diversion from law studies. It was his first professionally-produced work.

As Mr. Atkinson said:

"Broadway is not the place where innocently imagined miracles normally occur, and Toronto barristers with meager theatre experience never contrive them. But with the assistance of an uncommonly responsive band of actors, Mr. Doherty has endowed us with an original, genuinely humorous play, and there is every reason to beat the drum royally over a miracle that works."

MAN'S RUGGEDNESS QUIRK OF HIS MIND SCIENTISTS CLAIM

ROCHESTER, N.Y., Nov. 18.—(AP).— Self-styled "Polar bears" who break the ice to swim in December are only kidding themselves in thinking they have "adapted themselves" to unusual conditions, the National Academy of Sciences was told at its closing session today.

Two Cornell college scientists, Dr. James D. Hardy and Dr. Eugene F. Dubois, said heat production and heat loss of the human body is quite constant at various temperatures. Man cannot change those reactions and if he seems to, his ruggedness is only a quirk of his mind, they said.

The Cornell research men proved this was true by experimenting with two male nudists in a special room where the temperature could be closely controlled and the radiation and water loss from the skin measured.

83-91 Ideal Range

They found that temperatures from 83 degrees to 91 degrees Fahrenheit constituted the "ideal" range in which a person can live comfortably in the nude because the heat loss exactly balances heat production. This will be the neutral zone for future air conditioning of homes and office buildings.

Above 91 degrees, Dr. Hardy added, sweating and evaporation of moisture from the lungs increases to bring into balance the body's heat production since water evaporation from the body is the only way in which it can be cooled.

If the temperature drops below 72 degrees for any length of time, they added, shivering—which is the body's first muscular reaction in order to exercise and keep warm—begins. Shortly thereafter the person must put on clothing or move into a warmer room.

This hard and fast rule of body heat regulation cannot be changed by thinking differently, Dr. Hardy added, any more than the law of gravity could be repealed. No one actually likes any temperature above 91 or below 83, the Cornell scientists said, because "then the brain comes into play and the person must make a conscious effort to keep cool or get warm."

Escaped In 1904, Is Given Freedom

SUNBURY, Pa., Nov. 18—(AP)—The home town where a 16-year-old boy escaped from jail in 1904 decided today he could keep the freedom he has had for 33 years.

District Attorney Robert Fortney said no action would be taken to bring back Harry Burns, 49, a respected citizens and father of eight children, who surrendered in Chicago yesterday, saying he had to get his unserved sentence off his mind.

Fortney said the court concurred in his decision not to return Burns to complete the 3½-year term imposed for knocking the locks off some gun vending machines in a railroad station.

CLEAN BOOKSHOPS OF SOUTH AFRICA

CAPE TOWN Nov. 18 (CP).—Dozens of copies of books, periodicals and magazines classed as "indecent, obscene or objectionable" were seized in a drastic literary purge of the city's bookshops.

This official attempt to "clean up" Cape Town's channels of literary distribution followed the appointment of Col. Trew, a member of the Union of South African board of film censors, as censor of literature.

Secret service men made the rounds of the booksellers and the literature censor made his recommendations to the minister of the interior to decide whether prosecutions should be instituted.

"There is a lot of horrible stuff coming into South Africa," said Col. Trew. "One feels one wants a bath after looking at it. For the time being I have finished as far as Cape Town is concerned and my purchaser will now visit other towns in the Union for the same purpose. The customs department and the post office will continue to examine importations of books and magazines as they have done in the past, and I shall work in close co-operation with them."

The government has recently taken steps to prohibit the circulation in South Africa of excessively propagandist books, particularly those of Communist organizations.

KING AND QUEEN PLAN MODERNIZED WINDSOR CASTLE

LONDON, Nov. 18—(AP). — King George and Queen Elizabeth have come back to town to do some mild precedent-breaking of their own.

Windsor Castle, favorite home of Queen Victoria, may see almost as much of the King and Queen as Buckingham Palace. The palace is likely to be reserved more and more for official functions and audiences.

Two considerations prompted this decision—the accessibility of Windsor, and the need for room for the Princesses to play out of the public eye.

The King and Queen have decided to "modernize" the historic castle. The Queen has consulted architects and decorators in a move to make the place more livable.

The work will be carried out under Her Majesty's direct supervision. Most of the apartments have not been altered since King Edward VII.'s reign, and new plumbing, better lighting, and more comfortable furniture are needed.

The custom of firing Royal salutes in front of the gates of Windsor Castle, discontinued in 1931 on economy grounds, is to be revived. The custom has been followed for several centuries. Arrangements are being made for a salute to be fired on the King's birthday, December 14.

Pelee Island Pheasant Hunters Act Like Savages, Farmer Says

WINDSOR, Nov. 18—(CP).—Nimrods who go to Pelee Island each year to hunt pheasants are "maniacs" and act "like a bunch of savages," County Court officials were told today by William Ferguson, farmer on the Lake Erie isle famed for its annual pheasant shoots.

Ferguson came to court to press charges of chicken stealing against Maurice McCormick and Charles Hoare, two of his neighbors. The charges were dismissed, but Ferguson took time out to berate the annual army of hunters.

McCormick admitted to the court that he shot three chickens on a roadside close to Ferguson's farm, but said he was not aware they belonged to Ferguson. He later gave Ferguson the three chickens, he said, although Ferguson said there should have been four.

McCormick said many chickens on the island stray into the bush, lose their identity and become wild.

Doing Fine Work

Some nice things have been said by Ontario's new minister of Agriculture in regard to the work done by Women's Institutes and there is every reason to believe that the compliments paid by Mr. Dewan were entirely justified. In all parts of the wide district served by The Examiner these are flourishing branches of the Institute and this paper carries a large number of reports each month of the activities of these bodies. In each case it strikes the reader that the women who lend their assistance to aiding their own particular branch seem to find no difficulty in locating opportunities for doing some very useful community work. When the school library needs replenishing or the village hall wants new curtains or fittings it is usually the Women's Institute that comes to the fore with the wherewithal to supply what is needed. There are grants made to aid crippled children, there are needy folk in the neighborhood to be looked after and a dozen and one other causes that look to —and never in vain—to the Women's Institute for a helping hand.

On top of all this community work the Institutes also manage to serve as centres of education and inspiration for their own members and thus have richly earned the tribute paid to them by the Minister of Agriculture for the important part they have played in "developing the right type of rural women." This official recognition will be gratifying to those who have long looked with admiration upon the work Women's Institutes have done in this province.

Helping Santa Claus

If Santa Claus keeps a diary, and the evidence all points to the probability that he does, we imagine that there will be an entry this year by way of commending Fire Chief Gimblett and the members of the Peterborough fire department. The fire laddies are not only making their usual contribution to the enjoyable celebration of Christmas by repairing hundreds of broken toys to be distributed in Peterborough homes but they have also undertaken to handle the task of decorating Peterborough's business section so that when Santa Claus makes his pre-Christmas official visit to this city early next month he will find the place transformed into a Yuletide fairyland of evergreens, that will make him feel right at home.

The firemen constitute a very important branch of the municipal machinery in their own right for the guarding of lives and property against the menace of fire is a vital necessity but they are not satisfied with doing that job well. They also find an opportunity to do a lot of useful community work every year and the co-operation they are extending the business interests of Peterborough in making the visit of jovial old Santa Claus a success merits general thanks.

It's A Great Fair

The Royal Winter Fair this week, opened as a nice gesture of international goodwill by Hon. Norman Armour, United States Minister to Ottawa, has become one of the greatest exhibitions of its kind on the continent. Each year sees the number of entries greater and the attendance larger and the Winter Fair is doing a very fine job, not only because of the enthusiasm it engenders in agriculture as Canada's basic industry but also because of the very important part it is playing in bringing Canadians closer together by giving them an opportunity to meet and get a first-hand impression of each other's problems and viewpoint. The mingling of folk from all over the Dominion, in the friendly competition made possible by the Royal Winter Fair, is a devolpment that cannot fail to have beneficial results and we would be inclined to set it down as possibly the most important feature of the whole annual exhibition.

The management of the Fair has succeeded admirably in mixing enough entertainment features into the program to make the event appealing to the general public and at the same time proper stress upon the agricultural side has not been neglected.

The farmer who is endeavoring to improve, who wants better livestock and who is anxious to see what other successful farmers have been doing has already learned to look upon the Royal Winter Fair as an educational institution which simply cannot be passed up and the result is that a journey to Toronto this season of the year has become a permanent item in the calendar of rural Ontario.

They Want To Do It

Edmonton's ratepayers had a chance the other day to say what they thought of a plan to have the mayor chosen by members of the council rather than elected by the voters-at-large and the verdict was overwhelmingly against the suggested change.

While we in Canada follow British methods in most features of our parliamentary and municipal machinery this is one thing in which we are directly opposed to the English view point. In Britain it is the common practice to have the mayor chosen by other members of council and he may not necessarily be a members himself and the plan seems to have worked out well. It is obvious that under the British scheme an opportunity is provided for honoring, by appointment to the mayoralty, a citizen who is well qualified to hold the responsible office and the question of whether or not he could be elected by popular vote does not have to be taken into consideration at all. Furthermore it is fundamental reasoning to say that aldermen who have a chance to size up the qualifications of the men around them and weigh their worth are likely to make a better job of selecting a mayor than are the ratepayers.

However, these arguments seem to have had little effect upon the voters in Edmonton and we do not believe they would make a much different impression upon Canadians anywhere. We seem to like the task of doing our own mayoralty picking and in fact, as some one has pointed out, whenever the position happens to be filled by acclamation, as happens occasionally, we usually refuse to take much interest in that particular municipal election and the result is a very small vote.

When A Beaver Cuts

A report from Crowe's Landing on Stoney Lake says beaver have been at work near the mouth of Eel's Creek. And when beaver start to work it means they will be needing material in the shape of trees. They are rather adept at felling them although their skill is not as great as some folk may think. People accustomed to the bush have seen trees toppled over the wrong way.

The story is told of one cottage owner in the Stoney Lake region who noticed that several trees had been taken from his property, and the instinct of preservation caused him to erect a sign which said something about "No Trespassing". The wonder is that it would not have been noticed that the trees had been cut beaver-fashion. It would hardly be possible for a human working with an axe to take down a tree and leave the stump looking the same as a beaver does. He has his own method and he leaves his own trade-mark on every stump from which he has removed a tree.

Junior Farmers Do Well

Congratulations are once more in order to Arthur Runions and his Peterborough county junior stock judging team upon the showing made at the Royal Winter Fair when, out of a field of 37 teams, the largest entry in the history of the event, the representatives of this county finished in seventh place.

Peterborough county captured premier honors in the same competition at the two previous Winter Fairs but it was not to be expected that year after year teams could be produced that would be the best in the province and we are satisfied that the verdict of most folk who realize the nature of this test and the competition that has to be met, will be that in finishing ahead of 30 other teams, the Peterborough county junior farmers team has made a most commendable showing. Bruce Graham, Archie Clysdale and Ralph Hanbidge who have worked faithfully and well in preparing themselves for the big test have earned general commendation.

The capture of seventh place at Toronto following upon the success of another Peterborough county team in finishing second at Ottawa proves that the youngsters of this county have been receiving good coaching and that they have in themselves qualities that should make them successful farmers and stockbreeders.

And at the same time we should not forget that one of our neighboring counties, Durham, had the honor this year of winning fourth position in the Toronto competition, a showing upon which the boys from that county and their instructor are to be felicitated.

80 Per Cent On Relief

Letters from grateful residents in the Saskatchewan drought area, expressing thanks for food supplies sent to them from Peterborough continue to come forward and incidentally to give a picture of conditions in that stricken district that enables their fellow-Canadians in the East to realize just how serious is the plight of the Westerners.

"This is the first time we have ever received anything like that in this district as this is the first year we have had a real crop failure and we hope sincerely it will be the last for this is a mixed farming district and cannot stand many setbacks. Over 80 per cent of the people in our municipality are on relief and probably more before spring."

The whole tragedy of Saskatchewan is rolled into a couple of sentences. We have had our troubles since the bubble burst after the boom years but even at the lowest point of the depression we never came near to finding ourselves in a position where four out of every five of our people were without income and dependent entirely upon the public purse and the voluntary donations of other people to keep body and soul together. It is pathetic to see folk who went out into our western lands expecting to attain, if not wealth, at least a competent living there, delighted to receive a sack of potatoes and a few other vegetables as a gift.

TO THE GOLDENROD

No longer in the wayside colgns you hide
Your emerald mantle from the eyes of men
Or shyly blend with grasses in the glen;
But now throughout the autumn countryside
You show your new-gained wealth with stately pride
And blaze your glory forth from hill and wold,
Until the hollows seem to gleam with gold
And fields become a shimm'ring saffron tide.
Now o'er your drab confreres your gilt crest reigns
While tree and vine bear autumn's vivid stains.
Ere long a stealthy frost invades your bower,
And soon your wealth of Midas' gold is spent.
But weep not, goldenrod; you've had your hour,
So, unlike most, you well may lie content.

EIGHTEEN thousand feet below the Bolivian Andes is the barrow Tipuani valley, site of abandoned gold mines that enriched Inca rulers 400 years ago. Only serfs would trek the ore across the difficult mountain passes to La Paz, 60 miles away, so when slavery ended in the nineteenth century the mines fell idle.

Not long ago mining experts turned for help to Pan-American Grace Airways. A mile of jungle was hacked out of the valley and made an adequate landing field. Now planes are to carry 1,000,000 pounds of hydraulic mining machinery to Tipuani. The work will take 100 flying days. Old-time llama and burro trains would have needed at least eight years.

Dr. Thomas Young, professor of psychology at the University of Illinois, has been endeavoring to find out exactly how often people laugh and cry and he has been using a questionnaire along those lines. He has found that the average person laughs 19.6 times a day or just 408 times as often as he cries. Conversation causes more laughs than any other item; humorous situations come second and antics of people third. Things that cause the least laughs are writing, the theatre and radio.

✧ ✧ ✧

An occasion for weeping the professor says arises on the average of once every 20.8 days and women are three times as prone to tears as men. More than four-fifths of all the weeping, his survey shows, was caused by some factor in the immediate environmental area—hard words from a friend, bad news from home or a snub from a casual acquaintance. The chief single cause of tears was money —or rather the lack of it.

New York's Dynamic Mayor.

POPULAR opinion pictures Mayor LaGuardia of New York as a product of that city's lower East Side but according to one news commentator the racial and environmental forces shaping his character were as diverse as his personality. He was the son of an Italian cornetist and a Venetian Jewess and was born 54 years ago on New York's teeming Varick Street. His father was a bandmaster attached to the Eleventh United States Infantry and when LaGuardia was a child the family went west from one frontier post to another in South Dakota and Arizona. In adolescence New York's future mayor wrote items for the Arizona papers under the pen name Arizona Pete, a name that in itself shows that LaGuardia passed his formative years in the west, not in Gotham's slums.

When he was 18 the LaGuardias moved to Budapest and there later the father died leaving Fiorello without friends or employment to struggle for survival in a foreign land. Then came five years in the United States consular service abroad, followed by an interlude as interpreter at Ellis Island, private legal practice, war service in the air corps and then fourteen years in congress where his innate pugnacity and political acumen were sharpened.

A Colossal Ballyhoo.

THIS WEEK the United States is taking a count of all its unemployed citizens with a view to getting an accurate picture of the situation. Some 85,000,000 blanks have been distributed with fourteen questions on one side and the president's plea for answers on the other. This important census has been launched with a most elaborate ballyhoo. Under the direction of John D. Biggers, census administrator, a 50-man-civil-service staff handled the details.

Government printers turned out 1,000,000 posters, 1,000,000 window-display cards and talks for 32,000 labor unions and 43,000 schools. Major film circuits received 1250 prints of a movie short "Counting the jobless."

Then there will be a friendly followup after the distribution of the questionnaires. Letter carriers in populous areas will remind every family to mail their cards and later door-to-door canvassers in selected districts will make sample checks on the poll's accuracy.

This Is Old Advice But Still Good

Doctor Offers Common-sense Hints As to Dealing With Common Cold.

(From the Detroit Free Press.)

WITH THE approach of winter, its winds and frigidity, Dr. Robert A. Fraser, chief medical director of the New York Life Insurance Co., issues a bulletin on "colds" which contain a lot of common sense suggestions; but also reveals how little we really know about the nature and cause of the most common of all disorders.

Dr. Fraser admits that while most observers today "regard the cold as caused by infection from a filterable virus," others think the colds are caused by chilling of the body which lowers the surface temperature and permits germs normally present and mucus membranes to get in their dirty work; and still others consider a disturbance of the heat regulation of the body a factor.

However, the Doctor is more concerned with prevention and cure than with cause, and he says that to avoid sniffles and accompanying symptoms it is well to get lots of sleep, fresh air and sunshine, eat plenty but not too much, dress sensibly, change from wet clothing to dry as soon as possible, bathe daily, avoid constipation, take long walks, keep away from sudden changes in temperature and from people who have colds.

And if you catch a cold, take a hot bath, go to bed, drink plenty of water and fruit juice and rest. Stay away from the rest of the family; and let the doctor prescribe the remedies.

When children catch cold, always have a physician; it may not be a cold.

This sounds familiar. Most of us have heard it before. The trouble is most of us neither remember nor heed from year to year.

So we become casualties who help create an annual half-billion dollar economic loss in the United States.

The Last Word in Christmas Toys

Preview Shows This Year's Pack Full Of Up-to-the-Minute Play Gadgets

(From the Galt Reporter.)

IT MAY SEEM a little early to consider this subject. But a little thought proves that actually it is not. To begin with, Christmas will be over in less than six weeks. As a clincher, toys manufactured for the 1937 trade are being exhibited by the Toy Makers' Association.

A preview of what will be carried in Santa Claus' pack shows that the one central idea if all toymakers has been to reproduce in miniature the design of today's adult living.

All the toys produced for this year's trade have been tried out by youngsters to check their suitability, educational value and fun appeal. The up-to-the-minute technique in transportation, architecture, housekeeping, baby care, art and handicrafts has been introduced. The skyline building, radio's mysteries, engineering and electro-chemistry furnish the background for various offerings.

For fathers who delight in playing with junior's Yule presents, the manufacturers have produced tiny polariscopes, micro-projector scopes and a sciensescope. The latter will magnify the molecular explosion of lemon juice or soda and do it in full colors. Utilitarian machines will duplicate the daily doings on mine, factory and construction projects. Roadbuilding toys even include the familiar sign "Men Working" in miniature.

Fast-action ice hockey, tourist-camp cabins, skyscrapers equipped with elevators that are operated by electric motors and dolls barely distinguishable from real babies are prospective contents of the reindeer-drawn sleighs. A new drinking doll can consume the contents of her bottle lying down. Sleek airlines are there for brother, while sister can have luggage made to scale and weight for transportation in them.

Games based on crime-solving, business, sports and chance outnumber battle-strategy games 100 to one. This despite wars and rumors of wars. Military equipment has an insignificant place in the scheme of the youngster's world of play. Manufacturers say that the children are sticklers for toys that reproduce the very newest in actual experiences of adult living. This year's Christmas pack will be bewildering in its variety and complexity, just like life.

Quaint Old Measures Are Scrapped

Southern Rhodesia Drops 1,200 Laws; Most of Them Date Back Many Years

(From the Manchester Guardian.)

A CONSIDERABLE crop of new Acts of Parliament is suggested by the King's Speech, a prospect which will hardly please those die-hards who regard more and more laws as more and more of a load on the back of the citizen. But those who are of that opinion should emigrate at once to Southern Rhodesia, which at the moment is about to engage in slimming the statute book instead of adding to its girth.

And it is not just a matter of an ounce here and there; pounds and pounds are to be sweated off in one fine swoop. Southern Rhodesia's Parliament has more than 1,200 obsolete laws down for immediate repeal—a prospect that ought to rejoice the hearts of all stalwarts who hold that more laws mean less happiness.

It may be wondered how on earth Southern Rhodesia, which has not yet reached its fiftieth birthday as a part of the British Empire, has come to acquire such a prodigious packet of obsolete enactments. The burden arose by the rash act of the new colony in taking over, in 1890, the whole of the existing laws of Cape Colony, many of which were of the Roman-Dutch variety, and already dead letters and hopelessly out of date.

Some of them went back to the seventeenth century. One of them, for example, forbade "any going to the country on Sundays to drink or play there;" all citizens were to go to church on that day, and were "bound at the second bell to appear to answer the roll, and further to be present in the congregation."

That enactment is still theoretically in force in Southern Rhodesia —and, on paper at any rate, it has the air of laying a pretty considerable stymie against any gawdless tendencies toward Sunday morning fourballs.

That, however, is one of the many old Dutch laws which are to disappear when Southern Rhodesia knocks the 1,200 obsolete enactments off her statute book. Another chip off that old block will delete the existing crime of feeding one's slaves on whale blubber—which is probably not very easy to come by in these days.

As things stand at present, any soldier or sailor found gambling in Southern Rhodesia is to be "well scourged," and officers must lose a month's pay. And eight days on bread and water is the penalty for "gambling with slaves." A form of Sunday closing was also in operation (in theory), for innkeepers were not to sell any visitor liquor "before or during the sermon," and they were also required to take away the knives of persons frequenting their premises.

Among targets forbidden to citizens out hunting are "harts from Ceylon," and all schoolmasters must sign the Articles of Dordrecht—in other words, the canon drawn up for the Reformed Dutch Church by the Synod of Dort in 1618-19.

If any Southern Rhodesian schoolmasters have lately been kept awake at night by thoughts of negligence on that point, they will shortly be at rest; the requirement will have been swept away. They will also be entitled to go out and shoot a hart from Ceylon—if they can find one.

WAR IN THE AIR.

CLOAKED in darkness the German bombers drop high-power phrases upon the strip of East Africa once dotted with German colonies. Swift as light the Italian bombers lay down a barrage of eloquence upon the Near East which swarms with the sons of Islam. Then up from London swoops the British word-fleet. ONE DOLLAR in every six paid into the tax money chests of all divisions of government comes from the pockets of car owners and drivers; and the total, around $1,750,000,000, is the biggest single tax item. Make car-buying easy, big mileage a temptation, and place no discouragements in the motorist's way other than those required for safety of life, limb and property. The way to make the goose bear one-sixth of all public expense is to get it behind a wheel and soak it with gas, license, and property taxes. The more the goose drives, the larger the golden egg. The motorist, too, frequently complains of his tax load. Let him rather throw out his chest and exclaim as he drives: "My only regret is I have but one car to drive for my country."

The 30-acre plot has already been carefully studied by E. J. Zavitz, the provincial forester, and by a committee of the Middlesex Council. It has been plowed in preparation for the planting of a wide variety of saplings next Srping. The soil has been subjected to a chemical analysis which will help to determine the varieties of trees to be set out.

It is expected that within 15 years the plot will form a beautiful wooded entrance to the city.

Quints Doubtful About Santa Since Dr. Dafoe Lost Beard

Famous Five's Guardian On Christmas Shopping Tour In New York

NEW YORK, Nov. 18 (CP) — Christmas will be rollicking day of present-giving and family reunion for the Dionne quintuplets, Dr. Allan R. Dafoe said here Wednesday. The doctor-in-waiting to the five famous little sisters, however, doesn't think they will believe implicitly Santa Claus left all the gifts that will surround their tall tree.

He explained to a press conference that one of the quints unmasked him of the flowing white whiskers he wore last Christmas in his role of St. Nick.

"I think they are a little doubtful now about Santa Claus," he said.

Dr. Dafoe came here in his capacity as one of the quintuplets' guardians. "The commercial end of such an undertaking requires looking after," he said. He was in the west and at Cincinnati, one of his stopping points, he picked up a few Christmas gifts for his charges.

Among the presents was a religious wall plaque of the Virgin and the Child, to be hung in the children's bedroom.

Play With Other Children

In an address at Cincinnati the doctor said he looked forward to the time when the quints can be taken from behind glass walls and permitted to play with other children of the neighborhood.

"The children must mingle with other kiddies and brush more intimately with life," he told the score of reporters who gathered in his hotel suite today. The questions and answers that flowed for an hour were punctuated by a rapid fire explosion of press photographer's bulbs.

Dr. Dafoe explained the plans to allow the children to mingle "so they might become indifferent to the gaze of the curious, to which they will be subjected as long as they live," were long-range. They would not be put into effect for perhaps two years, when the girls will be five or more years old.

"We envisage a larger place for them," he said. "Children of the neighborhood, along with their own six brothers and sisters, will be brought in now and then for play periods.

"When it comes time to broaden their education — they are now receiving pre-kindergarten training —it will be necessary to build a special school and engage special teachers."

Asked why the quints could not be sent to the parochial school, Dr. Dafoe replied:

"They would be subjected to the constant gaze of the public. Their schooling would be disrupted. I think we might bring other children into the quintuplets' school now and then."

Knew French Songs

The doctor said all five children were in fine health. Their vocabulary contained about 300 or 400 words of French and 25 of English. They began to learn English a month ago. At one meal a day they must speak English.

They have a repertoire of about 18 French songs including "Malbrook S'en Va En Guerre."

A question, 'Do the children look up to you as a father," brought the reply: "They call me 'docteur.' My last name is made to sound like 'Dapoe.'"

Dr. Dafoe said in answer to another question that "It was hard to tell whether or not Mrs. Dionne expected a 13th child." He recalled that in 1934 he was told "by someone outside" that the quintuplets' mother expected a baby.

"However, it didn't arrive until 1936," he added.

Lumbermen Killed 800 Pound Bear

ST. AUSTIN, Que., Nov. 18 (CP).—A huge bear weighing nearly 800 pounds was killed by lumberjacks in the woods behind this Maskinonge village, after the animal had attacked F X. Gagnon, one of the woodsmen.

The brave stand of the regiment in the face of overwhelming odds raised the Chinese enthusiasm to deeper pitch and only when further resistance was useless were they prevailed upon to withdraw. Word 'Died' For 'Dying' Costs Company $1.50 The Price Of Mourning Veil

Rochester, N.Y., Nov. 18. A TELEGRAM in which the Western Union Company erroneously used the word "died" for "dying" will cost the company exactly $1.50—the price of a mourning veil bought by the recipent of the wire—the appellate division, fourth department ruled here.

The court ruled however, that the plaintiff, who bought the veil and travelled in July, 1936, to Grantsburg, Wis., from her home in nearby Waterloo, N.Y., cannot recover $83 travelling expenses. It also ordered that about $60 trial costs be paid by the plaintiff.

Mrs. Ellen Asper went and found her mother recovering from an illness. She claimed that she would not have made the trip had the telegram been transmitted correctly.

The company argued she would have made the trip even had the telegram read "dying."

Algoma Wolf Stories Gag Hunter Who Bags Half-Ton Moose With .22

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont. Nov. 18. ELMER Becking, Sault Ste. Marie, shot a two-year-old moose with a .22-calibre rifle Remembrance Day, but he didn't get up courage enough to tell about it until today because he was afraid people skeptical of Algoma tales would not believe him.

"I know people will call me several times a liar," Becking said. "They'll think it is just another yarn like those wolf stories. But I can prove it."

Becking got his moose in Prince Township, a few miles from here. He saw the animal when it came from behind a pile of brush. He shot it in the back, and the moose went forty or fifty feet before sinking to the ground. One companion wanted to finish the moose with a high-powered rifle, but the other insisted Becking finish the job with his small rifle. The moose weighed 950 pounds.

LINDSAY SOCIETY VISITS AT OMEMEE

(Examiner Correspondence.)

OMEMEE, Nov. 18. — The Young People's Union of Queen Street, Lindsay, paid a surprise visit to the meeting of the Trinity Young People on Monday evening. The service was in charge of the citizenship convenor, Miss Christina Connell. Quiet music was followed by the reading of the Scripture by Miss Hazel Wilson. Doris Vaughan sang a solo, "Take my life and let it be." An interesting commentary on this hymn was read by Miss Connell. The worship service closed with the hymn, "O Jesus I have Promised." The minutes of the last meeting were read and adopted and the collection received by Jack Williamson. Miss Christina Connell and Miss Doris Vaughan then gave comprehensive reports from the Young People's convention which was held in Belleville in October. The hymn, "We would be building," was sung. Lindsay Young People then took charge of recreation and a period of fun and refreshments was enjoyed.

Dance Orchestra Plays At Palace

LONDON, Nov. 18 (AP). — King George and Queen Elizabeth summoned a dance orchestra to Buckingham Palace last night for the first time in their reign to entertain Leopold III., King of the Belgians, at a state ball.

Both the King and Queen like to dance. A military string orchestra usually has provided the music at Palace functions.

Their Majesties set another precedent by decreeing masculine guests should wear evening dress with knee breeches instead of glittering uniforms.

The Canadian High Commissioner and Mrs. Vincent Massey were among the guests. King George of Greece, in London on an unofficial visit, was present.

SINGING MAYOR IS GIVEN 5TH TERM

CALGARY, Nov. 43 (C.P.). — Andrew Davison, whose rich tenor voice made him known as Calgary's "Singing Mayor," today faced a fifth successive two-year term as Chief Magistrate. He was elected on first count in yesterday's voting by proportional representation.

In a record poll of 33,284, 6,153 more than in the 1935 Mayoral election. Davison was re-elected by a large majority over A. J. E. Leisemer, Labor nominee supported by the Social Credit League.

A printer by trade, Mayor Davison ran as an Independent with backing of the Civic Government and Taxpayers' Association, opposed to Social Credit. He was given 19,479 votes. Leisemer 13,361 and James W. Gillman, Independent, only 444.

Six aldermanic candidates surged into leads for the seven seats at stake, with 121 of the 133 polls counted. With an estimated 4,000 quota necessary for election, it was expected at least three would be returned on first count.

The standing was: Ald. R. H. Weir, C.G.T.A., 5,118; James Mahaffey, C.G.T.A., 4,559; Ald. Mrs. Rose Wilkinson, Social Credit, 4,381; E. A. McCullough, C.G.T.A., 3,904; H. R. Chauncey, C.G.T.A., 2,476; Ald. W. G. Southern, Labor, 2,785; G. N. Brown, Social Credit, 1,280; R. H. Parkyn, Independent, 1,235; A. C. Rowe, Civic Progressive Association, 1,196; Miss Edith Patterson, Labor, 966; Arthur Weddell, Social Credit, 816; Ald. T. V. Mitchell, 240; Fred Nutt, Independent, 175.

Make Friends Quickly With You-I Conversation

Kay and Phil talk like old friends over their chocolate sodas. Who'd guess they were introduced only an hour ago?

You win friends easily when you know the secret of the YOU-I touch in conversation.

Make the next person you meet feel that he's a real individual to you. Look straight at him, repeat his name. Say, if you can, that you've heard about him, you're glad to meet him at last. Use questions to draw him out. Don't say you like the rumba; ask if he likes it. Let him see you've formed ideas about him; rouse his curiosity. Say, "I thought you'd think that," "I believe you'd like it."

Our 32-page booklet tells you how to keep the conversation going; how to charm as guest or hostess. Tips on telephone conversations. How to develop a good speaking voice.

Send 15c in coins for your copy of SECRETS OF GOOD CONVERSATION to The Examiner's Home Service, Peterborough. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, and the NAME of booklet.

...that fitted waistline and flaring coats inspired by the Cossack uniform, are being shown by several Paris designers. They vary the pencil slim silhouette which is tops in style just now. These costumes have back fullness and some are trimmed with wool in contrasting color, and some in Persian.

Big Bazaar In St. Alphonsus Lyceum.

The big bazaar of St. Peter's Cathedral opened on Wednesday afternoon, and what a fund of interest and entertainment was found by the crowds of guests who thronged in St. Alphonsus' Lyceum. The general convenor for the bazaar was Miss E. Deannard, president of the Catholic Women's League.

There were the decorated booths, the fish pond (that joy of young hearts), the gay little supper tables, a variety of games, and on the stage, the ever popular "country store," whose wares seemed a most rich assortment from a distance, and on nearer inspection turned out to be indeed a collection of most lovely things.

The "store" held all sorts of chinaware, whole tea sets with floral patterns, others with "gingham" design, and the popular shamrocks. A pretty idea were mixing bowls with china spoons to match, decorated with little flower patterns. There was the greatest variety of the prettiest little bedroom lamps, larger table lamps, vases, ornaments, handsome cushions, hand-embroidered towels, bath towels, blankets, even a quilt, pretty woolly bedjackets, hand-knitted sweaters, baskets of groceries, and dozens of other things. Ladies in charge of the store were Mrs. W. A. Duffus and Mrs. F. Eano. Also Messrs. Fred Murphy, Jack Whaley, and Eddie Prete.

At Miss Annie Simons' flag-decorated, and equally popular fish pond, a naughty peek behind the scenes showed a most fascinating assortment of little toys of all kinds, pictures, books, Laura Secord candies in pretty little houses, and even Christmas stockings. Tickets were being sold on a gorgeous big baby doll, dressed in woolly pink rompers. Miss Simons was assisted by Mrs. T. J. Lane and the Misses Betty Brady, Rita Condon, Josie Lynch, and Marcelle Conlen.

The gay red and white apron booth announcing its wares in glittering letters, displayed aprons in apparently every type, size, and color, and in the prettiest materials and patterns. There was even a "Coronation" apron with a crown-shaped pocket. The booth was in charge of Mrs. C. Brady, Mrs. M. J. Murray, Mrs. H. Lush, Mrs. F. Wolff, and Mrs. C. McCoy. Tickets were being sold on a pretty quilt with butterfly design and on a beautiful cushion.

Gold and white decorated the doll booth, in charge of Miss Joan Lynch, with Miss Mary Torpey and Miss Peggy Madden. Here the shelves were filled with every sort of dolly, pretty little girl dolls, cute and quaint dolls, baby dolls, darkie dolls, and teddy bears. The "twins," lovely huge baby dolls, dressed in pink and blue organdy, with matching hats, will go to some lucky person with the winning number.

At the green and white Sodality booth, holding soft drinks, home-made candy and smokes, tickets were being sold on the loveliest tan and green reversible blanket, a coffee table, and a permanent wave. The president, Miss Phyllis Cowie, was in charge, assisted by a number of the girls.

The excellent supper was served in cafeteria style, the guests sitting at charming little tables with navy and white checked cloths, and bouquets of sweet peas. Ladies in charge were Mrs. M. S. Donoghue, Mrs. E. H. White, and Mrs. Frank Corrigan, and assistants were Mesdames W. Lynch, P. J. Collins, M. Gray, Stan Houlihan, J. Crowley, W. J. Houlihan, and M. Clancy.

The draw for the prizes on which tickets have been sold will be made by the Rev. Father Kelly on the last day of the bazaar.

Hynes-Boucher.

A very quiet but pretty wedding was solemnized in the Church of the Sacred Heart, when Jeanette Boucher, daughter of Mrs. Boucher of 224 Lake Street, and the late Edward Boucher, was married to Joseph Hynes, son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Hynes of Woodland Street. The Rev. Father J. C. Maloney officiated.

Given in marriage by her eldest brother, the bride was gowned in navy blue sheer with matching accessories. Her corsage was of pink Briarcliffe roses.

Miss Julia Boucher was her sister's bridesmaid, and was attired in wine sheer, with matching accessories, and wore a corsage of yellow Briarcliffe roses. Morris Hynes, cousin of the groom, attended as best man.

Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's mother to the bridal party and members of the immediate families. The couple will reside on Simcoe Street.

Men's Formal Evening Clothes In Colors, Especially Blue, Approved

PARIS, Nov. 18 (A.P.). — The Duke and Duchess of Windsor, two of the world's fashion setters, approved yesterday of men's formal evening clothes in colors—especially blue.

"We have hunting jackets in bright red color—why not dress with a little color in the evening?" the Duke asked, admiring a display of new styles during a three-hour visit to the Paris Exposition.

"I like the blue one particularly," the Duchess said.

"I am going to hold the Duchess to that," the Duke answered enthusiastically.

The Duke and Duchess spent some time in the Jewellery Pavilion, lingering especially over cases of unusual mountings. The exhibit was closed to the public so they could rummage freely.

A bracelet caught the Duchess' eye. "What is the value of this?" she asked a jeweller.

"A million four hundred and fifty thousand francs, Your Grace," she was answered. (About $48,000.)

OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

JUST BETWEEN US WOMEN

"Why did she love him? Curious fool!—be still—
Is human love the growth of human will?" —Byron.

And this:
"Then must you speak
Of one that loved not wisely, but too well." —Shakespeare.

Dear Friends:

Sometimes I get the most pitiful letters from young people and my heart goes out in pity to them. One in particular speaks right out, of the havoc that love has caused her.

She says in part: "Roberta, I have had this man for my lover for a number of years. He COULD marry me, but keeps putting it off. He demanded certain liberties at the beginning of our courtship, and I was foolish enough to agree, thinking I could bind him to me as I feel bound to him due to this intimacy."

And was there no one to tell you, "J.R.I." that no man values that which he can get so lightly? No mother or friend to counsel you in this most vital thing. You say that all you have got out of this is the knowledge he goes with no other. What a price to pay for any man.

She goes on to say that now he holds this over her head, threatening that if she does not continue he will leave her, "and what man will want her then?"

The only thing you can do "J.R.I." is to pray to God to put it into the man's mind that he will rectify the mistake you have both made. Stop asking him. Leave it with God, who knows that if you have sinned much, you have also suffered much.

Personally I think that the burdens of your home life have warped your judgment, so that you became fearful love would pass you by, and so accepted a spurious substitute.

No doubt from what you say, this man may love you, but it clearly shows that he loves himself and his own comfort more. He wants all the pleasures of married life without its responsibilities. He wants you to feel bound, while he can go free, and how I despise men like that.

You state that you think few women are virtuous, but I disagree with you emphatically. There are many many women of true virtue.

Now you have asked for help, and wonder if I condemn you. Not at all for maybe had I been placed as you are, I might have done the same, I do not know. But now you must bend all your prayers, all your energies towards the man righting this wrong he has done you, and which you also have done to yourself.

There should be a law, there is a law which takes care of younger girls, but you are at the age of consent. Had you given your name and address, (which you say you are ashamed to do) I could have advised you more fully.

Prayer is the strongest thing, so do that and I will do it with you. I have answered you as soon as I could, so do not lose heart. Put the thought of suicide far from you, for then you would be going to God with two big sins instead of one, and no one is worth giving up your life for, no matter who they are.

Be sure God will hear you. He knows your suffering, your remorse, and is always merciful to those whose burdens are heavy like yours are. Remember I am praying for you night and day.

Your Friend,
ROBERTA.

THE STARS SAY . . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLLE

For Friday, November 19.

Rather unfavorable planetary conditions prevail on this day, all calling for every circumspect action, both in business and private life. There are portents of financial loss as well as trickery, malice and danger in connection with writings. Beware of too friendly persons, and safeguard papers and contracts. With precaution and good judgment, such untoward events may be avoided.

Those whose birthday it is are likely to have some very disagreeable experiences during the year unless they protect their money, contracts and writings from unscrupulous persons. With care and vigilance, all may thrive.

A child born on this day may be lively, brilliant and companionable, but not to be to highly trusted, since it may incline to expediency rather than principle, unless properly directed.

Keep On Growing If You'd Be Young

By VIRGINIA LEE

I mentioned before in this column that I am reading Gelett Burgess' new book, "Look Eleven Years Younger." He calls to our attention that nervous habits, grimaces, foot tappings, mouthings, pencil and bead biting, etc., that we indulge in are all definitely aging, and that we should control them. He recommends "conscious control," or keeping our minds upon what we are doing, as a remedy for these senile habits.

His conclusion, at the close of his book, is one of my pet theories, so you will pardon me if I quote it:

"After all is said, the most important characteristic of youth is growth. When you stop growing you begin to grow old. Of course no one wants to keep on growing physically, but we do want to keep on growing mentally. If we don't, the world passes us by. It is only by continual mental development that age can ever hope to compete with youth."

I have never sympathized with the "tired business man" (or woman) attitude, you know. There are times, I admit, when body, mind and soul need nothing so much as rest. But I believe in "resting" when one is in normal health of mind and body, by "good" entertainment, good music, good plays, fine books, thoughtful and intelligent conversation.

I never can see why folk need to leave their brains at home when they play. It seems to me infinitely more refreshing to exercise them in a different field than in that to which our work calls us, but to use them nevertheless.

But don't think I don't like fun too. I can be as silly as the 'next one with just pure fun, but I don't want to be silly all the time. I want entertainment with a punch to it—and I don't mean a beverage that intoxicates.

The youngest person I ever knew was a woman who lived to be nearly 90. She was right on her toes. She knew all that was going on, read the new books, listened to the radio, played a good game of cards, and since reading Gelett Burgess' book in which he says that talking about ages makes us seem older, I suddenly realized how seldom she mentioned age. It therefore made a great and very sweet impression on me when one day she said, after we had heard a certain song sung: "I sang that once before an audience when I was 18, and wore a pink dress." It conjured up a most alluring vision of a pretty young girl in a pink dress singing that song.

One effect of all this is to revive exotic hair decorations such as have not been seen for many a year. Shown here are front and back views of the prize winning coiffure shown at the Paris exposition the past summer, and designed to be worn with an elaborate evening dress.

Big Fun Packing But Gains Award

LONDON, Nov. 18—(CP).—To London came 28-year-old Mrs. Isobel Stillingfleet of Kelowna, B. C. Every autumn for the last 10 years she has packed Okanagan Valley apples. She likes doing it and counts it fun.

This year the Canadian government and its trade commissioner thought enough of her apple-packing to bring her to England to compete in the apple-packing competition at the Imperial Fruit Show. She won first award, a gold medal, certificate and £20 ($100).

Mrs. Stillingfleet won, 60 points ahead of the runner-up, an English girl. There were 12 contests and three boxes with 175 apples to be packed in each by the packer were used in each competition. She packed hers in two minutes, 40 seconds.

Judges awarded 33 points for speed and 67 points for quality of wrapping and packing in every contest. The apples used were half English and the other half Okanagan Valley products. Four packers, one from Canada, one from New Zealand and two from England competed.

The prize winner was born in England but went to Canada when she was five years old. This is the first visit to her relations. She sails for home the last week in November.

Milk Beneficial For a Clear Skin

By GLADYS GLAD

Milk really is an excellent complexion beautifier. When ken internally in the proper quantities, it helps to clear the skin and to eradicate blotchiness and sallowness. But milk can be used externally also as a skin beautifier, according to Kitty Carlisle, stage and screen actress. Milk serves excellently as a snappy pick-me-up facial, but, Kitty adds, different types of skin require different sorts of milk if they are to be benefited.

According to Kitty, the ordinary sweet milk is for the individual who possesses a normal skin. For the oily-skinned type, she says, buttermilk is best. And for the dry-skinned lassie, rich, heavy cream is ideal, because it helps to provide nourishment for such skin and tends to give it the lubrication that it lacks.

Before using one of these facials, cleanse your skin thoroughly, first with soap and water, and then with a good cold cream. Then, after removing the cream with cleansing tissue, pat a quantity of the milk onto your skin with a square of absorbent cotton. If your skin is oily, use the buttermilk. If your skin is normal, use the ordinary sweet milk. And if your skin is inclined to dryness, use the rich, heavy cream.

Pat a copious amount of whichever form of milk you choose onto your skin, and permit it to dry. When dry, pat on a second layer. Let this also dry. When thoroughly dry, remove the milk mask with tepid water and a soft cloth, and as the final step, apply a mild astringent or skin tonic, in order to close the pores and tone up the skin.

This method of untilizing milk has a bleaching and toning effect on the skin, helps to refine its texture, and leaves it feeling soft, smooth and velvety.

Another good way to utilise milk as a complexion beautifier is to go on an exclusive milk diet. Physicians say that every individual should consume at least a pint of milk every day, because of the protective mineral elements that this beverage contains, and Kitty Carlisle is one lass who adheres to this idea. Kitty, however, drinks milk not only for her health's sake, but for her beauty's sake as well. She takes her milk internally as well as using it externally, and her own lovely skin should be sufficient proof of the benefits that can accrue through the use of milk.

The milk died for improving complexion is one that a good many showgirls and chorines employ, and it really is most effective in clearing the skin of blotches and sallowness. In this milk diet, nothing should be consumed for three days but fresh milk. It is possible to prolong the diet for a greater length of time, of course, but I personally think that three days constitute a sufficiently lengthy period of time for the average individual. Most of the girls behind the footlights and under the Klieg lights do the dieting over the week-end, starting on Friday and culminating the diet on Monday. And that's an ideal way.

During this dieting period, no solid foods should be consumed, and as much milk as possible should be taken. The average amount is from four to six quarts every 24 hours.

CLARENDON, N.B.—(CP).—The most recent oddity found in New Brunswick woods was a doe with horns, shot near here. The doe weighed 200 pounds, had one horn a foot long and a stub of another.

A clear, clean complexion

For a perfect complexion absolute skin cleanliness is the first essential. Soap does not cleanse effectively, and, being alkaline, robs the skin of its natural oils.

INNOXA COMPLEXION MILK, used night and morning, cleanses deep down into the pores, removing all impurities, keeping the skin fresh and clear.

INNOXA CLEANSING CREAM, packed in jars and tubes, is so convenient to carry in your handbag that you can keep your face cleansed wherever you may be. It liquefies immediately upon application and is particularly soothing for a sun-scorched or wind-dried skin.

AN EARLY INVESTMENT

THE "DUCK" is a play which is absolutely essential sometimes in order to make a contract. It consists of giving up an early trick in a suit so that all of the remaining tricks in it can be won. There are situations in which a suit cannot be brought home by any other means, just as there are contracts which cannot be made except by bringing in the suit.

After North's opening bid of 1-Club, East overcalled with 1-Spade, South bid 2-Hearts, North 3-Clubs, South 3-Hearts and North 4-Hearts.

West led the spade J, which was covered by the Q and K. East switched to a trump, which declarer won in dummy with the A. Three more rounds of trumps exhausted the hostile ones and a club was now led and ducked. However, two more spades were now cashed and the contract set.

Where the contract was correctly played, the declarer won the trump return on the second lead with the A and, realizing that he could not ruff a losing spade, as a trump would be shot back as soon as he lost the lead, played a small club from dummy, immediately giving up a trick in that suit, in order to establish clubs for one spade loser while he still retained a trump in dummy. When East won the club, he returned another trump, but the contract was now safe.

LORD TWEEDSMUIR A SCHOLAR STILL CRITIC DECLARES

LONDON, Nov. 18—(CP).—British historians, critics and the general reading public have acclaimed Lord Tweedsmuir's latest book, "Augustus." It is praised as much for depth of philosophy as brilliance of style, for Canada's governor-general has drawn a potent parallel between the age of the great Roman dictator and the present.

Italy had lost her material prosperity, her agricultural well-being, her intellectual and religious wealth. Augustus inherited a constitution that was the "chaotic result of attempts to arrest internal revolution and of feeble and undirected efforts to adjust the relation of outworn powers."

John Buchan's book (for it is so signed) is not concerned with pointing the portent although the author admits it is a reflection of his own times and its conflicts as well as those of Augustus. In the light of this decade the significance of the life work of Augustus Caesar is thrown into familiar form, but the consensus is that had it been written 25 years earlier or later it would be no less valuable a work.

Sir Arnold Wilson, M.P., writing of the new book in the Yorkshire Post, recalls John Buchan was just 21 when he published his first book, titled "Schoolar Gipsies." The title proved prophetic, "for he was and has remained a scholar, and has travelled more widely than most gipsies."

"In the depth of his studies he has few equals, and in the range of his interests no rivals among living authors," continues Sir Arnold. 'As the tide of life has flowed in, it has broadened and deepened its predestined channels, and this book shows that there is no slackening in the current that has borne, in the last few years, 'Julius Caesar' and 'Oliver Cromwell' to the busy marts where men buy books to have and to hold and to cherish."

Influence Of Ottawa

The author of "Augustus" says in brief preface he has long thought of writing this book but that actually it is the fruit of only two winters in Ottawa.

It may be that John Buchan's residence in Rideau Hall will add to his stature as an author rather than divert his attentions from that field as many had feared. For Sir John Squire wrote in the Daily Telegraph and Morning Post this was the finest book of John Buchan's he had ever read. "It is a scholarly and just piece of historical writing, whilst for the excellence of its style, the sweep of its narrative, and the brilliance of its pictures, it equals anything in his romances."

Sir John summarizes thus: "The story falls naturally into two halves. In the first we see how, by war and intrigue, first Brutus and then his fellow triumvirs were eliminated, and the boy, who had been his uncle's heir at 16, became in his 20s virtual master of the world; in the second we see him, through a long life, organizing that world, touching life at every point with the thoroughness of a Napoleon undistracted by campaigns...

"The first half of the book, alas, with its ruthless rivalries and bloodshed, is closer to our understanding now than it would have been 30 years ago, when we had almost forgotten what cold-blooded slaughter was like."

The Times reviewer declared that to portray Augustus as he had done had required all the resources of John Buchan's reading, literary skill and political experience. "The consequence is that no student of constitutions or forms of administrations, or indeed of the hearts of princes, can afford to neglect the study of Augustus' aims and methods."

Brazilian Minister

Although appointed to the cabinet of Brazilian, President Getulio Vargas only a few days ago, Minister of Justice Francisco Campos (ABOVE), is seen as achieving new stature, second only to President Vargas. Campos was chief collaborator in drawing up the document that promulgated the new constitution whereby President Vargas assumed dictatorial powers to rule Brazil for an indefinite period, making it in effect another totalitarian state.

May Be New Spanish King

Should rebel general Francisco Franco be successful in overthrowing the Spanish government it is thought that Spanish monarchy would be restored under Don Juan of Bourbon, 24-year-old son of former Spanish ruler Alfonso. Both Great Britain and Germany are said to have given their approval of the restoration under Don Juan in the event the Spanish government is defeated. The proposed kingship of Infante Juan, shown ABOVE with his wife, Princess Mercedes of Bourbon, and their infant daughter, reportedly does not meet with Vatican approval, however, which proposes instead the installation of Prince Xavier, Carlist pretender, as king.

ARCTIC CAMPERS RIDING ICE FLOE

MOSCOW, Nov. 18 — (AP).—Four Russian Arctic campers, riding an ice fide down from the North Pole, reported by wireless today they were only 125 miles off the northeastern coast of Greenland.

In Moscow, Dr. Otto Schmidt, leader of the aerial expedition that established the camp 13 miles from the Pole nearly six months ago, said the four men probably would be taken off in January before their ice raft reached open sea and danger of breaking up.

The campers had drifted more than 400 miles. It was likely ice-breakers would pick them up between Greenland and Spitsbergen.

Now that the direction of the polar drift is known, Dr. Schmidt said, Soviet scientists were planning to fly two and possibly three sets of campers to the far side of the Pole and let them drift across it about

Shaw Rewrites Shakespeare Brings In The Abdication

"Streamlined" Version Of Cymbeline Is Rewritten In Part By George Bernard Shaw

LONDON, Nov. 18 (AP).— George Bernard Shaw has carried out his old threat to rewrite Shakespeare—and in doing so he introduced an obvious allusion to last December's abdication.

A "stream-lined" version of Cymbeline, rewritten in part by Shaw, was presented at the Embassy Theatre last night.

Never self-effacing, Shaw's program said, "Cymbeline: By William Shakespeare and George Bernard Shaw."

The modern playwright worked in the abdication in a rewritten passage where the King's long-lost sons Cadwal and Polydore, are found. Cadwal, the elder, is hailed as the heir to the British throne.

But Cadwal replies in blank verse:

"No, no, this kingly business has Compelled to worship i-thm odwm no charm for me....compelled to worship priest-invented gods,

"Not free to wed the woman of my choice.

"Being stopped at every turn by some old fool

"Crying: 'You must not,' or still worse: 'You must';

"O, no, sir: Give me back the dear old cave.

"I abdicate, and pass the throne to Polydore."

Polydore exclaims:

"Do you, by heavens? Thank you for nothing, my brother."

Shaw commented: "You must not try to find in the passage more than there is on the surface."

Critics were not at all sure Shaw made good his boast he would "improve Shakespeare."

NAZI AGENTS ARE BUSY IN ONTARIO

KITCHENER, Ont., Nov. 18. —(CP).—Reputable citizens of German descent in Kitchener and Waterloo are being harassed by Nazi agents seeking to compel them to join Nazi associations, Rabbi Maurice Eisendrath, Toronto, told the Kitchener-Waterloo Women's Canadian Club in an address yesterday.

Rabbi Eisendrath said he had received letters callin ghis attention to the situation. The Nazi doctrines were insidious. Some praised Fascism and National Socialism because trains were more punctual and streets cleaner in nations dominated by them, quite forgetting the spiritual poverty of the peoples.

Canada, he said, did not want efficiency that would "put a gag on every conscience and a muzzle on every lip. Canadians do not want their country to become a glorified antheap held in leash and under the lash of an efficiency expert."

Rabbi Eisendrath found a parallel situation to that which confronted Germany in 1931 in Canada today. The trend of the times was seen in scurrilous printed attacks on the Jews, distributed in Ontario by the hundreds of thousands.

The money spent on these publications indicated a flourishing Nazi organization in the background, he said in urging an investigation into the promoters and publications.

AGED NORTHERNER NOT OVERAWED BY MODERN GADGETS

EDMONTON, Nov. 18 (CP).—Using a telephone and riding in an elevator for the first time left George Weston Eaton, veteran of Canada's northwest frontier, just a bit bored.

Surprisingly youthful looking and agile for all his 84 years, he came out of the north for the first time in 19 years to visit his daughter and look up old friends.

A newspaperman obligingly located the daughter, Mrs. Jake Messner, living at Berwyn, Alta., 240 miles northwest of Edmonton, and then the little old man, whose thick red beard is just starting to turn grey along the edges really became excited.

"I haven't been out since about 1918," he said. "Nope, the last time I was south of Waterways, (280 miles northwest of Edmonton) was just about the close of the war. And I don't think I'll stay long this time either. I'm going prospecting when I get back."

"Gosh, this town has certainly changed," he said starting a sight-seeing tour. "I hear they have elevators that will take a fellow to Heaven if he gets on the right way." But the four-storey ride which was arranged did not overawe him.

When called on the telephone by a reporter to be told his daughter had been located, George gingerly lifted a receiver to his ear for the first time. After listening a few seconds he said: "Let's walk over to the office. It's quicker."

Given a cigarette he puffed vigorously but had difficulty keeping the sparks out of his curly beard. "A fellow doesn't even get started smoking these things," he said as he threw away the butt.

Dodging numbly along the streets he remarked that getting through Edmonton traffic was "worse than pushing your way through bush, but just takes a little getting used to." He sought refuge behind a lamp post, his hat askew, his home-made cane in one hand, a blackened pipe in the other. "I guess we had better walk Indian file, eh?" he queried the reporter.

In 1900 Eaton brought his family from Woodstock, Ont. and settled in northwest Alberta. Then he moved down the Peace River on a raft to the Mackenzie River. For 35 years he worked on boats operating on the river. His two sons were killed overseas.

George had only $7.50 when he reached Edmonton, but was not worried about the future. "I'm drawing $20 a month in old age pension and I can always fall back on my wood-cutting tools here," he said. "I can still rip up a mess of cordwood in a hurry."

Cabinet Breach

Rumors, denied in London, but sufficiently persistent to cause questioning in the House of Commons, that Capt. Anthony Eden, Britain's youthful foreign secretary, may offer his resignation in resentment over the journey of Lord Halifax as special envoy to discuss Anglo-German relations with the Berlin government. Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain (lower LEFT), reportedly declined to reply to questions asking whether the visit of Halifax (top LEFT) had the "full approval" or were "initiated" by Capt. Eden.

You Often Hear Of Big Ones Missed But They Can't Touch This One

Lindsay, November 18.

ELGIN Douglas of Lindsay, who is a member of the Black Lake Hunt (or Liars') Club, offers the following addition to tall hunting stories:

Last year his dog chased a large buck-deer into the lake. Mr. Douglas (he says) climbed into his canoe and paddled after the animal, finally getting close enough to throw a rope around its neck. The buck bucked, and tossed Douglas out of the canoe, then swam to shore and ran into the woods, dragging the canoe after him.

Returning to the same location the other day, Mr. Douglas saw (he says) the same buck "dragging the canoe behind it, and there were two small fawns seated in the canoe."

JUDGES COMMEND HIGH QUALITY OF ROYAL EXHIBITS

TORONTO, November 18—(CP)—Praise for the high quality of animals entered in the 16th annual Royal Winter Fair was expressed by judges to-day, with competition considered the keenest in the Fair's history. Some of the best livestock in the United States and Canada is on display.

Judges of the Dairy Cattle division, Clarence Goodhue of Vaudreuil, Que., and Axel Hanson, Minneapolis, both of whom officiated here for many years, praised the high standard of the cattle that paraded before them. Judges in the other classes expressed similar favorable comment.

A feature of yesterday's judging was the showing of the Maytag Dairy Farm, Newton, Ia., which swept the Senior awards. The farm's Man-o'-War Progresser, undefeated in major United States shows in the past two years and was the All-American bull last year, was made Senior and Grand Champion of the Fair. Among the farm's other honors were the Reserve Senior and Reserve Grand championships, won by two-year-old Posch Ormsby Forbes 11th.

Evening events at the Royal were climaxed with Belgium's win in the military "broad jump" at the Horse Show. Belgian army riders took first and second places in that event in competition so close the time of the third round was taken to declare a winner. Lieut. van Strydonck was first on his chestnut mare, Ramona, when he completed the jumps in 34 seconds; Lieut. Mondron on Obrahim needed 46 seconds.

Premier Busy.

Prime Minister Mackenzie King is expected to preside over the second cabinet meeting of the week to-morrow afternoon. He did not attend yesterday's meeting of the Cabinet at which Justice Minister Ernets Lapointe presided.

The Prime Minister has been endeavoring to catch up with a great volume of correspondence and other accumulated routine which has grown in spite of the fact that he has devoted himself continuously to work since returning from the Imperial Conference. A proposed tour of the West was abandoned and it is considered unlikely the Prime Minister will take his presessoinal rest unless he takes a trip during the Christmas holidays.

Says Varicose Veins Can Be Reduced At Home

PROVE IT AT SMALL COST

If you or any relative or friend is worried because of varicose veins, or bunches, as good advice for home treatment as any friend can give is to get a bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil.

Simply ask McDermid & Jury or your druggist for an original bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil and apply night and morning to the swollen, enlarged veins. Soon you should notice that they are growing smaller and the treatment should be continued until the veins are no longer burdensome. So penetrating is Emerald Oil that it also helps simple swellings due to strain to disappear.

ment reduced expenditures to bring about economies.

When his government took office it faced the greatest funded debt in Ontario's history but now the election was over the government intended to "settle down and make Ontario a better place in which to live," he said.

Government could improve the standard of living of the people and that was what his government was trying to do. There was no need to be discouraged in Canada where responsible governments gave the people the opportunity to elect governments which would fight their battles.

Lead Way In North

He believed Northern Ontario would lead the way to Canada's complete recovery from the depression. The Ontario government planned a reforestation policy that would give pulp and paper mills a steady supply of pulpwood, the north's resources of game and fish could be maintained while its wealth of precious and base metals was barely touched.

Mr. Campbell said he was glad to accept the offer of a seat in Northern Ontario as it was the section of the province in which he made his living. He believed Sault Ste. Marie had great advantages in tourist trade because of its location as the gate-way to the state of Michigan.

THREE MEN ARE KILLED IN CRASH

after being struck. Official railroad statements said visibility was good at the time and the crossing was not obstructed. The place where the crash occurred is about 18 miles north-west of Thorold where the boys and girls met.

The bodies of Colley and Sutch were identified by Fred Fisher, brother of James, who came to Vineland, five miles east of Grimsby, from his home at Welland.

Card Approaching Slowly

Members of the train crew said they saw the car approach the protected crossing at Vineland Station, five miles east of Grimsby, at slow speed in a northerly direction. They said the car moved directly into the path of the 19-car train, which Engineer Frank Patterson said was travelling at about 50 miles an hour.

Struck broadside, the machine was tossed 150 feet down the track. Wreckage was strewn along the right-of-way. When members of the train crew reached the scene after the freight had been brought to a stop 60 yards down the track, they found five bodies jumbled together in the demolished motor car. The sixth lay 15 feet away.

Statements by railway officials issued in Toronto and London said visibility at the time of the accident was good and that a clear view of the track could be obtained from both sides of the open crossing, which is protected by a bell. Engineer Patterson said he blew the regulation warning whistle as he approached the crossing.

The train was bound from Niagara Falls to Sarnia. Crew members were aided in removing the bodies from the wreckage by Bernard Gee, who lives near the crossing. Gee heard the crash and after a quick look at the scene hurried to his home to summon doctors and police. Returning with blankets he helped extricate the bodies.

Great Concert Crowd Charmed By Mrs. Park, Gifted Artists

Leaders Of Ontario Music Teachers' Association Win High Favor

Peterborough music lovers proved last night that they are "concert wise" by filling George Street United Church to standing room for the introduction to this city of members, as such, of the council of the Ontario Music Teachers' Association, a local branch of which was subsequently planned by the appointment of a provisional committee to assume the details of organization.

The attendance appeared to be around 1,500, or what ever the seating capacity of the church may be, plus an undetermined number who were content with any other resting places they could find. The audience surprised its collective self, seemed in fact slightly self-conscious at the outset, and delighted the artists who acknowledged they found a surge of inspiration in Peterborough's splendid reception. Informality began at the doors with an admission fee of twenty-five cents, anticipating the Santa Claus season, was reflected in the absence of programs, and amplified by the introductory comments of G. D. Carlisle, president of George Street choir, George Marshall of Simcoe, a member of the Teachers' Association, and Harvey Robb, Toronto, its president.

Mr. Marshall sustained the intimate note with the audience in his introductions of the artists who in turn announced the numbers they were presenting. It was all very pleasant and exceedingly enjoyable.

The artists and their numbers comprising the program were as follows: Charles Peaker, organist, (a) Gigue Fugue, Bach; (b) Larghetto by Mozart, written for clarinet quintette; (c) Humoresque "A Primitive Organ" by Yon.

Dorothy Allan Park, soprano—(a) "Hark the Echoing Air In Triumph Sings" by Purcell; (b) "I Love Thee" by Grieg; (c) Schubert's "Ave Maria" with violin obligato by Frank Blachford.

George Lambert, baritone—(a) "Old Mother Hubbard" after the manner of Handel by Hely Hutchinson; (b) "Sea Fever" by John Ireland; (c) "Bonnie Earl of Moray" arranged by Kreisler; (d) "Go Down Moses," Negro spiritual.

Margaret Brown, pianiste—(a) Suite entitled "Memories of Childhood" by Pinto, "Run, Run; "Sleepy Time" and "Playing"; (b) Ballet waltz "Naila" by Delibes; (c) Gavotte, by Gluck-Brahms.

Frank Blachford, violinist—(a) Minuet by Mozart; (b) "En Bateau" by DeBussy; (c) Mazurka by Wieniawski.

Dorothy Allan Park—"Think on", an old Scottish song.

Accompaniments by Harvey Robb.

The program was of uniform excellence with an atmospheric setting of expectancy and thrill and pleasant informality that added impalpably to the enjoyment of the music. Mr. Marshall made special reference to the presence of Dorothy Allan Park as a member of the council of the Teachers' Association appearing before an audience in her own city. Mrs. Park was in splendid voice and has rarely sung so well. She offered three moods in her first group of songs, and it would be difficult to decide in which she excelled. This reviewer probably liked best her singing of Schubert's "Ave Maria." The moods Mrs. Park created were phases and variations of ecstasy, ranging from the dramatic and heroic note of "Hark the Echoing Air in Triumph Singing," to the lyric of "I Love Thee", and the devotional of "Ave Maria", and in each vocal personation she was eloquently persuasive. Vigor and warmth of tone, a fine evaluation of every syllable and inflection with smooth flow of phrase and an added dramatic instinct invested her first number "Hark the Echoing Air" with sparkling life and action. The love song was lucently melodic. In the second part of the hymnal "Ave Maria" Mrs. Park wove about those words themselves the spirit of the Latin prayer and an inner quality of her voice with all the artistry she so easily commands and a glowing sincerity of emotion from deeper sources. Then, in her last song "Think Of Me" she evoked its inherent pathos with refinement of sentiment that gently and subtlely cast a spell over her audience of a moving awareness of priceless things lost or of their inevitable impermanence. Altogether Mrs. Park captivated her Peterborough admirers once more.

One of the highlights of the program was the Mozart larghetto for clarinets played on the organ by Mr. Peaker. He used the clarinet stop with beautiful effect. His concluding "Triumphal March" employed the full organ with impressive flourish and breath.

Margaret Brown's playing of the piano number the "Naila" ballet by Delibes was gorgeous tone color, and incidentally displayed her remarkable proficiency at the keyboard. One of the episodes in the suite "Memories of Childhood" entitled "Playing" was graphic realism for the imaginative, and Miss Brown made it charmingly clear and plain, delineating the restlessness of children, their spurts of running, also their disharmonies. It was charmingly clever and picturesque.

In the lighter vein, also, was Mr. Peaker's imitation of a primitive organ, and the burlesque on the idiom and form of oratorio by George Lambert who sang "Old Mother Hubbard" as conceivably Handel might have embellished it. His song "Sea Fever" was a splendid medium for his resonant and robust baritone. His tone is full and of very pleasing quality, with the technical resources for the dynamics of the Masefield piece.

Mr. Blachford's violin numbers rounded out the memorable entertainment. His Mazurka by Wieniawski presented his grace and facility of bowing and the rich tone that flowed from his intrument. Mr. Blachford deserved far more than passing mention. Mr. Robb's accompaniment was a feature of the program, technically superb, and marked by sensitive feeling that illumined many facets of the solos.

At the conclusion of the concert Mr. Oldfield expressed the thanks of the council of the Ontario Music Teachers' Association for various forms of assistance, Mr. Carlisle, Mr. Leslie Unitt, the Madrigal Singers, Mrs. Agnes Logan Green, A. R. Kennedy of the Examiner and especially the large number of citizens who were present.

GEORGE GRAHAM IS MAJOR WINNER IN BUTTER CONTEST

(By Staff Reporter)

LINDSAY, Nov. 18.—"We reached a stage in the butter industry where the man manufacturing butter has to have some technical knowledge to be successful and turn out a uniform product day by day," Professor William Sproule, head of the Dairy Department of the Ontario Agricultural College, told the Kawartha Butter Makers' Club assembled here Wednesday night. It was the occasion of the club's annual banquet.

ELECT OFFICERS.

Detective - Sergeant William Meagher was elected president of the Police Benevolent and Burial Association at the annual meeting held Wednesday night. He succeeds Constable Gordon T. Puffer, as head of the organization, the latter occupying the office of secretary-treasurer. Inspector James F. Reid was named vice-president, having previously held the position of secretary-treasurer since the Association was formed five years ago.

SUFFERS BEREAVEMENT.

Constable John Stevenson of the City Police Force received a letter as he was going off the night shift on Wednesday morning. It was from his home in Belfast, Ireland. Anticipating its contents with a great amount of pleasure, he waited until he got on the bus before opening it. Then he received a sad shock. It informed him of the death of his aged mother, which occurred in Belfast on November 8. The officer received expressions of condolence from fellow-members of the force and from his many friends here. Constable Stevenson last saw his mother three years ago when on a brief visit to his homeland.

GOOD PRICES REALIZED

Cattle prices are on the upward trend J. H. Miles, auctioneer, reports. He had a sale at the farm of Clifton Profit on Tuesday at which cows sold from $60 to $100 each and year-old cattle at $29 and $3. Ten tons of hay in the mow brought $69 and 10 tons of loose straw, 31. Machinery also commanded good prices.

CAR AND TRUCK DAMAGED

A motor car reportedly driven by Vernon W. Fisk of Kincardine was extensively damaged at nine o'clock this morning, when it collided with the rear of a motor truck as both vehicles were proceeding east towards Peterborough on Highway 28. The truck was also damaged. Occupants of both vehicles were not hurt. Fisk claimed that the truck driven by Bruce Hancock of Orono stopped suddenly and that he was not given an opportunity to stop or turn out. Snow accumulating on the windshield of the truck was said to have caused the necessity for the truck to stop while the driver cleaned off the glass.

COLORED CHRISTMAS LIGHTS

Special Christmas lights are to be strung on downtown city streets again this year by the Utilities Commission with cluster effects at four of the main intersections. Clusters will be designed along the lines followed for the Coronation effects at the intersections of George and Charlotte, Simcoe and George, George and Hunter and Hunter and Water. Red and green will be the color scheme throughout. Utilities Manager Ross Dobbin plans to have the lights up by December 3, date of the big Santa Claus parade.

NO MILK TROUBLE HERE

Producers, manufacturers and distributors of milk in the Peterborough district said there has been no hint up to the present that milk price troubles of the Toronto and Hamilton districts will spread to this center when questioned this morning. In accordance with the price set here by the Milk Control Board two years ago, producers are being paid $2 per hundred pounds for 3.4 milk for city sale delivered here. Prices paid here for milk for manufacturing use have varied, the current price being $1.40 per hundred pounds.

LIBERAL WOMEN MEET.

Guest of honor as the recently-opened Elite Grill entertained members and friends of the Peterborough Women's Liberal Association Wednesday night, J. J. Duffus, M.P., commended the establishment of the city's first night-club as an asset to Peterborough when he addressed a few words to the gathering. He praised the appearance and appointments of the grill room and thanked Manager Andy Rutter for his efforts toward the success of the party. Fifty couples attended the party, the first of its nature enjoyed this season by the Association. Special arrangements were afforded in an unusual musical program by Nichol Stout and his band.

PROVISIONAL COMMITTEE.

The provisional committee appointed at the conclusion of the concert at George Street United Church Wednesday night for the purpose of planning organization of a branch in Peterborough of the Ontario Music Teachers' Association is composed of Miss M. R. Rannie, Mrs. Agnes Logan Green, Mrs. Ellsworth Lambert, Miss Dorothy Allan Park, Miss Margaret Brown, Charles Peaker, Frank Blachford, George Lambert, Harvey Robb, Leslie Unitt, A. R. Kennedy and G. D. Carlisle.

Greater Emphasis On Pupils Not So Much On Subject Matter

ORILLIA, Ont., Nov. 18 (CP). — Primary concern of the elementary school now is "experience and the building up of social activities," Thornton Mustard of the Ontario Department of Education said in an address here yesterday explaining the new school curriculum put into force this term.

"In the new curriculum, there has been a shift of emphasis from subject matter to the children themselves; in the building of their character rather than in facts of knowledge to be gained," he said. "For instance, our new English course puts a special emphasis on conversation."

"Not only have the mental and emotional differences of each individual student been overlooked in the past," he continued, "but also the differences that exist in the attitudes and interests of students toward work, the poor and society in general." That was why, Mr. Mustard said, "so much freedom" has been given teachers under the new curriculum in guiding and directing students' activities.

Mr. Mustard said rows of school desks now in use were impracticable. He hoped some day to see classrooms filled with tables and chairs. He concluded: "Every time I see children sitting in row after row of school desks in a class-room, I think of chickens roosting in a henhouse."

Court Reserves Judgment In Lakefield Crash Case

Brock Wright Of North Monaghan Is Charged With Criminal Negligence

Evidence relating to a charge of criminal negligence against Brock Wright, North Monaghan Township market gardener, was heard before Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., on Wednesday.

This morning His Worship, after hearing the arguments of Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., and Defence Counsel T. J. Carley, K.C., reserved judgment, remanding the accused until Monday next on renewed bail.

The Magistrate deferred hearing of a further charge of drunkeñ-driving pending disposition of the criminal negligence charge.

Evidence presented to the court on Wednesday afternoon disclosed that the accused in his automobile ride through Lakefield around seven o'clock on the evening of October 20, banged two cars. W. H. Brown of Young's Point is still in St. Joseph's Hospital as the result of injuries he suffered when Wright collided with his car in front of Hill's store on the west side of the village.

Reginald Matthews, employee of the Canadian Nephaline Company, told of the other ipcident. "I was backing out of my lane to the street to go down town," Mr. Matthews said "I saw two cars coming from the east. The second one had only one light and I thought it was a motorcycle. I let the first one go by, then backed across the street, and was about to turn towards the centre of the village when this second car, an old truck, struck my right front wheel. Mr. Wright was driving. He got out and was staggering around, and told me I was crazy. I could smell alcoholic drink off him and I figured he was under the influence of it. About fifteen minutes later I saw the same truck upside down in front of Hill's grocery store. Wright wasn't there."

Still in Hospital.

Mrs. Brown broke into tears as she spoke of her husband's injuries. "He is still in St. Joseph's Hospital, and he'll be there for some time, too," she said to V. J. McElderry, Crown Attorney.

Dr. H. E. Moore of Lakefield said in regard to Wright's condition at his office after the accident: "He had been taking alcoholic liquor, but I wouldn't want to swear too much as to his condition. He was under the influence of it—some." To Mr. Carley, who represented Wright, Dr. Moore said the accused might have been showing the effects of excitement and shock from the accident.

Walter Walker reached the scene of the accident just as Wright was getting out from under his upturned truck. "I wasn't close to him, but he was not very steady on his feet, and his language wasn't the choicest. I couldn't say whether he was sober."

Mr. Carley, running a whole series of questions, reached a high note when Provincial Constable McClure said: "As soon as I took one look at Wright in Dr. Moore's office, I concluded he was under the influence of liquor."

"Why, the doctor doesn't go as far as you do," Mr. Carley objected.

"I can't help that," the officer replied.

Evidence regarding the position of the two cars after the accident occupied much of the court's time, and when the Crown completed its case, Magistrate Langley announced adjournment until today.

This morning Mr. Carley's argument on behalf of the accused occupied close to an hour.

AUTO MECHANICS TO HOLD MEETING

Mechanics and apprentices of the automobile repair industry in Peterborough are being invited to a meeting in the Labor Hall on George street Friday night by Richard Riley, A.F. of L. Machinists' Union organizer who is one of the employee representatives on the Provincial advisory committee for the automobile repair industry.

In the city this week inquiring into labor conditions in local garages, Mr. Riley states the purpose of the Friday night meeting is to explain and discuss the Ontario Apprenticeship Act which was passed in 1936. Few mechanics and apprentices are aware of the regulations in this Act which they can have enforced to safeguard their livelihoods, he claimed.

Charging that in Peterborough, as well as other centres of Ontario, apprentice labor in garages is being exploited contrary to the regulations of the Act, the Union representative hinted that his mission here may be to organize garage workers under the A.F. of L. Organization may be necessary to correct abuses of the Act, he said.

Work Is Started On Warsaw Line

Work on the construction of a Hydro line to bring first Hydro power to the village of Warsaw and its immediate district was begun by Peterborough Utilities workmen this week. Fifteen men are on the job, the local Utilities commissioned to do the work by the Hydro Electric Power Commission.

The line is being built from Lakefield to Warsaw. It is expected the job will be completed and the power turned on late in February or early in March. Men are engaged in clearing the path for the line at present. Poles will then be erected and wires will be strung when all else has been completed.

GRATEFUL FARMER SENDS HIS THANKS

Frank Scollard, one of Peterborough county's well-known farmers has received a letter of thanks from Robert Woodward of Westock, Sask, acknowledging the receipts of potatoes and other vegetables from this district. The letter was as follows:—

Dear Friend: This is to thank you very much indeed for your kind thoughts and generosity in sending potatoes to the farmers in the West. A car of voluntarily donated vegetables from Ontario came into Wishart last Saturday and were distributed on Monday. Everybody was delighted. We each received a sack of potatoes and a sack of mixed vegetables as turnips, carrots, beets, a large citron and 8, 9 or 10 cans of vegetables according to the size of family.

On our sack of potatoes was tag with your name and address on it.

This is the first time we have ever received anything like this in our district as this is the first year we had had a real crop failure and we hope sincerely it will be the last as this is a mixed farming district and cannot stand many setbacks. Over 80 per cent of the people in our municipality are on relief and probably more before spring. Again thanking you and hoping that at some time we may be able to return this favor, although I hope nature may continue to smile on you.

Fire Came Near Ammunition

TORONTO, Nov. 18 — (CP). — Flames came perilously close to a large store of ammunition last night, when fire of unknown origin did $1,000 damage to a sporting goods store in the downtown section. The covers of several boxes of ammunition were scorched, but firemen prevented an explosion.

The fire proved fatal to several thousand minnows, many white mice, some rats, and a pet owl. An escaping bullfrog frightened one fireman when it jumped at him out of billowing smoke. Numerous small snakes and alligators, liberated by the fire, proved difficult to retrieve.

Assisting Pastor Is Aim Of Newly-Organized Society Of The United Church

Large District Representation At W. A. Presbytery Inaugural

The falsity of the old proverb "There is nothing new under the sun" is being demonstrated every day, and was evidenced on Wednesday by the inaugural convention of the Peterborough Presbytery Woman's Association.

This is a new effort at church co-operation on the part of the Woman's Association which is an evolution of the one-time Ladies' Aid.

St. James' United Church was the meeting place for the large group of interested women, who convened in the church auditorium at nine-thirty o'clock, when more than one hundred delegates and visitors were registered.

The morning session opened with a sing-song of old familiar hymns led by Rev. and Mrs. C. Ferguson. In the absence of the president, Mrs. E. W. Rowland, the chair was taken by Rev. E. M. Cooke, chairman of the Presbytery and honorary president of the newly organized association.

Members of the Millbrook society led the devotional service in hymns, scripture reading and prayer. The delegates were then welcomed to St. James' by the pastor, Rev. F. W. Craik in gracious words.

Of necessity, business had a large share on this program and the first order was the chairman's report and the minutes of the executive meetings.

Large Representation

The roll was called by the secretary, Mrs. Bentley, and included the following organizations: Apsley, Cavan, Bethany, Bethel, Carmel, Curve Lake, Bridgenorth, Ebenezr, Fairview Fraserville, Fairmount, Lakehurst, Lakefield, Millbrook, Norwood, Springville, Warsaw, Zion and Wesley, together with the six United churches of Peterborough city, many of whom responded with interesting data regarding their year's work.

The address of the morning was practical, informative and intensely intetesting, when Mrs. M. S. Lehigh of Kinmount, president of the W.A. of Lindsay Presbytery spoke on "The place of the Presbytery W.A. in Our Church's Program."

The change from the name "Ladies Aid" to Women's Association is comparatively new, the first being in Toronto West in 1915. The idea has grown apace and now this name is widely used. At the last General Conference it was decided that such an association be organized at every preaching appointment, urban and rural.

"We have a manual" said, Mrs. Leghigh, "which lays down the policy of the church, and which we must follow if we hope for success.

"Our chief purpose is to assist the pastor, and to have a general oversight of the parsonage or manse needs. We should promote a spirit of goodwill in the church membership. It stands to encourage and promote fellowship among our women."

To the query "Why am I a member of the W.A.?" each woman might answer "It is a woman's job" or "My pastor needs my assistance." If not connected in this work with other women, I would lose contact with them while together it broadens my outlook and the value of my work. Mrs. Lehigh said among many good things "No church can rise above its W.A." and the ideal Women's Association is to the church what a mother is to the home.

All these points might apply to either a local or a Presbytery W.A. To belong to either or both, you can give better service to your own church, for our policy is four-fold: spiritual, educational, social and financial. In closing Mrs. Lehigh appealed for consistent lives. If you would win for Christ, you must live Christ from day to day.

A beautiful message in song was the solo, "How Lovely Are Thy Dwellings," contributed by Mrs. Hull of Lakefield, who was accompanied at the piano by Mrs. (Rev.) Kelly.

The following ladies were appointed as Courtesy committee: Mesdames Stinson, Matchett and Tanner, while the Resolutions committee included Mesdames Wilkinson, Monk and Wood.

A heart-searching quiet half-hour in which "We Would See Jesus," was the theme was conducted by Mrs. J. R. Trumpour, assisted by Mrs. Matchett.

The convention was adjourned for luncheon, when the visitors were entertained by the St. James' W.A. and enjoyed a happy social hour.

Guest Speakers

The president, Mrs. E. W. Rowland, capably presided during the afternoon and was supported by the guest speakers, on the platform.

The worship period was taken by Lakefield members, Mesdames Kelly, Tanner in scripture and prayer, and with Mrs. Hull at the piano.

A continuation of unfinished business and reports preceded the Round Table Conference, led by Mrs. J. A. Lott, visiting representative of Hastings and Prince Edward Counties, when many problems were satisfactorily settled.

In her highly inspirational address which she based upon three single words, "Earnestness, Fellowship and Prayer," Mrs. Lott brought a message to point the way for every W.A. worker—as well as for the organization as a whole—to Christ first, to the church, and all for which it stands, and to the organization with which she is identified.

She spoke of the reports of the convention of the fine work being done in this Presbytery. A brief outline of her own work was an inspiration to her hearers, as she closed with an appeal to the women assembled to be true to the great trust given them, to be earnest, to promote the spirit of fellowship among their workers, and to be "found instant in prayer."

A duet, "Jesus Took My Burden," sweetly sung by Mesdames Cooke and Hull, was greatly enjoyed.

The introduction and induction of officers by Rev. E. M. Cook, was an impressive feature of the day. The executive staff for the coming year is as follows: President, Mrs. E. W. Rowland; 1st Vice-President, Mrs. E. Wand; 2nd Vice-President, Mrs. C. F. Tanner, Lakefield; Secording Secretary, Mrs. P. I. Bentley, Millbrook. Corresponding Secretary, Mrs. Taylor, Warsaw; Treasurer, Mrs. E. M. Cooke, Fraserville. Representatives on Executive: Mesdames C. Ferguson, Bethany; Scott, Norwood; McCue, Curve Lake; Drysdale, Petegborough.

An invitation was extended to hold next year's convention at Millbrook in the Fall, and was accepted.

The thanks of the convention were voiced by Mrs. Tanner to St. James' W.A. for their kindly hospitality; to the pastor, Rev. Mr. Craik; to Rev. Mr. Cooke; to Rev. and Mrs. Ferguson; the soloist, Mrs. Hull, and to Mrs. Cooke; and to everyone who in any way contributed to the fine success of this, our first W.A. Presbytery convention. This was seconded and heartily endorsed by all in the usual way.

The convention was brought to a conclusion with prayer and the Benediction by Rev. Mr. Cooke.

Shot At – Robbed

Four armed men, timing their coup perfectly, held up Paymaster J. R. Hagerman (ABOVE) and other employees of the Tip Top Tailor Co., in Toronto and escaped with a payroll approximating $12,000. As they fled the building after seizing the currency one of the quartet noticed Mr. Hagerman jump to telephone police and fired a revolver shot, narrowly missing the paymaster's head. Toronto police held six suspects for questioning.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

GILMOUR, Nov. 18.—The regular meeting of the W.C.T.U. of Smith was held in Fairview United Church on Monday, November 15, with a good attendance. After the devotional part of the meeting was over, which was conducted by the president, Mrs. J. G. Mann, Mrs. Reg. Mrs. Harold Lewis sang a solo. In the business session it was decided to give a W.C.T.U. pageant the last of November. The meeting was brought to a close and the Fairview ladies served a delightful lunch.

250,000 Specimen Insects Collected

TORONTO, Nov. 18.—(CP).— A quarter of a million specimens now are assembled in the insect collection of the Royal Ontario Museum of Zoology, the Entomological Society of Ontario was told to-day at its annual meeting.

The information was contained in a report to the society by F. A. Urquhart of the division of insects at the museum.

A recent acquisition of great importance is a collection of fossil insects presented by Dr. T. L. Walker, director of the Royal Ontario Museum of Mineralogy. Previous to the finding of these specimens, nothing was known about insects of the cretaceous age in the earth's history.

C. E. Corfe, of the museum staff, presented a paper on the great migration into Ontario last summer of the striped sphinx moth, which many people mistook for young humming birds.

The moths flew here from the States to the south and west of Ontario, Mr. Corfe said. They had not been common in Ontario for 50 years.

DEER IN NIAGARA DISTRICT.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., Nov. 18 (C.P.). — Deer are reported seen in the Niagara Peninsula. Game Warden Roy Mums says at least eight have been seen in the past week. Not so many years ago a wild deer was a rare thing around here.

CENTER OF NAZI ATTACK?

Is Czechoslovakia "doomed" by Nazi ambitions? This democratic bulwark fears either machinations by spies within or an incident which the Nazis can conveniently term "communistic" and which would give them the excuse to invade the nation with armed forces. After which, it is assumed, the Nazis would overrun the country and then make a drive down the Danube into Hungary, Roumania, Bulgaria, Greece and on toward the Golden Horn—to gain oil, grain, meat, dairy products, timber, iron ore and copper.

VETERAN'S BODY TAKEN FROM LAKE HUNTING TRAGEDY

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LINDSAY, Nov. 18.—The body of Thomas Leviolette, who was drowned in Lake Simcoe, off Jackson's Point, on Monday, was recovered on Wednesday at noon. The unfortunate man, who was well-known throughout the district, fell from his boat after discharging his rifle. He was seen to topple over by a number on shore, but he sank from view before a boat could reach him. The deceased was a war veteran, and is survived by a wife and family.

The police here are investigating a number of burglaries which were pulled off during the night. Two barber shops, conducted by J. Richards and G. Russell were entered. Twelve dollars was stolen from the former, while Russell suffered the loss of five dollars.

The death occurred at Bobcaygeon Wednesday of Mrs. A. E. Bottum, a lady who was very prominent in the activities of the village. Her passing came as a distinct shock to her host of friends.

A prominent businessman of Bobcaygeon, in the person of the late Harry Moffatt, was laid to rest on Thursday, the funeral being one of the largest seen in Bobcaygeon for years. The late Mr. Moffatt passed away at Ross Hospital on Saturday. The deceased is survived by his wife, father and one son.

Thomas Martin, Reeve of Verulam Township, and William Stacey, Reeve of Mariposa, have announced themselves as candidates for the position of Warden of Victoria County. The name of Reeve Alex. Horn of Lindsay is also being mentioned for the office.

His Excellency Bishop O'Connor, of Peterborough, accompanied by Rev. E. Welsh, attended the annual commencement exercises of St. Dominic's School on Tuesday evening.

Wright to take the south. The first meeting of the north group will be held at Wesley church next Tuesday evening and its is hoped that a large number of young people and Sunday school teachers will take the opportunity to attend as it will be made really worthwhile.

Thanks From West

Mrs. Frank Trude received the following letter from Saskatchewan in reply for a bag of potatoes which she sent in the carload of vegetables that were sent out west.

Churchbridge, Sask.
Nov. 7, 1937.

Dear Mrs. Trude:—

We received the bag of potatoes sent along in the carload of vegetables that came up here and we want to thank you ever so much for them. They were sure lovely potatoes. You must have had some swell gardens down there by some of the things I have seen. We got a bag of carrots, also one of turnips and we were very glad to get them as we sure needed them. I never had a thing like that this fall.

I had a lovely garden in the early part of the summer but no rain and the heat cooked everything, but I am hoping to have better gardens next year.

It's quite a thrill when you get a name in a sack, and I think everyone should answer them too. We have two boys, one is three and a-half and the other two months. So I haven't a big family to feed and am very glad these hard times, don't you think so too.

So I will close, thanking you again
Your Sincerely,
Mrs. R. S. Basken.

Manitoba's Oldest Citizen Celebrates Golden Jubilee

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Desrosiers

WINNIPEG, Nov. 18. — He was born five years before Sir Walter Scott died; he was eight years old when Victoria came to the throne. He was 28 years old when Confederation came into being, which was a long time before Manitoba was thought of as a province. He has lived under six British sovereigns, sired a family of 11 children and was born in what is now the province of Manitoba, as was his father before him.

From the foregoing you will have gathered that Samuel Baptiste Desrosiers is a very old man, which is the case. The records of his birth have long since been destroyed, and his memory is not as good as it used to be, but he proudly owns to 105 years. His wife stoutly maintains he is 108, for she says he was 48 when she married him and they celebrated their diamond jubilee this September. She adds weight to her argument by declaring they were married the year of the "open winter," which was 1877, so in the absence of proof to the contrary Samuel's age must be accepted as 108, which makes him the oldest man in Manitoba, and one of the oldest in Canada.

Opposed Riel Rebellion.

Mr. Desrosiers' claim to fame, apart from his great age, is centred in the part he played in the Riel rebellion. The French - Canadian rebel sought to gather round him all the French-Canadian residents of the province, and several times importuned Samuel and his two brothers to join forces with him, but the Desrosiers brothers were not in sympathy with the cause and steadfastly refused.

While the rebellion was at its height, a cutter drew up in front of the Desrosiers' home and from it stepped a woman muffled in furs, accompanied by two men, who hurried her into the house.

The woman was Mrs. John Schultz, wife of Manitoba's ruling statesman, who had been forced to flee the country when the rebels put a price on his head. Riel sought the custody of Mrs. Schultz in an effort to bring her husband back to the country.

Old Age Incidental to Him.

The young Samuel Desrosiers was entrusted the task of keeping Mrs. Schultz under cover and for weeks he drove her from place to place to escape detection from the rebels, who searched constantly for her. At times she was hidden in straw stacks, at other times in the mill where Desrosiers worked, and at other times in Samuel's mother's house. He played a successful game of hide-and-seek for several weeks until an opportunity came to send Mrs. Schultz out of the country.

Angered when he learned Mrs. Schultz had successfully eluded him, Riel ordered the arrest of young Desrosiers, but a friend tipped him off and when the rebels arrived at his mother's home he hid in the big fireplace chimney. When the rebels began searching the barn he escaped to a straw stack under cover of darkness and remained there for two days without food or water.

Only three of his children survive, but he has 19 grandchildren and six great-grandchildren, the eldest 15 years old. Mrs. Desrosiers is 31 years her husband's junior.

Samuel Desrosiers is not especially proud of his long life. It's incidental to him. You see, his mother lived to be 101.

More Brain Power Soon Be In Use

NEW YORK, Nov. 18 — (AP). — People soon will be using twice as much of their brain power as they are now, H. G. Wells predicted yesterday.

Visiting the New York 1939 World Fair grounds, the prolific English writer commented:

"As present we are using, according to best authorities, only about 30 per cent. of our brains. The New York Exposition will show us the way to using at least 30 per cent. more. Its exhibits will have a tremendous effect upon the future of mankind."

EMPIRE-BUILT AIRPLANES WERE NOT AVAILABLE

OTTAWA, Nov. 18 (C.P.). — Purchase of United States machines for Trans-Canada Airways, referred to during a London House of Commons debate yesterday, was necessary because of the impossibility of getting delivery of the necessary equipment from Empire sources.

It was explained by Transport Minister Howe, when organization of the Canadian coast-to-coast system started early this year, that due to the situation in the aircraft industry the machines would have to be purchased in United States.

About eight planes will be needed when the Canadian service opens about July 1 next between Montreal and Vancouver. These are all-metal, twin-motored machines manufactured in California. Several have already been delivered and more are on order. Those already received are being used for training pilots in preparation for initiation of the daily service next summer.

ANNUAL SUPPER AT GRACE CHURCH DRAWS BIG CROWD

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MILLBROOK, Nov. 18—Over four hundred tickets were sold for the annual fowl supper, held on Tuesday, as the concluding feature of the anniversary of Grace Presbyterian church, the Ladies' Aid having the successful event under its auspices, and the service of the abundant meal beginning shortly after five p.m.

In keeping with Coronation year, decorations were of a patriotic character, each table having fluted runners of red and blue on the white cloth, with red candles burning in silver holders, crystal bowls containing evergreen and small flags at intervals down their length, also dishes of rosy-cheeked apples, while flags, foliage and greenery were used in various ways and quite effectively, throughout the large rooms.

Many from out of town here noted among the guests, the president, Mrs. J. R. Thompson, having a general oversight, while scores of willing helpers assisted capably with the service of the hot supper.

Rev. H. R. Williams, B.A. was in the chair for the program given in the church auditorium after the appetites of all comers had been fully satisfied, those assisting with the entertainment including Miss Juan Shields, who is always heard with much pleasure by local audiences; little Peggy McNeil, who won all hearts with her clever recitations, "The Five Little Flocks," "Little Bateese," and other selections; a quartette from Peterborough, Messrs. Sands Snelgrove, Coleman and A. Sands; and vocal solos by George Coleman, Adam Sands, and O. Wainman.

Accompanists of the evening were Mrs. Adam Sands, Mrs. G. Coleman, Miss Ruth Thorndyke, and Bill Edworthy. F. W. Bowen, ex-M.P. for Durham, made a brief address, and the program was closed with the National Anthem.

Total receipts were over two hundred dollars, but expense items, which are rather heavy, have to be deducted from this amount.

The Crippling Effect Of Rheumatism

Rheumatism is a constitutional disease caused by an accumulation of uric acid in the blood and is greatly aggravated by cold and dampness. It generally leaves in its train distorted joints, crooked limbs, crippled hands, and the intense pain and agony is almost unbearable.

Burdock Blood Bitters by invigorating the digestive organs, and eliminating the uric acid from the system will help in giving you relief from this torturing trouble.

Mr. Henry Thornton, Boston, Ont., writes:—"I have been a well digger for the past fifteen years, and five years ago I got rheumatism in my left hip and knee from the dampness in the wells.

I tried everything I could think of, but nothing seemed to do me any good until our druggist advised me to use Burdock Blood Bitters, which I did, and it was only a short time until the rheumatism was completely out of my system."

Kidney Acids Rob Your Rest

Many people never seem to get a good night's rest. They turn and toss—lie awake and count sheep. Often they blame it on "nerves" when it may be their kidneys. Healthy kidneys filter poisons from the blood. If they are faulty and fail, poisons stay in the system and sleeplessness, headache, backache often follow. If you don't sleep well, try Dodd's Kidney Pills—for half a century the favorite remedy. 103

Brazilians Oppose Dictatorship

GENERAL JOSE DA CUNHA

PLINO SALGADO

Among those leading active opposition to the new dictatorship in Brazil of President Getulio Vargas, are the two men shown ABOVE. Ironically enough, Plino Salgado, leader of the integralist party, Brazil's green shirt fascist group, is one of the most active of the opposition. Vargas' move in suspending all legislative bodies in the republic has been called one in the fascist direction. Also opposing Vargas is General Jose Antonio Flores da Cunha, former governor of the Brazilian state of Rio Grande do Sul, who is gathering Brazilian emigres to Uruguay and Argentina about him to actively oppose the new dictatorship. Da Cunha was a staunch supporter of Armando Salles de Oliveira, who was a presidential candidate opposing Vargas before the latter's coup.

MILLBROOK W.A. TO GIVE PARCELS

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MILLBROOK, Nov. 18—A large attendance featured the November meeting of the W. A. of St. Thomas' church, held on Monday at 8 p.m. at the home of the president, Mrs. C. M. Westmacott.

Mrs. H. A. Attwooll assisted the leader with the opening devotional service when the W. A. Litany was used, following which reports were received from the various officers, each of these showing interest and progress.

After discussion it was decided to give the Christmas parcels donated this year to needy families in the home district—a custom initiated last year and found satisfactory. The December meeting will be cancelled, owing to press of duties at a busy season, and Mrs. Westmacott stressed the importance of the fall campaign to raise the year's allotment. Mite-boxes were used during the year, and members were urged to hand these in before next Sunday.

Mention was made of the slides in connection with the study book, "The Way of the Witnesses," and if possible these will be secured and a public meeting held at which they will be shown, with the accompanying lecture being given by the rector, Archdeacon Simpson. The president also urged a full attendance at the special W. A. communion service on St. Andrew's Day, November 30, in St. Thomas' church, at 10 a.m., and the nomination resulted in a motion that all present officers be re-elected for 1938, which was unanimously carried.

"A Long Roman Road," having to do with the Christians who died for the sake of their faith, was the title of the study chapter taken up by the secretary, Miss Rose Macnamara, and Mrs. T. A. Campbell read a missionary story written by Mrs. Jones, of Toronto, which won second prize in the competition conducted throughout the Toronto diocese.

Mrs. J. E. Allen was supper hostess for the social hour which followed the benediction, serving dainty refreshments, and the usual votes of thanks were passed before the guests dispersed.

NEARLY 400 GUESTS AT ANNUAL SUPPER

(Examiner Correspondence.)

WESTWOOD, Nov. 18.—One of the most successful annual fowl dinners of St. Andrew's United church was held on Friday evening, with nearly four hundred persons attending.

The usual bountiful meal, for which Westwood is noted, was all that could be desired, with plenty of roast turkey, chicken, hot gravy, potatoes and vegetables, and a full assortment of pies, cakes and tarts.

Rev. F. W. Newell, pastor of the church, was the chairman of the evening, and following a short address of welcome, introduced the cast of the excellent four-act play "Valley Farm" which was presented by members of St. James' United church, Peterborough. The play was remarkably well given, each character well-chosen for his or her part, acting with ease and efficiency.

Asks Wider Door For Immigrants

HOBART, Tasmania, Nov. 18. — (CP)—Appealing for the fostering of Rotary ideals of international fellowship, W. E. Maclean, Hobart Rotarian, criticized the White Australia policy at a conference here.

He described the Commonwealth as a country partially developed with a handful of people and crying out for immigration, yet by legislation keeping them out. "I think that the way the White Australia policy is being preserved is idiotic and tragic and it will have tragic results," he said.

CLEAR-CUT POLICY IN FOREIGN AFFAIRS URGED IN BRITAIN

LONDON, Nov. 18. (CP Cable).—Declaration of a clear-cut British policy in parliament or at the League of Nations respecting the grievances and disabilities under which certain nations claim to be suffering was urged in the House of Lords Wednesday by Lord Allen of Hurtwood, Labor.

He suggested the government outline the procedure it favored with a view to ultimate negotiations for a general settlement within the framework of the League of Nations and the Kellog-Briand Pact.

Paying tribute to Viscount Halifax's mission to Berlin, Lord Allen said: "We all realize there is no figure in our public life who has more magnificent equipment for the role of an ambassador of peace. I believe the goodwill of this House, as well as the goodwill of all the homes in this land, will go out to that noble person and this work of peace-making."

There was not a single act which could do more to prevent a world war and assist the world toward peace than an understanding with Germany at the present critical moment.

Referring to colonies, Lord Allen declared:

Not a Card Game

"This is going to be the dominant issue and God grant that it not be allowed to become a festering sore on the body politic of Europe like reparations before it. We cannot start handing colonies round like cards. We cannot deal with the colonial question without regard to all arguments of strategy and the interests of the native populations."

The Earl of Plymouth, undersecretary for Foreign Affairs, speaking on behalf of the government, defended British rearmament in the face of sudden crisis which, he said, were only too frequent. The government's primary objective remained a comprehensive settlement.

"The grave difficulties and problems at present troubling the world depend very largely the one upon the other and we are well aware that it is only infrequently that any other of them can be solved in isolation from the rest," Lord Plymouth declared.

"If there is any misconception to the effect that his Majesty's Government are wedded to a policy of limited negotiation on specific questions, I should like to correct that misconception. It is not so."

Rocket-Buster No. 1 Offered Contract

Hollywood, November 18

A FILM producing company said today it had offered Thomas E. Dewey, young District Attorney-Elect of New York City's borough of Manhattan, $150,000 to play the hero in a move on catching and convicting gangsters.

In New York, no comment on the offer was forthcoming. Dewey was in Bermuda. As a special racket prosecutor he has smashed various costly crime syndicates.

Successful Bazaar Held At Marmora

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MARMORA, Nov. 18.—The 17th annual bazaar in aid of the Sacred Heart church, Marmora, a popular three day event, commenced at the Town Hall on Tuesday afternoon. The fish pond and candy stall, as in former years, was in charge of the Sodality girls, the former being staffed by the Misses Mary O'Neill, Marjorie Stephens and Maurice Moloney and the latter by the Misses Theresa Murph, Rose Shannon and Marguerite Doyle. Mrs. Dan Shannon and Miss Margaret Sullivan presided at the fancy stall and Mrs. James Brady and Mrs. Hannah Augur were in charge of the home cooking stall.

The chicken supper served in the evening by the ladies was of the usual high standard and the patronage was the best for some years. Other attractions added to the enjoyment of those present. On the second evening a chicken supper, followed by cards, is the attraction, while on Thursday evening, a bountiful supper followed by dancing is announced.

HOLLYWOOD

(By Harrison Carroll)

HOLLYWOOD—The famous Ziegfeld estate at Hasting-on-the-Hudson will become a suburban hotel. Billie Burke held out for years trying to find a private purchaser, but the property, second only to the Rockefeller domain in the Pocantico Hills, was too hard to dispose of in uncertain post-depression days.

The star eventually gave in to fate when she was finally determined to make California her permanent home.

In steady demand at the studios, she had no other choice. As soon as she finishes, "Navy Blue and Gold" at M.G.M., the star will have the selection of several other scripts.

Still, it was a wrench to give up the home where Ziegfeld found surcease from the worries of Broadway, where red-haired Patricia, now grown up, played in a $20,000 doll house and where the garage, at one time, lodged six Rolls Royces.

In their absorption with the romantic goings-on of Hollywood youngsters, the gossips are overlooking a serious item — Dorothy Peterson and Tom Kilpatrick, the Paramount writer.

Disney gets all the breaks. Stokowski, who did find time for other things than Garbo, went overboard when he heard that Mickey Mouse would cavort in a cartoon version of Dukas' "The Sorceror's Apprentice." The famed conductor said he'd like to lead the orchestra for the picture. At the time, Disney thought it was all talk, but it seems that Stokowski was serious. So don't be surprised if a two-reel cartoon starring the famous rodent has a musical score supplied by the Philadelphia Symphony orchestra.

Hear that Drew Eberson, assistant director at Warners and No. 1 man in the life of Glenda Farrell, will open an architectural office on the famous Sunset Blvd. strip. Eberson learned the craft at the University of Pennsylvania and has been socking away his salary against his present venture. First job will be designing a house that Glenda will build in the valley—not for herself but for an investment.

Just had a personal experience with the fan who is trying to impersonate Fay Wray. Call came into the office from a woman (cultured voice) who introduced herself as the star's secretary. "Miss Wray," she said, "is still having trouble with imposters. She wonders if you could do anything about it." Then another woman came on the phone who said she was Fay herself. It was a poor imitation of the star's voice and the whole thing was given away by the fact (known to us) that Fay has no secretary.

Before we could have the call traced, the connection was broken.

What's the idea? It seems so stupid.

The movies are so arduous. In the Crosby picture, known temporarily as "The Badge of Policeman O'Roon," Beatrice Lillie was supposed to get a massage by 230-pound Andy Divine. His efforts, plus a breakaway table that collapsed at the wrong time, sent her to the studio hospital and home for the day.

Even if Noel Coward did call her temperamental, she probably longs for the Coward subtleties.

The marriage rumors about Loretta Young and Joseph Mankiewicz are growing apace, but can't be official for months yet, as his divorce from Elizabeth Young won't be final until May.

Meanwhile, both star and producer are denying the subject has even been discussed between them.

Chatter. . . . Jackie Coogan has hired Irving Jaffe to teach him to be a speed ice skater . . . Eddie Cantor and Ida were really swinging it at the Trocadero after the dinner at the Ambassador celebrating the comedian's 25th anniversary in the show business . . . Nan Blackstone is dedicating most of her songs at the Swing club to a well-known interior decorator . . . Dixie Dunbar, who is as busy as a bee, is smiling currently at Joe Leroy Brown, son of the comedian . . . And you'd better watch the Diana Lewis-Jack Warner, Jr. twosome . . . Carmel Myers will sign a radio contract any minute . . . Chico Marx' daughter, Maxine, made her stage debut in "The Old Maid" at the Pasadena Community Playhouse . . . . And Virginia Bruce, in case you are wondering, will not give up her career following her marriage to J. Walter Ruben in the spring.

Hollywood— If arrangements can be made, Charles Farrell and Melville Burke will take over Palm Springs' new theatre to form a stock company on the order of the Skowhegan enterprise in the east. Burke to direct here as he does at Skowhegan. Plan is to make the theatre a sort of playground and workshop for Hollywood stars who suffer nostalgia for the footlights. Thus Myrna Loy might be a star one night and play a bit the next.

Interesting idea if it works.

Nice break for French chorus girls. Warners have a color camera crew in Paris making tests of the high-stepper at the Follies Bergere, Casino de Paris, etc. Result will be a trip to Hollywood for 12 lovelies and a two-month contract to work in "Gold Diggers in Paris." With, of course, a chance to be snapped up permanently by the studios.

Carmel Myers phones to say she made a television broadcast three months ago in London and that it was like being in a film studio. The camera dollied back and forth and out from one performer to another. She wore what would correspond to a light street makeup, she said, and the only thing they warned her against was swaying when the camera moved up for a close shot.

British television is so far advanced, she declared, that, in the home of Irving Asher, who owns a receiving set, she was offered the choice of three programs.

We called Perc Westmore on this contradiction of his version of television makeup and he said the English are much farther along in the new medium.

We have it from Walter Huston that Eugene O'Neill is building a home in Contra Costa county, near Oakland, and will dig in there to write on 12 plays that he has mapped out.

Mystery of Gregory Ratoff's disappearance is solved. He has been flying all over the country to visit with Eugenie Leontovich, now on tour with "Tovarich." Unknown to audience, he also has been playing bits in the production. Last week, he joined the company in Houston, the week previous in St. Louis and the week before that in Indianapolis. Half the time, the studio has been unable to find him for conferences on "Women Are Dangerous."

An unsuspected witness of his horse, High Strike's win at Bay Meadows, was Bing Crosby. The crooner, returning from receiving an honorary degree at Gonzaga university, ducked off the train at Oakland and bought his way into the track like an ordinary customer.

Although High Strike won a purse of $5,955 in the Home Bred handicap, Crosby didn't have a single bet on the animal. Was afraid of jinxing him. At that, the star came off all right for the horse cost him only $5,800.

Had no idea that Rosalind Russell's clan was so large. The star is one of six children and all will meet for a family reunion in New York soon. When Rosalind tells Hollywood good-by, it will be for six weeks. The actress' nerves are shot from working in too many pictures and M. G. M. is giving her a long vacation.

Chatter. . . . Winchell is off for New York and will be back on the air Nov. 21. . . . Gloria Dickson and Perc Westmore will be married June 8, the day that his divorce is final. . . . Jed Harris was so keen to get Madge Evans for a play that he sent her a telegram an hour a whole day. Each contained the single word, "Well?" . . . Nice of Jimmy Durante to send the Frank Baileys back to New York where there was a death in the family. . . . In Berkeley, on the day of the big game, Al Lewin told a waitress to get two one-minute eggs. "All right," she said, "But I don't know how long it will take." . . . And here's an item of cheer to glutterers. Fredric March, who once suffered from the impediment, is singled out for his perfect diction by H. M. Karr in his book, "The Speaker's Voice." Cecil B. De Mille and David Windsor also get a nod.

Chatter . . . What suspense for Golfer John Montague in that trial at Elizabethtown . . . Knowing it was prison if he lost and a fortune if he won. . . . Billie Burke's standin at M.G.M. is Virginia Bruce's cousin, Ruth Hart. . . . Clarence Brown can't yell at the actors in "Benefits Forgot". His lips are so badly sunburned he has to wear an aluminum gadget to protect the lower part of his face. . . . Frank Morgan has gone for 230 acres in the Borego valley, over the mountains from Palm Springs but 90 miles by road . . . And here's another proof of what a small world we live in. Una Merkel has just discovered that she used to live across the street from Jane Withers' parents in Covington, Ky.

HOLLYWOOD—Reverberations of the row between Governor Quinn of Rhode Island and Walter O'Hara, race track promoter, reach even to Hollywood. R-K-O has discovered that the script of the new Hepburn picture, "Bringing Up Baby", has dialogue references to horse racing. The film has a Rhode Island locale.

But now, to avoid any possible censorship troubles there, the scene of the action will be changed to Connecticut.

On the night before the exciting premiere of "Hurricane", the picture was shown to a small group of reviewers. Screenings like this are jealously guarded and when Niven Busch, critic for a United States weekly magazine, showed up with Bob Lord, Warner Brothers producer, the way was barred.

Busch introduced Lord to Goldwyn Publicity Man Jock Lawrence as a taxidermist.

"What do you mean taxidermist," demanded Lawrence. "Don't you work in pictures?"

"Yeah," said Lord. "I stuff scripts."

Sorry to hear about Mrs. Warren William. She fell off a vine trellis in the family garden and broke her right arm. William got the news on the "Arsene Lupin Returns" set and dashed to take his wife to the hospital.

Carthay Circle theatre here reports tremendous advance sale on "Hurricane". Theatre called Goldwyn office excitedly on the day the seat sale opened to report that a man had just bought 250 tickets for the premiere.

He was afterwards discovered to be Jon Hall's father.

What drama, at that, the story of Hall's selection for "Hurricane." He first came to the studio to ask for a job as swimming double in the picture.

After they eventually made him the leading man, instead, he refused a double—did all of the dangerous diving scenes himself.

Funny story they are telling about "Annabella". She is going through the usual Hollywood mill of makeup tests, etc. They spent hours trying out various experiments with eyebrows, hairdresses. Finally, she said:

"Look, gentlemen, would it be all right if I made myself up just once and you can put that test in with the rest?"

Later Lamuck was in a projection room looking at the tests. He came to the one that the star had supervised herself.

"Fine," he said, "that's how we'll biograph her in 'Jeanne'."

Burlesque Girl Weds Millionaire

Winning fame as the "Golden Girl" of burlesque, Miss Rozelle Roland (ABOVE), Brooklyn, N.Y. girl, has married Baron Jean Empain (INSET), one of the wealthiest men in Europe, in a ceremony which took place in Budapest. The couple met shortly after Miss Roland had appeared in London's Dorchester House in her gold paint costume which had attracted considerable notice in the United States.

Orchestra Leader

WAYNE KING

Wayne King, popular orchestra leader, is known as the "waltz king". Born in Savannah, Ill., he spent his early years in Oklahoma, Texas and Iowa, working successively as a garage mechanic and bank clerk. When he was 15 years of age, Wayne's father gave him a clarinet and the young man tooted his way through Valparaiso university. After graduation he went to Chicago where he eventually obtained a job with Al Short at the Tivoli theatre. Later he formed his own band, emphasizing dreamy waltz music. His first radio pickup came in 1927 and his present serenade broadcasts started in 1931. Wayne King is the composer of several numbers, including his theme song, "The Waltz You Saved For Me." He married Screen Actress Dorothy Janis and has two young children.

Major Ball Bosses To Deal With Dead Ball At Secret Annual Confab In Chicago

Manufacturers Can't Find Way To Take Out Extra Life They Put In Back In 1909

By Central Press Canadian

CHICAGO, Nov. 18. — The big league magnates are going to assemble here the first week of December for their annual secret arguments which usually amount to nothing so far as public interest is concerned but this time it may be different.

There is that matter of a less lively baseball to handle. Removing some of the jack rabbit speed from the present implement should be a simple task, but apparently it has the bosses confounded. They've been puzzling over the problem since last winter, when they decided to make the alteration, and no headway has been made.

The extra life got into the ball some years ago when Babe Ruth started the home run panic, so it shouldn't be much of a problem to take out what was put in to bring about that change.

What About Joe Jackson?

It seems that the difficulty is with the manufacturers of the official balls. They came up with a cork centre invention in about 1909 and have since persisted in arguing that the ball never was changed thereafter. It's a good story if you want to believe it, but if true, how is any one going to explain how a powerful hitter like Joe Jackson of White Sox fame didn't get unheard of home run records while Ruth was still known strictly as a left-handed pitcher?

Years ago when the Yankees were playing their home games at the Polo Grounds, premises of the New York Giants, Jackson hit a cork centre ball over the roof. It was accepted as the feat of a superman. So far as we know, the stunt wasn't duplicated. Nowadays nothing is thought about it if some 150-pounder drives a homer over the same roof. How can the manufacturers of the ball explain that?

Manufacturers Submit Samples

Last spring and during batting practice in the regular race the magufacturers submitted samples of balls claimed to have been deadened by a slightly thicker cover, seams slightly raised to give the pitchers a better grip, and with less tension in the winding of the woollen yarn. The samples were knocked lopsided with one blow. That was sufficient proof that the solution wouldn't be found in the winding between the cover and the cork centre.

All of this was surrounded with as much secrecy as possible. What has been done since also is a state secret, but it is said that when William Harridge, president of the American League, complained to the manufacturers, they replied that they didn't want to tamper with the present cork centre, which they regard as perfect. Then Harridge sought technical advice from Emmett Reilly, for years associated with a sporting goods firm. Reilly is supposed to have a report, if not a few sample baseballs, ready for the magnates when they assemble in Chicago, Dec. 6, 7 and 8.

Need Practical Proof

Granted that Reilly is able to solve the problem, the owners will have trouble getting practical proof. A new ball couldn't very well be adopted until it had been tried out with conditions existing in a regular race. Where, at this time of the year, are the bosses going to find big league hitters or pitchers in shape to work? So even though the National League is willing to go through with the change voted on last December and seven American League clubs feel the same way about it (the Yankees objecting), the alteration may have to be delayed until 1939.

Here's N.L. View

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—Upon investigation all suggested ways and means to shackle the Yankee batting power and bring the stadium thunderers back to the field, the baseball people have come to the conclusion that they were right the first time, that their decision of a year ago to derabbitize the ball for the 1938 season is the most practical available.

"We'll play with a deader ball next season." Prexy Ford Frick of the National League said, when asked whether the question would be presented to the major league meeting at Chicago next month. "We voted for that last winter, and our league is unanimously in favor of the change."

Nor, in Fricks opinion, is the American League likely to raise any objection or ask that the decision be reconsidered.

"President Harridge told me only recently, Frick said, "that his league is seven to one in favor of the change. Obviously, the Yankees are the only dissenters, preferring, naturally, to maintain the status quo.

Remember When—

(By the Canadian Press.)

Bobby Jones, king of amateur golfdom, abdicated his throne seven years ago to-day. Twenty-eight years old and winner of 13 national titles — including four "majors" in 1930 — the Georgian quit amateur ranks to make a series of motion pictures on golf.

CENTRAL ONTARIO BOXING CHAMPS

TORONTO, Nov. 18 (CP)—It was early today before five winners were decided in the central Ontario boxing bouts here to choose amateur aspirants for the British Empire team which competes in Australia in February.

Champions in each class qualified for the all-Ontario finals against winners in zones to the west and north of Toronto, to be decided next Monday night. All bouts were between Toronto fighters under various local club affiliations.

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

OFFICERS OF the Inter-County Ball Loop feel that the division of gate receipts in O.B.A.A. playdowns should be changed. They will bring such an amendment to the annual O.B.A.A. meeting next Spring in Niagara Falls, asking that the home club receive 75 per cent and the visiting nine 25 per cent of net receipts, instead of the present 50-50 system. They feel that their clubs have been supplying more dough to outside outfits than they have been receiving. We know one league which will support such an amendment to the O.B.A.A. constitution, and that is the Central League. The C.O.B.L. playdown games draw well every year, even better than those Inter-County Loop home tilts. It was a shame the way Oshawa got the short end of the deal with the G. W. Grads of Toronto last season. Only opposition to such an amendment will probably come from Toronto diamond moguls.

THOUGH THEY ran second to Bowmanville in the C.O.S.S.A. junior group race, the young Lindsay gridders are still hopeful of being given the group title. They are investigating a report that two of the Bowmanville junior players took part in two games for the Bowmanville seniors—though a junior isn't supposed to participate in more than one senior school scrap. If the Lindsay men find this is so, they'll lodge a protest and maybe win it, the Scugog squad getting another chance to continue in playdowns. Personally, we feel that two junior kids good enough to play two senior games should not be penalised or have their team tossed out. It is not as if two senior players dropped back to help the junior club. Bowmanville juniors rate the group title as far as we're concerned. Lindsay's turn will come.

SPEAKING OF the O.R.F.U. intermediate "A" playdowns, the Sarnia scribe says: "Dundas, Peterborough, Toronto City and Sarnia are the semi-finalists in the next-to-senior division of the Provincial race. Geographically, the Dundas Valleytowners, already touted as a senior O.R.F.U. possibility next year, and Sarnia in the west, along with Peterborough and Toronto in the east, are the natural semi-final setups. From a box office standpoint, a Dundas-Sarnia final would top them all. Peterborough, like Dundas, is mooted as a club to pull the senior section of the Provincial union out of the three-club doldrums in which it has been floundering."

THE BIG gridiron game here this Saturday is the C.O.S.S.A. playdown fixture between Belleville's good Albert College crew and our senior P.C.I.-ers. It'll be at 2.30 in Riverside Park and ought to attract a capacity crowd of football fans. Both squads are strong, though we don't know a great deal about Albert College. But they are rated highly in the Bay of Quinte district. They had better be good, since Coach Bamforth's boys play smart rugby. It should be an exciting open battle all the way—a sudden-death game with the winner ankling into the semi-finals.

* * * * * *

IT IS not certain if the injured P.C.I. players will all be back in the lineup this weekend, but the coach expects to field pretty much his regular squad. Creighton had his ankle twisted in Lindsay a week back so he may have to sit on the sidelines this struggle. The Clark boys should be about ready to return to the wars again, and otherwise the gang are all set. They have been training hard and tossing that lopsided pigskin through the air like W. C. Fields juggling eggs. We really believe this is about the best balanced bunch of local students to play rugby for P.C.I. in some years—though they've had good teams there in recent semesters. The '37 team has power, speed and oodles of smart plays. Albert Collitch is said to have a strong line and an exceptionally fast backfield. Probably not as much versatility in their plays as the locals, though. We'll see on Saturday.

WORD FROM the O.R.F.U. is to the effect that Sarnia and Dundas clash Saturday in one end of the intermediate "A" semi-finals and Toronto City Club and Peterborough Orfuns in the other. Sarnia goes to Dundas in the first of the home-and-home series, points counting. Toronto team wrote the locals wanting their game here this Saturday. Orfuns' officials have sent word back that the local gridiron is being used for a C.O.S.S.A. playdown tilt, so that Orfuns will have to play this first fray in Toronto. No reply has been received at this writing—but should be today. Looks like the "A" finals won't be completed till near the middle of December.

BELLEVILLE PANTHERS, according to the Quinte scribe, were the best all-around football squad east of Toronto this season, except they lacked a good kicker. Well, well, well. The Petes had the best senior ball club in Ontario last summer except that they lacked a star southpaw hurler! However, the writer digs back through the seasons of 1934, '35 and '36 to show that Belleville and the Orfuns played on even terms when grouped together. Each won two games, lost two and tied in a pair. Each squad won one at home, lost one there and tied one on the home field. And, most surprising of all, they tied each other over three seasons in the matter of points scored against each other. Quite a co-incidence. Of course, Orfuns won their group whereas Belleville has yet to do this.

SECRETARY WALTER Dinesen of the Senior City Hockey League has received word from Bill Hewitt of the O.H.A. that the local loop may affiliate and send a team into the O.H.A. intermediate "B" playdowns by sending in $11, five we suppose being for the franchise and the usual six bucks to affiliate a team. This matter will be discussed at the next meeting of the Blood and Thunder Loop moguls at eight p.m. in Duffus' on Nov. 30th. Seven clubs in the circuit so far, three out of town, Lakefield, Bewdley and Millbrook; and four local prospects, Westclox, Johnson Motors, C.G.E. and an unnamed outfit from the southend. Entries must all be in at this next session. Meantime, referees should apply to the secretary at 257 Carlisle Ave. in the near future and they will be considered when officers convene.

TERRY HAS PLANS TO BOLSTER GIANTS THROUGH TRADES

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—A broad hint of one of the numerous baseball deals that are expected to materialise at the approaching winter meetings of the major leagues is contained in the intelligence that the New York Giants have released Phil Weintraub to the Baltimore club of the International League.

Before that deal is finished, Les Powers, the first baseman who went to Havana with the Giants last spring and then back to Baltimore, will, it is expected, be back with Bill Terry's club and various leagues that the New York Giants and Cincinnati Reds will have been exchanged. It is, in other words, believed to be the beginning of a three-cornered deal among Baltimore, New York and Cincinnati.

Before it is concluded the Giants may have acquired Catcher Butch Lombardi and Outfielder Ival Goodman in addition to several Red youngsters who will wind up on the Jersey City farm, in return for Pitcher Hal Schumacher, Outfielder Hank Leiber and others. Those, anyway, are the names mentioned now along baseball's grapevine.

Terry Displays stubborness

Powers, who hit 22 homers and for a .340 average at Baltimore in 1936 and was an outstanding run producer again last summer, looked better than the Giants' Johnny McCarthy, particularly when he had a bat in his hands, to everyone but Terry last spring. Having paid a fat sum to Yankees for McCarthy, however, Bill wasn't going to admit Powers, who would have cost him $10,000 looked better. He sent back Les to Baltimore and struggled from there on to make a hitter out of McCarthy.

Admittedly, after power, Terry will have plenty of it if he gets Lombardi and Goodman, both long distance hitters who do particularly well at the Polo Grounds. He might have completed a deal for Lombardi and third baseman Lou Riggs of the Reds last winter, giving Hank Leiber, among others, in exchange, had not Warren Giles, the Cincinnati club head, cancelled the deal at the last minute.

Giants Owe Reds Players

The Giants, incidentally, will owe Cincinnati some players for Outfielder Joe Dwyer, Don Brennan and Weintraub, all of whom were obtained for the New York club's Jersey City farm. Brennan and Weintraub were later employed in the late pennant push by the Giants themselves, though Weintraub got little more than batting practice.

AMATEUR UNION IS NOT WORRYING

LONDON, Ont., Nov. 18 (CP). — Denial the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada is at all perturbed by the withdrawal of hockey, basketball and lacrosse from its control was voiced here Wednesday by Prof. N. C. Hart, chairman of the National Registration Committee of the A.A.U. as he left for the union's annual meeting at Montreal.

"Let basketball, baseball, hockey, and lacrosse people run themselves. We'll take care of those organizations that want to be amateur," the professor said.

"We'll take care of all those players and organizations that want to be governed by the A.A.U. of C. The others can go take—no, you'd better not say that — say they can play around with themselves. They can do what they like. We're not worrying over them at all. I, for one, won't be wasting any time on them at Montreal.

"Curling, bowling, cricket, soccer and golf got along without amateur government, long before these 'moderns' got it into their heads to govern themselves. I say, more power to them. Let them all go to it."

LONDON U. NEEDS TORONTO VICTORY TO GAIN PLAYOFFS

TORONTO, Nov. 18 (CP)—Given a "life" when Queen's University helped them into the playoffs last Saturday, Western's Mustangs hope to show the experts this week-end the pre-season color of the London, Ont., team for the Intercollegiate Rugby Football Union title was no mistake.

The purple-shirted players were heralded as the team to beat from the start and when they went through their first tree games without defeat it looked as though the selectors had scored a hit.

But Mustangs slumped, dropping the next two games, with the result that when they came to Montreal last week their playoff hopes rested, not only on a victory against McGill, but a University of Toronto loss to Queen's as well.

Western did its part, blanking the Redmen, and the Tricolor lent the helping hand by shutting out Varsity. Now the Londoners hope to show their slump was only temporary by beating te Blues in Toronto Saturday in a sudden-death semi-final playoff and then taking Queen's in the final.

Need Confidence Against Queen's

No matter which team wins the semi-final the jump into the final series will be a leap from the frying pan to the fire. Queen's has set a sizzling pace for four weeks, with four victories in as many games, and the club that meets them will need to be tough and agile.

In the Interprovincial Union, Toronto Argos, showing plenty of respect for Ottawa despite their two victories over Roughriders this year, had their heaviest practice of the week. The clubs will meet in Ottawa Saturday in the first of a two-game total points series for the union title now held by Riders.

Abe Played Ball At Ottawa Before Joining Grid Team

On Exhibition Tour Through Eastern Ontario With Detroit Club

OTTAWA, Nov. 18.—Contrary to the general understanding in Big Four circles at the time when Abe Eliowitz turned up with the Rough Riders in the autumn of 1933, he was not a direct import of the Ottawa club.

The summer of that year, the Detroit Tool and Shop team was on a barnstorming tour of Eastern Ontario and they played a ball game at Lansdowne Park. Jimmy McCaffrey was in the stands that day and he asked the manager of the Detroit team if he had any football players in his lineup. The manager said the only one he knew of was the big Hebrew, Abe Eliowitz, on first base. Said he played in the backfield for Michigan State, but he didn't know how good he was.

McCaffrey had a talk with him and Eliowitz said he was going to stop over for the rest of the season at Carleton Place and play ball. He promised to come back here when football started and he did come down and turn out with the team a couple of times when Walter Masters was giving it early training at Ashbury College. Then he disappeared and by the time McCaffrey had him traced he was working out with the Brooklyn Dodgers' professional club and about set to sign a contract with them.

Mainstay For Three Years.

He was persuaded to re[illegible] here on the promise of a job and for three years he was the mainstay of the Rough Riders. It was the era of the import. Some of them were good, some indifferent and others ordinary or worse but there never was a doubt about the ability, the purpose or the power of Eliowitz.

That team of 1933 was away to a blinding start and in the beginning looked like champions. Tom Graham, Bud Andrews, Johnny Kline and Lorn Johnson were the Americans with Eliowitz on the squad and the team knocked off Tigers, Argonauts and Montreal in its first three games.

The Riders hadn't won a football game in Hamilton since 1926 but Johnson and Eliowitz put on a passing act there that had Tigers spellbound and the fans dumbfounded. The stylish Johnson was tossing them 40 yards but it was Eliowitz that afternoon, who carried the bulk of the load. He outkicked Frank Turville that day and bore the ball-carrying brunt. He backed up the line, threw passes and did about everything but blow up the ball.

A Fixed Star.

He was a star when the team conquered Argos although Andy Tommy stole the show with his 115-yard run for a touchdown and his brilliant dashes on the backfield. In Montreal wher the Riders won, nine to one, Eliowitz kicked two placements, added a single and snatched honors in the air from Huck Welch.

The team fell apart after those three victories and Argonauts captured the title. But it put on some grand shows for the fans and in all of them Eliowitz was a standout.

In '34 Eliowitz was the single one of that group of Americans still with the team but Chris Schearer, Buddy Meiers, Bernard MacNutt and Johnny Kowalik were brought over the border and later Lorn Johnson was induced to return.

It wasn't a hot season for the red shirts but Eliowitz never could be accused of a bad day or of letting his team down. Beaten by Argos and Tigers, they put on a thrilling exhibition, smearing Montreal in Molson Stadium, but their finest football of the year was at Lansdowne Park against the Wheelers. That day Montreal had been 18 to 0 at half-time and the game finished 18-18. It was the passing and receiving of Eliowitz, his terrific smashes into the Wheeler line and his great booting that all but rolled them out.

Player To The Finish.

Coming to the season of 1935, the Riders had what Indians boasted this year—a club studded with stars. Stan O'Neil, Bobo Hilliard, Buddy Bonar, Clarence Burt and Buddy Meiers were the U.S. gridiron delegates that season, but again the Riders fizzled. Their biggest feat of the year was whipping Argos here and in Toronto in the two final games. It was in these games that Hilliard showed the football everyone figured he was capable of but that he hadn't flashed before.

The team didn't live up to any part of its expectations through the big part of the nine-game schedule but Eliowitz was in there plugging away. In one of its few triumphs he kicked all the 12 points that were scored against Montreal. In the final game at Lansdowne Park he sliced the uprights with a brace of placements and added three singles for Ottawa's nine-point total. That was his last with the Rough Riders.

What can be most vividly remembered in his performances is that regardless of the fortunes of the game, he never gave anything but his level best. He played football, always, right up to 100 per cent of his ability and when he was awarded the Jeff Russel Trophy in 1934, the choice was perfect. He was and he is a great football player.

He stood up under the Rough Rider pressure for 60 minutes last Saturday and he was battling grimly, courageously, when the whistle ended the game and his career on the Canadian gridiron. On the way back to his hotel in the Indians' bus he collapsed from cold and exhaustion. He didn't whimper or complain that day nor on any other day in the five years he strode Big Four football fields. Whether his team was winning or being beaten, whether he was having a pleasant day or taking a pounding, he never swaggered under success or soured in defeat. Abe Eliowitz was about as fine a fellow and football player as ever played for or against the Rough Riders.

TWO HORSES ARE IN THE BIG MONEY DUFFERIN PARK

TORONTO, Nov. 18.— Lee Hanley, a bay gelding owned by Lloyd Watson of Woodbridge and driven by Vic Rountree, was the major money winner in the first and fastest classified harness horse race on the two-race card at Dufferin Park yesterday afternoon. The other event saw three heats and most money go to Rosiland, a chestnut mare owned and driven by Richard Scott of Toronto.

The Hanley horse just breezed to victory with several lengths to spare in the first three heats. Then, under the racing rules in vogue at "Little Saratoga's" present meeting, the three-heat winner was led to the barn while the rest of the field raced in the fourth heat. This final heat turned out to be something of an upset, when Driver Floyd Milton came up fast in the stretch to win with Walter Ra, owned by W. J. Booth of Simcoe. Walter Ra had finished 9-8-8 in the previous trips.

Rosiland finished away back tenth in the 12-horse field, that competed in the first heat of the second class, but the mare reeled off the next three in handy fashion.

Dr. Marque, owned by Gid Litt and piloted by Harry Fields, took the first heat, then lost his racing legs to drop back in the next two heats, and then lost his balance to fall in a heap and cause a two-horse spill in the fourth one. Dr. Marque was pacing along quite far behind the leader on the turn into the home stretch when he went down and threw Driver Fields off the bike. Evelyn Evans paced into the pile-up, and also fell. However, Driver Tolhurst got her up again and she finished the heat. Both drivers and horses escaped serious injuries in the mean-looking spills.

There will be a big three-race program at Dufferin Park on Saturday, featured by the event for lady drivers and the fast pace.

TRICOLORS WIN GROUP HONORS

KINGSTON, Nov. 18. — Queen's University intermediates earned the right to meet McMaster University of Hamilton in a sudden death game on Saturday for the inter-collegiate grid title, by piling up a 23 to 0 score against the Royal Military College Cadets at the Richardson Stadium here Wednesday afternoon. The win broke a tie for the Eastern Ontario inter-collegiate group leadership.

Bishop, Davis, Grandjeans and Cranston turned in a good performance for the winners. The Cadets never once threatened the Tri-color scoring zone, although Rowland did some good booting, and the game never lagged for thrills.

Queen's opened up early in the first frame, sending Davis over the line for a major score, Bishop taking the convert. Grandjeans took credit for two touchdowns in the final quarter, the first scored after a 50-yard run by Davis, and the second when Cranston intercepted a Cadet forward, planting the ball on the 4-yard line. A placement in the fourth and a single by Bishop in the third quarter made up the total points.

Additions To New York Rangers' Youth Movement

The second edition of New York Rangers youth movement, headed by Coach Lester Patrick, has a complete new forward line of rookies this season. Clint Smith of Saskatoon will centre the new line, while Bobby Kirk and Bryan Hextall, Winnipeg youngsters, will hold down positions on either side of him. Patrick is of the opinion that this new line of youngsters he brought up this season is a cinch to deliver in the majors. In case you are beginning to wonder which is which in the ABOVE picture here is the identification. From LEFT to RIGHT, the three rookies are, Bobby Kirk, Clint Smith and Bryan Hextall.

Frankie Battaglia Fades After Holding A Wide Lead In His Bout With Krieger

Canada's Brightest Hope Of World's Middleweight Crown Beaten

By WILLIAM H DUMSDAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—(CP). — Frankie Battaglia, Canada's brightest hope for the world's middleweight crown, may never fight again. His face bruised and swollen from the hammering blows of Solly Krieger, the Winnipeg battler left New York to-day for his farm near Palmyra, Wis., "where I will think it over."

The 27-year-old Canadian faded in his bout with Krieger at the Hippodrome last night, after holding a wide lead in the first four rounds. From then on the smashing rights that may spell the end of Battaglia's career, built up a clean advantage for the Brooklyn bruiser. Both men weighed 163¾ pounds.

"The big trouble was that I haven't had enough 10-round bouts lately, but Krieger sure deserved his win," said Frankie, who came to Manhattan for the first time in three years for this "test bout."

"I figured if I could beat Krieger I'd go on, but now I don't know. I'm going back to my farm and check up on my 2,000 chickens and 60 cows—you see if I do decide to quit the ring, I'm going to become a full-time farmer."

Should Have More Fights

What may prove to be Battaglia's last stand was watched by an enthusiastic crowd which included Jack Dempsey, former world heavyweight champion.

"This shows how much this fight meant to us," said little Ernie Fliegel, the Canadian's manager, as he pulled out several letters, including offers for bouts in Australia, Europe and several parts of the United States. "One of Frankie's regrets is that he hasn't had more fights in Canada."

More battle scarred than Battaglia, Krieger had nothing but praise for his opponent.

"He was better than when I outpointed him a year ago in Pittsburgh—he did more counter-punching and as we're both that type of fighter, he made it tough for me. Frankie's a nice boy, fights clean, and I still rank him among the world's best 10 middles."

NEW YORK, Nov. 18 (AP) — It cost the French Meadow Country Club at Flushing $4,000 to repair the damage done by the John Montague-Babe Ruth golf match gallery. Greens were torn up, flower beds trampled, fences torn down and bunkers battered by the gallery of 10,000 customers, most of whom insisted on hollering: "Slam 'em out, Babe," or "sink that baby for me, Johnny." Just when they were supposed to keep their traps shut.

BELLEVILLE SQUAD PLAYS P.C.I. HERE

Albert College of Belleville and the local P.C.I. Seniors clash here this Saturday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock in Riverside Park in a rugby game. It will be a sudden-death C.O.S.S.A. playdown fixture, the winner to advance into the C.O.S.S.A. semi-finals—possibly against Barrie—and the loser being eliminated from further competition. The Albert outfit agreed to play this important tussle here for a portion of the gate receipts. It is a crucial senior school struggle for the P.C.I. crew and should draw a huge crowd of local and district football fans to the park, regardless of the weather.

The visitors have been highly touted all season down around the Bay of Quinte district. They won their own group without a loss, piling up huge scores, and then rubbed out Marmora High School in a playdown series. They are reported to play smart, open rugby with a good line and speedy backfield—one backfielder being a sprint champion. Coach Bamforth's P.C.I. crew also sailed through their schedule undefeated and look like a potential championship squad. They will be hard to beat here. It ought to be a thrilling, wide-open contest, keenly fought all the way.

SPRINGFIELD IS IN FIRST PLACE

NEW YORK, Nov. 18 (CP).—Up steps the International - American League today with hockey's latest frill—a game that wasn't played grabbing the spotlight from a game that was.

Springfield Indians, an unbeaten bunch of braves, handed a 3-0 lacing to Philadelphia Ramblers, winners of their two previous starts, in a game at Philadelphia, but that decision had to take a back seat in the news to the outcome of last night's other scheduled contest—which never cagie off.

It was supposed to feature Syracuse Stars, holders of a record showing two wins and a draw in three games and leaders of the league's western section, against New Haven Eagles at Syracuse, but it was called off.

The only announcement came from President Eddie Reilly of Stars, who said the game had been postponed until some time in February after a telephone conversation Monday with John Chick, league president. No reason was given for the postponement.

The win for Indians sent them into first place in the league's eastern section, giving them six points to the four held by Philadelphia in second place.

It didn't take long for the Springfield attack to start functioning in full force. Just 32 seconds after the start, Hub Wilson took a pass from Ted Saunders and rammed it past Goalie Herb Gardiner.

A little less than eight minutes later, Adelard La France, former Sudbury hockeyist, laid down a perfect pass that Jack Toupin shoved into the net. Then in the third period Joe McGoldrick and Paul Marcel Reymond teamed up for the last goal, the former lifting the rubber over Gardiner who went down to save.

MEET IN "EOSSA" FINALS

OTTAWA, Nov. 18 (CP).—Kingston Collegiate and University of Ottawa will meet in Kingston Friday in a sudden-death final for the Junior Eastern Ontario Secondary Schools' Association football title, T. J. H. Rothwell of Ottawa, association convenor, announced yesterday.

Efforts, he said, were being made for Ottawa Technical School and Kingston Collegiate to play on the same field immediately after the game.

Fair Jockey

Miss Betty West, who, atop "Montoya," won the ladies' jockey feature race at Baltimore, Md., at the Hilltop course at Pimlico racetrack is pictured with the winners' trophy, which was presented by Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt, sponsor of the race. Eleven women, fully attired in spurs, boots and racing silks competed, in this unique race.

LEAFS AND BRUINS HAVE TOUGH FIGHT BEFORE MEETING

TORONTO, Nov. 18 (CP)—There's "just one more river to cross" for Toronto Maple Leafs and Boston Bruins before they meet in the National Hockey League's first natural of this season. But it looks a toss-up whether the crossing will be a success.

It all hinges on two-thirds of the league's warfare tonight. In one game Leafs will play Canadiens in Montreal, while in another Bruins will go into the Manhattan stronghold of New York Americans. The third game brings together the world champion Detroit Red Wings and Chicago Black Hawks.

To the first two games, however, will go the attention of most hockey fans around the circuit because if Leafs and Bruins win they will carry undefeated records into their clash at Toronto Saturday night. Bruins, so far, have won three games played, while the high-powered Leafs have won two and tied two in four starts.

Hold Two Point Leads

But those six points picked up by Manager Connie Smythe's Leafs have left them only two points ahead of Red Dutton's fighting Amerks, and three in front of Cecil Hart's Canadiens in the league's Canadian section. In the other division Bruins, with their six points, hold a two-point edge over New York Americans and Hawks.

It's that close grouping of the teams that presages anything but a walkaway in tonight's tilts for Toronto and Boston teams.

Amerks will be going all out against the Art Ross-headed Bruins, knowing a victory coupled with a Toronto defeat would put them into a divisional tie for first place with Leafs. The Boston outlook isn't brightened any by the fact if they lose and Hawks defeat Wings, then Bruins and Hawks will be tied for American section leadership.

Frenchmen Want A Win

Then, for good measure, the Flying Frenchmen from Montreal want a victory over Leafs because no matter what happens in the Boston-New York clash a win would put them a point off the pace in their section.

But the worries of Smythe and Ross dwindle into insignificance compared to those of Squire Jack Adams of Detroit. So far nobody has paid the least bit of respect to that world championship crown his Detroiters wear—and have worn for the past two years. Wings, rated by most experts before the season start as the team to beat, have taken only one of their four starts, losing two and tieing the other.

But Adams says it will be different tonight, and hopes to touch off a winning streak for his champs with a decision over Manager Bill Stewart's Hawks.

TWO HORSES ARE IN THE BIG MONEY DUFFERIN PARK

TORONTO, Nov. 18.—Lee Hanley, a bay gelding owned by Lloyd Watson of Woodbridge and driven by Vic Rountree, was the major money winner in the first and fastest classified harness horse race on the two-race card at Dufferin Park yesterday afternoon. The other event saw three heats and most money go to Rosland, a chestnut mare owned and driven by Richard Scott of Toronto.

The Hanley horse just breezed to victory with several lengths to spare in the first three heats. Then, under the racing rules in vogue at "Little Saratoga's" present meeting, the three-heat winner was led to the barn while the rest of the field raced in the fourth heat. This final heat turned out to be something of an upset, when Driver Floyd Milton came up fast in the stretch to win with Walter Ra, owned by W. J. Booth of Simcoe. Walter Ra had finished 9-8-8 in the previous trips.

Rosland finished away back tenth in the 12-horse field, that competed in the first heat of the second class, but the mare reeled off the next three in handy fashion.

Dr. Marque, owned by Gid Litt and piloted by Harry Fields, took the first heat, then lost his racing legs to drop back in the next two heats, and then lost his balance to fall in a heap and cause a two-horse spill in the fourth one. Dr. Marque was pacing along quite far behind the leaders on the turn into the home stretch when he went down and threw Driver Fields off the bike. Evelyn Evans paced into the pile-up, and also fell. However, Driver Tolhurst got her up again and she finished the heat. Both drivers and horses escaped serious injuries in the mean-looking spills.

There will be a big three-race program at Dufferin Park on Saturday, featured by the event for lady drivers and the fast pace.

TRICOLORS WIN GROUP HONORS

KINGSTON, Nov. 18. — Queen's University intermediates earned the right to meet McMaster University of Hamilton in a sudden death game on Saturday for the inter-collegiate grid title, by piling up a 23 to 0 score against the Royal Military College Cadets at the Richardson Stadium here Wednesday afternoon. The win broke a tie for the Eastern Ontario inter-collegiate group leadership.

Bishop, Davis, Grandjeans and Cranston turned in a good performance for the winners. The Cadets never once threatened the Tri-color scoring zone, although Rowland did some good booting, and the game never lagged for thrills.

Queen's opened up early in the first frame, sending Davis over the line for a major score, Bishop taking the convert. Grandjeans took credit for two touchdowns in the final quarter, the first scored after a 50-yard run by Davis, and the second when Cranston intercepted a Cadet forward, planting the ball on the 4-yard line. A placement in the fourth and a single by Bishop in the third quarter made up the total points.

Additions To New York Rangers' Youth Movement

The second edition of New York Rangers youth movement, headed by Coach Lester Patrick, has a complete new forward line of rookies this season. Clint Smith of Saskatoon will centre the new line, while Bobby Kirk and Bryan Hextall, Winnipeg youngsters, will hold down positions on either side of him. Patrick is of the opinion that this new line of youngsters he brought up this season is a cinch to deliver in the majors. In case you are beginning to wonder which is which in the ABOVE picture here is the identification. From LEFT to RIGHT, the three rookies are, Bobby Kirk, Clint Smith and Bryan Hextall.

By WILLIAM H. DUMSDAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—(CP)—Frankie Battaglia, Canada's brightest hope for the world's middleweight crown, may never fight again. His face bruised and swollen from the hammering blows of Solly Krieger, the Winnipeg battler left New York to-day for his farm near Palmyra, Wis., "where I will think it over."

The 27-year-old Canadian faded in his bout with Krieger at the Hippodrome last night, after holding a wide lead in the first four rounds. From then on the smashing rights that may spell the end of Battaglia's career, built up a clean advantage for the Brooklyn bruiser. Both men weighed 163¾ pounds.

"The big trouble was that I haven't had enough 10-round bouts lately, but Krieger sure deserved his win," said Frankie, who came to Manhattan for the first time in three years for this "test bout."

"I figured if I could beat Krieger I'd go on, but now I don't know. I'm going back to my farm and check up on my 2,000 chickens and 60 cows—you see if I do decide to quit the ring, I'm going to become a full-time farmer."

Should Have More Fights

What may prove to be Battaglia's last stand was watched by an enthusiastic crowd which included Jack Dempsey, former world heavyweight champion.

"This shows how much this fight meant to us," said little Ernie Fliegel, the Canadian's manager, as he pulled out several letters, including offers for bouts in Australia, Europe and several parts of the United States. "One of Frankie's regrets is that he hasn't had more fights in Canada."

More battle scarred than Battaglia, Krieger had nothing but praise for his opponent.

"He was better than when I outpointed him a year ago in Pittsburgh—he did more counter-punching and as we're both that type of fighter, he made it tough for me. Frankie's a nice boy, fights clean, and I still rank him among the world's best 10 middles."

Sports Spice

By EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK, Nov. 18 (AP) — It cost the French Meadow Country Club at Flushing $4,000 to repair the damage done by the John Montague-Babe Ruth golf match gallery. Greens were torn up, flower beds trampled, fences torn down and bunkers battered by the gallery of 10,000 customers, most of whom insisted on hollering: "Slam 'em out, Babe," or "sink that baby for me, Johnny." Just when they were supposed to keep their traps shut . . . Eddie Brannick, secretary of the Jints, who is spending part of his world series swag touring Europe, postal-cards his friends he now can understand why they "Can't keep 'em down on the farm after they've seen Paree" . . .

The anti-Nazi society is warming up to blast the Max Schmeling-Harry Thomas fight at the Garden Dec. 13 . . . What Max can't understand is why the Nazi-haters didn't go to work on Baron Gottfried Von Cramm when he was playing all that tennis at Forest Hills a couple of months back . . . Cubs, Giants, Cards and Pirates all are bidding for Van Mungo, with the Cubs having the inside track . . . No wonder they call the Duquesne football team the Night Riders . . . Only games they've won this year have been under the lights.

BELLEVILLE SQUAD PLAYS P.C.I. HERE

Albert College of Belleville and the local P.C.I. Seniors clash here this Saturday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock in Riverside Park in a rugby game. It will be a sudden-death C.O.S.S.A. playdown fixture, the winner to advance into the C.O.S.S.A. semi-finals—possibly against Barrie—and the loser being eliminated from further competition. The Albert outfit agreed to play this important tussle here for a portion of the gate receipts. It is a crucial senior school struggle for the P.C.I. crew and should draw a huge crowd of local and district football fans to the park, regardless of the weather.

The visitors have been highly touted all season down around the Bay of Quinte district. They won their own group without a loss, piling up huge scores, and then rubbed out Marmora High School in a playdown series. They are reported to play smart, open rugby with a good line and speedy backfield—one backfielder being a sprint champion. Coach Bamforth's P.C.I. crew also sailed through their schedule undefeated and look like a potential championship squad. They will be hard to beat here. It ought to be a thrilling, wide-open contest, keenly fought all the way.

SPRINGFIELD IS IN FIRST PLACE

NEW YORK, Nov. 18 (CP).—Up steps the International - American League today with hockey's latest frill—a game that wasn't played grabbing the spotlight from a game that was.

Springfield Indians, an unbeaten bunch of braves, handed a 3-0 lacing to Philadelphia Ramblers, winners of their two previous starts, in a game at Philadelphia, but that decision had to take a back seat in the news to the outcome of last night's other scheduled contest—which never came off.

It was supposed to feature Syracuse Stars, holders of a record showing two wins and a draw in three games and leaders of the league's western section, against New Haven Eagles at Syracuse, but it was called off.

The only announcement came from President Eddie Reilly of Stars, who said the game had been postponed until some time in February after a telephone conversation Monday with John Chick, league president. No reason was given for the postponement.

The win for Indians sent them into first place in the league's eastern section, giving them six points to the four held by Philadelphia in second place.

It didn't take long for the Springfield attack to start functioning in full force. Just 32 seconds after the start, Hub Wilson took a pass from Ted Saunders and rammed it past Goalie Herb Gardiner.

A little less than eight minutes later, Adelard La France, former Sudbury hockeyist, laid down a perfect pass that Jack Toupin shoved into the net. CHAPTER 40.

One afternoon about three weeks before Christmas, Tim was visited at his surgery by Bennett, the landlord of the Goose Quill. Bennett was a former Sussex cricket pro, a very decent sort of man who had been an irregular patient for years. He held a high opinion of Tim's professional skill, and was also linked with him by the fact that his daughter had spent three very happy years as a parlormaid at The Wilderness before leaving to be married.

Today, he unable to point to anything particularly wrong with his teeth. "Just thought it was time you gave me a once-over, Mr. Kennedy," he said; but after Tim had poked about for a while and declared there was nothing requiring attention, he showed a disposition to linger.

"Your man Adams not about today?" he asked at last, with an assumed casualness.

"No, he's got one of his nervous headaches," replied Tim. "I told him to rest."

Adams had actually laid claim to a headache, and expressed his intention of going back to bed for a few hours. "I may be down later," he said. "Meantime, you can carry on for yourself all right for a bit." Today Tim had been obliged to let in his own patients, leaving his work to do it. Adams had not turned up.

"Well, I hope you don't blame me for his headaches, sir," said Bennett.

"I certainly don't, Mr. Bennett. Why should I?"

"You might argue that he picks 'em up at my place."

Tim picked up one of his instruments and began to clean it.

"I know he goes there at nights, of course," he said after a pause. "He's putting away a lot, eh?"

"He certainly is, Mr. Kennedy. . . . Of course you understand, sir. We can't refuse to serve anyone with liquor within licensed hours so long as they don't actually make a disturbance. But you've always treated me very well, Mr. Kennedy, and I thought I ought to give you a word of warning."

"Has Adams been making a nuisance of himself then?"

"Not exactly. It'd be easier to deal with if he had. But he's been talking wild."

Tim turned to face the man. "You'd better tell me what you're getting at, Bennett. It's no use making half-confidences. . . . Strictly between ourselves, of course."

"It's a bit difficult for me to tell you, sir. . . . Truth is, when he's got a skinful inside him, he begins to talk wild, as I say. . . . Disrespectful about you, sir, I mean."

"What has he been saying about me exactly?"

"Well, sir, he's called you an old humbug, and names like that."

"Anything else?"

"He's kind of hinted that he knows a thing or two about you. . . . Understand, sir, nobody takes him seriously when he starts talking like that. But, of course, it looks bad."

"I wish you'd be as precise as you can, Bennett. I want to get this quite clear."

Bennett fidgeted uneasily in the chair. "I don't like bearing tales, sir, and that's flat. But, to give you an example, last night, somebody had been saying you looked a bit . . . off color, since Mrs. Kennedy died, and how it must have affected you. . . . All quite nice and sympathetic, sir, nothing to give offense.

"Then Adams said, 'Broken up nothing,' or something like that. 'He wasn't sorry to get rid of his missus, take my word for it he wasn't. . . .'

"Someone told him to shut up, that was no way to talk. Then Adams got excited. He said, 'I could prove it to you if I wanted to, perhaps some day I will.' He was pretty far gone, you see, Mr. Kennedy. . . . It was just on closing time, anyway, so I put a stop to it, hustled 'em all out a bit quicker than usual. . . . I tell you, I'm not surprised he's got a headache this morning."

Tim went over to the washbasin, and soaped his hands for a few moments in silence. "I'm glad you've come to me, Bennett," he said at last, without turning. "Is that all?"

"Yes, I can't say there's any more. Except general disrespectfulness, if ever you name's mentioned".

"I see. . . . You know, Bennett, Adams has been with me a long time. I dare say you've heard he saved my life in the war; that's not a thing one forgets easily. . . . And, of course, he was genuinely devoted to Mrs. Kennedy, there's no mistake about that.

"I won't conceal from you I've been very dissatisfied with his manner lately. He's been idle and uncouth in his behavior, he's talked wildly and rudely to me personally, just as you describe it. You see, he was upset by my wife's death, and it's made him hostile to me. He seems to think I could have prevented it.

"But I feel a responsibility to him, and I want to give him every chance to get himself straight. He's a good fellow at heart, only a bit unbalanced. I'm inclined to bear with him a little longer, but I see I shall have to talk to him seriously, without mentioning what you've told me, of course.

"In the meantime, Bennett, I'd be very grateful if you'd try to check him as much as you can, when he's at your place, you know best how. . . . And if he starts any more of this wild talk, you might let me know."

Bennett got up.

"I'll be very glad to, sir," he said.

After he had gone, Tim wiped the perspiration from his forehead. He had handled that pretty well, but the danger remained imminent. There were no more patients due for half an hour; he had time to think. He sat down before the bureau.

What was to be done? It was clear that the present state of affairs could not long continue without disaster. It could not be permitted to continue. Now Adams had started talking, it was almost certain he would do so again. Allow that this was a drunken indiscretion he was probably repenting in sobriety this morning; the fact remained that a man who has once talked recklessly in drink will do so again.

And the next time he might be more explicit, he might let things out to an extent which could not be ignored, leading to police in-

UNCLE WIGGILY'S POP GUN.

After the football game, where Uncle Wiggily had yelled like a red Indian, the Lady Mouse Teacher of the Hollow Tree School grew better from having been ill.

"I can take my classes now," she telephoned Mr. Longears, who had been taking charge of the school while Miss Mouse was absent.

"All right," said the rabbit gentleman.

"And thank you very much," squeaked Miss Mouse, that being her way of talking.

So Uncle Wiggily, having nothing to do, started out, as he often did, to look for an adventure. He hopped over the fields, through the woods, up hill and down hill, but not an adventure could he find.

"Dear me!" he exclaimed, twinkling his pink nose as he sat down on a flat stump to rest, "this is very strange."

"What is?" asked a voice and, looking up, Uncle Wiggily saw a strange bird.

Like an Escape.

"It's queer I can't find an adventure," said the rabbit.

"Is an adventure something good to eat?" asked the bird who was wiping his bill, one side at a time, on the tree branch upon which he was perched.

"An adventure is omething that happens to you, like getting away from a Bad Chap," said Mr. Longears.

"Well, I don't know anything about Bad Chaps," chirped the bird, "but I had something good to eat just now."

"What?" asked the rabbit.

"Corn kernels," answered the bird. "I flew over a farmer's corn field. He had taken most of the ears, but some were left."

"I am glad you found something to eat," said the rabbit. "I'll hop over to that field myself. I can eat corn if it is roasted, boiled or popped, and I may find adventure."

"I never heard of popped corn," said the bird. "I eat all mine raw, right off the ear. But do as you please with yours. And good luck to you in looking for adventures."

"Thank you," said Uncle Wiggily.

Away flew the bird, cleaning its beak of the corn kernels it had eaten and Uncle Wiggily hopped over to the corn field.

As the bird had said, not all the corn stalks had been cut. Some were still standing and on them were dried ears of corn.

A Surprise.

"Why, this is pop corn!" exclaimed Uncle Wiggily as he saw the small, white, pointed kernels. "I'll take some home to the children. They love pop corn. But first I'll make sure this is it."

He built a fire on some flat stones and then he shelled off some of the kernels.

"If this is pop corn it will pop when I put it on hot stones, said Mr. Longears. The stones were getting hotter and hotter. Uncle Wiggily had the kernels ready when all at once, through the corn stalks came snooping the Funny Fox.

"Oh, what luck!" yapped the Fox. "I've caught Mr. Longears!"

"Not yet you haven't!" said the rabbit gentleman.

"How can you stop me from nibbling you?" asked the Fox.

"With my new pop gun!" said Uncle Wiggily. He threw some corn kernels on the hot stones. In a little while they began popping.

"Bang! Bang! Bangity bung bung!" snapped the bursting corn.

"Oh, wow! I didn't know you had a pop corn gun!" howled the Fox and away he ran as fast as his legs would take him.

"Ha! Ha!" laughed Mr. Longears as he took some pop corn home.

And if the pillow case will climb the clothes pole and wave itself like a flag, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily's cheer up.

quiries, and Adams having to tell the truth in self-defense.

Adams must be disarmed. But how? Tim was no longer in a position to make a bid outright for the letter, a bid likely to be sufficiently attractive to be taken up. He had been spending money freely lately, first over Alma, then over the distraction by which he had sought to forget Alma. His balance at the bank had shrunk to near the £500 mark. Besides, he would have to move shortly, and the move was bound to involve him in considerable expense. Very few checks had come in lately.

There were certainly a few long-standing accounts, but they were mostly with patients whose credit was excellent; to press for immediate payment would be to reveal his own financial stringency, and still further prejudice his reputation in the town. Suppose, though, he were able to repeat his offer of £500. Was there a reasonable chance of Adams accepting? Probably not. He had refused it contemptuously a few weeks before, and he was unlikely to have changed his mind so soon.

What else remained? He would gladly have killed Adams, contrived another accident. But murder here did not meet the case. Its only effect would be to precipitate disaster, if Adams had spoken the truth.

If Adams had spoken the truth. . . . Tim struck his fist violently on the desk. Had Adams been lying to secure himself? He had the letter no doubt, but the story of confiding it to a solicitor, "to be opened after my death," after the manner of detective stories, was on the face of it improbable. Men of Adam's class did not go to solicitors.

Had he got the letter close at hand? Not on his person, that would be altogether too hazardous, nor at the surgery, but at The Wilderness, in his room, either locked in a trunk, or concealed in some well-contrived hiding place?

Tim got up. His mind was working again; the stimulus of immediate fear had revived his faculties. The more he thought of it the more certain he felt he was on the right track. And the thing could be put to the proof; it would not be hard to contrive a search of Adams' room. He could easily make arrangements so as to do so with the minimum risk of interference. The sooner the better, too.

On leaving the surgery, Tim looked in at the Royal cinema, and bought two tickets for the last performance that evening. Possibly they would be wasted; it was more than likely that after his excess of the night before Adams would elect to spend a quiet evening. The tickets were, of course, not for Adams, but for the cook and housemaid, whose bedrooms were close to that of Adams'.

FIVE NEW ARRESTS MADE IN CLEAN-UP

PARIS, Nov. 18 (AP)—Authorities today reported five new arrests in the nationwide inquiry into a secret military organization known as "The Hooded Ones" which was uncovered two months ago.

The prisoners were charged with setting up secret arms depots. Minister of Interior Mark Dormoy said the investigation was merely routine but the French press said a new attempt against national security was unearthed.

In an apartment occupied by two of those arrested, police said they found "important stocks of arms, munitions and explosives." Two men arrested Sunday in a raid at Dieppe were brought to Paris, accused of planning subterranean hiding places for arms.

Robert de la Motte, son of Count de la Motte, was taken into custody after detectives found what they termed "secret rooms" under a garage. The investigators connected the two men from Dieppe with the younger de la Motte after he was said to have admitted they had built the "secret rooms" on his orders.

HENRY BLAKELY TALKS ON POTATOES

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MILLBROOK, Nov. 18.—The hospitality of Mrs. E. C. Richards' home was extended for the November meeting of the Women's Institute, held at 8 p.m. on Saturday, with 14 members and visitors in attendance.

The chair was taken by the president, Mrs. B. J. McKnight, who is also convenor of the standing committee on Agriculture, and responsible for the program for Saturday's gathering. Mr. Henry Blakely, a successful grower of certified potatoes in Manvers township, gave a most informative talk and demonstration, showing by means of charts, and of potatoes, the best varieties to plant, and the diseases to be expected and avoided.

The treasurer's report showed fees paid by two new members, and three dollars given to Mr. L. H. Winslow as the branch's contribution to the prize money for the County Public Speaking competition. A box of fruit had been sent to a sick member, and a letter of appreciation was received from Mrs. G. W. Harkness, for kindness extended during her illness.

An appeal from the Crippled Children's fund for a contribution was laid over for further consideration, and on motion, it was decided to ask the Department for the Government grant this year.

The December meeting will be at 2.30 p.m. instead of 3 o'clock, as has been the custom during the summer months, Mrs. Melville Ball inviting the branch to have the Christmas gathering at her home. The roll will be answered with a parcel for the Christmas Cheer baskets; Mrs. G. O. Fallis and Mrs. J. W. Hilton will be the committee in charge.

The expenses of the delegate, Mrs. Hilton, to the Provincial W. I. Convention, meeting at the Royal York in Toronto this week, were ordered paid, and the meeting closed with votes of thanks to the hostess, and to Mr. Blakely for his very interesting and instructive talk and demonstration.

LABOR SUBMITS AMENDMENTS TO WORKMEN'S ACT

House Defeats Motion By Vote of 205 to 141

LONDON, Nov. 19 (CP Cable) — The House of Commons today rejected, by a vote of 205 to 141, a labor bill which proposed to make important changes in the law in regard to workmen's compensation.

Geoffrey Lloyd, under-secretary for home affairs, told the house that two of the strongest committees ever established were examining the whole problem. When these committees reported, the government, if the reports were accepted, would introduce the necessary legislation.

Compulsory Insured

Labor's bill, introduced by Jack Jones, would have required that all employers be compulsorily insured against claims for workmen's compensation.

This is to meet the case of the small uninsured employer who, by going bankrupt, escapes the court award.

It proposes to wipe out the lump sum payment to the widow of a workman killed while employed. The present law provides for a lump payment varying from £300 ($1,500) to £600, according to the number of dependent children.

Poor Investments

It has been found, the House was told, that these widows often were the victims of plausible investment vendors, that the money, which should go to maintain the children, was quickly dissipated.

The Labor party, therefore, proposes payment to the widow of 30 shillings weekly, or one half the weekly earnings of the deceased workman, whichever is the greatest. The allowance for dependent children would be increased from six to 10 shillings weekly, with the provision that in no case shall the weekly earning of the deceased father be exceeded.

For total incapacity the basis of compensation would be 75 instead of the present 50 per cent of weekly earnings. For partial incapacity, compensation would be the whole of the difference between pre-accident and post-accident earnings. The present compensation for partial incapacity is 50 per cent of the difference.

SIT-DOWNERS SHUT AKRON FACTORY

AKRON, O., Nov. 19—(AP)—Sit-down strikers, protesting a scheduled lay-off of 1,600 workers, forced all three plants of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company into idleness to-day.

John House, president of the Goodyear local of the United Rubber Workers of America said the strike started after the fourth shift entered the No. 1 plant at midnight, and was called without union authorization.

Describing the sitdown as a "spontaneous outburst of the uneasiness which has been present in the minds of Goodyear employees for many weeks," House said the action resulted when last minute efforts to induce C. C. Slusser, Goodyear vice-president, to postpone the layoffs had failed and when it was found that seniority rights would not be observed in the company's retrenchment program.

Prior to the strike, Slusser announced the necessity for layoffs had existed for a long time.

New Mark Look Well In Hand

KHARTOUM, Sudan, Nov. 19 (CP-Reuter's).—Flying Officer A. E. Clouston and Mrs. Betty Kirby-Green arrived here at 1.50 p.m. G.M.T. (8.50 a.m. E.S.T.) today and took off 20 minutes later for Cairo.

With only 32 hours elapsed at this point and the final lap before them which they did in 18 hours on their outward flight, the New Zealand Royal Air Force officer and his companion appeared to have a new mark well in hand.

Peterborough Chinese Have Raised $5,000

Fund - Raising Stamps Are Placed On Sale In Local Cafes

A total of more than $5,000 has now been raised and sent from Peterborough by its little colony of Chinese for aid of the Chinese government in its defense against Japanese invasion and for the Chinese Red Cross, reticent Chinese restaurant workers revealed to-day. An initial donation of $1,000 was raised a few weeks after the war broke out and further sums have been sent as they were raised.

This week local Chinese took steps to capitalize on the general public sympathy for the Chinese cause in Peterborough as elsewhere in Canada by placing on sale in cafes fund-raising stamps. A sheet of 42 beautifully-engraved stamps bearing various Chinese scenes and likenesses of the Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Chek and Madame Kai-Chek is offered for 25 cents. The stamps are intended for sympathetic use on the backs of letters or for collectors' albums.

Local Chinese report the money collected here goes to the central collection agency in Toronto, and then directly to China. Reports current, however, are that an important portion of monies collected in Canada and the United States are being sent to London to build up credits for increasing British exports of arms to China through Hong Kong.

Policemen of Constantinople, Turkey, will fine traffic violators on the spot.

BELLEVILLE, Ont., Nov. 19.—(CP)—David J. Lunn, 24-year-old farm hand, was arrested near Melrose, 20 miles northeast of here last night after allegedly assaulting his employer's wife, Mrs. Arthur English, and stealing $9. Lunn pleaded guilty today to a charge of theft and was remanded for sentence.

According to police who arrested Lunn the accused man entered his employer's wife's bed room during the absence of English last night and struck Mrs. English several times. Later he stole the money and fled.

Besides the theft charge, charges of indecent assault and assault, causing actual bodily harm were preferred today.

Hermit Of Silver City Dies Forced To Leave Ghost Town

Police Gave Transient Who Drove Car Shelter

Brantford, Nov. 19.

AN apparently destitute transient applied for a meal and lodging at the police station last night. He got it. At the same time, Constable Walsh took the license number of a car that had been parked in front of a local bank for hours.

When the transient yawned and stretched this morning, police told him to get his automobile off the street.

"This is the first transient we ever discovered driving his own car," said Police Chief Harry Stanley.

Stayed On Long After "Silver Bubble" Burst In Mining Town

CALGARY, Nov. 19. — (CP).—James Smith, the hermit of Silver City," died yesterday, a month after he left the "ghost town" near Banff that was his home more than 50 years. He was 86.

Smith, known to the people of the mountain resort as "Joe," left the cabin he constructed in the spring and summer of 1883 for the security of a rest home at Midnapore after failing eyesight and old age made life in the almost forgotten silver camp 18 miles west of Banff one of hardship and misery.

Son of a French-Canadian mother and Scotch father, he came west from St. Thomas, Que., before the railroad crossed the prairies.

In the fall of 1883 Smith heard reports of a rich silver strike in the mountains to the west. Hastening from a homestead he had taken near Medicine Hat, Alta., he reached the spot just as the snow was melting. Two others were there before him.

Operated a Hotel.

Smith staked claims, then with only a few took set about building a log cabin. Later that summer, when the "boom" came, Smith operated one of Silver City's two hotels, kept a store and prospected as a sideline.

After a government survey the Old Land Speed Mark Set By Campbell Given Bad Beating

Captain George Eyston Makes His Run On the Salt Flats of Bonneville, Utah

BONNEVILLE SALT FLATS, Utah, Nov. 19—(AP)—Capt. George Eyston of England today set a new world's land speed record of 311.42 miles per hour.

The genial captain from London flashed through the mile and back again in "Thunderbolt," a 24-cylinder racing giant, for an average of 11.56 seconds.

Eyston's speed, the fastest man has ever travelled in an automobile, exceeded Sir Malcolm Campbell's record of 301.1292 miles per hour by a wide margin.

Campbell made his mark here in September, 1935.

Eyston, a thin, scholarly man of 46 who retired from the British army several years ago, clipped the northward miles in 11.79 seconds for an average speed of 305.34 miles per hour and then sped back in 11.23 seconds for a speed of 317.74 miles per hour.

Only Had One Hand

"I knew I was going faster than I'd ever travelled before when I made the run back," Captain Eyston said. "Just before I entered the measured mile, my goggles began fluttering from the wind. I had to drive with one hand while I set them straight.

"Thunderbolt," a seven-ton, eight-wheeled racer which Eyston and his experts built in six months, performed perfectly after he had remedied clutch trouble which spoiled two previous efforts in the past month.

This time he conserved his machine on the first trip and made his supreme effort on the return.

The 3,100-horsepower giant shot fire from four exhausts as it streaked through the mile at 317.74 miles per hour. A whirlwind of salt stirred from this dry lake bed in Western Utah as the machine split the cool autumn air like a bullet.

Car Ran Perfectly

"The car ran perfectly," Eyston said. "I could never have made the run if it had not been for the three fine Americans who fixed my formerly faulty left clutch." They are Eddie Miller, Dave Frank and Riley Brett of the American Automobile Association.

"Luck was with me to-day. There was no wind and the rain threatened but never came. The track was excellent. On the first run this morning I had a little trouble steering, but nothing serious."

Sir Malcolm Campbell, on his outward run, was clocked at 11.83 seconds for 304.311 miles per hour, and at 12.08 seconds for 298.013 miles per hour on the return trip.

BRITISH INDUSTRY WELCOMES TALKS WITH THE STATES

LONDON, Nov. 19 (CP Cable). — The contemplated trade talks with the United States were welcomed by British industry and the press today. They were hailed not only as a step leading to close economic relations between the British Empire and the United States, but as relieving international tension by promoting friendship and mutual understanding.

Guy Harold Locock, director of the Federation of British Industries, hoped negotiations might lead to increased trade, a closer approximation in the trade balance between the two countries and, eventually, general improvement in the world position.

Help Both Nations.

Colonel A. C. Davis, chairman of the London Chamber of Commerce, said the news was satisfactory and bound to have fruitful results for both nations. A special meeting of the Tariff and Commercial Treaties Committee of the Federation of British Industries will be held Monday to consider the possible effects of the proposed agreement on British industrial interests.

The chief hindrance to an Anglo-American pact, comments the Yorkshire Post (Conservative) has been the Ottawa agreements. The paper

19-Year-Old Ottawa Girl Holds Up Taxi Driver With A Perfume Bottle

Ottawa, Nov. 19

REINA Belanger, 19, Ottawa, was in custody today, accused of holding up Elie Leblanc, Ottawa taxi-driver, with a perfume bottle.

Police said the girl told them that she had wanted to go to Montreal to see George Richer, arrested there for a drug-store holdup here last Saturday. She called a cab on the Montreal road and police quoted her: "I pulled the perfume bottle out of my purse and put it against the back of his (the driver's) neck. I told him to drive me to Montreal or I would blow his head off."

As the car passed St. Joseph d'Orleans, the girl ordered the driver to stop and get her purse from the rear seat. He ran away, with the girl shouting and warning him. "He didn't stop and with a perfume bottle, I couldn't shoot very far."

Plans Are To Enlarge Canada's Trade Pact With United States

Formal Announcement Made by Premier King And Secretary of State Hull in Washington

OTTAWA, Nov. 19.—(CP)—Trade negotiations between the United States and Canada may be coincident with if not a part of similar negotiations proposed between the United States and the United Kingdom in the immediate future.

Following closely upon yesterday's formal announcement in Washington and London that negotiations for an Anglo - United States trade agreement were contemplated Prime Minister Mackenzie King announced in Ottawa that trade negotiations were contemplated between United States and Canada. Similar announcement was made in Washington by Secretary of State Cordell Hull.

Negotiations between Canada and the United States will be for enlargement and extension for the existing reciprocal trade agreement negotiated in November, 1935, and normally operative until Dec. 31, 1938. The Anglo-United States agreement will be new and is expected to have an important bearing upon Canada's trading relations with both countries.

Expires Next Year

Proposed negotiations would have proceeded in any event regardless of any trade arrangements sought between United States and the United Kingdom, Mr. Mackenzie King intimated since the present agreement expires at the end of next year.

Questioned particularly on the possible bearing the Anglo-United States negotiations might have upon Canada's trade with Great Britain, the prime minister said "at

Newsstands Raided By Quebec Police

MONTREAL, Nov. 19 (CP).—Provincial police seized copies of the French weekly newspaper Clarte (Light) in a series of raids on Montreal newsstands today. The Montreal East-End offices of the paper were closed recently when police invoked for the first time Quebec's "padlock law" against Communism.

Copies of the paper seized today were dated November 20, and were believed by police to have been printed in Toronto.

Shortly after Clarte offices and the plant where the paper was published were closed, police padlocked the boarding-house of Jean Peron, Clarte editorial writer, and seized papers and documents.

CHORLEY PARK IS TO BE CLOSED UP

TORONTO, Nov. 19.—(CP).— Dr. Herbert A. Bruce's successor as Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario will not reside in the million dollar Chorley Park residence that has been the home of Lieutenant-Governors since 1915, Premier Hepburn reiterated to-day.

While he declined to discuss reports Dr. Bruce had sent his resignation to Prime Minister Mackenzie King and that his successor might be Duncan Marshall, former Alberta and Ontario Minister of Agriculture, the Premier was definite on one point.

"We will not continue to maintain that palatial mansion out of public funds," he said. The Chorley Park House, which cost approximately $1,000,000 to build and furnish, has been maintained at an annual cost of about $25,000.

Premier Hepburn said the matter of Dr. Bruce's resignation and of appointment of his successor rested with the Dominion Government.

Daylight Saving Is A Farce Declares Warden Of Huron

County Council Takes No Action On Peterborough County Resolution

GODERICH, Ont., Nov. 19. — (CP).—"Daylight saving is a farce. If a man wants to get up an hour earlier than others, let him get up, but he should do so without inconveniencing millions of his fellowmen by fooling with our clock."

This remark of Warden J. Meckert of Huron county council was made yesterday in the same court room in which the late Judge E. N. Lewis, "Daylight Saving Ned," former Huron member at Ottawa and generally recognized as the father of daylight saving time in Canada, presided for years.

A resolution of Peterborough county council, which asked that the Municipal Act be amended prohibiting the council of any municipality from pasing any bylaw changing standard to daylight saving time, provoked the discussion.

The council took no action on the resolution, because members expressed themselves opposed to dictation in telling the Ontario government what it should do.

LORD HALIFAX MEETS HITLER FOR FIVE HOURS

No Decisions Made In Informal Talk

BERCHTESGADEN, Germany, Nov. 19 (A.P.). — Viscount Halifax left Berchtesgaden at 3.30 p.m. today after five hours spent with Chancellor Hitler in what was authoritatively described as cordial discussion.

Details of their exploration of Anglo-German relations were not divulged, but it was understood they did not go beyond generalities and could have reached no important decisions.

Hitler spent half the time showing his guest the beauties of the wintry Bavarian landscape and the art treasures of his mountain home, where they lunched.

Concrete Offers.

The Chancellor was said to be determined to keep the British Lord President of the Council in a position where, in order to take anything concrete home with him, he also would have to make concrete offers.

From the German viewpoint, Hitler, by his various pronouncements in recent months, has made his position clear on questions like the colonies, multilateral pacts, armaments, and return to the League of Nations.

Officially inspired organs have also given much attention to Nazi demands of autonomy for Germans in Czechoslovakia and other points of Nazi European policy.

State Britain's Stand.

Hence, in the German view, it was up to Lord Halifax in to-day's chats to state Britain's position on these questions. British sources, however, doubted that Lord Halifax was in position to do this.

British as well as German official sources maintained the strictest silence regarding topics for discussion.

UNWIN IS LIKELY TO SERVE TERM

EDMONTON, Nov. 19 (C.P.). — Joseph H. Unwin, Social Credit member for Edson in the Alberta Legislature, announced in an interview to-day he was considering dropping the appeal against his conviction on a charge of defamatory libel knowing it to be false and his sentence to three months in jail at hard labor.

"It is too expensive," said the Government Whip, convicted by an Alberta Supreme Court jury last Wednesday and sentenced by Mr. Justice W. C. Ives last Friday.

"With $20,000 bail for such an offence and other legal costs, it is too expensive," he added. "The whole thing is out of proportion. Most likely I will serve the sentence."

Mr. Unwin, whose conviction resulted from publication of pamphlets entitled "Bankers' Toadies," declared he expected to announce a definite decision next week or later.

Prince Edward Farmers To Be Paid $1,000,000 For The Year's Vegetables

Picton, Nov. 19.

DURING the next two weeks farmers of Prince Edward County will receive approximately $1,000,000 in payment for canning factory produce. Payments began today and will be made over a period of two weeks.

During the past season, it is estimated that 1,000,000 cases of tomatoes were packed in Prince Edward and in addition 200,000 bushels were shipped to other parts of the county to be canned, making a yield of over 1,500,000 bushels of tomatoes grown in the county. This is the biggest pack of tomatoes ever processed here. The crop ripening unusually early practically all the crop was harvested and was of an unusually high quality.

In addition peas, corn, berries, peaches and pumpkins were also canned.

The local port has been enjoying the busiest season in many years with hundreds of tons of canned goods being shipped weekly.

WOMAN'S HEAD WAS BATTERED CORONER TOLD

Adjourn Cobourg Inquest For Report of Analysis

COBOURG, Nov. 19 (CP)—An inquest into the death Nov. 10 of Mrs. Violet May, Cobourg, was adjourned last night until Nov. 26 to permit of a report being received from Prof. Joslyn Rogers of Toronto, now making an analysis of the woman's organs.

Mrs. H. Aitchison, sister of Mrs. May, testified before the adjournment that Mrs. May had been brought into her home Nov. 6 after she had been found unconscious near the railway tracks at the south end of Cobourg. "There were marks on her face and body, and her mouth seemed bruised inside," Mrs. Aitchison testified. "She never regained consciousness."

Clarence Townse of Brighton, at the Aitchison home that night, told of Albert Irwin, Cobourg, leaving early in the evening with Mrs. May. He said Irwin returned about 10 p.m. and reported Mrs. May was down by the tracks. Townse said that when he went to bring Mrs. May home "she looked as if she had been pounded to pieces."

On the stand, Irwin could advance no reason for the marks on Mrs. May's body. He said he had called for her about 7 o'clock and they had made the round of Cobourg hotels, drinking beer.

"We started for Mrs. Aitchison's at around 10 o'clock," he said. "Near the creek she fell against the cement, and when I couldn't pick her up I went and got Townse to help me. Then he carried her into Mrs. Aitchison's house."

Constable Gavin Reid told of examining the spot where the woman had been found. He said he had found nothing near-by against which she could have fallen that would have produced the marks on her body.

BIRTH-RATE DROPS IN AUSTRALIA

SYDNEY, N.S.W., Nov. 19 (C.P.-Reuters). — Prime Minister Joseph Lyons says Australia is "losing" more lives in a single year as a result of the decreasing birth-rate than it lost in the four years of the Great War.

He made the statement in connection with the Federal Government's campaign to restore the birth-rate to its former level and to stimulate immigration from Great Britain.

As an initial move, the Government plans to approach authorities at London on the matter of assisted passages for suitable British migrants. Under this system, residents of Australia could nominate their friends and relatives. During the period from 1920-30, the nomination plan was in effect and 224,000 assisted immigrants were introduced into Australia.

The Australian birth-rate, 27.20 per 1,000 in 1911, last year had fallen to 17.15 per thousand.

"The real wealth of a nation is not in its trade, industry, flocks and herds, buildings, mineral resources, and accumulated capital, but in its people," declares Mr. Lyons.

Drying Season Means Business

TILLSONBURG, Ont., Nov. 19 (C.P.). — Opening of the Norfolk Leaf Tobacco Company, Limited, processing plant here yesterday started an influx of expert tobacco graders and tyers that will increase the winter population of the town by more than 1,000. With the delivery of tobacco, cash payments started for the growers.

Re-drying capacity of the plant has been increased from 60,000 pounds a day to 120,000 pounds a day, necessitating a large increase of employees and doubling at the same time the cash outlay. Nearly 200,000 pounds was on hand as operations started.

Although the town has experienced the greatest building season for homes in many years, many families are doubling up for the season which will extend into April.

ALL GRADES SHOW DECLINE FOR WEEK IN CATTLE TRADE

TORONTO, Nov. 19 (C.P.). — Prices were down 25 to 50 cents cwt. on all grades of cattle on the Toronto Live Stock Market this week, the Dominion Live Stock Branch reports. Two thousand head of cattle were unsold at the close. Calves and sheep held steady, but hogs lost 50 cents and lambs declined 25 cents.

The cattle market was dull on a heavy supply with prices working lower from the opening. Butchers closed 25 to 50 cents lower at $5.50 to $5.75 for tops, with common downward to $3.25. A few weighty steers on Monday went at $5 to $6 cwt., with no sales of any account thereafter.

Butcher cows ranged from $2.50 to $4, with canners and cutters at $1.75 to $2.25. Bologna bulls were down 25 cents at $3 to $3.40, and good butcher bulls sold from $3.50 to $5.00. Fed calves opened firm at $10 for tops, but closed with none over $9.50, and most sales downward from $9.

Store cattle were 25 cents lower at $3 to $4.50 for stockers, with picked feeding steers closing at $5 to $5.50. Milkers and springers were steady at $65 to $70 for tested tops.

Holdover Reduced.

The Monday holdover of 4,000 head was reduced to 2,000 by the close. Large packing houses did very little buying after Monday and business was mostly sales on store cattle or on butcher cattle to smaller firms.

Hogs dropped 50 cents cwt. during the week to finish at $8 off trucks for bacons. Feeling was still uncertain at the close. Sows ended at $5.50 to $5.75 cwt.

Lambs Lower

Lambs opened 25 cents lower and held unchanged for the rest of the week. Good ewes and wethers off cars sold generally at $7.75, with some contract lambs at $8. Off truck lambs brought $7.50 for top grades. Bucks and heavies brought $1.00 discount and culls went generally at $6.00. Sheep were steady at $2.00 to $4.50 cwt. according to quality.

ESKIMOS ASKING NOW FOR LUXURIES

OTTAWA, Nov. 19 (CP).—Contact with white traders changes the outlook of the Eskimo in Canada's Arctic Icelands and gradually things which might be regarded as the luxuries of civilization come to be regarded as necessities of life, A Royal Canadian Mounted Police report indicates.

As an illustration the annual report of the R.C.M.P. cites an incident which came to the notice of a police patrol on the east coast of Baffin Island. The patrol travelled on police duties from Pangnirtung on the Cumberland Sound north to Kivitoo on Davis Strait.

At Padlei the constables visited a party of Eskimo who had spent the winter there and heard of the incident which illustrated the changed attitude of the natives who had come to look on the trader as their provider and to make demands upon him instead of providing for themselves by hunting as their forebears did and as the more primitive natives still do.

"Kee-Pee, the head man of the natives had sent word to the trader at Pangnirtung that his people were starving and were eating their dogs," says the report.

"The messenger carried 15 white fox pelts with a note from the headman demanding such things as chewing gum, biscuits, sugar and ammunition in exchange for the pelts. The note, written in Eskimo syllabic, ended up by saying 'If you cannot send these things do not send anything at all.'

"The significance attached to the specific articles demanded is that, unless the natives had a very adequate supply of meat and a large fur catch, they would, if they really cared about being self-sustaining, have asked for flour instead of biscuits and powder and lead instead of cartridges and would certainly have omitted the chewing gum."

Science Gives Girl A New Scalp Society Provides Her With Hair

Toronto, Nov. 19.

A YOUNG Ontario woman, who was "scalped" in a machinery accident while at her work, has been provided with a new scalp through the benefits of modern surgery, but suffered acute embarrassment when she realized that no surgeon could produce hair to adorn her new scalp.

George Wilkie, K.C., in relating the story on Thursday before a luncheon meeting of the Toronto-York Division of the Industrial Accident Preventive Association, told how the Reconstruction Department had risen to the occasion and the young woman recently left the hospital "bloomin' as a Hollywood star" her lovely tresses enhancing her beauty.

Six Young People Killed, Car And Train Collide

Six persons were killed — three sea cadets and three red-haired girls — when the automobile in which they were riding was struck by a freight train at a level crossing at Vineland, Ont. The automobile, shown (ABOVE) was hurled 150 feet by the impact and was literally torn to pieces, parts being strewn along the right-of-way.

Five of the occupants died instantly while the driver, James Fisher, died en route to the St. Catharines hospital. The three sea cadets, James Fisher, 17; Steven Sutch, 15, and Robert Colley, 15, all lived in Welland, while the girls, Ruth Wright, 14; Madge Jordon, 16, and Sophie Nicol, 15, lived in Thorold.

COAL MEN HEAR HEATING EXPERT

Jerry Czechowicz, internationally-famed heating engineer, paid a flying visit to Peterborough last evening, and in the Empress Hotel gave one of his popular home-heating lectures to a large assembly of coal dealers of Peterborough and district.

Mr. Czechowicz, who is affiliated with the Newark laboratories of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Coal Company, producers of "blue coal," is commissioned by this company, in line with the company's policy of improving 'blue coal' dealers' service to the public in the more economical and efficient home-burning of anthracite. His lecture last evening was both stimulating and constructive and should result in many benefits to the homes of Peterborough and Lindsay through the advanced knowledge gained by the coal dealers present.

Mr. Czechowicz discussed many common heating problems that beset the householder. He dealt with hot air heating, hot water heating, draft control, and pointed out the most economical and efficient methods of operating each. With the use of charts, graphs, and blackboard, he provided many vivid illustrations and drove home to the dealers present the important role they could fill in providing householders with expert advice and counsel on all heating problems. This way, he said, the dealers would be far more important members of their community, because they would not only sell merchandise, but would furnish a service invaluable in its assurance of more comfortable and more healthful homes.

Last night's visit to Peterborough is but one of many in Mr. Czechowicz' continent-wide itinerary. That it was an event of more than ordinary importance was proved by the large turnout of dealers from Peterborough and surrounding districts, and the interest they showed in his lecture.

Among well-known coal dealers represented at the lecture were: J. E. A. Fitzgerald, Scott, Coal and Lumber Company., H. B. Taylor and Son, William Scott Co., Ltd., Superior Fuels (Lindsay).

HERMIT DIES

next spring, the bubble burst. Lots once sold at $400 each were abandoned along with stores and the buildings. Some of the houses were demolished.

When the Canadian Pacific Railway was built nearby, the spot was renamed Castle, experienced a brief revival, then died again.

James Smith remained behind, firm in the belief a rich silver strike would be made. In the winters he trapped and in the summers cut wood. He killed game with an old muzzle-loading gun.

CHILDREN'S AID COSTS ARE HIGHER

KINGSTON, Nov. 19.—Alarmed at the increasing cost of the Children's Aid Society and a lack of control over expenditures, Frontenac County Council on Thursday unanimously endorsed a resolution forwarded from Peterborough County requesting the amendment to the Children's Aid Act by the Province permitting counties and towns to appoint members to the Governing Board of the society.

M. G. Johnston, member of the Finance Committee, pointed out that the cost of the Children's Aid Society to the county had increased $496.35 for the first nine months of this year over the whole twelve months of the preceding year. In 1936 cost of the Children's Aid to the county was $2,909.11; while for the first nine months of this year, cost was $3,399.46. The 1936 figures, however, were several hundred dollars less than the preceding years.

Petitioning for a grant for the society from the council, Dr. H. A Kent, president; A. R. Fairbairn, secretary, and W. A. Morrison, superintendent of the society, addressed the council. The council did not sanction the grant to the society. It was pointed out that no grant had been given for the past two years.

Mr. Morrison, superintendent of the society, told the council that the increased cost of administration was due to court orders, making children wards of the county. "The added expense was quite out of the control of the society," Mr. Morrison declared.

Once A Millionaire Now Has Only $1.20

San Francisco, Nov. 19

GUS Oliva, who had $4,600,000 eight years ago, came to town today with $1.20 in his pockets and a patch on his pants.

One year the former newspaper carrier paid the Government $250,000 in taxes on a fortune he reaped in the stock market. He donated thousands to charity. Some say he bet $100,000 on a California-Stanford football game. Then bad investments cleaned him. Now he faces a theft charge in Los Angeles. Gus says the charge is false, that he put up a $1,700 ring as security on a loan, but, somehow, a cheap ring showed up in its place.

CHICAGO GRAINS PLUNGE

CHICAGO, Nov. 19.—Almost complete failure of predictions of new frosts in Argentine did much to plunge Chicago wheat values down about 4 cents a bushel maximum Thursday.

Virtual stoppage of North American wheat export trade for the time being resulted also from the sudden switch of Argentine weather conditions—a change that promised larger wheat yields in Argentina, and that acted as a bearish factor here.

Counting further on the side of lower prices yesterday for wheat was a season fresh bottom record of corn values.

Corn, oats and rye declined with wheat. Purchases of corn to arrive in Chicago were the largest yet this year.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG, Nov. 19 — (CP). — Wheat futures slumped three cents in late trading on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange to-day on liquidation by nervous longs that forced the market into a stop-loss order range. Final quotations were 3¼ to 2⅝ cents lower: November, $1.16⅝; December, $1.12⅛ to ¼; May, $1.09⅝ to ¾, and July, $1.05⅛.

Support was generally thin and trades continued in a hesitant mood. Even export demand for Canadian wheat was confined to small lots with sales estimated at around 200,000 bushels.

More favorable reports from the Argentine and removal of restrictions prohibiting wheat exports from that country were bearish factors.

WIFE-SLAYER IS GIVEN 15 YEARS HAILEYBURY COURT

HAILEYBURY, Nov. 19. — Two penitentiary terms and a short jail stretch were imposed here Thursday by Mr. Justice Greene as three of four men convicted by Temiskaming Assizes juries appeared for sentence.

Thomas Romanchuk, Kirkland Lake, drew fifteen years on conviction for manslaughter, reduced by the jury from murder, and Ernest Rail, formerly of Gaspe, went down for five years on pleading guilty to an attempted criminal assault on a 14-year-old schoolgirl near Cobalt.

Napoleon Lacasse, 63, of Timmins went to jail for thirty days on a criminal negligence verdict reduced from manslaughter after an automobile fatality in which his daughter-in-law was the victim.

Appearing for Romanchuk, who had kicked his wife to death in a drunken carousal, the Crown charged, E. E. Pearlman urged consideration of his previous good record. Speaking also for Rail Mr. Pearlman urged a mental examination in his case, described by C. L. Snyder, Crown counsel, as particularly distressing. With regard to Lacasse, His Lordship said he would recommend permanent suspension of his driving license.

Two verdicts of not guilty acquitted Fred Villeneuve, charged with manslaughter in another automobile fatality, and George Keith, accused of an offense against his daughter, were returned as the criminal cases concluded, while one other case had been disposed of previously.

FLOWERS BLOOM AT BAILIEBORO

(Examiner Correspondence.)

BAILIEBORO, Nov. 19.—Typical fall weather has been the rule in this locality. During the past few days the grass and fall wheat have begun to put forth a growth. Dandelions are still blooming in the pastures and some of the hardier varieties of flowers such as marigolds, sweet peas and hollyhocks, are still blooming in sheltered corners of the flower beds.

The second growth of oats, barley and peas in the stubble and fall wheat fields are still growing and as yet have not been frozen off.

Farmers have practically all their fall plowing accomplished for the season and the continued open fall is enabling them to do many odd jobs around the farm which will save them much time when seeding commences in the spring.

The livestock are practically all out on the ranges and only working horses and milch cows have as yet been stabled at nights. This will mean a tremendous saving in the winter's fodder.

Tax Collector Held $8,500 Theft Count

OWEN SOUND, Ont., Nov. 19.—(CP).—Harold Kerr, Euphrasia tax collector, arrested here last night charged with theft by conversion of $8,500 of the funds of the township, appeared before Magistrate Speremman to-day and was remanded to jail without bail until Thursday, November 25. He was not asked to plead or elect.

Kerr has been living in Owen Sound and Guelph for the past year, but has attended to his duties, as tax collector of Euphrasia. He has occasionally worked on a farm at Rocklyn.

The books of the collector are still in the hands of the auditors, and until the audit is completed it will not be definitely known the amount of the defalcation.

Sailor Rescued From Sharks

Recounting a tale of horror after shipwreck at sea and a night spent in shark-infested waters off Cape Hatteras, this survivor from the crew of the Greek freighter, Tzenny Cnadris is being rushed to hospital at Norfolk, Va., while coast-guardsmen from the cutter Mendota who rescued him give first aid. The Mendota pulled 14 survivors from the waters and seven others were rescued by the tanker Swiftsure; eight perished in the wreck. The freighter, laden with iron ore, foundered during a storm. Some of the survivors were pulled from the water almost 70 miles from the scene of the wreck after fighting off the attacks of sharks for hours.

Driver Of Auto In Collision With Fire Chief Is Acquitted

Accident Occurred While Fire Chief Going To Fire In Otonabee

After hearing the evidence which concluded late Thursday afternoon Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., dismissed without costs a charge of reckless driving against Harold Bennett, R.R. 6, Peterborough, whose car was involved in collision with the Fire Chief's car at Perry and George streets on the night of November 4 last. Bennett was defended by A. L. Elliott, the prosecution being conducted by Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., with City Solicitor John R. Corkery representing the Fire Department.

"Having regard to all the circumstances and the evidence, I find that Bennett's conduct was not such that it amounted to reckless or negligent driving," the magistrate observed in announcing his judgment.

The prosecution whose witnesses included Fire Chief George Gimblett who was driving south on George street at a speed he estimated at 30 to 35 miles an hour, and Fireman Garnet Brown who had been seated next to the Chief in the car, sought to show that Bennett had caused the accident by making a left turn at Perry street in the pathway of the Fire Department car.

Old Touring Model

As a result of the impact, the evidence showed, the Bennett car—a seventeen year-old touring model—was shunted into an electric light pole at the south east corner of the intersection and was totally wrecked, while the chief's car was badly damaged about the front.

While the prosecution claimed in evidence that the siren on the chief's car had been sounded continuously since the car pulled out of the fire hall, witnesses called by the defence claimed it was being sounded intermittently. Bennett claimed he did not hear the siren at all until the chief's car was about thirty feet to the rear of him while he was in the act of turning east on Perry street. He said he decided at the moment that the best thing he could do was continue along the course he was on. It was too late to attempt to turn.

John Taylor, 251 Lake street who testified for the defence said he was at Perry street when he heard the siren on the chief's car as it was in the vicinity of George and Charlotte streets.

No Other Traffic

He next heard the siren sounded when the car reached the neighborhood of Canada Packers plant, and it was sounded a third time when the chief's car was about thirty-five feet behind the Bennett car as the latter was in the act of turning east on Perry street. There was no other traffic on the street at the time and witness claimed there was plenty of room for the chief to have passed on the west side of the road.

Giving evidence as to the speed of the chief's car, Taylor declared, "I'll take my oath the chief's car was hitting 55 to 60 miles an hour without a doubt."

Stating that the chief's car struck the Bennett car on the left rear fender, the witness said, "The impact drove the touring car into a big British Columbia spruce, and I know my timber well."

Another witness who would not estimate the speed of either car in miles per hour, said the chief's car was going "very fast" and that the Bennett car was going "very slow." He heard three blasts of the siren as the fire department car came south on George street. He described the siren as "a mighty shriek dying into nothing," a definition that was commented upon by the Bench as being most expressive.

Youths Travel Far On Rented Bicycles

CHEST COLDS

Relieve Their Misery This Proved Way

WHEN there's a cold to treat—especially if it's a chest cold—that's no time to experiment. Relieve the misery with the treatment that has been doubly proved for you.

Here's What To Do: It's best to stay in bed and get lots of rest. Eat lightly, drink plenty of water, and keep elimination regular. And use your dependable Vicks VapoRub without delay.

VapoRub has been proved by everyday use in more homes than any other medication of its kind—further proved by the largest clinical tests ever made on colds. (Full details in every VapoRub package.) Only Vicks give you proof like this.

VapoRub is direct external treatment. No "dosing"—no stomach upsets. Just massage it on throat, chest, and back. Then—to make its long-continued double action last even longer—spread a thick layer on the chest and cover with a warmed cloth.

No Long Waiting for Relief to Begin...

Almost before you finish rubbing, you begin to feel warm and comfortable as VapoRub goes to work direct through the skin like a poultice. At the same time its medicated vapors, released by the warmth of the body, are carried direct to the irritated air-passages with every breath.

This double action loosens phlegm—relieves irritation and coughing—helps break local congestion. And long after restful sleep comes, VapoRub keeps on working.

They're Big Business Now

It is evident from the stories that come in from the district correspondents of The Examiner at this season of the year that the hallowed old institution the church fowl supper has rapidly grown into what can truly be described as the realm of big business. Originally it attracted only the folk in the immediate neighborhood, possibly reinforced by a few adventurous people from a distance who made the long journey in a horse-drawn bus. The combination of good roads and motor cars has provided a quite different setup today. From Peterborough it is only a few minutes comfortable ride to most of the important affairs in the district and the result is we are developing a class of fowl-supper-goers-to that is attaining formidable proportions. Its members go the circuit night after night, swelling the attendance to record proportions and incidentally developing a personal waist line and helping at the same time to cultivate a better understanding between urban dwellers and their fellow Canadians who live in the country.

Some interesting discoveries are, as a result, being made. It had long been recognized in the city that country folk were ace cooks, with the science of catering for a church dinner developed into a fine art. It was not so generally known in the rural districts, however, that, in spite of the sedentary nature of their occupations, many people, whose homes are in urban centres, are no mean trenchermen. As a matter of fact the experience of recent years has taught the ladies who manage these annual suppers that there are folk in the cities who can use a fork and knife with even greater dexterity than the hungriest man at a threshing. The inroads that some of these habitual urban attenders make on the grub must indeed cut in somewhat heavily upon the profits, even though their prowess at the table is accepted by the ladies as a compliment to the excellence of the fare provided.

Where The Shoe Pinches

The statement that Canada is overgoverned has been heard so often in recent years that it has become bromidic but once in a while somebody comes along with some facts in support of the assertion that arrest attention.

The Canadian Chamber of Commerce for example in the current issue of its magazine Canadian Business points out the existing situation in a way that cannot be easily dodged. The figures it quotes are striking. The people of Canada we are told have to dig down into their pockets and pay for an army of 27,500 administrative bodies, including school boards and municipal councils and provincial and Federal governments. Every man, woman and child in the country has a $725 share of the total public debt of the country hanging on his or her shoulders. That may not seem so serious a matter in itself but when it is pointed out that an ordinary working man earning $1,000 a year has to pay at least $150 of that in concealed taxes of some kind or other the shoe really begins to pinch.

Then of course there is the further weakness of the existing system that Canadians are trying to do as citizens of a province what they could do better as citizens of the Dominion or they are not doing it all. And as the Montreal Star puts it: "Two or three gangs of tax collectors come round to collect the same kind of taxes and two or three spending groups handle the revenues."

Room At The Top

Addressing a number of college students recently, William R. White, New York State Superintendent of Banks said something that young folk everywhere should inscribe on their mental diaries where it could be referred to often. It was that while there may be a shortage of jobs both in the trades and the professions there is still an unfilled need for men and women of outstanding ability and training.

His statement almost coincided with a story from Ottawa the other day that a job in the civil service with a salary of $5,400 a year has been going begging because the government has been unable to find a single person with the necessary qualifications willing to take the position. Obviously there would be any amount of people who would accept a job at such a salary but the difficulty is to locate one who has had the necessary training and experience to fill the berth as it is desired it should be filled.

If there is any moral in this bank superintendent's speech and in the incident reported from Canada's capital, it is that young people who have the opportunity to secure training in the higher branches of education should think twice before tossing away the chance. It is the line of least resistance sometimes to leave school and get a job as soon as possible but such a course rarely fits one for those positions we are told are always open at the top for the right kind of men and women.

Chores For Children

We have an idea that local parents should be keenly interested in an investigation that has been carried on by a committee of Kitchener school teachers recently with a view to giving direction in ways and means of getting children to assume definite responsibilities as members of the family.

In part the report of the committee says:

"It is the feeling of this committee that steps should be taken to bring to the attention of parents the desirability of providing certain specific duties in the home for boys and girls so that the welfare of the home may be inculcated in them."

We believe the Kitchener teachers have put their finger upon a weak spot in family life today. The modern home is so equipped with conveniences that many of the chores the boys and girls of other generations had to perform are no longer necessary, chores that awakened a sense of responsibility and were excellent training for the youngsters who had to carry them out. There were household jobs that had to be done before play could be thought of. The children early learned that the easiest and best way was to do them quickly and the spirit of obedience that was engendered was a good thing for both parents and children.

The youngsters of today—or the majority of them, especially those who live in urban districts—are not getting the benefit of this home-chore training and as a result they have got to the stage where they resent being asked to perform anything in the nature of a household task. The value of regularly performing certain duties around the house is being completely lost and that is why the teachers at Kitchener have found it necessary to recommend that specific tasks should be provided for younger members of the family group.

Youth Training Program

There is one feature of the Dominion-Provincial youth training program soon to be launched that will commend itself to those who realize existing conditions and appreciate the desirability of providing a reasonable amount of skill and competence for thousands of boys and girls who are at present without any real qualifications for employment.

The trouble seems to be that during the depression years Canada's industries as a whole were not in a position to train an adequate number of apprentices and the result is that a shortage has already developed of skilled workers in certain trades. At the same time many boys and girls were forced to leave school during the slump period and get whatever work offered itself and now many of them have attained the age of twenty-one or twenty-two years without having acquired specific ability or had the benefit of training that will enable them to secure employment where there is much hope of advancement.

The youth training program has been designed in the hope that it may bridge the existing gap. Properly directed and given the necessary co-operation, especially by industrial and commercial executives there does not seem to be any reason that will hold water why such a movement cannot bring about very desirable results in the desired direction. Skilled craftsmen are needed at the present time; we have been doing little or nothing to produce them and if the campaign that is to be carried forward in the near future can help to deal with that problem it will have made a very real contribution, both to the efficiency of Canadian manufacturing methods and to the happiness and prosperity of Canadian boys and girls.

No One Lived To Tell

There was a terrible airplane disaster in Belgium the other day when eleven lives were snuffed out when a giant air liner hit a chimney in a fog, and people are still talking about the horror of this crash in which the Duke of Hesse and four members of his family were victims. The Examiner has no intention of trying to minimize the tragedy of that catastrophe, but at the same time we feel constrained to point out that within the last few days there have been three multiple automobile accidents in which the total of dead was half as large again as the Ostend casualty list and we seem to take the whole thing for granted. Air smashes are news—death on the highway seems to be regarded as a mere matter of course.

And yet such an accident as that at Vineland the other night when six young people, the oldest twenty years of age, were killed in one fell swoop when their motorcar collided with a freight train at a level crossing, surely contained a full measure of horror. The feeling will not down that such a slaughter of young lives was entirely unnecessary. How a driver could make it possible for it to happen is one of those inexplicable things that defy understanding, unless it can be explained under the head of youthful irresponsibility. The crossing at which the accident occurred is described as one with good visibility in both directions. It was at night when the headlights of the approaching train would be in sight for a long distance, the crossing furthermore is protected by a bell signal and the train crew claim the usual warning whistles and ringing of the train bell were given. Yet in spite of all these factors the young driver managed to get his car in front of the fast-moving locomotive, and half a dozen perished in the crash that followed. Only the inmates of the ill-fated car knew what happened before the vehicle was hit and not one of them lived to tell.

NOTE AND COMMENT

A fund is being raised to perpetuate the name of Rudyard Kipling. We would have thought his literary work has already done that.

A story in a Toronto paper says Dachshunds got their low-slung physique from years of badger-hunting. We always thought it was from sleeping under chesterfields.

School teacher says the change in curriculum is the finest step in education in 20 or 30 years. The pupils, however, will say that it will have to take second place to the abolition of examinations.

Canada has signed a trade pact with the republic of El Salvador. That may not be a matter of supreme importance in itself but it at least shows that the trend is in the right direction.

The Minister of Labor is to address a youth rally in Kingston in the near future. Judging by the name given the gathering the Kingston ball club will not be represented.

Toronto is getting to be quite a town. There are 348,402 voters eligible to cast ballots in the coming municipal election, but the betting is that not much more than half of them will do so.

Manitoba hunters are to be compelled to wear white clothes to keep them from being shot in mistake for game. An added precaution would be to make them also carry bells.

Examinations have now been definitely abolished in the lower forms of Ontario secondary schools and that looks like a good start toward developing a new crop of Hepburn voters.

The controller of the Ontario Hydro Commission has been asked to resign. In reorganizing the Commission the government seems to be going the whole Hogg.

The sale of liquor has been curtailed in Moscow by the closing of a number of stores. And we have an idea those stores will remain closed—or the proprietors will be liquidated.

Fort William electors will vote at the coming elections on the desirability of spending $35,000 in establishing an airport. Canadian cities—our own a notable exception—are fast becoming air-minded.

Ontario school children deposited $52,300 more in the Penny Bank up to the end of May this year than at the same period a year ago which should be a pretty fair barometer of general conditions.

KIM

What though he is a mixture
Of unrecorded line,
No other dog in all the world
Is half so true or fine,
And I, his lucky master,
Who am neither good nor wise,
Can see the best of every breed
In his discerning eyes.

And if I were a beggar,
Or cursed by moneyed birth,
It would not matter in the least
To the staunchest friend on earth.
Set free from all base motives,
Mistrust, and love of self,
He is undeceived and unimpressed
By either want or pelf.

He may seem an idolizer
Whose heart is given to one,
But he is king of comrades, too,
When all is said and done,
And while I sing his praises
He is looking up to see
If there is any chance just now
To show his love for me.

WHEN KING GEORGE and Queen Elizabeth visited a Newcastle colliery as Duke and Duchess of York a year ago a pitman gave them a three-foot high pit pony, George. For months George was stabled at Glamis Castle the home of Queen Elizabeth's parents the Earl and Countess of Strathmore, but when the royal family went to Balmoral the little pony was sent there from Glamis.

✧ ✧ ✧

At Balmoral George jogged obediently along the lawns giving the Princesses rides and most thrilled of all was seven-year-old Princess Margaret Rose. When the King and Queen left Balmoral George was sent to Sandringham and stabled next to Jock, King George the Fifth's famous white pony. At Sandringham the little pony from the pit has his own feeding-box and his name in gold over his stable door.

When they go to Sandringham for the Christmas holiday the King and Queen are giving George to Margaret Rose as a surprise present.

Going After Records.

THE BRITISH Air Ministry announced a short time ago that the Royal Air Force is planning to go out after the landplane and long-distance records which had been held by Britain back in 1931. This year the only major air record left to Britain was the altitude flight of 53,937 feet made by Flight-Lieutenant M. J. Adam in July.

✧ ✧ ✧

It is suggested the machine that the Air Ministry would use for the landplane speed attempt would be the Rolls-Royce-engined Vickers Supermarine Spitfire monoplane fighter, rumored as the world's fastest service plane. For a speed attempt the 1,050 h.p. engine would be "hotted-up" and the wings cut down in areas. Similarly it is reported that the R. A. F. will use a Vickers Wellesley single-engined monoplane bomber for the long-distance assault and will attempt a 7,000 mile flight.

Residents of Willesden Eng. one night recently saw their lights flicker but little knew the reason. Twenty-four-year-old John Devlin clambering on the roof of a generating station had lost his hold, slipped and then crashed into a large transformer. As he landed 22,000 volts shocked through his body. Electricians jammed off the switches and found him unconscious. Rushed to hospital Devlin, although badly burned still lived, although he had sustained the shock of roughly 20,000 more volts than American prisons use in electrocuting murderers.

Dr. Kendall Emerson of the National Tuberculative Association of the United States says that recent years of depression have caused a sharp rise in deaths from tuberculosis. Twenty-four of the 48 states of the Union report increases in the T. Total deaths in the United States from tuberculosis numbered 70,907 in 1936 as against 69,471 in 1935.

Years ago the number of men wishing to join the Metropolitan Police in London, totalled 30,000, more than the force's total strength. Today according to an English paper the resignations outnumber the applications and at present there is a shortage of nearly 700. Every week nearly twenty members resign. The short service scheme is blamed for this condition for under that plan the men are not compelled to complete their term. After a few years' service they often resign to join a provincial force or take up a civilian job.

In Pidgin English.

PATRICK BALFOUR who has recently published a book "Lords of the Equator" dealing with his travels in Africa says that in some areas with tribes speaking so many different languages a language of pidgin English has been evolved by the traders. Canada's Beavers Are Coming Back

Falling Off in Demand For Their Kind of Fur Has Given Animals Time to Get Reorganized

(By F. D. R. in the Brantford Expositor.)

NOT LONG AGO some beavers appeared on a farm about forty miles from Montreal.

When the owner started to cut some hay he was surprised to find the meadow partially under water and then located a dam in a neighboring stream.

Where they came from is a puzzle, but writing in the Family Herald and Weekly Star, Ernest Ingersoll points out that Canada is greatly indebted to this industrious animal which used to occupy this half of the continent in large numbers.

In the Grand River Valley, for instance, they were undoubtedly exceedingly numerous, and the same thing was true of all sections of the Dominion wherever water was located.

It is pointed out that Canada and North America generally owe more to this and certain other rodents than many understand. During thousands of years, animals small and large, particularly the burrowers, turned wastes into arable soil. In this business beavers worked grandly in their own fashion.

Hundreds of hollows in the surface of the earth were filled by them and now fertile soil remains as the result of their operations.

In hilly parts of the country arable valleys with broad level floors exist, drained by a single small stream. Long ago these were the abode of beaver colonies.

Their dams raised the water from one of the surrounding hillside to the other until all the edible trees were killed, and gradually the animals deserted the valleys.

Then the dams rotted away, and in place of a pond there was a plain of deeply fertile earth covered with new trees.

Such flat valley-bottoms the early settlers called "beaver meadows" in recognition of the fact that through the industry of these tireless workers untold acres were formed to be subsequently used for agriculture—spaces of perpetual value rescued by beavers from useless or poor conditions.

In the earlier days also the foundation of much of Canada's wealth and prosperity was based on beaver-skins. The haunts of the animals that wore them were invaded without mercy, and their colonies ruthlessly destroyed.

Suddenly the demand for this kind of fur ceased and what was left of the fur-bearers had rest—they were as an army beaten but not destroyed. Ever since that time the few that remained have been retaking old haunts or organizing new ones, such as not far from Montreal.

Once upon a time they also abounded in England, becoming extinct in the ninth century but colonies were reported as late as the sixteenth century in Scotland.

The animal is famed for its engineering skill but its object in constructing dams seems to be mainly for securing an expanse of water sufficiently deep to protect its home and to secure access to the submerged store of food which consists largely of the barks of trees.

These are felled by gnawing through them near the ground, then the branches are stripped off, and the trunk divided into convenient logs. As trees growing on the banks usually lean towards the water, they generally fall in the desired direction. If they tumble in reverse the trunk only can be stripped.

With considerable ingenuity, the logs are floated down the water to a desired spot, when others are then brought alongside. Smaller wood is used to fill intervening spaces and mud plastered on the dam with the fore feet to make everything more solid.

For very good reason, the beaver is regarded as emblematic of Canada and it is also locally fitting that Brantford's coat-of-arms should have one of them depicted on the central shield.

Now They Know Just What It's Like

City Pupils All Taken Out to See County School and How It Is Equipped

(From the London Free Press.)

IN A LOCAL public school seventh grade pupils were reading about a country school in earlier days where the box stove required considerable stoking. It became apparent that the pupils were a bit hazy about both one-roomed country schools and box stoves. With commendable initiative the teacher arranged a visit by the class to S. S. No. 3, West Nissouri, where the one-room school boasts an authentic box stove.

This was an adventure in understanding which deserves some notice. If there are school children in Canada who are ignorant of such institutions as one-room schools and box stoves something obviously should be done about it before it is too late and the consolidated school with central heating has relegated the little red schoolhouse to the same class as the dodo.

What is the use of teaching our young hopefuls about the Fathers of Confederation and the Makers of Canada if they don't know anything of the background from which most of these worthies sprang? A visit to a one-room school equipped with a box stove with a voracious appetite for cordwood might teach some city-bred youngsters a healthy respect for the teachers and students who carry on the business of schooling in rural Canada in less elaborate surroundings than the urban centres have developed.

Those who missed the advantages of education in a one-room school can turn to Ralph Connor's "Glengarry School Days," or they can read Nellie McClung's descriptions of Prairie schools. The more fortunate persons who actually experienced such schooling can turn to the rich pages of their own memories.

It is true that some of the incidents they treasure now did not seem so pleasant when they occurred. The old box stove usually blistered those near it and left the occupants of distant corners in a sub-Artic chill. Sandwiches frequently froze in tin dinner-pails. But there was a warmth of comradeship to compensate for such things. And rural schools of earlier days had more occupants than they have today. One of the tragedies of today is the spectacle of the shortage of young people on farms.

Probably a study of the one-room schools of the province would throw valuable light on many of our tangled problems.

A "Claddagh" Ring.

THE "CLADDAGH" ring with which Miss Clodagh Kennedy was recently made Viscountess Jocelyn was copied from that worn by the wives of the Claddagh, a portion of Galway City tenanted by a race of flaher folk that has nothing in common with any other part of Ireland. Denizens of the Claddagh keep jealously to themselves and are believed to be descended from survivors of a ship of the Spanish Armada wrecked off the coast of Galway. The ring shows two hands clasped over a heart with a crown above in token that "Love Crowns all."

It may be surprising for many Canadians to find that Sir Maurice Hankey, who has been secretary of the British Cabinet since 1919 is an Australian who received his early training in the marines. He is the only outsider who attends Cabinet meetings and was the only civilian to receive a money grant after the war. It was almost entirely due to his insistence that Lloyd George introduced the convoy system that beat the German blockade. In addition to Sir Maurice's position as secretary of the cabinet, he had been secretary of the committee of Imperial Defence since 1912 and clerk of the Privy Council since 1923.

ABOUT TURKEYS.

(St. Catharines Standard)

THE WOODSTOCK Sentinel-Review wonders where they get all the turkeys for the rural turkey dinners being held in Oxford County, as on June 15 last, only 1,598 of that species of fowl were noted by the government statistics. Turkeys thrive in wild country and have no doubt been crowded out of Oxford by the Holsteins. And after all the hue and cry about relief, it is great to hear from rural Oxford that the farmers are enjoying turkey which the city dweller only associates with Christmas.

TOURIST TRAFFIC

(Calgary Herald)

Canada's tourists trade this year will equal or exceed the banner year of 1929. According to statistics compiled by the Royal Bank of Canada and published in its November Letter, the expenditure by tourists in the Dominion during the present year will approximate $300,000,000.

THE AUTOMOBILE RECOVERY

(Montreal Gazette)

United States exports of automotive products in September were 81 per cent. above those of a year ago, and of a value of $24,360,418. Even so the shipments were lower than in preceding months because of the factories' switch to 1938 models. Evidently 1937 will go on record as a great recovery year in the automobile business.

MUD-SLINGING.

(Niagara Falls Review)

IF WE COULD have clean elections—less mud-slinging, fewer personalities, many able men and women would be willing to permit their names to appear on the ballots; but they shrink from the kind of fights we have sometimes at elections. It may be said here and now that seldom are the mud-slingers elected. There should be fair criticism of what has been done amiss and outlines for betterment presented; but it is doubtful if mud-slinging ever is good politics. Undoubtedly such tactics keep out of the field many good men and women who otherwise would offer themselves for public service.

So will the folk of this nation require houses, factories, machines and everything else that makes life possible. So plan to provide them now.

A Bit of Nonsense

TOO QUICK

The eighteen-year-old son has a good deal more freedom nowadays than he used to have. However, old Jones disapproved very strongly of the late hours which Jones junior was in the habit of keeping, and decided to take the young man to task about it.

So one morning the lad found himself on the carpet. Jones cleared his throat.

"Look here," he said, "do you realise that when I was your age my father would never allow me to be out of the house after half-past nine at night?"

"Huh!" replied the young scamp. "You had a nice kind of father, you had."

Jones snorted with anger.

"Let me tell you," he stormed, "that I had a jolly sight better father than you have, you young rascal."

IRELAND PLANS INVOLVED PICK OF NEW SENATE

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, Nov. 19—(CP)—Ireland, which by the new constitution will be the official designation of the Free State from Dec. 29 next, will have its new Senate elected early in 1938 on a novel complicated system.

It is declared the proposed system of election will be "wangle-proof"—that ambitious individuals will be unable to lobby themselves into the second House. Frank MacDermot, formerly an Independent deputy in the Dail for County Roscommon and Sir John Keane of Waterford suggested some months ago the names of senators be drawn from a hat in order to outwit place-seekers.

President Eamon de Valera's administration abolished the old Senate on the ground it was nothing more than an obstructionist body and a stronghold of the Cosgrave Opposition party. It made difficulties for the government when it was seeking to get rid of the oath of allegiance to the British crown.

After a period of single-chambered government, provision was made for the restoration of the Senate shorn of its powers of veto but enabled to force a referendum on questionable bills from the popularly elected House or alternatively to delay them for three months.

The constitution prescribes the Senate should have a vocational basis but leaves the apportioning of seats and the method of election to separate legislation. A bill to obtain this purpose will be presented in the Dail by the government.

It is proposed 14 of the 60 members of the Senate be nominated by the Taoiseach or prime minister. National University and Trinity College, which lost their representation in the Dail, will each have three seats in the Senate, leaving 43 seats to be filled from the vocational panels.

Agricultural and labor interests will be entitled to 11 representatives each, industry and commerce to nine, educational administrative interests including social services to seven, and cultural and educational interests including the professions to five representatives. If no suitable nominating bodies exist, government intends, according to the bill, to choose a panel for them and any 25 members of the Dail will have the right to make a nomination.

Dail Candidates Elect

When the panels of candidates are formed—there is no limit to the number of names which may be on each—a general election will be held. The electorate will consist of all the candidates who sought election to the Dail at the previous general election to that House and who received 500 first preference votes or over or who were returned unopposed.

Each member of the electorate will have one vote for the first 500 votes he himself received and a further vote for each subsequent thousand. A Dail candidate returned unopposed will be regarded as having received 7,000 votes and can thus vote on seven ballot papers for senators.

The election will be conducted by post on the proportional representation system which has been adopted for almost every purpose in the Free State. To facilitate counting, each ballot paper will be divided by perforations into five parts, one for each panel. A new Senate will be elected at each dissolution of parliament.

Kemal Celebrates In Mufti

A rugged individual among dictators is Kemal Attaturk, president of the Turkish Republic, who is shown at Ankara in formal attire as he took the salute of the troops during the recent celebration of the 14th anniversary of the Turkish Republic. Kemal is the only one of the current crop of dictators who does not wear a military uniform for such occasions.

Italian Vessel Sinks In Channel

LONDON, Nov. 19 (AP).—Lloyds reported that an explosion in the hold of the Italian freighter Boccaccio sank the 3,027-ton vessel in the English Channel to-day.

The crew took to lifeboats and all apparently were saved, Lloyds said.

The British freighter Burnham had relayed to the Land's End radio station a message from the Boccaccio giving the Italian ship's position and adding "please send assistance."

The Dutch motor vessel Tajandoem' later wirelessed that it had reached the Boccaccio and that "the men are in boats."

Refuses To Concede Missing Man Is Dead

LONDON, Ont., Nov. 19 (CP).—Mr. Justice R. G. Fisher of the Ontario Supreme Court has refused to concede that the 10-year absence of Charles R. Giessler, formerly of London, is an indication Giessler is dead.

An application for a declaration that Giessler is dead, heard by Mr. Justice Fisher in London weekly high court earlier this autumn, is dismissed in a judgment handed down at Osgoode Hall, Toronto.

Giessler, then an employee of a Hamilton construction firm, vanished in September, 1927.

Declaring she had received no word from him since the day he disappeared, his wife, Mrs. Pearl Giessler, now of London, asked the courts to declare him dead so that she could collect an insurance on his life for approximately $1,000.

JAPS THREATENED FRENCH COLONIES

PARIS, Nov. 19 (AP). — An assertion by the chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee of the French Senate Japan had warned France of probable retaliation for arms shipments from French Indo-China to China appeared in conflict to-day with previous denials by other French officials and the Japanese Embassy.

Senator Victor Henry Berenger said it was no "diplomatic secret" the Japanese Ambassador had threatened occupation of Indo-Chinese ports and the Chinese island of Hainan off the coast of France's Asiatic colony if war materials were permitted to pass from Indo-China to the assistance of the Central Chinese Government.

Denied Any Pressure Used.

On Tuesday, when it was disclosed France had banned arms shipments on a French-owned railway connecting Northern Indo-China with four Southern Chinese provinces, both French officials and the Japanese Embassy denied the Tokyo Government had pressed France for the ban. French and Japanese sources said the restriction was ordered on France's initiative.

Berenger made his assertion in a speech here yesterday at a political conference.

Berenger devoted much of his speech to pointing out that France was menaced by conflict on three sides—in Spain, in the Mediterranean, and in the Far East.

Bright lipstick red apple applique distinguishes this black crepe dress of simple sculptured lines. A crushed tied girdle makes you look almost concave in the middle. Note the becoming neck and the new shorter sleeves. For a smart change of costume, slip on the youthful bolero jacket. It's such a versatile dress for town and for after 5 o'clock. Plain woollen is another perfect choice . . . . with the very brief jacket of a patterned wool . . . . grand for school or the office. You'll want to make an extra jacket of metal cloth to "dress-up" your last year's velvet dinner dress.

A most interesting supper meeting was held at the Business and Professional Women's Club last evening.

The Club was presented with a picture of the late Miss E. Warren Kee, its first president, by Mr. and Mrs. Alpine McNab, cousins of Miss Kee, on behalf of her sister, Miss Jessie Kee and her brother, Dr. Roy Kee. It is just a little over a year since Miss E. Warren Kee passed away. She was the Club's president three years ago.

A most entertaining outline of her trip around the world was given by Miss Clara Morris, Reg. N., who has but recently returned from a four-months' freighter cruise, which took her to many lands.

For supper the head table and ten smaller tables were charming with lace cloths and bronze chrysanthemums. Miss Birdie Dawson was convenor for the supper arrangements, assisted by a number of the club members.

A short business meeting was held at the conclusion, when it was announced that the next big bridge party will be held on Thursday evening, November 25.

Wool Flannels Tops For Soft, Warm Robes

Garments Have Lines and Styles That Are Simple and Elegant

(By Lisbeth)

With glamor and luxury the twin watchwards of the day's wearing apparel, what chance has a poor robe that merely aims to keep us warm got in competition?

Well, you'd be surprised! Bathrobes are hostess gowns or negligees, or if or when they don't aspire to quite such heights, they at least have "style," simple elegance, good lines, and many of the characteristics of the most glamorous of garments.

In these robes fine woollens are more important than ever as just the right mediums for intricate tailoring. Fine wool flannel is rich and soft and is being used to make some of the swankiest of the hostess gowns and robes styled in this mood.

It is lightweight and supple, yet soft and warm. It is ideal for both the romantically gracious formal styles of hostess gowns as well as the youthful dressing gowns and lounging robes designed for warmth and comfort when one spends an evening at home, wraps oneself therein after a bath, or snuggles into it when the formal elegance worn at the Big Affair is taken off.

Sculptured Lines

Look at the style of the lounging robe on the left of our picture. Contrasting tri-color bands accent the slender sculptured lines of the fitted wool robe which is in deep blue flannel. A decorative slide fastener runs the full length of the centre front for smooth perfection of fit, and tri-color bands edge the long sleeves and high collar.

Wine color—that most popular of shades—is used for the softly tailored robe in fine claret-colored wol flannel, right, with champagne corduroy trim banding the rolled collar, front opening, and instep length hem. From a slender fitted waist the skirt flares in ballerina lines, and the wrap-around closing is held nicely in place by a self-fabric sash with gay champagne colored tassels.

Solid colors, deep, delicate or brilliant, are accented by glistening trimmings and bright metallic touches for the more formal robes which have softly fitted or flowing lines. They may have lavish embroidery beading and fringe trimmings.

A diagonal slide-fastener, accented with bands of gold sequins, is the stinking trimming against the jet black of one gracefully draped robe in soft, lightweight flannel. From a slender, highbuilt waist, the wraparound skirt falls in soft flowing lines, and the well-cut sleeves are slightly puffed at the shoulders. Gold pointed cord ties at the neck closing for flattering effect.

For the more casual and businesslike models there are smartly patterned flannels in gay young stripes, nicely tailored, square-shouldered styles, with mannish details to accent the femininity of their molded silhouettes.

For Saturday, November 20.

Unfavorable circumstances are likely to arise today, judging by the ominous planetary aspects. There is a menace to personal danger born of questionable contacts, especially with members of the opposite sex. Be discreet with strangers and shun all business as well as personal jeopardy.

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a hazardous year, with danger from indiscreet behavior, particularly in entanglements with the opposite sex. Be wary, using much wisdom in contacts with strangers.

A child born on this day may be changeable and unsettled, with much of its movements instigated by unguarded emotional stirrings.

Reade-Pedwell.

BOBCAYGEON, Nov. 19—A lovely wedding took place in the Church of St. Michael's and All Angels, Toronto, on Wednesday, November 17, at high noon. Miss Gladys Hazel Pedwell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick A. Pedwell, was married to Mr. Kenneth Sheffield Reade, son of the late Frank W. Reade and Mrs. Reade of Bobcaygeon.

The bride was charming in eggshell satin, cut on princess lines.

The maid of honor, Miss Grace Reade, wore torquoise velvet. Miss Mary Mien and Mrs. Douglas, also bride's attendents, wore fuschia velvet with matching Juliet caps. Mr. Clarence Reade acted as best man.

After the ceremony the guests were received by Mrs. Pedwell dressed in black crepe with silver lame and by Mrs. Reade, in midnight blue velvet.

The young couple left on a trip to New York city and through the eastern states, after which they will reside in Bobcaygeon.

OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

Women More Important Than Men As Home Builders On The Farm

TORONTO, November 19—(CP)—Canada's Minister of Agriculture, Hon. J. G. Gardiner, considers women more important than men as home-builders in rural communities.

Addressing the banquet of the Federated Women's Institutes of Canada here last night, he said: "All nations have had their foundations in agriculture and women play a more important part in the homebuilding in rural communities than men."

Hon. J. G. Gardiner

The minister urged eastern farm women to do more to induce young people to value farms. Immigration to Western Canada and the Great War had left many women in charge of farms, he said, and too often orchards were not cared for. At the same time, the property was run down.

Reporting to the banquet he received letters every day from the drought areas asking him to thank people in other parts of Canada for foodstuffs and clothing sent there. Mr. Gardiner predicted those arid areas would return to production.

"You can't beat the spirit of the Western pioneer," he said. "Only the other day I heard of a man who was packed up and had his ticket bought to leave his Saskatchewan farm. He felt only a few drops of rain. He unpacked, cashed in his ticket, sure he would get a crop next year.

"I believe the settlers in the drought areas have enough spirit courage and faith to stay with the country.

"History of the other communities shows drought and destruction and dust bowls returned to production and prosperity by vast irrigation schemes."

Earlier, Lady Tweedsmuir, wife of Canada's Governor-General told convention delegates their organization had a part to play in promotion of peace.

When history was written, she hoped it would be recorded that Women's Institutes had been one of the greatest unifying and stabilizing powers of the times.

The Reason For College Failures

By GARRY C. MYERS, PH.D.
Head Department Parent Education, Cleveland College, Western Reserve University

A GOOD MANY thousand parents have their hearts set on the success of a son or daughter entering college. Whereas most parents will realize their hopes, a few, alas, will be sadly disappointed. I have often tried to put myself, in my imagination, in the place of the parent so disappointed, wondering how I would feel and act if I were they. Also I have tried to take the place of the student who fails. Under what conditions will he fail? Under what will be succeed?

Among the fatcors essential to success at college are: (a) Good physical and mental health; (b) adequate mental ability; (c) good methods of study; (d) good habits of hard mental work (industry). In the latter are involved basic elements of character, such as ability to plan and stick to the plan—good self-management and self-discipline.

According to the testimony of many college deans, the chief cause of college failure is one of character—failure to work hard enough. How some college students will waste their time and burn up their energies at having what they call a good time! A few, however, fail because they study too hard, not getting adequate recreation and relaxation. Als oa few spend too much time at jobs trying to keep soul and body together, lacking time and energy for study. And then some just don't have college "brains."

Why Some Fail

Recent studies of laggards at college reveal that a surprisingly large number fail because they had never learned to read well and get meaning effectively from the printed page. Some of these are salvaged. Perhaps they had not learned to classify and organize what they read, nor to get at the basic items of the paragraph, page or chapter, nor to use a reference book.

Whereas poor physical and mental health may be the leading cause of failure in some students, low degree of learning achievement also may induce physical illness, and especially mental illness. Fortunately, there are a few colleges and universities that are checking more and more carefully each year on the health of their students, mental and physical, though not very many college professors seem to have awareness or concern about this matter. Students who find themselves worrying more than usual, rarely relaxing, and sleeping poorly, should consult a psychiatrist, after they have been carefully checked by a regular doctor.

Mink For Luxury

Sandra Storme
By Central Press

Mink stands for luxury. The classic mink coat in full length, such as this one worn by Sandra Storme, young moving picture actress, is the ambition of every girl—whether she be 19 or 90.

This model has subtle fullness in the back, a turned-back collar and narrow cuffs. Miss Storme's accessories match her coat in color.

If you can't dig up the necessary funds for a real mink, the new muskrat coats dyed to imitate mink are handsome and satisfactory substitutes.

Mrs. T. Chapman Is 80 Years Old

Mrs. T. Chapman of 226 Woodbine Avenue, celebrated her 80th birthday anniversary on Thursday and on October 10 Mr. Chapman passed the same milestone. September 2 marked the 58th anniversary of their wedding.

An Examiner reporter, calling to offer congratulations last evening, found them sitting cosily by the fire, a friendly black cat lay near by, and on a table was a great bouquet of chrysanthemums.

Mrs. Chapman was holding some brown knitting wool, ready "to make some mitts for a grandson." "I don't like to be idle," she said, "I'm making some quilts too, and some cushions. I like to keep busy, especially as I don't get out as much as I used to, since I fell two years ago." On the floor lay artistic and beautifully worked hooked rugs. "Yes, I made them," said Mrs. Chapman in answer to a query, "and this is some of my husband's work," motioning to two exquisite inlaid tables, with a pattern in walnut, mahogany and basswood.

Fifty-eight years ago Mr. and Mrs. Chapman were married in the Bible Christian Church by its pastor, the Rev. Mr. Roberts. The church occupied the site where Murray Street Baptist Church now stands.

There are seven children living, William, Clifford and Albert Chapman; Mrs. George Foster, Mrs. John Foster, Mrs. William Easson and Mrs. Stewart Doig. Another daughter, Mrs. Pilling passed away 16 years ago. "And how many grandchildren?" "Oh," exclaimed Mr. Chapman, "don't ask me to count them." Mrs. Chapman laughed happily, and totalled up 24. Then the great-grandchildren were counted, and made 20.

Mr. Chapman, a carpenter by trade, retired only seven years ago when the couple came to reside in their present home. "All our married life has been spent in Peterborough," said Mrs. Chapman, "though we have lived in many houses. We would buy a house, and my husband would fix it up, and then we would sell it again. Seven years ago we thought it was about time to settle down."

Raise Your Blood-Count And You'll Feel "In the Pink"

NORMAL BLOOD has a count of 4,500,000 red corpuscles. If your blood count is below this you just can't feel well, because only these tiny cells can carry the necessary nourishment from your food and the energizing oxygen from your lungs to every part of your body. With a low blood count you're bound to be always tired, easily upset, nervous and depressed, without appetite, sleepless, under weight. Everything is drudgery.

You needn't go on in this way! Take Dr. Williams Pink Pills. Originated by a Canadian physician, this tested tonic quickly raises your blood count. You get new energy and vigour, your depression and nervousness disappear, your appetite and normal weight returns, you sleep soundly, and your life is worth living again. If this is not your experience your money will be refunded. 50c at all druggists.

Blood Test For Alcohol Is Demanded By National Executive of W.C.T.U.

TORONTO, Nov. 19. — That legal machinery should be put into operation to make a blood test obligatory in the case of street accidents, to ascertain whether alcohol is responsible, was a proposal strongly supported at the interim executive meeting of the National W.C.T.U. in Willard Hall yesterday. The executive is in a four days' session in Toronto, with delegates from many parts of Canada.

Discussing the beverage alcohol situation, Mrs. Grace Knight of Edmonton, president of the national body, said: "Medical opinion has demonstrated that even small doses of alcohol affect mental alertness and eyesight, and, in view of the alarming number of accidents on the highway in which alcohol is a factor, we still strongly support the movement to make a blood test obligatory in the cases of such accidents. If the driver's efficiency has been affected by alcohol content, a charge should be made under the criminal code."

Mrs. Knight spoke of the growing uneasiness at the alarming conditions that accompany the increased consumption of beverage alcohol. "For instance, during forty months after the opening of beer parlors in Toronto, nearly 1,000 women were arrested for drunkenness," she said.

"International friendship is essential to the prevention of war. This can only be attained by removing the causes of war—not merely dealing with its consequences," she said. Economic co-operation to attain justice for all nations should be the concern of all Christian peoples.

Maintaining that "many women outside the membership of the W.C.T.U. are sympathetic to the temperance cause and desire to be associated therewith," it was decided by the meeting to admit "associate helpers" on the payment of a fee sufficient to provide them with "White Ribbon Tidings," the W.C.T.U. magazine.

Need for Brand New Order of Manners, Emily Post, Women's Adviser, Declares

NEW YORK, Nov. 19—(AP). — Emily Post who, by her own estimate, has penned 5,000,000 words in 15 years on what to do and when to do it, still has not settled the problem of how a woman should behave when the waiter presents the check.

The etiquette expert admits a change in the old order which arbitrarily delegated the feminine half of the party to the background while the bills were being paid, but she hasn't evolved a satisfactory rule to prescribe when the lady should reach for the check.

"There ought to be some give and take," she told an audience at the New York Times Book Fair yesterday. "There is need for a brand new order of manners."

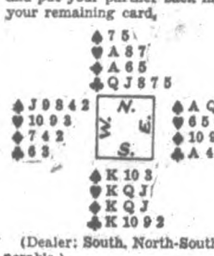
Equality prevails in the business world, she said, for there men and women work as companions and lunch as co-workers. But in the evening—that's another story.

"Yet," said she, "that isn't fair when women are often earning as much or more than the men who entertain them. I think it is perfectly fair if he takes her once and she takes him another time."

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

PREVENTING A HOLDUP

A VERY DESIRABLE holding to possess in the suit led against no trump by your partner consists of three cards headed by the ace and queen. If you play the ace on the first trick, the declarer with the king can afford safely to hold up until the third round. But if you play the queen on the opening trick, he is afraid to hold up, for fear that the ace may be at his left and will kill off his king. That queen play is particularly valuable if you hold a positive winner in some other suit, as you are then able to lay down your ace for the second trick in the original suit and put your partner back in with your remaining card.



(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable.)

South's opening bid on this deal was 1-No Trump, North bid 2-Clubs and South 2-No Trumps.

When the spade 4 was led against this contract, West played the spade A and returned the Q. South allowed this to hold and won the third round with the K. South was fortunate in finding the club A in the East hand and therefore lost only two spades and a club.

East could have prevented South from making his contract by playing the Q on the first round of spades. South then would have been in the position of deciding whether to win with the king or take the chance of not winning any tricks at all in that suit if it developed that West's lead had been from the A-J-10. The winning of the first spade trick would have defeated South, as when East then won the club, he would have cashed the spade A and led his last spade to West.

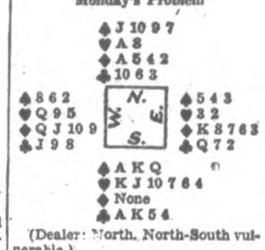
Monday's Problem



(Dealer: North. North-South vulnerable.)

What play by South enables him to make his contract of 6-Hearts after the lead of the diamond Q?

Light Necessary To Make-Up Well

By GLADYS GLAD

Whether you're an expert on mythology or not, most of you probably know the story of Narcissus. Narcissus, you'll probably remember, was the handsome youth who, in the days before mirrors were invented, saw his reflection in a woodland pool and fell in love with it. It wasn't until the Roman era, indeed, that mirrors came into use. And then they merely were poor reflectors made of polished steel!

Today, of course, mirrors are almost perfect, certainly are important beauty accessories, for they enable a woman to see herself exactly as others see her. When I see carelessly madeup faces, I almost wish that there was a beauty law requiring every woman to have at least one good, clear mirror in her home, and at least one spot with proper lighting. For some, I find, seem to be pretty much in the dark about the uses of makeup.

Effects Differ

Of course, in the daytime and in the evening, proper lighting effects differ. For daytime makeup, your mirror should be placed between two consecutive windows, if possible, so that the clear light of day falls upon your face. If this is impossible, use a small hand mirror in front of your window, to see if your makeup is perfectly applied.

At all events, no matter how you contrive it, be sure to take a good look at your face in the betraying and penetrating daylight before you venture out of doors.

When applying makeup for evening wear, you should be directly beneath the clear, revealing light of a strong electric bulb, so that the light reflects clearly upon your features. The best arrangement is to have the light directly over your mirror, unless you have a special makeup lamp.

And take care that the light falls evenly on both sides of your face, else you may tend to apply your cosmetics more generously to the shadowed part of your face than to the well-lighted portion.

JUST BETWEEN US WOMEN

"Thou must (In commanding and winning, or serving and losing, suffering or triumphing) be either anvil or hammer."

—Goethe.

Dear Friends:

This is a continuation of the article I wrote you on attritions and frictions. And it is equally true that we must be either the anvil or the hammer in life, we cannot be both.

Sometimes when there is the right kind of friction in our lives, we become intolerant of it, and rise to better things, whereas had everything been smooth and harmonious we would have stayed in a rut.

Other times we get too much friction, and if we don't want to be like the anvil which must take a lot of pounding every day, we strive to be the hammer, and again rise higher than ever had we not been hammered.

Do not forget that you must either dominate or be dominated by those we come in contact within our family and in the world we work in. There is no if or but about it, and do not think I mean domineer, for that is simply imposing your will on a weaker person, a beastly thing to do.

So, if you feel you are the anvil, and don't like the blows of the hammer, get busy, use your brains, struggle and strain, lift yourself up, and one day you will wake up to the fact that you are the hammer, and never again will you be the anvil.

We need both, but you have your choice. If you need an incentive to get you going maybe you will find it in the things that irritate you where you are in life right now.

Don't make excuses for yourself, or bury your head in the sand like an ostrich. Hold up the mirror of truth to your life, and if you don't like what reflects back to you, start changing it.

If a woman doesn't like what she sees in a mirror, she can use cosmetics to clear a sallow skin, or get rid of blemishes by attending to her diet. She can make her straight hair curly, and soon look attractive.

Why not try the cosmetics of common-sense in your own life, the abrasive like a nail-file to clear and smooth the ugly parts of it?

If you have such a horror of the attritions of straight talk, and so live in a state of false peace which gives no pleasure, then shut your mouth on complaining.

All around us we see people who are putting up with conditions which keep them in a state of nerves all the time, smoothing down someone when some good friction with the offender would clear things up.

They are moral cowards who seek peace at any price, who resent the anvil in life, but who will not exert themselves to be the hammer for a change.

Don't mistake me, I hate fighting as I hate the devil, but—I will not submit being an anvil for every Tom, Dick, and Harry to come along and take a whack at me. Life is complicated enough as it is without standing for that.

So straighten the vertebra of your spine, use these irritants as an excuse to better yourself, keep at it, and never forget that people respect bravery, but detest cowardice. So will you have a full life and true peace and harmony. Your Friend ROBERTA.

BRITISH INDUSTRY WELCOMES TALKS WITH THE STATES

points out, the Empire is primarily an exporter of agricultural products and raw materials in the same field as that in which the United States seeks relief, adding:

"It seems, therefore, that compensation for the Empire will have to be restricted somewhat to the narrow range of raw materials non-competitive with America and to certain manufactures."

Not Ordinary Agreement.

"This is not an ordinary trade agreement," said the News-Chronicle (Liberal). "It is deliberately intended as a demonstration of the solidarity of the world's greatest democracies against the threat of international brigandage. Its political importance is far greater than its economic significance."

The Manchester Guardian (Liberal) said: "It would seem the discussions of the Imperial Conference have borne fruit and the Dominions have been satisfied. This means the negotiations to be conducted will, in effect, not be purely United Kingdom negotiations, but Empire negotiations, and agreements with this country will be bound up with agreements taking in the Dominions, who also have claims on the American market as well as interest in our concessions."

The Daily Express (Independent), while remarking that friendship follows trade and Great Britain and the United States need to be friends, adds: "There are ways in which American industry and agriculture are complementary to our own. But let us be plain. Ottawa stands!"

The Daily Telegraph (Conservative) carried its comment under the heading: "The Right Foot Forward!" expressing its approval and warning against the results of possible failure of the negotiations, it observed that "such an agreement between two of the world's greatest industrial and trading nations cannot fail to have an effect far transcending the immediate material benefits to the contracting parties."

Definite Break Made.

"Not only does it set an impressive example to the world at large, but it makes a definite break in that vicious circle of exclusiveness and restriction which has so grievously crippled international trade and hindered recovery from the post-war depression," the Telegraph added. "It would be a demonstration that the democracies of the world are capable of successful co-operation and are conscious of the links which bind them.

"Failure will doom beyond resurrection for many years all chance of securing real Anglo-American co-operation in solving great problems and averting the great dangers ahead. There must be no failure."

The Daily Mail (Independent) denied the proposed pact held political ramifications. "It is being hinted," it said, "that the two chief democracies are aligning themselves against non-democratic countries. No view of the intended Anglo-United States pact could be falser."

The News Chronicle (Liberal) took an opposite view, saying: "It is deliberately intended as a demonstration of the solidarity of the world's greatest democracies against the threat of international brigandage."

INSTITUTE PLANS ON COOKING SALE

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 19. — Arrangements for the cooking sale and tea to be held in Campbellford on Saturday, November 27, were made at the monthly meeting of the Seymour West Women's Institute, which was on Thursday held at the home of Mrs. Archer McCulloch. Sixty-one members were present at the meeting, which was presided over by Mrs. James Waters and the roll-call, "A Canadian of Note," was well responded to adequately.

Mrs. V. Durran, leader of the new club work, invited the girls who are taking part to attend the initia. meeting which is to be held at her home on November 20. In drawing attention to the cooking sale and tea the hope was expressed that all the members and adherents would give their heartiest support on this occasion.

Following discussion of the matter of a white gift it was decided the members should assume this at the December meeting, when points will be given the members for historical facts about "Our Farms."

Mrs. Harry Hoard presided for the balance of the program, which included a guitar and mouth organ solo by Miss Jean Lewis, after which the October topic "Thanksgiving," was discussed in an interesting manner by Mrs. F. Rutherford. Mrs. James Water, the president, then gave a full and very comprehensive report of the Belleville Area Convention. A brief review of five Canadian poets was given by Mrs. Harry Hoard, and following a guitar and mouth organ solo by Miss Grace Lewis the regular portion of the meeting was concluded with the National Anthem. A contest arranged by Miss Irene Curle was given considerable interest after which lunch was served by the hostess, who was assisted by Mrs. Edward Rutherford, Mrs. James Waters, Miss Irene Curle, Miss Beatrice Rutherford, and Mrs. Frank McKelvie.

A Cough Won't Go Away Of Itself

Many people get a nasty cough and do not pay any attention to it, saying, "Oh, it will wear away in a short time," but even should it, serious injury may have been done to the bronchial tubes by the prolonged, harsh, racking coughing.

Too much stress cannot be laid on the fact that on the first sign of a cold or cough it should be gotten rid of immediately, as failure to do so may prove a serious matter to the general health.

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup has been on the market for the past forty-eight years, and we can recommend it as being one of the best remedies for colds and coughs you can possibly procure.

Miss AGNES S. FRASER, R.R. 4, New Glasgow, N.S., writes:—"I had a terrible cough. I used to cough a lot at night. I could not get rid of it. A friend told me about Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. It relieved my cough right away."

Y.P.U. DISCUSSES LEADER TRAINING

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MILLBROOK, Nov. 19.—Leadership training was discussed in the worship period, at the Young People's Union on Wednesday evening, the convenor of that committee, Mr. B. B. Dawson, being in charge.

The reasons advanced for this activity among the young people were three: Development of the student's own religious life; a broader knowledge of the Bible; an improved practical skill in carrying out the program. The objective in view in taking up the study was the formation of such a group in the local society, that leaders might be trained in readiness for service.

Bible passages bearing on the study theme were ready by Jean Burnham, and the points developed were punctuated by suitable hymns. Esther Might presiding at the piano.

Budness items were in charge of the president, Oliver Brock, and included the appointment of a nominating committee consisting of the president, secretary, Della May Sisco, Phyllis Kidd, and Mr. Dawson, to prepare a slate of officers for 1938 to be submitted at the anual meeting in December.

Announcement was made of the young people's effort to raise money for their church thankoffering contribution by bringing Ken Weldon, globe trotter, to give his illustrated lecture on Friday, November 26, a number taking tickets for sale. On motion, it was decided to again this year ask for Christmas parcels to be sent to Belleville, where all such contributions will be packed and sent on for relief Yuletide cheer in the West.

The talk of the evening was given by Miss Maud Gardiner, who reviewed in an interesting and informative manner, her previous address relative to the fulfillment of prophecy in the first coming of Christ, and then proceeded to quote selections from the entire Bible showing that prophecy will be equally fulfilled to the last detail in relation to His second coming.

A hymn and the Mizpah benediction closed a very helpful meeting.

Keep Off Signs Dot Air Trails Throughout Europe

Nations Mark Narrow Lanes For Pilots To Travel—Britain Not Worried

LONDON, Nov. 19 (CP).—Forbidden zones are the aviator's bugaboo in Europe to-day, and woe to the transgressor. Each country now has its list of areas closed to ordinary flying—on penalty, in some cases, of being shot down.

Britain, however, is comparatively free at the moment of regulations of this kind. Until recently seven naval bases and two other ports were listed as prohibited areas over which aircraft might not fly at a height less than 6,000 feet. This prohibition has now been abolished and four areas, over which flying at any height is banned, have been established. These areas are not large. Low flying is prohibited over a number of so-called "explosives" areas.

The forbiddent areas on the continent include military fortifications, munitions factories and dumps, military camps and airfields and large manufacturing centres. International frontiers especially are restricted. Where not to fly is a problem. Commercial planes are squeezed across international frontiers in narrow "air lanes."

It's a natural consequence—all these aerial traffic rules—of a rearmed Europe where suspicion runs high and where military secrets must be safeguarded from aerial photography.

Military planes police these closed areas in some instances. Ground crews with high-powered glasses and "electric ears" do the rest. Penalties include heavy fines—and imprisonment. And aviators go miles out of their way, in seeking a destination, to avoid these prohibited areas.

Restrictions Severe

France provides a good example of how severe the restrictions on flying have become. The French frontier is marked with forbidden zones (notably the famous Maginot line of fortifications). Only three narrow passages, in parts only four miles wide, are open to planes along the 260 miles of French-German border.

The French-Italian border also is heavily restricted to aviation, there being but one small passageway—three miles wide—at Modane. The Franco-Belgium border has four routes over which planes may fly, and the short Franco-Luxembourg border is entirely blocked off. The boundary line with Spain is closed except for a three-mile stretch at the western end and a mile-and-a-half stretch at the eastern end.

Central and Eastern Europe has become a jigsaw puzzle for the aviator. Not only must he watch his maps with their "marked out" areas but bulletin boards as well for daily announcements of "artillery and anti-aircraft practice."

The Czech, Hungarian, Yugoslav and Italian borders are closed to casual flying and aviators may cross these borders only at indicated places. Along the Czech and Hungarian borders aviators must keep within a five-kilometre lane; along Yugoslav and Italian borders, within a two-kilometre lane.

Austro-German and Austro-Swiss borders are open. Germany, however, has a large number of prohibited zones, particularly along the North Sea and Baltic coasts, where new fortifications have been constructed. One of the largest of the "fixed prohibited zones," into which no airplane is permitted to penetrate without permission of the military authorities, is just west of the Polish-German border, opposite Posnan. Another large zone is in Czechoslovakia, east of Pilsen.

Shopping, Hamilton Woman Drops Dead

HAMILTON, Nov. 19 (CP).—Mrs. Margaret Sim, 51, mother of James (Red) Sim, well-known Hamilton professional wrestler, now on tour through mid-western United States, died last night while returning home along Barton Street.

Mrs. Sim apparently was shopping. Beside her were found two small baskets of coal, a broom, a parcel of curtain material and some groceries.

The funeral will be held Friday afternoon.

WAR RISK RATES ARE REDUCED

LONDON, Nov. 19 (AP).—British marine insurance underwriters made sharp reductions to-day in war risk rates on shipping both to the Orient and to the Western Mediterranean.

The reduction was believed due to transfer of Chinese-Japanese hostilities away from the Shanghai area and the virtual end of "piracy" in the Mediterranean accompanied by an easier political situation in Europe.

Rates for cargoes bound to or from Shanghai were cut to 5 shillings ($1.25) for each £10 ($50) of value, whereas a month ago the rate was £2 ($10). The Mediterranean rate was reduced from 7 shillings and 6 pence ($1.87) to 5 shillings.

Famous Ocean Schooner Gets New Steam For Seal Hunt

Terra Nova, Of Wooden Construction Has Been Battling Ice For 53 Years

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., Nov. 19 (CP).—After 53 years of pounding the ice-floes of the Arctic and Antarctic, the sturdy wooden sealing ship Terra Nova will have a new stem when she sails away to the seal hunt next March. The 18-inch oak butt that saw such valiant service for more than half a century is now being replaced.

Among the most famous of all the "Wooden Walls of Newfoundland," the 753-ton combined sail and steam-driven ship showed her qualities when she was chosen for Scott's last Antarctic expedition in 1910, after she had already survived many a battering since she entered the sealing industry a year after her launching in 1884.

Scott and four companions died 11 miles from a food depot as they returned after a successful dash to the South Pole from their supply ship, but Scott's diary, found on his body, paid tribute to the Terra Nova and gave her preference over the vessels used in his expedition of 1904 and that of Shackelton in 1908.

Behaved Splendidly

"The ship behaved splendidly," wrote Scott in describing the hard fight through Southern ice-floes. "No other ship, not even the Discovery would have come through so well. Certainly the Nimrod would never have reached the south water had she been caught in such a pack. As a result I have grown strangely attached to the Terra Nova.

"As she bumped the floes with mighty shocks, crushing and grinding a way through some, twisting and turning to avoid others, she seemed like a living thing, fighting a great fight. If only she had more economical engines, she would be suitable in all respects."

Scott seems to have voiced the opinion of all who have known the Terra Nova—her greatnesses and her weaknesses. She made heavy going in a rough sea, shipped plenty of water, had a roll that was demoralizing to all but good sailors, and was a hog on coal. But once she was crunching against an ice-pack, she became an indominable fighter, revelling in the work for which she was designed.

Not A Fast Ship

By no stretch of the imagination could the Terra Nova be called a speedy ship on the open sea. Her log on the run from England to New Zealand to start the Antarctic trip showed that, even with the help of her engines, she could be outsailed two feet to one by the famous clipper ships that had just been run off the seas by steam vessels at the time of her launching.

Once in the ice, however, and the Terra Nova would yield first place to no vessel. Displaying a unique ability to butt through where other apparently more powerful vessels were brought up short, she has returned "log-loaded" from many a sealing trip, her battered sides gouged and scarred from pressure of the ice-pack, but always triumphant.

MARCONI
THE GREATEST NAME IN RADIO
CANADIAN MARCONI COMPANY
Vancouver Toronto MONTREAL Halifax St. John's, Nfld.

Actually it is easier to tune short wave on the Marconi band spread dial than to tune your local station on standard broadcast. The reason is simple: on the new Marconi dial the standard broadcast band and each of the five short wave bands have separate scales as shown on diagram, upper left, each clearly marked and extremely easy to read. Old style receivers had one scale for standard broadcast and only one scale for all five short wave bands, shown at lower left. That meant many stations crowded into very short space, making separation and tuning very difficult.

PLANS TO ENLARGE PRESENT TERMS

some stage they will undoubtedly require the consideration by Canada of possible changes in existing agreements."

The government had been kept fully informed of preliminary discussions between the United Kingdom and United States, the prime minister said, "and is fully alive to the many and varied political and economic implications of these negotiations and to Canada's interest in their outcome."

This was the nearest the prime minister came to discussing the reports circulated during the past six months that Canada may abandon some of her preferences in the British market as an aid to negotiations between the United Kingdom and United States.

Formal Notice

No comment on this point accompanied the brief formal announcement that negotiations were contemplated. It was made in conformity with traditional United States procedure on trade agreements which requires formal advice to the people that chances in the tariff are under consideration.

Successive stages of negotiations will be announced for the benefit of United States citizens who will be given ample opportunity to submit their views both written and at public hearings on the proposed changes in commodity tariffs. Conclusion of any treaty will probably take several months.

On Nov. 15, 1935, following a year's preliminary negotiations carried on by the Bennett government, Prime Minister Mackenzie King signed the present reciprocal trade agreement with United States at Washington. It was the first reciprocal agreement with United States since 1866 and realized hopes of successive governments since that time.

Normal Life 3 Years

The agreement came into effect Jan. 1, 1936 and government statistics have shown an appreciable increase in the volume of trade between the two countries during the past two years. Its normal life was for three years. If proposed negotiations are successful it will probably be replaced before that time.

Preferences granted Canada on the British market, and which may be in the balance during the negotiations between United States and the United Kingdom, were obtained by the Canada-United Kingdom agreement negotiated in Ottawa in 1932.

That agreement was extended three years by a second agreement completed last February, and now expires at the end of 1940.

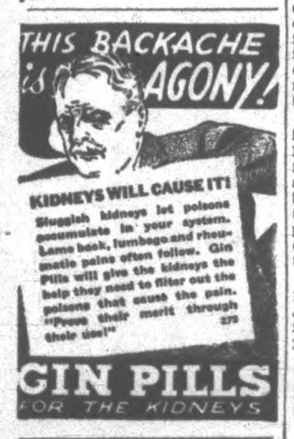
Should the Canadian government decide to abandon some of those preferences in return for benefits that might accrue to the Dominion from the new agreement with United States or the Anglo-United States agreement, the change could be made by mutual consent.

ASK SALARY INCREASE

WINDSOR, Ont., Nov. 19—(CP).—A request from Public school teachers, for upward revision of their salaries, was received at last night's meeting of Windsor Board of Education. Action of the request was delayed, pending the Board's annual budget meeting.

Public school teachers asked a pay increase of at least 15 per cent. as well as inauguration of a schedule giving teachers credit for past experience and an automatic annual increase in salary.

The Board approved of a plan to provide group insurance for male Public school teachers and caretakers, paying half the cost of this insurance. The Board's share of the cost will be less than $1,000 per year.



To Relieve Catarrh, Catarrhal Deafness And Head Noises

Persons suffering from catarrhal deafness, or who are growing hard of hearing and have head noises will be glad to know that this distressing affliction can usually be successfully treated at home by an internal medicine that in many instances has effected complete relief after other treatments have failed. Sufferers who could scarcely hear have had their hearing restored to such an extent that the tick of a watch was plainly audible seven or eight inches away from either ear. Therefore, if you know of someone who is troubled with head noises or catarrhal deafness, cut out this formula and hand it to them and you may have been the means of saving some poor sufferer perhaps from total deafness. The prescription, can be prepared at home and is made as follows:

Secure from your druggist one ounce of Parmint (Double Strength). Take this home and add to it ¼ pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar; stir until dissolved. Take one tablespoonful four times a day.

Parmint is used in this way not only to reduce by tonic action the inflammation and swelling in the Eustachian Tubes, and thus to equalize the air pressure on the drum, but to correct any excess of secretions in the middle ear, and the results it gives are nearly always quick and effective.

Every person who has catarrh in any form, or distressing, rumbling, hissing sounds in their ears, should give this recipe a trial.

EXCUSE IT, PLEASE!

DUNCAN MARSHALL TO FOLLOW BRUCE

Official sources in Toronto and Ottawa remained silent and the Lieutenant - Governor could not be reached.

The Globe and Mail continues:

"The recommendation is said to have been in Ottawa's hands for at least two weeks, but in view of persistent rumors that the Ontario cabinet was not unanimous in its approval of him (Mr. Marshall) for the office, Rt. Hon. Mackenzie King and his federal government up to date have postponed action on the matter.

"If Mr. Marshall makes the grade, so to speak, formal announcement of his appointment can probably be expected early next week, if not before.

Close Chorley Park

"End of the Bruce regime at Chorley Park will undoubtedly mean the end of the Hepburn government's maintenance of that palatial home. Repeatedly Mr. Hepburn has stated that as long as Dr. Bruce remained incumbent, the provincial treasury would pay for the upkeep of the establishment—some $40,000 or $50,000 a year.

"But with Dr. Bruce out, the place would be closed and put up for auction, with any new lieutenant-governor compelled to operate and maintain his own vice-regal household. That proposition is said to be to the liking of Mr. Marshall, who for days after the October election is reported to have camped on the doorstep of his former Queen's Park colleagues, the lieutenant-governorship his particular ambition and goal.

"Dr. Bruce so far has made no statement regarding the stories of his tendered resignation. Any action he may have taken in this connection is said to have been hastened by suggestions, around the end of October, that regardless of his course, provincial maintenance of his Chorley Park home would cease at the end of the month.

Aware Of Situation

"There is no doubt that the Hepburn government desires to wash its hands of the Chorley Park upkeep as soon as possible. Mr. Marshall is said to be quite reconciled to their scheme of things and would, if named Dr. Bruce's successor, be prepared to confine his activities to signing of orders-in-council and to holding such few functions as might be deemed necessary, in possibly a remodelled speaker's apartments at the parliament buildings."

The paper adds that a complete inventory of the contents of Chorley House already has been made by a firm of Toronto auctioneers, preparatory to it being put up for auction by the government. The paper says that "everything except a number of portraits of past lieutenant-governors of the province will come under the hammer."

Chorley Park was completed in 1915 at a cost of about $1,000,000. Sir John and Lady Hendrie were the first occupants, moving in on Dec. 18 of that year.

Teachers' Institute Names Officers And Committees

Separate School Inspector L. J. Langan Gives Interesting Address

Peterborough Teachers' Institute at the final session of their two-day annual convention here, this afternoon adopted the report of the nominating committee without amendment, electing Miss Helen Bonnycastle as president, F. E. Kerr, B.A., was named vice-president, and Miss F. D. Walker was re-elected to the office of secretary-treasurer.

Committees were named as follows:

Executive: E. R. Frost, Miss A. E. Lawrence, Miss E. Huffman, Miss D. F. Hooey, Miss M. D. White, Sister Adele.

Social: D. Munro, Miss J. Kelly, Miss C. G. Adams, Miss H. G. Throop, Miss A. E. Hunter, Miss Sybel M. Kendall, Miss M. Collins, Miss F. Bonnycastle.

Auditors: J. E. R. Munro and E. R. Frost.

The morning session opened with an address by Separate School Inspector L. J. Langan as the teachers resumed their conference in the lecture hall at the Public Library.

It was followed by a report from Miss L. Esplen, a delegate to the World Conference of Educational Associations, Tokyo, held during the past summer, and an address by Thornton Mustard of the Ontario Department of Education, who discussed "The New Course of Studies."

The concluding session this afternoon opened with F. E. Johnston, B.A.Sc., in the chair, the meeting being held in the Collegiate auditorium. Apart from the election of officers, the program was almost entirely musical. A rhythm band played under direction of Miss M. Wilson and Miss Connolly, while there was a choir from King Edward School, conducted by Miss M. Dickson.

Among speakers on the closing program was Miss F. D. Walker, who gave some interesting impressions of the Orient.

The Old And New.

Making some comparisons between schools of a generation ago and the present day, Mr. Langan showed how the modern system of teaching is designed to cultivate the right attitude towards life on the part of the pupil and to bring about closer co-operation between the home and school.

Under the old system, he said, punils were required to absorb knowledge and were rated at the annual examinations on the amount of knowledge they had retained, while he added the class itself was considered as a homogenous unit whose needs were all the same. Good conduct was a means to an end and had to be maintained to the extent of coercion and fear.

While he did not wish to convey the impression that he was being too critical of the old school, which, he said, "served us well," Mr. Langan pointed out that under the present system of teaching the teacher was concerned with attitudes, ideals and principles.

Stress, he said, was placed on developing a right attitude on the part of the child towards other people, and to his home, school, nature, art, constituted authority, and religious and spiritual values.

The Objective.

"All these things are of more importance to the child than the mere remembrance of academic facts," the speaker contended. "These things must be encouraged and the child must be taught to do and think for himself." That, he said, was the great objective towards which the present day curriculum was striving.

In the modern classroom, he stated, the teacher did not do all the thinking and planning for the pupil. The pupil was taught to express himself through writing, oral work, music, etc. The class was no longer thought of as a single unit, but was recognized as a group of individuals who each required individual handling.

With the great emphasis that is being laid on self-direction, self-control and co-operation, Mr. Langan pointed out a proper balance must be established and "the new freedom must be attained gradually with a proper regard for the need of maintaining the highest standards set in the past."

PEOPLE REPELLED BY STRANGE IDEAS

Fear of Canadians for Communism is not that the Communist doctrine is understood as one to be feared but rather the psychological fear of the novel and unknown, Professor K. S. Bernhardt, of the Toronto University Psychological Department told the first seasonal Extension Lecture audience at the Y.M.C.A. last night. He addressed a large gathering under the sponsorship of the Y's Men's Club as the first of a group of five lectures.

"The new and novel always attracts people unless it is too new," the psychologist said. "There are a group of people in Canada we are afraid of for that reason. We call them Communists and Reds. If they had enough ideas to which people are accustomed mixed up with their new theories they would attract just as President Roosevelt attracts the American public."

Dealing with other aspects of human behaviour, he told his audience that it is natural for humans to love a fight.

"People react to a challenge and we all like to fight," Dr. Bernhardt said. "Why is it that next Saturday between 15,000 and 18,000 people will crowd Varsity stadium? It is because they will see a fight. True, it won't be a fist fight, but it will be a fight nevertheless."

No appeal can be successful unless it is addressed to a person's needs or fundamental wants, he continued. "You can give a boy a pile of information a mile high about his health but it won't have the least effect on him. But if that boy wants to make a football team or beat the other boy in a 100-yard race, he will do practically anything because he feels a real need or want."

"I don't suppose you will agree with me but the only reason you or I do anything is because we want to do it," he declared. He listed causes of action as hunger, sex, the desire for comfort, security, possession, efficiency, social approval and avoidance of monotony.

"You may not admit you want social approval," he said, "but otherwise why do you wear such funny looking hats?"

Jack Thornton, president of the Y's Men's Club, introduced the speaker. He welcomed the audience to the lecture, the first of the series.

ALBERTA'S DEBT IS REDUCED $746,317

EDMONTON, Nov. 19.—(CP). — Alberta's net funded and unfunded debt decreased $746,317 during the last six months, it was shown in an interim financial report issued today by Provincial Treasurer Solon Low. The report stated the net funded and unfunded debt as Sept. 30 was $157,984,176 compared with $158,730,493 at March 31.

Cash surplus on combined income and capital accounts for the six-month period ending Sept. 30 was $374,920, compared with a deficit of $2,442,449 for the same period in 1936.

Income account totalled $12,368,826, but payments on ordinary services amounting to $8,213,968 left a surplus income account of $4,179,838. Deduction of $1,515,370 — unemployment relief payments — left the cash surplus at $2,664,467.

Excess of capital account payments over capital receipts of $2,289,546 decreased the cash surplus on combined income and capital accounts to $374,920.

Loans totalling $126,460 from the Dominion Government and the cash surplus resulted in an increase of cash on hand at Sept. 30 over March 31 of $501,370, which compared to a cash overdraft of $1,502,449 for the same period in 1936.

Cash on hand at Sept. 30 totalled $640,370, compared with a cash overdraft of $391,394 at the same date in 1936.

Total of $7,962,550 was invested at Sept. 30 in Provincial saving certificates, compared with $8,146,799 at Sept. 30, 1936, the report stated.

Prosperity certificates outstanding at Sept. 30 totalled $19,553,

RIVER INCREASES OUTPUT OF POWER

From its low levels of late summer, the flow of the Otonabee River has returned to above normal at the present time and the Hydro and private power houses along the stretch from Clear Lake down to Peterborough are once again developing their capacity outputs. Two months ago the plants were turning out little more than half loads due to reduced water heads.

After buying off-peak power for 13 days of last month from the Hydro through the Peterborough Utilities Commission, the Quaker Oats Company is now obtaining sufficient power from its plant to take care of its needs. The Canadian General Electric power plant at Nassau is understood to be back to capacity power output, but the need for power at the company is increasing fast with the return of the plant to fuller post-depression activioty. The O. G.E. purchases of power from the Hydro have been increased by hundreds of horse-power during recent weeks.

The contribution of power which the three Hydro stations recently purchased along the upper Otonabee make to the Eastern Ontario system is relatively small, but nonetheless important in view of the rapidly increasing power demands in the system.

Last month, the Peterborough Utilities constructed a power line from the London Street power house to the Quaker Oats Company. The company paid for the job.

THREE BURGLARIES IN LINDSAY STORES

LINDSAY, Nov. 19.—The local police are investigating the third store burglary committed during the week. The grocery store of John Drury, William street, was entered, presumably by the same thief who burglarized the two barber shops, and the till rifled of five dollars. The locks of the three establishments were picked by some flexible object.

DAVID H. DRAIN

(Examiner Correspondence.)

WARSAW, Nov. 19—One of the largest funerals that ever took place in Warsaw area was that of David H. Drain who died in Nicholl's Hospital, on Sunday, November 14, after an illness of nine days.

Rev. J. W. Wilkinson of the United Church of which Mr. Drain was a member and one of the Board, officiated. There was no singing, but Mr. Wilkinson read "Abide with me" near the beginning of the service and "I know not what the future hath" near the end. The bearers were three brothers-in-law and three cousins: Messers. Milton Drain, Albert Darling, David Nixon, William Charlton, John Darling and William Morris. Burial took place in St. Mark's cemetery, Warsaw.

Mr. Drain leaves to mourn the loss of a devoted husband and father, his wife, Christina Edwards, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Mark Edwards, two daughters, Miss Valetta and Miss Cora, living in Toronto, three sons at home, Ivan, Percy and Kenneth. Mr. Drain was a quiet man who lived for his home, a good neighbor and always ready to do a good turn. There are three brothers, John of Dummer, Wellington in the States and Clarence in Peterborough. One sister Mrs. William Charlton lives in Lakefield.

CONVERT TO THE CLAN

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19 (A.P.). — Men who do not like their wives' hats gained a convert to-day in John Nance Garner, Vice-President of the United States.

He took one look at the fashionable high crown of Mrs. Garner's new hat and announced: "It makes you look like a flapper."

Mrs. Garner disagreed. The fact that the brim turns down all around, she told him, "really makes me look like an old lady."

EXAMINER GOES FAR.

An Examiner main street topic reached a long arm to deliver the goods when the son of Thomas Nice of New Chamberlen street found a parcel on Charlotte street, and told The Examiner. The reply came from the people living in Owen Sound, who, presumbaly, had been in Peterborough recently. They described the contents of the parcel, including an array of baby's clothing and completely identified it.

ADDRESSED Y'S MEN.

Members of the Y's Men's Club were told not to yield to the failing of the majority of people by living too much in the future by Professor K. S. Bernhardt of the Toronto University psychology department at their supper meeting last night. Professor Bernhardt spoke briefly and informally to the young men before delivering his regular extension lecture under Y's Men's auspices later. Referring to the play, "You Can't Take it With You," he advised many persons miss the enjoyment in life by ignoring the present to worry about the future. Jack Thornton, club, president, was in the chair.

CRAZED BY WINE GETS JAIL TERM

When he pleaded guilty before Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., this morning to a charge of causing a public disturbance, a local man was sentenced to seven days' imprisonment.

The accused, who was stated to have a good job which he said he would lose if he was given a term of imprisonment, caused the police a great deal of trouble, according to Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C.

Urging leniency the accused offered the explanation that he had been drinking native wine that "made me crazy."

Inclined towards being lenient and placing the man on suspended sentence, the Magistrate ordered a term of imprisonment on learning the accused faces an adjourned charge of assaulting his wife.

The Crown explained that some weeks ago the accused was charged with assaulting his wife and was given an extended adjournment in the hope he would pull himself together. "He has been drinking for a long time, and has got himself in a terrible state. Warnings have gone unheeded," the Chief Constable told the Bench.

A bench warrant was issued for another local man who failed to appear on adjournment to answer an intoxication charge, and a youth who pleaded not guilty to an assault charge was remanded until Monday on bail of $200.

PEACE IN EAST IS UP TO LEAGUE

PARIS, Nov. 15 (AP) — Foreign Minister Yvon Delbos told the chamber of deputies today efforts to conciliate Chinese-Japanese hostilities at the Brussels conference had failed.

He said a new step toward mediation must be taken at Geneva. The Brussels conference recessed Monday for a week after passing a resolution critical of Japan.

At the Brussels conference, Delbos said, France followed "the attitude of conciliation demand by the entire League of Nations.

"Conciliation collapsed. In several days it will be necessary to make a new decision at Geneva."

Delbos warned the deputies not to forget a decision to act at Geneva must be taken unanimously. He said the French government was willing to take the initiative and make propositions at Geneva, but asked the chamber to remember that taking the initiative often means "engaging yourself."

Students On Strike Over Bus 'Walk'

WEYMOUTH, Mass., Nov. 19 (A. P.). — A strike of 35 High School students, who objected to walking 300 yards to a school bus, weakened to-day after school authorities threatened to suspend two of the strikers, co-captain and star tackle of the school football team, on the eve of the traditional game with Higham.

The pupils insisted the bus pick them up at their doorsteps as usual, but Superintendent Parker T. Pearson refused to change a new schedule. He predicted the strike, now in its third day would end soon.

HOW COMBA FOUND MURDERED GIRL IS RELATED TO JURY

PEMBROKE, Nov. 19 (CP).—Two railway sectionmen Thursday told of incidents in connection with the finding of the body of 13-year-old Ethel Hedderwick by John A. Comba, who is on trial here for her murder.

James A. Pettigrew, section foreman at Forrester's Falls, said he saw Comba at a ball game the night of August 3, the date the girl disappeared while she was picking chokecherries at Carswell's Hill, outside Renfrew.

"He said something about a little girl being lost, and asked me to help look for her," Pettigrew said Comba told him. "After the ball game, about 7.30 p.m., I went with Comba and he mentioned that he had been talking to Ethel Hedderwick at 10 o'clock that morning."

Pettigrew said Comba left him at the pump on Carswell's farm.

Heard Voice Call.

"He (Comba) proceeded in a westerly direction, and later I heard a voice say, 'I found the girl. She is dead'."

"Did you know whose voice it was?" asked T. M. J. Galligan, Crown prosecutor.

"I thought it was Comba's," Pettigrew replied.

The witness said he then walked to where Comba was standing beside the body of the child. "He said something about falling over the body."

"Did he say anything else?"

"No," replied Pettigrew. "It was not dark and you could see quite clearly. It would not be over two minutes from the time Comba left me at the pump until I heard him shout."

James A. Maloney, defence counsel, then began a cross-examination of Pettigrew.

"At the pump on the Carswell farm I told Comba that I was not going further on the search," Pettigrew said.

"Why did you decide not to go any further?" Maloney asked.

"Because I did not know the country there and it was getting dark and anyway there was a search party out already."

Rudolph Louloff of Golden Lake, employed as a sectionman in August, said he was with Pettigrew at the ball game. He corroborated Pettigrew's evidence.

"Shortly after Comba left us at the pump I heard him shout. 'I found the girl,' and then later, 'For — sake, come here,'" Louloff said.

Under cross-examination, Louloff said he had no intention of looking for the girl, even after he left the pump on Carswell's farm to go "for a walk."

Earlier, Mr. Justice E. R. E. Chevrier admitted as evidence statements of 8-year-old Sidnoa Walbeck, who told of seeing Comba in the neighborhood of Carswell's Hill on August 3. She had told police of this some time afterward.

Mrs. Agnes Burns testified she saw Comba walking toward the hill the same morning. The following day, she said, she saw him hanging a pair of blue trousers and a blue shirt on a line in the backyard of his home. In the afternoon, Mrs. Burns said, she saw the trousers being put back on the line, this time pressed.

The trial is continuing today.

TWO AMERICAN ENGINEERS SEE MARMORA MINE

Mining Course Here Next Week Is Praised

Two engineers from Boston and New York visited the Ackerman Mines property east of Marmora last Sunday. They represented strong financial interests who have been making enquiries about the work that is being done on what was once known as the Blomfield mine.

"We gave them the run of the place," Col. Ackerman told the Examiner today, "so they could see what progress we have been making and the stage we have reached. We are not making great promises to anybody. I have been too long in the game for that. A recent incident impressed me quite a bit. We have some experienced miners from Northern Ontario working for us. A few days ago when their shift was through they were asking about where they could buy some of the company's stock that is being offered to the market at the present time."

Col. Ackerman referred to the Marmora work incidentally to the Examiner's request for an opinion from him about the classes for prospectors that are being opened at the Public Library next Monday. Dr. Horwood of the Ontario Department of Mines will be in charge of the week's intensive course.

"I think it is a fine thing," Col. Ackerman said. "It is intended to provide men with accurate knowledge of rock formations, especially as found in this district, that might take them a long time to acquire if left to their own devices. Some men have grown old in parts of this province hoping to find rich veins of minerals, and all the time they were not equipped for the job. They didn't know the signs of minerals which every efficient prospector must know.

Better In Early Spring

The only criticism I would make is that the course of study should have come at the beginning rather than at the end of an outdoor season. Young men, for instance, could go from the class into the country and put their information to work at once. Beyond that, however, it is a commendible project, and possibly by Spring the government may have something else under way. Young men around here who are attracted to prospecting would be well advised to spend the week at the Public Library. Mining has made wonderful progress in this province in spite of the depression, as every body knows, and it seems to me there is a real opening in it."

Reverting to his report of progress at the Marmora property, Col. Ackerman said it was too early yet to express an opinion as to what the future would produce. Present operations are leading to a plan of ore tests or assay along the vein. Stretches of it have to be uncovered, and that is what men are engaged in now, working in three shifts of eight hours each, entirely around the clock.

"When we have prepared a test map we can show people exactly what we have found," Col. Ackerman said. "We are having visitors all the time, including engineers who are commissioned to look over the property."

Col. Ackerman's operations have directed more interest to the Marmora district than it has received in many years. At Cordova to the west of the Peterborough boundary, Canadian Smelters have been working steadily for several years, but no information has been given to the public as to what they are finding.

FIRE LOSSES INCREASE.

TORONTO, Nov. 19 (C.P.) — Fire losses in Canada during October totalled $2,400,000, an increase of $800,000 over the previous month, according to the Monetary Times' estimate released to-day. The losses were $250,000 less than in October, 1936.

FALMOUTH'S DIVER-MAYOR FIGHTS WITH FIERCE SHARK

Dragged Along for Several Minutes When Monster Bites Life-Line

TELLS OF STRUGGLE

Falmouth.—C. A. Chard, diver mayor of Falmouth, had a fierce encounter with a giant shark in St. Ives bay.

For several minutes he was dragged along by the shark, which bit through his life-line.

"I had been under water two or three hours," he related, "when the big fish went past me like a flash. The life-line was carried along for 15 to 20 yards.

"I was dragged with it at high speed. Then the fish suddenly stopped, came back part way and began struggling. It seemed to be entangled with the life-line.

"After being dragged about for two or three minutes, which seemed to me like two or three hours, I tried to signal to the men in a boat, and found that the life-line had parted about eight feet above my head.

"There was a jagged break in the rope which looked as if it had been bitten through by the monster's teeth.

"I came up as quickly as I could on the air pipe.

"The men in the boat above me gave a great cheer when I appeared above the surface. I am still feeling a bit shaky."

PICTURES BOY, AGE 4 AS 'LITTLE SAVAGE'

Broke Into Three Homes, Smashed Crockery, Court Is Told

Farnham, Surrey.—A handsome boy with long, fair curls sat in the juvenile court here, his hands clasped in his lap.

"The whole neighborhood is up in arms against this boy," said J. F. Coggins, solicitor for the N.S.P.C.C. "He is just four years and three months old, absolutely out of control. If you saw him on the pictures you would not believe it, but here he is—a little savage."

He had, it was stated: broken into three houses; smashed up crockery and turned on the gas; told his grandparents and people who remonstrated with him, what he thought of them, with an extraordinary flow of language; dived out of a window five feet from the ground when the probation officer went to see him, and jumped down a cesspool.

It was stated that he was an illegitimate child, whose mother was 15 when he was born. His grandfather had thrashed him—but the boy merely cheeked him back.

The magistrates decided to put the boy in the custody of the local education authorities.

CHOLERA NO BARRIER FOR INTENDING BRIDE

Woman Makes 8,000-Mile Journey to Fiance in East Africa

London.—Braving cholera for the man she loves, Miss Stella Motier left en route on the second lap of her 8,000-mile journey to East Africa. She will meet and marry Dr. W. A. Burke of Chicago, who was sent to East Africa by the Rockefeller Foundation to investigate a series of cholera outbreaks among the natives.

In London, the charming New York brunette said:

"Life seemed to drag on interminably without my fiance, and when I received a letter recently from Dr. Burke saying that he would be in East Africa for an indefinite period, I thought that if Mahomet won't come to the mountain, then the mountain must come to Mahomet. And so here I am."

The fact that cholera is raging in the little British protectorate of Uganda did not seem to frighten her any more than the 5,000-mile voyage she undertook by air, sea and rail to Port Bell (Uganda). She was determined to reach the man whom she has known all her life and to whom she has been engaged for years.

"What is more natural than that I should go out to marry him where the work he loves keeps him?

"Anyway, it was his idea to be married in Africa, and as a dutiful wife should, I agreed. Our future plans will depend entirely on my husband."

DETESTS RELATIVES SO WED SECRETLY

Lady Flora Knollys Is Bride of Valet

London.—Lady (Flora) Knollys, widow of Sir Henry Knollys, honeymooning with 32-year-old Arthur Phillips, ex-liner steward and valet, spoke by telephone to a London newspaper from Oslo and explained why she kept her marriage at St. Andrew's church, Uxbridge, a secret.

Her voice, high-pitched, came over clearly. She said: "God made man. The devil made relatives. I detest relatives. That was why we were married secretly."

BEARS SIX CHILDREN WITHIN 23 MONTHS

Gateshead-on-Tyne.—Six children have been born within 23 months to Mrs. William Appleby, wife of an unemployed laborer living in Peareth St., Gateshead-on-Tyne.

Two sets of triplets—to be precise.

The first set arrived on Christmas Day, 1935, but all three babies died within a fortnight.

Second set was born recently—two girls and a boy, weighing about 3½ pounds each.

Mr. and Mrs. Appleby were married in 1928. They have had eight children, but only one girl, aged eight, is living in addition to the triplets.

ENGLAND CONCERNED AT BIRTHS' DECLINE

Full Information Demanded by Registrars for Statistical Use

London.—Strictly confidential information will have to be given by parents in future when they go to the local registrar to obtain birth certificates for their children.

This arises under the new measure—introduced in the House of Commons by Sir Kingsley Wood—called "The Population (Statistics) Bill."

The measure follows the controversy regarding the falling birth rate.

It has been decided that there is not yet sufficient information available to come to any considered decision, and instructions are therefore to be given to registrars asking them to obtain the age of parents, how long they have been married and the number of their children.

This information will not be placed on the birth certificate, but it will be compulsory on parents to provide it.

Penalties will be imposed if parents do not provide the necessary particulars.

The information, it is hoped, will enable the minister to discover what classes have the most children, and where the decline in population is to be found.

FLYER HITS BAGGAGE DRIVER FELT BUMP

Porters Jump for Lives as Truck Caught in Track

Bristol.—The G.W.R. express Bristolian had a narrow escape when passing through West Drayton station on its 118-mile non-stop run from Bristol to Paddington.

As two porters were trundling a barrow-load of luggage down a ramp at the end of the station during a thunderstorm the lighting failed. The barrow became wedged on the main line.

The men were forced to jump for their lives as the express thundered through at 70 miles an hour, shattering the obstacle in its path. An urgent message caused the express to be stopped at Southall. The driver reported that he had felt a bump.

PARTED 37 YEARS AGO

STURDY ENGLISH GIRLS All of these laughing, ambitious young girls are students at East Anglican Agricultural Institute at Chelmsford, Essex, in England, and this amusing illustration was secured at the institute's big poultry farm where, with hair blowing in the breeze, this sturdy group of sweater-and-breeches-clad girls pull and push their straw-filled hand truck, while some of them content themselves with toting pitchforks and rakes, and others swing milk pails.

BEARS TOO PLENTIFUL IN ZOOS IN ENGLAND

Manager of Belle Vue Declines Offer of Bruins as Gift

London.—There are too many bears in England. The zoo has over 30 in London and Whipsnade and cannot even give any of them away.

When Gerald Iles, manager of the zoo at Belle Vue, Manchester, visited Regent's Park the other day he was offered some bears—as a gift.

He declined them. Belle Vue has all the bears it wants.

The two young Wrangel Island bears recently acquired from Moscow are still in the sanatorium.

A home for them in which the public could see them cannot be found in any enclosure which is safe for bears.

Bears can be exceedingly disagreeable with other bears and are fierce fighters when roused.

At first it was hoped to place the latest arrivals with the four little Russian bears at present in the sanatorium, who were shown (but not played with for long!) in Pets' Corner.

This idea has been abandoned as care has to be exercised in providing a home for young bears.

They are strong, mischievous, destructive, and, if stirred by curiosity, will probably try to break out.

NEW POLICE OFFICES

Johannesburg, S.A.—Plans to reorganize police offices here by erecting a 10-storey building complete with the latest crime-fighting equipment at a cost of £100,000 ($496,000) are being considered.

RECTOR'S WIFE IS ANXIOUS TO RETURN TO FOOTLIGHTS

Happy at Home But Hopes to Assist Her Husband Financially

MET AT PANTOMIME

Bacton, Suffolk.—Mrs. Hilda Priston, aged 17, the pretty ex-chorus girl who married the Rev. Stewart B. Priston, 55-year-old rector of Bacton, in June, wants to go back to the stage.

"I am happy with my husband and satisfied with my home, but I still feel the call of the footlights," she stated.

"Apart from household duties, my greatest interest is the children of the parish. One a week they come here for dancing, and I enjoy that very much. But I feel rather lost. There is not enough to amuse me.

"I have no definite plans at the moment, but I feel that if I could get back to the stage it would not only give me something more to do, but would enable me to help my husband in another way—financially."

Mrs. Priston added that her husband would not object.

The rector once said he was at his wits' end to meet the enormous expenses of the 22-roomed rectory, with its outbuildings and 13 acres. He has always been interested in the living conditions of touring theatrical companies, and he met his wife when she was appearing in pantomime at Ipswich.

FINDS HER SON DEAD ON CHAIR BY STOVE

Blame Experiment With Home-Made Gas Mask

Hove.—A 19-year-old youth found dead in a chair at Hove may have died while experimenting with a home-made gas mask. He was Frederick Charles Crowdy, an employee at a petrol station. His mother found his body when she returned from a visit to a theatre.

He was seated on a chair near a gas stove. He was unclothed, except for socks, a pair of corsets, and a bathing cap. Around his legs was a length of clothes line.

UP-TO-DATE POACHER USES MOTOR LORRY

Weymouth.—Dorset gamekeepers have a new problem—the poacher lorry-driver who halts outside game preserves on his outward trip, sets snares, and collects his catch on the journey home.

"This is adding a lot to our difficulties," a keeper said. "We are finding wires set which we can tell are not the work of experienced hands. I nearly caught one driver with a pheasant."

BURNS HER TROUSSEAU FOR DISTRESS SIGNAL

Bride and Groom Cling to Mast as Honeymoon Yacht Founders

Belfast.—Burning her trousseau to make distress signals, a petite wife with dark hair and olive skin was the heroine of a thrilling yacht rescue off Torr Head, County Antrim.

Enno Loo, an Estonian, and his wife, Sivia, told of their all-night experience in their honeymoon yacht in a howling gale, while vivid flashes of lightning illuminated the ugly cliffs rising sheer for hundreds of feet from a wild and desolate shore.

Mr. and Mrs. Loo had been seen from the shore clinging to the mast of the sinking vessel, but the Portrush lifeboat, crippled by engine trouble, had failed to reach them, and they were rescued by coastguards who used a rocket apparatus and lifeline from the cliff.

"My heart is in my little dream ship," Mrs. Loo said in broken English. "I did not want to leave it."

Mr. Loo said, "I had to force her to get into the breeches buoy to be hauled ashore.

"I was much more nervous than my wife," he added, looking at her proudly.

HER SON IS CALLED "IDIOT" BY LADY ASTOR IN SPEECH

Britain's Woman M.P. Was Referring to Oxford Students' Motor Accident

HAD LUCKY ESCAPE

Reading.—Lady Astor called her son, Hon. John Jacob Astor, 19-year-old New College (Oxford) student—an idiot during a speech here.

She referred to a motoring accident in which her son and three fellow students were injured.

She said all four young men were idiots. "I suppose I should say boys will be boys—but I think it is a case of boys will be idiots. They had a very lucky escape."

Her son and Hon. Peter Wood, 21-year-old son of Lord Halifax, lord president of the council; W. D. Ormsby-Gore, 19-year-old son of the colonial secretary; and Hon. Hugh Fraser, 19-year-old heir-presumptive to his brother, Lord Lovat, were hurt when their car came into collision with a lorry at Tiddington, Oxford.

"If the universities are going to allow our sons to go scampering about the country in motor cars what is the use of sending them there for their education?" asked Lady Astor.

"The universities will probably reply it is the parents' fault, but when our sons go to the universities they are out of our control."

NUDE SWIMMER SAID SO MODEST, DROWNED

Women Sat Beside His Clothes on Beach—Was Visiting Son

Hove.—An expert swimmer entered the sea at Hove without a bathing costume. He was drowned.

While he was enjoying his swim, two women sat on the beach near his clothing, and it is believed that modesty caused his death.

The victim, Christian Ove Johann Christiansen, a commercial traveller, of Kingsland Rd., Lee, Kent, had been visiting his son at Brighton.

He was seen to undress on the practically deserted beach, crouching down as he walked beside a groyne to enter the sea.

Police Constable Roy Cruttenden, a Sussex county field hockey player, was about to dive into the water at Hove baths when the baths' superintendent, L. Kemp, ran to him and said that a man who had been seen swimming in the sea opposite, had disappeared.

The constable put a pair of trousers over his bathing costume, borrowed a bicycle and hurried to the spot where the man had last been seen. He had to swim out about 200 yards before he got Mr. Christiansen ashore, naked and dead.

WOMEN TRY HANDS AT HUSBANDS' WORK

Sheffield.—Five hundred wives and mothers of the employees at the Thorncliffe ironworks of Messrs. Newton Chambers, Chapeltown, near Sheffield, had an open two hours' tour of the various departments.

Unguided, they saw their menfolk at work and took a keen interest in the moulding and engineering shops.

The women tried their hand at their men's work.

CAT BURGLAR TRIED TO ROB PENTHOUSE

Plain Clothesmen Guard Homes in Mayfair

London. — Plainclothes police watched Mayfair houses following two attempts to raid the Park Lane penthouse home of Lord and Lady Louis Mountbatten, and a robbery at Lord Ashfield's house in South St.

The man they were looking for is a dinner-time cat burglar. He climbed to the first floor veranda of Lord Ashfield's house, got in through a window, stole from a bureau in a bedroom gold watches, studs, cuff links and a cigarette case.

POLICE HELP CUPID AND CURE 'REPEATER'

"Bad Man" With 37 Convictions Settles Down Nicely

Bath.—Here is the story of a man who, after 37 convictions for petty offences, was set on the road of romance by the police.

When William ("Badger") Pope, aged 61, was married recently Superintendent Tom Ashworth, the acting chief constable, acted as best man, and paid the fees.

And Inspector G. H. Trim, who had many scuffles with the bridegroom in what he calls "his bad old days," gave the bride away.

"Badger" told the story of his romance as he lay in hospital recovering from an operation.

"For 24 years," said Pope, "I wanted to marry a woman whose name, by a coincidence, was Ada Pope. She had not heard from her husband for a long time.

"Several times we went to the police for advice and pointed out that we were very fond of each other and wanted to marry.

"A few weeks ago Mr. Ashworth agreed that it would be safe for us to marry, and helped us make the arrangements."

Pope added: "I was a bit of a nuisance years ago, but that's all done with now, and I cannot say too much for the help the police have given me."

TRUCK DRIVER WALKS 43 MILES TO COURT

Cadi Pays Fine, Gets Fare Home and Meal After Conviction

Leigh.—A lorry driver who walked most of the 43 miles from Bradford to Leigh to answer a summons for exceeding a speed limit, found on his arrival at the court that the magistrates were willing to temper justice with mercy.

He was fined 10s ($2.50), which it is believed one of the magistrates paid, was given his railway fare back and also given something to eat before he left Leigh.

The driver, Alfred Raistrick, of Bradford, employed by a firm of haulage contractors, was accused of travelling at 29 miles an hour, instead of the limited speed of 20 miles. His reply was: "I could not do more than 20 miles, as on the last occasion when I was fined a 'cut-out' was put on the van so that I could not exceed the speed limit."

Then he added: "I started from Bradford at 10 o'clock last night to walk to Leigh. I only got two short lifts on the road. I could not get anything with which to come here, and have no money.

"It may be when I get back I shall be stopped for the rest of the week and there may be no waggon for me. I have a wife and three children."

After he had left the court Raistrick said that he walked through Halifax, over Blackstone Edge, which is 1,553 ft. up, and on to Rochdale, arriving at Leigh at 10 a.m. His only food during the walk was some bread and butter.

EFFECTS OF COCAINE FATAL IN SOME CASES

Woman Sprayed With 10 Per Cent. Solution Dies

London.—"Unfortunately some people are very susceptible to the effects of cocaine," said Ingleby Oddie at Paddington coroner's court.

"There are not many. I happen to be one of them. If given a spray or injection for the extraction of teeth you faint. The heart ceases to beat, and you are apt to die instantaneously."

Mr. Oddie was inquiring into the death of Mrs. Lillian Bertha Wood, 44, Kensington.

She was taken to hospital suffering from nose bleeding. During treatment the mouth was sprayed with a 10 per cent. solution of cocaine. She became unconscious and died.

BUSY MAKING GAS MASKS

London.—Great Britain, which has about 15,000,000 civilian gas masks stored in regional centres, is producing more at the rate of between 500,000 and 800,000 a week.

The halfway mark of the great effort to afford this air-raid protection to the population has been reached.

BRIEF STORIES GATHERED FROM ALL CORNERS OF THE WORLD

BIRTHS, MARRIAGES FEWER FRENCH GETTING WORRIED

Deaths Outnumbered Babies in First Six Months of 1937

NEIGHBORS GAINING

Paris.—With this years birthrate—and marriage records—the lowest in 17 years, the far-seeing French look with understandable apprehension across the Italian and German frontiers, where bigger and bigger families are the Fascist and Nazi credo for making bigger armies.

The discouraging figures have just been issued by the government's bureau of general statistics, and cover the first six months of this year.

They record 317,207 births for the period—the lowest since 1920; and with births for April-May-June, 1937, running 4,000 less than the same months last year.

There were 132,270 marriages—also the fewest since 1920; and with some 3,000 marriages less during April-June this year than in 1936.

In the same six months of this year, 334,413 people died in France—or 17,205 in excess of births, which is considered an alarming decrease.

There were 11,600 divorces during the first half of the year.

The only reason given for the low numbers of marriages and births is the ever-increasing cost of living, which in turn is due to lack of confidence in unstable governments and money, and the constant fear of imminent war.

Melbourne.—Convicts in the state penitentiary here went on the air recently, in the first radio broadcast of its kind in Victoria.

The audience yelled in appreciation when one of the performers announced gravely: "We must decline any other radio engagements because we will be fully occupied here for the next few months."

It was stated that two bottles of beer were found in the perambulator with the baby.

BRIDE, GROOM NABBED AS CHAMPAGNE FLOWS

Said Organizer of International Pickpocket Gang Using Trains

Paris.—Half-way through a wedding breakfast at a restaurant in the Rue du Roi de Sicile here, detectives entered the banquetting room and arrested bride, bridegroom, best man, witnesses and the wedding guests—in fact the whole party of 26.

The reason was that the bride, attractive 26-years-old Clara Holdorf, and her husband, Herman Katz, both of whom are Polish, have been wanted by the police of several different countries for months—as organizers of an international gang of pickpockets infesting long distance trains.

Herman Katz, according to the police, was the head of the gang and his bride was his chief assistant.

The wedding had taken place in one of the Paris town halls and the champagne was flowing freely when in walked the uninvited guests.

2,000 AMAZONS TAKE SALUTE ON KEMALIST ANNIVERSARY

Squadron of Bombers, Piloted by Women, Soars Overhead

DICTATOR'S REVIEW

Istanbul—Two thousand Turkish Amazons—women who fought with their menfolk in the war Independence in Anatolia—marched past Ataturk, dictator of Turkey, when three-day celebrations of the 14th anniversary of the Kemalist republic began.

In the three-hour parade were 15,000 villagers from all parts of the country, infantry, cavalry, artillery and tanks.

Overhead Lieutenant Sahiba Guektchen, the "Flying Amazon," led a squadron of bombers, all piloted by women.

Ataturk, who overthrew the sultan and has ruled the country most of the time since, wore morning dress. His only decoration was the gold medal of the Anatolian war of "Independence."

The celebrations are also intended to emphasize the entry into force of a decree making military training for women compulsory. Eventually they will do military service.

LEBANESE HARBOR WILL BE FORTIFIED

Pipeline Terminus at Tripoli To Be Protected

Beirut, Lebanon.—Construction of an important commercial port for Tripoli and the building of military fortifications to protect it against naval and air raids were announced by the Lebanese prime minister in an interview.

"I don't know whether the French military authorities propose to construct a naval base there," he said. "I do know, however, that numerous barracks are being built. Since Tripoli, as a terminus of the pipeline from Mosul, will be subject to attacks in the event of war, it is in the interest of the inhabitant that it should be fortified. In addition, a large commercial port will be built, construction of which will be undertaken by a national company."

Louis Beaufort Stewart

PROFESSOR EMERITUS OF SURVEYING AND GEODESY, UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO

Well-Known in Peterborough and Descendant of Pioneer Family

by

NOEL J. OGLIVIE

We regret to record the passing, on March 15th, 1937, at the age of 76, of Louis Beaufort Stewart, Professor Emeritus of Surveying and Geodesy at the University of Toronto, member of the National Committee of Canada, International Union of Geodesy and Geophysics, one of the most prominent Canadian educationalists in surveying, astronomy and geodesy.

The courses Professor Stewart developed at the Toronto University, especially in higher astronomy and geodesy, were recognized as the best in Canada; his professional influence through forty-four years of contact with successive surveying and geodesy classes is impossible to estimate but much more than this, his life was of the noblest and most advisable character in which, if a fault were to be specified, it were that of the modesty which seems the inevitable accompaniment of the highest worth.

When Professor Stewart retired from active association with his academic duties in 1932 Sir Robert Falconer, then president of Toronto University, wrote:

"Your work has been most thoroughly appreciated both by staff and students, but more than this, you made them your friends. As you moved in and out amongst them you, all unconsciously to yourself I am sure, bound them to you by your simple sincerity and unaffected goodness of heart. You went on your way asking nothing for yourself, but in genuine kindliness doing for others something that made the path of life easier for them."

Louis B. Stewart was born in the town of Port Hope, Province of Ontario, on January 27th, 1861, a son of a surveyor and engineer, George Alexander Stewart, to whom he became apprenticed in 1878 after passing the preliminary examination for Ontario land surveyors.

During his three years of apprenticeship he served as assistant on a subdivision survey in Northern Manitoba, and on the location survey in Northern Manitoba and on the location survey for the Canadian Pacific Railway lines from Toronto to Peterborough, Province of Ontario. In 1882 he passed the final Ontario land surveyor examination and also examinations for commissions as Dominion land surveyor and Manitoba land surveyor, thus being entitled to practice land surveying anywhere in the huge area between the Provinces of Quebec and British Columbia.

In 1882 Mr. Stewart entered into partnership with his father and spent the years until 1888 in Western Canada surveying city lots, mining locations, timber limits and on numerous lesser surveys from Lake of the Woods to the Rocky Mountains. In addition he was engaged with his father in topographical and other surveys of which is now called Banff National Park, in the Rocky Mountains, of which his father was appointed superintendent. The named Mount Louis and Stewart Canyon perpetrate this phase of his work.

There were two interruptions to this stage of his career; one was in 1885 during the Riel Indian Rebellion which paralyzed engineering work in Western Canada for a time and during which Mr. Stewart enlisted in the 95th Manitoba Grenadiers. The other interruption was in February, 1887, when he came to Ottawa and passed the examination for certificate as Dominion topographic surveyor, the most difficult surveying examination in the British Empire. The phrasing of the Dominion Lands Act—the D.T.S. examination to test a candidate's knowledge of the higher branches of surveying, qualifying him for the prosecution of extensive governing of topographic surveys and geographical explorations—gives a totally inadequate idea of the comprehensive and difficult character of this examination, particularly to one who, like Mr. Stewart, had not the aid of a university education.

On the basis of this last examination, Mr. Stewart received the position of lecturer in surveying at the School of Practical Science, University of Toronto, in 1888. In 1901 he was promoted to full professorship in surveying and geodesy, which position he held until his retirement in 1932.

Throughout his studies Professor Stewart broadened his enquiries into all branches of astronomy. He became a member of the Royal Astronomical Society in 1905 and was its president in 1912 and 1913. Numerous papers are his contribution to its proceedings. He possessed to a remarkable degree that all too rare combination of outstanding mathematical ability with a passion for using that knowledge as a stepping stone in the solution of problems in surveying, astronomy and geodesy.

During the earlier years of his academic work Professor Stewart felt rather keenly the effect of the abrupt change from a life in the open to a sedentary engineering occupation, and, as an antidote, joined the Argonaut Rowing Club and took an active part in spring and fall races. He also rowed in open regattas on several occasions, and was a member of a winning four-oar, at the regatta of the Canadian Association of Amateur Oarsmen held at Lachine in 1890. He was a charter member of the Toronto Chapter of the Alpha Delta Phi fraternity.

Throughout his academic career he considered it good policy to undertake professional work during vacations whenever the opportunity occurred, to keep his teaching abreast of all its practical applications and to fill in any gaps in his previous experiences. Acting on this principle he took part in two expeditions in 1892 and 1893, under the leadership of Dr. A. P. Coleman, exploring the source of the Athabasca River. These two expeditions were of considerable value to him as they afforded an opportunity of testing methods of making rapid track surveys of a considerable extent of rough country. Other work included mining surveys in the Yukon in 1899; surveys of Lake Timagami in 1904; surveys during the Labrador eclipse expedition in 1905, in which Professor Stewart performed all the preliminary astronomical observations required, as well as assisting in the actual eclipse work; also a survey at the mouth of the Nelson River at Hudson Bay in 1912.

During the summers of 1918 to 1921 Professor Stewart was engaged on reconnaissance for primary triangulation for the Geodetic Survey of Canada in the Maritime Provinces and the Gulf of St. Lawrence district. The variety of problems met with and the ingenuity required in their solution appealed strongly to him. One problem of a very practical nature that gave him some trouble at first was that of learning rather late in life to climb trees. In 1923 he carried through a secondary triangulation net in Ontario for the Geodic Survey, connecting the primary Canadian nets with the Toronto University survey schools.

On June 30th, 1932, having passed the age limit, Professor Stewart retired from active membership on the staff of the University of Toronto, but not from active study and work. In spite of a serious operation which handicapped the last eight years of his life he spent each morning scientific studies and investigation, including the perfection of mathematical research work authority and on which he wrote a number of valuable papers.

On June 23rd, 1897, he married Edith Marion Greene, daughter of Rev. Canon Greene and Mrs. Greene, then of Orillia, Ontario. His passing is mourned by his widow, four daughters and two sons.

PENSIONED OFF A FIT MAN

Rigours of Police Life Did Not Harm Him

At 50 years of age he was presumed to be beyond the arduous demands of police duties. But was he? Read what he says now—five years after he was pensioned:—

"I am a man of 56 years. It is now five years since I was pensioned off from the————Police. I went through thick and thin, day and night in all weathers, while I was on the Force, and am today as fit as any man still serving on the Force. People often ask me 'How do you keep so young?' and my answer is 'Kruschen Salts.' I have used Kruschen now for the last 13 years, and I will certainly use these Salts for the rest of my days."—W.J.

The numerous salts in Kruschen provide just that gentle daily aid your internal organs require to enable them to perform their work properly. $11,000 OFFERED FOR THE SLAYERS OF LABOR LEADER

MINNEAPOLIS, Nov. 19 (AP) — Spurred by rewards of $11,000 and aroused by reports four other labor leaders were marked for death, investigators delved into union activities today for a solution to the ambush slaying of Patrick J. Corcoran.

Mayor George E. Leach threw all the facilities of the police department into the search for the slayers who felled the 45-year-old American Federation of Labor unionist with a pistol bullet near his home Wednesday.

Corcoran was chairman of the North Central District Drivers' Council, covering five states, and was active in several A.F. of L. unions here.

Hilliard Smith and William Mauseth, two organizers for the United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers, a Committee for Industrial Organization affiliate, charged in a letter to Mayor Leach that gangsters and racketeers had penetrated city labor organizations.

A man who told Cedric Adams, newspaper columnist, more than a week ago that "a prominent Minneapolis labor leader would be taken for a ride within two weeks" was sought for questioning. The "tip" was published Nov. 9.

Controversial Statue Unveiled

Ending an eight-year controversy over its fitness as a memorial to the late Earl Haig, the four-ton equestrian statue shown above was dedicated at London by the Duke of Gloucester. Lady Haig who once claimed the statue was "monstrous" did not attend the ceremony. Because of the quarrel arising out of the original statue, three models were made before the committee in charge gave its approval.

Eden Acts As Host To Two Kings AT Reception In Foreign Office

London, Nov. 19.

FOREIGN Secretary Eden last night entertained King George VI and Leopold III, King of the Belgians, at a brilliant reception at the Foreign Office.

Whitehall was festively decorated for the occasion. The Foreign Office dinner marked the last of a brilliant series of banquets given for King Leopold, whose visit here officially ends to-morrow.

The youthful Foreign Secretary sat at the summit of the arc formed by the great horseshoe table, with King George and King Leopold at his side.

In the afternoon, King Leopold was cheered while, mounted on "Rudolph," famous battle horse which took part in the Coronation procession, he reviewed horsemen of the 5th Regiment of the Royal Inniskilling Dragoon Guards at Colchester.

Entertained at luncheon by officers of the regiment, of which he is Colonel-in-Chief, the Monarch proposed a toast to King George VI, after which a toast to his own health was proposed by Lieut.-Gen. Sir Tom Bridges, Colonel of the 5th Dragoon Guards.

PETERBORO PLAY WELL PATRONIZED LAKEVALE CHURCH

(Examiner Correspondence.)

FOWLER'S CORNERS, Nov. 19.—"The Winning of Joy," a three-act comedy-drama, was presented by members of St. James' United Church Dramatic Club in Lakevale Presbyterian Church on Wednesday evening. Despite various counter-attractions in the neighborhood, there was a fair attendance and the proceeds amounted to more than $16.00.

The play centres around the home of the Vernons, the home life of whom is upset by the presence of Uncle Joe. Reeves (Henry Turner), a wealthy brother of Ma Vernon (Mrs. M Wood). Uncle Joe is always grouching, and to make matters worse, suffers from the "rheumatiz." His money is his only concern. Then into the home comes Joy King, a niece of Pa Vernon (M. Drysdale), having been left an orphan at the death of her parents. Joy (Hazel Palmer) is welcomed with open arms and she at once decides to show Uncle Joe that money is not everything. At first it is a difficult task and to make him even more bitter Bill Vernon (Alber Porter) forges three cheques in his name. Because of this Bill's father and mother ask him to leave home, which he prepares to do. At the last moment Uncle Joe decides Bill Vernon can stay and he is successful in getting his old job back. Dave Reeves (Harold Pavey) has asked his foster-father for enough money to buy a farm and marry Kate Vernon (Dorothy Freeman) with whom he is in love. He is refused. After reading in the papers of a number of bank failures, Uncle Joe draws all his money out of the bank and one night his son, in desperation for money, and disguised as a robber, succeeds in getting away with some of the money. However, he is recognized by Joy, but she does not reveal his identity. Mrs. Sims (Mrs. Henry Turner), next door neighbor, and her daughter Hettie (Freda Pavey) see the robber as he leaves the house, pull off his mask, and immediately rush in to tell the Vernons. Joy succeeds in getting them out of the house without telling what they know. However, Dave Reeves, some time later returns the money, only to learn his father knew him to be the robber because he recognized a small mole on his son's right hand as he grabbed for the money. However, he is forgiven.

Joy persuades Uncle Joe to act as Santa to the whole household and he, at his own expense, distributes cheques and gifts which amaze the recipients. Then there is the excitement of a wedding, that of Dave Reeves and Kate Vernon. Mrs. Sims tries to win Uncle Joe, but is unsuccessful. Dave and Kate are married by the Rev. Phineas Barker (Harold Fife), who seems more flustered than the wedding party. With the help of Mrs. Sims, the reverend gentleman succeeds in performing the ceremony. Benjamin Assafelity (Jack Freeman), a friend of Hettie Sims, adds humor to the play. Joy and Bill Vernon are engaged and the curtain for the last act falls with the Vernon household being a very happy one, after Uncle Joe finds out that "only love can buy love."

Between acts Harold Fife contributed a number of harmonica selections and at the conclusion of the presentation Mrs. George Tully, president of the Ladies' Aid Society, tendered a vote of thanks to the players and those who helped to make the entertainment a success. Refreshments were later served to the cast of the play.

STRIKERS REFUSE TO QUIT SIT-DOWN

PONTIAC, Mich., Nov. 19.—(AP)—The Pontiac local of the United Automobile Workers of America thundered its rejection of a plea from the international union to abandon a sit-down strike in the plant of the Fisher Body Corporation here early today.

In a tumultous meeting which began last night and continued nearly six hours, the auto workers voted by acclamation to proceed with the strike after Fed Pieper, a member of the international executive board, urged them to return to work.

Dorr V. Mitchell, president of the local, joined with Pieper in asking the men to discontinue the strike, which began Wednesday night and left 14,721 General Motors Corporation employees idle.

Refused Strike Funds.

Mitchell said the sit-down was "unauthorized" and declined to turn over to the members the local's strike fund, which is controlled by local union officers. The 200 members at the meeting had voted to use the fund for the men who have held the body plant two days and nights.

Both the U.A.W.A. and General Motors professed ignorance of plans to negotiate a settlement.

The sit-down began a few hours after the management insisted upon suspending four workers it blamed for a 12-hour strike in the Fisher plant earlier in the week.

RADIO - THEATRE - DANCING

HOLLYWOOD

By HARRISON CARROLL
(Copyright, 1937, Central Press Canadian)

HOLLYWOOD.—A cold has kept Constance Bennett away from the cameras but Hal Roach is not worrying because, just before her illness, the brokers for Lloyds had okayed the studio's $1,250,000 insurance policy on "Merrily We Live."

Constance Bennett

Once when she was at Twentieth Century, La Bennett developed a cold sore on her lip and cost an insurance company $50,000. The biggest payment however, is said to have been the $11,000 Zanuck and associates received due to the ailing Simone Simon.

This case is said to have been an important factor in raising the insurance rates on pictures.

So Geraldine Spreckels has only a small income left from that inherited half million.

Well, even if she doesn't click at Warners, and they feel pretty sure she will, we can't work up too much sympathy for; when she is 25 (that's in four more years), the beauteous Spreckels will interit another million dollars that's now in trust.

Experience warns not to set too much store in Hollywood romances, but the Phyllis Brooks-Cary Grant twosome looks more and more like it will end up at the altar. Grant is telling the world that she is the only girl in his life and even goes off the R-K-O lot to lunch with her at another studio miles away. Sunday, the pair donned old clothes and toured every pier concession from Santa Monica through Long Beach.

The Bob Burnses are expecting a baby.

It happened at the Dunes the other night when the Palm Springs club is not so crowded. Jack Benny borrowed a fiddle and began to play. Ribbers passed the word around and the room began to empty. Alice Faye, Tony Martin, Ed Goulding, Mae Sunday, Dave Harris and a few more of the Hollywood regulars slipped quietly into the bar. Finally the only people left in the room were Benny and Marcel Lamaze. Jack came over to the restaurant man's table and fiddled a solo. When he was finished, Lamaze dug into his pocket and gave Benny a dollar.

Lot of talk recently about the columnists doing wrong by Hollywood . . . and some of the squawks are just. On the other hand, a youthful feminine star has cause to thank the mercy of the paragraphing clan. She has a physical handicap that is certainly not her fault but that might distract from her glamor if the public got wise. But, though it would make good copy, the columnists are not using the story.

After shooting hot love scenes between Simone Simon and Dick Baldwin for "Love and Hisses", Twentieth Century-Fox has decided to take all the kisses out of the picture. Baldwin is to be built up as the he-man type, not the romantic lover. Robert Taylor's experience still haunts the studios.

And here is a new high in fan demands on stars.

A gentleman signing himself as Richard Y. Hinde of Toronto, Ont., has written Clark Gable that he has named the actor as executor of his estate.

Chatter . . . . Glenda Farrell is leaving Warners, after all this time. . . . . George Brent is now so careful that when he gave a party to the cast of "Gold Is Where You Find It," he showed up without a girl . . . . If Hollywood thinks the fog has been bad recently, Maureen O'Sullivan writes from London that she has been living in her dressing room to escape the drive to her cottage . . . The Dick Powells have sold their lot to Harry Warner and don't know when or where they'll build that house . . . Judith Allen and Eddie Sutherland were the twosome who drew the most stares the other night in the Florentine room at the Beverly Wiltshire . . . . That was Rosalind Russell dining with Walter Huston at the Cafe Lamaze . . . Elsewhere, Lee Russell with Herbert Marshall again at the Victor Hugo . . . . and Helen Meinardi with Winston Frost and Jon Hall at the Swing Club . . . . Like the number that the dancers, Joresca and Lydia, do at the Cocoanut Grove . . . . a minuet for which the accompaniment is supplied by a little music box put close to the microphone . . . And, speaking of music, Jeanette MacDonald and Gene Raymond play duets on twin pianos in their home.

In "Bluebeard's Eighth Wife," Gary Cooper and Claudette Colbert are appearing together for the first time. Cooper is a playboy of the Tommy Manville type, who has been married seven times before the story opens. Miss Colbert is the daughter of an impoverished French marquis.

Lubitsch previously has directed Miss Colbert in "The Smiling Lieutenant" and Cooper in "Design for Living." As with all of his stars, however, he descrbes exactly how they shall act.

When Lubitsch wants to say "think," he says "czink." His accent is impervious to years spent in Hollywood.

After he has rattled off a long series of instruction, Claudette laughs and says:

"I don't know anybody who can mess up more words and still make you understand."

Famed Family Of White Rajah In The News

The attractive feminine members of the famous Sarawak family have broken into the news again! Most recent of the family to attract newspaper attention was the arrival at New York of the Ranee of Sarawak (CENTRE), wife of the white Rajah of Borneo on her way to Hollywood where she will aid in the filming of "Good Morning-Good Night", her book about the savage country over which she and her husband reign. At the LEFT is the present Mrs. Harry Roy, wife of the London band leader who, before her marriage, was known as Princess Pearl, of Sarawak, also known as Miss Elizabeth Brooke. At the RIGHT is Princess Diamond, of Sarawak, known in some circles as Miss Valerie Brooke. Miss Brooke or Princess Diamond if you prefer, has announced her intention of marrying Bob Gregory, a London wrestler. Her family doesn't care for the idea, it is understood. The Rajah of Borneo, Sir Charles Anthony Johnson Vyner Brooke, rules a large portion of Borneo which his ancestor, Sir James Brooke, was given by the Sultan of Borneo for helping put down a rebellion.

HOLLYWOOD—Lights! Camera! Action! At Twentieth Century-Fox there is lively competition between the "Charlie Chan" and the "Mr. Moto" units. The Swedish Warner Oland wants to make the Chinese sleuth the biggest box-office detective on the lot, while the Hungarian Peter Lorre has the same ambition for his Japanese creation, Mr. Moto.

Peter Lorre

Each must outdo the other in solving murders, and so, almost any time you walk on either set, you find a body lying on the floor.

It is no exception one day this week when we drop out to watch Director Norman Foster shoot a scene for "Thank you, Mr. Moto."

Done to death in a rich oriental apartment is Pauline Frederick. She lies face down upon the floor, or rather her stand-in does. Miss Frederick, who plays a Chinese princess, will substitute just before the shot is made.

The Korean actor, Philip Ahn, her son in the story, is tied to a chair, where he has been a helpless witness to the murder.

Everything is timed for Mr. Moto's arrival. Lorre, wearing a long white overcoat that emphasizes his short stature, is waiting behind a door to burst in.

At this moment, however, the movie is interrupted by a bit of real drama.

Four Japanese gentlemen are ushered on to the stage. Three are members of the Japanese good-will commission visiting California, and the fourth is a local banker. They are accompanied by a studio representative, and work stops while they are introduced around and are shown the set.

An inscrutable expression comes over the fact of Philip Ahn, tied in the chair.

The visitors never realize that the bound man is one of the most active Chinese sympathizers in Hollywood, and has been, with Anna May Wong, among the leaders in collecting funds for the war sufferers in Shanghai.

Process shots are always interesting. We watch Director Allan Dwan shoot one for "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm." It is of Shirley Temple being helped down a ladder from a second-storey window.

Shirley Temple

The ladder in the scene is real, but it is leaned toward a motion picture screen upon which appears the flickering image of the house. It is projected on the screen from the rear. It flickers in time with the camera that is photographing the shot. On the film, it becomes a clear, steady image.

All they want in this scene is Bill Robinson helping Shirley down the last few rungs of the ladder.

It has taken a half hour lining up the shot, getting the ladder at just the right angle to create the illusion.

But when the camera starts turning, they get in the first try, a matter of less than a minute.

Shirley says "Oh" when Dwan okays the take. . . .

She is disappointed.

Kids like to play on ladders.

With the applause of the preview audience ringing in her ears, Miss Weaver walked out of the theatre to face a mob of autograph fans, not one of whom recognized her. In a few months, though, it will be another story, for the actress goes into the one of the leads in "Sally, Irene and Mary," and the studio is plugging her for stardom.

The preview of "Second Honeymoon" saw Marjorie Weaver, pretty southern girl, get one of the most unusual breaks ever given a newcomer. After the film was over, an announcement flashed on the screen:

"Darryl F. Zanuck has just presented Marjorie Weaver, whom Twentieth Century - Fox believes will be one of its outstanding stars in 1938."

This was followed by a cutback to one of her scenes in the picture.

When the next Tarzan picture is made, it is very doubtful if Glenn Morris and Eleanor Holm will be teamed again as the jungle hero and his mate. The two didn't get along at all. Outspoken Eleanor was quoted in an interview as calling Morris "just a dumb athlete". Upshot of it was that the two refused to pose in any romantic still pictures together and the studio publicity department will have to use drawings to get them in a clinch in its exploitation campaign.

Eleanor Holm

Randy Scott's trip to New York is to meet his sister, Mrs. Carl Robbert, wife of a Swedish industrialist, whom he has not seen in 14 years.

Chatter—Lucille Ball says she is too busy to marry Director Al Hall or anybody else. "How could I?" she asked us. "I don't even get Sundays off" Hear that Mervyn Le Roy is planning to purchase several of Rudolph Valentino's silent vehicles for Fernand Gravet . . . Shirley Ross sailed for New York and a Broadway vacation. Certain exclusive Hollywood shop was thrown into a turmoil when Margaret Matzenauer fell down the stairs and had to be carried out on a stretcher. The prima donna has proved a good sport, though by autographing the broken heel of her shoe and giving it to the manager . . . . Wendy Barrie is all set to surprise Hollywood with her singing voice. She's been studying under Eddie Kaye. Hedy Lamarr's escort at the Cafe Lamaze was Reginald Gardiner. And here's Hollywood's newest drink, as made at the Tropics—a rum concoction called a "head hunter" and served in a cocoanut shell.

Wendy Barrie

We have an idea of turning this column occasionally into an open forum where you fans can air your views on controversial subjects and where, if necessary, the stars and movie moguls can make direct reply, or start arguments of their own.

A few sample subjects might be: Do you like to see the dignified stars made the victim of slapstick comedy as Myrna Loy was in "Double Wedding". Or, do you think the stars are really getting a bad deal from the columnists, air or otherwise. Or, where do you think the star's responsibility to the fan ends? Should they receive fans who invade the privacy of their homes? Or pick your own subject.

If you are interested, let's hear from you. And try to keep your letters short and to the point.

Ever think you'd like to watch an operation? Olivia de Havilland believed she would and the other day paid a visit to the surgery of Dr. H. N. Enloe's sanitarium near the "Robin Hood" location. It was an appendectomy. The star entered the operating room dressed in white apron, mask, etc. The next thing she knew she woke up in the hospital bed with a lump on her head and two nurses in attendance.

She had fallen to the floor in a dead faint.

Worked In Mines

Lowell Thomas

Lowell Thomas, "veteran" radio news commentator, started life as a gold miner. Born in Woodington, O., April 6, 1892, he was reared at Cripple Creek, Col., a mining camp in the Rockies. When he was 11 years of age, he went to work in the gold mines. Determined to obtain an education, he attended four universities, Valparaiso, Denver, Chicago and Princeton, working his way by various means including tending a furnace, mining and editing a daily newspaper. Lowell Thomas has explored the sub-Arctic, has recorded a history of the world war, spent a period of his life with Col. T. E. Lawrence in the Arabian desert and was one of the first persons to enter Central Europe and obtain an eye-witness account of the German revolution. He began his broadcasting in 1930.

Returns To Belgian Legation

Mme. Suzanne Silvercruys-Farnam, sister of the Belgian minister to Canada, and a noted sculptress, is shown here at work on a fountain piece in her New York studio. Mme. Farnam has been on an extended lecture tour of United States, but returns to Canada to execute several commissions in sculpture and to resume her position as official hostess at the Belgian Legation in Ottawa.

A.A.U. AMENDMENT OFFERS OLIVE BRANCH

Proposal Would Liberalize Definition Of Amateurism Regards Individual Rules

C. S. Halter Back Of Movement To Entice C.A.H.A. Back Into Parent Body

MONTREAL, Nov. 19 (C.P.).—Tired committeemen tried to define a future amateurism policy for the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada to-day. No matter what their recommendation, it was expected to stir up a period of the most frenzied convention argument in the Union's 50-year history.

Behind closed doors, the convention's Resolutions Committee argued late into last night on a proposed amendment to the constitution which, if adopted, would liberalize the A.A.U. definition of amateurism and perhaps entice the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association back into the fold. The long fight caused postponement of the general night session.

Submitted by Second Vice-President G. Sidney Halter, the amendment would give each sport the definition of amateurism laid down by its international governing body. The general convention will vote on the committee's recommendation as to disposal of the motion.

Prepares Second Motion.

If Halter's first move fails, the tall young Winnipeg lawyer has in reserve another, urging the A.A.U. to overlook any infringement of its amateur rule so long as the "matter or action" is allowed by the international governing body of the sport affected.

The A.A.U. is concerned over the C.A.H.A.'s breakaway, which followed refusal of the 1936 convention to pass a liberal definition of amateurism introduced by the hockey men. The C.A.H.A. left the parent body this spring, to be followed by the Canadian Amateur Basketball Association and the Canadian Lacrosse Association.

The A.A.U. is concerned over loss of the C.A.B.A. and the C.L.A., too, but President J. W. Hamilton said yesterday that "personalities" had played the major part in the splits with all three and "personalities" are understood to be more tied up in the trouble with basketball and lacrosse than that with hockey.

Depend Upon C.A.H.A.

Some delegates are not worried by departure of the C.A.H.A., claiming the A.A.U. can get along without its most powerful member. But others are frankly disturbed over loss of so dependable a source of strength and revenue, and reports yesterday indicated many branches have suffered tremendously. Then, too, they believe if hockey returns the other sports will follow.

Actually, lacrosse has not notified the A.A.U. of its severance of relations and the C.L.A. could be represented officially at the convention if it chose. But, of the three, lacrosse has taken the widest step from strict amateurism by ruling that professionals in another sport may play lacrosse as amateurs.

How heavy has been the blow to A.A.U. branches was indicated yesterday when the Central Ontario Division listed only 2,100 athletes against 4,373 in 1936. Alberta's A.A.U. athletes have dropped in number to 309 from 1,206, and other branches have suffered almost in proportion.

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—(AP).—Billy Beauhuld and Henry Armstrong, who tangle in Madison Square Garden to-night, grew up in the same town (St. Louis) but never met....When John Carroll University plays Western Reserve at Cleveland to-morrow, John Lucas, sophomore centre for John Carroll from Sharpsville, Pa., will line up against John Lucas, Western Reserve sophomore halfback from Sharpsville, Pa.....Both are Slovaks, old pals and High school champions (but no relation)....Lou Gehrig, the Yankee iron man, is due in Hollywood to begin movie work.

The anti-Nazi crowd has started its boycott of the Mar Schmeling-Harry Thomas fight by picketing Mike Jacobs' Hippodrome, although the fight will be held in Madison Square Garden. . Note to California: We have it fairly straight Pitt will decline a Rose Bowl bid even if one is tendered.

No four-star football special this week on account of conditions being too uncertain....But here are a couple of lusty two-star specials: Columbia over Dartmouth and Stanford over California....Bob Pastor will get $10,000 for meeting Tony Galento, winner over Leroy Haynes in Phiadelphia last night.

Jimmy Dykes may be talking out of his hat, but here's what the guy says: He will trade every member of the White Sox except Luke Appling, Monte Stratton, Mike Kreevich and Luke Sewell....Also, he wouldn't part with the bananaeating Zeke Bonura for Jimmy Foxx, Hal Trosky or Joe Kuhel....(Is he still so hot in Chicago?)

RECORD SHOWS JOHNSON ONCE BESTED MATTY

TULSA, Okla.—Most baseball experts will tell any one who will listen that two of the greatest pitchers of all time, Christy Mathewson of the New York Giants, and Walter Johnson of the Washington Senators, never met on the playing field. But they did.

On a cold, windy day just twenty-four years ago, the "Big Train" and the "Big Six" faced each other in what probably was their only diamond duel. The authority for this (and a check-up proves he was right) is W. W. (Wild Bill' Setley, old-time major leaguer and one of the oldest baseball players in the United States.

Setley, now a gaunt, grey-thatched county employee, 70-odd years old, recalls that the game was played as a feature of the International Dry Farming Congress which brought thousands of persons to the then budding oil town of Tulsa in 1913.

Giants On Tour

Backers of the congress wanted to give the fans something extra. The Giants, Mathewson's team, were touring the Southwest with the Chicago White Sox. The two teams were booked for an exhibition, and then, to add to the fun, the backers went to Coffeyville, Kan., Johnson's home town, and engaged him to oppose Mathewson.

John McGraw, manager of the Giants, already had promised he would pitch Mathewson. It was a "natural"...the fastest pitcher in the world, Johnson, opposing the greatest curve-baller, Mathewson, with his famous "fadeaway."

The fans packed the ramshackle ball park. The start of the game was delayed two hours — allowing time for only six innings — because a jammed stand collapsed, killing one spectator and injuring 100.

How the White Sox won? 6 to 0, was told by a shivering reporter who scribbled notes and hurried back to the office in time to make his edition with a few paragraphs on the game. He wrote:

Matty Hit Freely

"Manager McGraw announced Mathewson and Meyers would start for the Giants. Walter Johnson, considered by many the ablest pitcher of all time, started for the American Leaguers. Neither side scored in the first inning, both pitchers working good. The Sox touched Matty for two hits. The Sox started scoring in the fourth, sending two runs across on doubles by Speaker and Crawford and a single by Berger.

"In the fifth, Mathewson was relieved by Wiltse and Wingo took the position behind the bat. Jackson was out, Lobert to Merkle. The next five men up hit safely, and four more runs were counted, the Sox apparently cinching the contest. The side was retired when Callahan hit an easy grounder to Boolin, who tagged Bodie and then threw to Merkle, allowing the Giants' first-sacker to catch Callahan off."

The score by innings:

Chicago	000	240	6	12	2
New York	000	000	0	5	2

Johnson and Schalk; Mathewson, Wiltse and Meyers, Wingo.

BLACKPOOL PAYS 50,000 DOLLARS FOR CELTIC STAR

LONDON, Nov. 19.—(CP Cable.)—Blackpool and Celtic figured this week in the first five-figure Old Country soccer fotoball transfer deal for nearly two years. The English club paid £10,000 ($50,000) for William Buchan, slim, fair-haired Scottish inside forward, who has been sought for several years by teams south of the border.

Incidentally the transfer cost the Seasiders the identical amount they received for Peter Doherty from Manchester City last year in the last deal of this size recorded. Buchan is 23 years old and regared as second only in skill to Tommy Walker, Heart of Midlothian star, for whom Arsenal offered £12,000 ($60,000) not long ago.

The Scot will receive £520 ($2,000) of the fee, making £130 ($650) for each of the years he spent with Celtic. His advent should do much to bolster the attack of Blackpool, now struggling to get away from the bottom of the league.

Seven thousand pounds ($35,000) was involved in each of the recent deals that sent George Hunt, Tottenham Hotspurs to Arsenal and G. Clayton from Wolverhampton Wanderers to Aston Villa.

Several teams will field revised teams in Saturday's matches. Many clubs have been hit severely by injuries, and are not deciding on their elevens until shortly before the hour for play.

Brentford, league leader, makes the long journey to Grimsby. It will be a hard battle for the Londoners, who lost 2-0 in the corresponding match last season. Charlton Athletic and Arsenal meet on the former's ground in one of the feature matches of the first division.

London fans were hoping Ted Drake would return to the Gunners' attack, but his injured leg gave him trouble in a trial against Cambridge University to-day, and he was limping at the end.

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd C'uckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

THERE'LL BE flying pigskins at Riverside Park tomorrow when the Albert Collitch crew of Belleville tangles with our P.C.I. Seniors at 2.30 o'clock. In a sudden-death C.O.S.S.A. playdown number. It'll be sudden death to the hopes of one team and the Ontario semi-finals for the other. Both squads have been highly touted by their followers but it'll be points, not words, which will settle the issue when the gladiators go on the gridiron Saturday after lunch. Ought to draw a huge crowd of fans, making plenty of whoopee—and remember it may be the last time the P.C.I.-ers are seen in action here this year. Even if they win, they may be ordered to play their next game (possibly a sudden-death tilt, too) away from home. Come out and give 'em a lot of vocal and financial support.

* * * * * * *

COACH BAMFORTH and his boys rate plenty of local backing. The team have been practising and playing hard all autumn, battling their heads off in slush and rain and mud—always turning in fine performances. They play a crowd-pleasing style of rugby, wide-open and tricky. The lads ask and give no quarter. Not only do they do everything but yank bunnies out of fedoras with their bewildering supply of trick stunts, but they can run, plunge, punt and pass. They will probably need everything for the Alberts.

* * * * * * *

AS FAR as the Peterborough lineup goes, there will likely be but one absentee, Creighton having a sore ankle. The Clark boys will be back, as well as Craig and Johnston. The latter will start back at snap, with Ascott and W. Turner flanking him on the line. Kelly and Curtin will carry the mail as middles, and Duncan and Csumrik will hold down the end berths. Scriver is being brought up from the junior squad to do duty as flying wing and ought to fit in okay, with Creighton out. Al Clark will be back on the half-line with Thornton and either Diplock or Gee Clark. Others are Northcott, P. Turner, Parnell, Craig, Ward and Dwyer, the latter a junior being promoted. This is the way the Garnet and Gray gang will probably face the barrier tomorrow.

* * * * * * *

PERHAPS we are too cocky about the Collegians; maybe they'll get their ears pinned back by the Albert outfit. The latter squad must have something to mop up on the Bay of Quinte group without a reverse, and then eliminate Marmora High in a playdown scrap. And Coach Beach must have a lot of confidence in his team when he agreed to play a sudden-death tilt right in Peterborough. No doubt, they are plenty good—there are no setups in playdowns—and these classy teams should make it a memorable melee.

ALL WEEK the local Orfuns have been orphans indeed, waifs of the wind—with no place to go for this Saturday's game. And at this writing they are still orphanistic—if we may be permitted such a remark. Probably we will get the final word today before the paper goes to press, and will slip the dope in somewhere, but at a late hour this a.m., Secretary Jim Morley of the local club was awaiting more word from Toronto. He and Prexy Lou Brooks have been battling via phone and wire for several days now with Secretary Bailey of the O.R.F.U. and the management of the Toronto City Club team. Seems the O.R.F.U. ordered the Toronto-Orfuns' first fixture here for this Saturday, though knowing our park wasn't available. The O.R.F.U. and the Toronto team claim there is no field available tomorrow in Toronto, so they will have to stage it here. The locals say ixnay.

* * * * * * *

HERE'S THE odd part of it. After reiterating the fact that they had no place to play in Toronto, the City Club management finally offered the Orfuns to play tomorrow in Toronto and back here the following week—if they got a guarantee of $50 to come here! Why in the name of Ebenezer's bushy red eyebrows should Orfuns have to guarantee 'em anything? And how come they can play in Toronto if there is no field—not even one of those high school gridirons or the Leafs' stadium—available? The wires and conversations fro mthe two parties in Toronto have sounded more fishy every time. Local moguls suspect 'tis a Hogtown angle, with the Toronto team wanting first game away from home and the O.R.F.U. looking for a gate and also helping the Toronto outfit. Yet they hope sometime to have Orfuns in the senior O.R.F.U. Well, the locals have offered to play 'em here tomorrow a.m. or on any field in any town—and they're now awaiting a final reply.

CHURCH CAGE Loop contests tomorrow e'en in the "Y": St. Andrew's Bantams vs. St. John's at 6.30, and St. Paul's Juveniles vs. St. John's at 7.15. By the way, Keith Hughes, late of Aylmer, who was killed in a car crash Wednesday night, was quite active in church sports before leaving Peterborough three years back. He was a good player in hockey, softball and basketball, and an active organizer in these sports at Knox United. He played on three champion teams, as catcher for the 1933 Knox juvenile softballers and as a defenceman for Knox Midgets in '31 and the Knox Juveniles of '32. His play was featured by an aggressive and effective style.

ROLLIE GLOVER, Harley Weir and Percy Bond of this city will take in the annual O.H.A. meeting in Toronto tomorrow. Local junior and intermediate O.H.A. prospects are invited to attend drills in the "Y" every night next week, starting Monday. Go up there around eight bells and get in on some of the classes and get in shape. The Hockey Club has made arrangements with the "Y" for these P.T. drills for a month. All prospects welcome. By the way, Wm. Moore, Box 103, Havelock writes us wanting to know if he can enter his team in a juvenile or junior "B" O.H.A. group, having a good gang of players who have been chasing pucks together for three years. If they were grouped with our Colts, he figures home games for Havelock would be at the Norwood Arena. Local officers, if interested, might contact Mr. Moore.

RACING STAKES MERELY HALVE STABLE COSTS

ARCADIA, Cal., Nov. 19.— After three years of diligent research it was established to-day that the sorrowing horse player is not alone in shouldering the burden of improveing the breed. The investigator, Santa Anita race track, discloses that the real sufferers are the owners of racing stables.

On figures compiled during the first three seasons here, the track estimates horsemen who come West this winter will spend $1,425,000 during an eighty-day stretch which encompasses Santa Anita's fourth fifty-six-day meeting. Over the same period the owners will compete for prize money of $766,700—or just half of their expenses.

The lot of the owners becomes ever harder when it is remembered that of the $766,700 in prizes, $150,000 is allotted to just two races, the Santa Anita Handicap at $100,000, and the Santa Anita Derby at $50,000. Subtraction of a half dozen other major stakes reduces the money available in regular racing day purses to slightly less than $500,000, a poor goal in face of expenditures of three times that much.

Minimum Purse $1,200.

At Santa Anita the odds are more favorable to horsemen than at most other tracks. The minimum purse—just the ordinary week-day event—is $1,200, one of the highest in America, and far above the average reward of $600.

After long weeks of study, track officials have discovered that the lowest daily figure at which a horse can be maintained is $7. Based on the 80-day training and racing season, the cost of the single meeting is $560.

That figure, multiplied by the 1,325 animals for which stall space has been requested, grows to a total of $742,000 for upkeep of the horses alone, without consideration for living costs of the owners and their families. The last item doubles the figure.

Some Depend on Wagers.

The answer to the problem, if there is one, may be found in two different sources. The more obvious is that the Vanderbilts, the Whitneys and the other wealthy families most prominent in racing are not operating for profit. The other is that at least a majority back their entries through the parimutuel board.

RANKINE BESTS BOSTON WINNER FOR CROWE CUP

MONTREAL, Nov. 19 (CP). — Robert (Scotty) Rankine, Preston, Ont., distance runner, was awarded the Norton H. Crowe Memorial Trophy today by the Amateur Athletic Union as the Dominion's outstanding athlete of the year.

The trophy committee, headed by A. A. U. President J. W. Hamilton, said the vote between Rankine and Walter Young of Verdun, Que., who won the Boston marathon this spring, was close. They were the only nominees considered.

Larry O'Connor of Cobourg, Ont., was recommended for the trophy by the Central Ontario branch but the application came too late, officials said.

Rankine was a member of the 1936 Canadian Olympic team and has been nominated for the trophy three times.

Suggests Baseball Olympic Program

MONTREAL, Nov. 19 (CP).—Addition of baseball to the Olympic program on an international basis might make the game a greater success in Canada, the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada was told at its annual convention Thursday. Last year two United States teams played an exhibition game at the Berlin Olympics.

Baseball is being played under the A.A.U. banner in Alberta, Saskatchewan, Manitoba, the Thunder Bay District and Quebec, a special committee report stated. But the Maritime Baseball Association has refused to link with the national organization and the Ontario Baseball Amateur Association has not replied to letters of inquiry.

Lingle Mungo Doesn't Like Manager Burleigh Grimes

Pitcher Claims He Will Sue Brooklyn Club For Back Pay

NEW YORK, Nov. 19—Van Lingle Mungo, baseball's biggest problem child, will not play again for the Dodgers as long as Burleigh Grimes is manager, he told The New York Daily News in an interview by telephone from his Pageland, S.C., home.

Mungo, twice suspended and fined $1,000 for arguments with his teammates and Grimes, sputtered a stinging indictment of the club and its officials into the mouthpiece, charging: (1) Grimes with fomenting his trouble because of personal jealousy; (2), That his suspension had cost him almost $15,000; (3), He would bring suit against the club for back pay due him.

Says Grimes Was Jaelous

"I like Brooklyn, always have, and always did the best I could there," said Mungo, "but I never will be able to get along with Grimes. He was jealous of my $18,000 salary and since he was getting $7,500 or so, he held it against me. He threw the salary matter up to me every time I turned in a poor performance and ridiculed me in front of the other players.

"He never gave me credit for double work and wouldn't believe I was sick before I had my tonsils out. I was always 'lazy' or 'shrinking'."

Asked if he ever wanted to play for Brooklyn again, Van said sure. "I would not take a cut for '38 under any condition," continued Mungo, "but even if they offer me $18,000 and I get my back pay, I won't play as long as Grimes is manager. I'd rather stay out of baseball for a year. By that time he'll make such a mess of things they'll get rid of him and I can come back."

"Dodgers Need Babe Ruth"

Van was just warming up. What does Brooklyn need in addition to a new manager?

"Listen, pal, they need about $800,000 in cash and Babe Ruth as a manager at $30,000 a year."

Mungo, who was fined $1,000 for a battle with his teammate, Jimmy Bucher, in St. Louis last May, was suspended again in August for failing to report for shoulder treatments. From August 28 on, he was fined approximately $100 a day.

"I intend to sue for $8,500 deducted from my pay because of the suspensions and fines," he said. "My second suspension caused me to lose a $5,000 broadcasting contract."

Mungo declined to say when his lawyers would institute proceedings.

Would Van like to be traded to any particular team? "I'd like to show what I can do with a real ball club and a real manager," he answered. "I don't care where I go, I'll play for Philadelphia or the Reds, but Chicago's a mighty good town."

Toronto Leafs Tie Canadiens While Bruins Beat Americans Conacher's Shoulder Bruised

Detroit Red Wings Are Beat 3-1 By The Chicago Black Hawks

TORONTO, Nov. 19 (CP).—Manager Art Ross, Coach Lionel Hitchman and the boys, known collectively as Boston Bruins, can step right up today and take a deep bow—which even their opponents can't begrudge them.

And while the plaudits are being handed out, it might be a good idea to reserve a cheer or two for Connie Smythe's merry Maple Leafs from Toronto, who come closest to Bruins in being the "sensations" to date in the National Hockey League.

While Coach Jack Adams was getting another big dose of worry as his world champion Detroit Red Wings lost last night, Bruins took their fourth victory in as many starts by whipping New York Americans, 2-1, in a game at New York. Leafs, also forging an unbeaten chain—but one that has some tie links in it—drew with Canadiens, 6-6, at Montreal. The hapless Wings were trimmed 3-1 in Chicago by Black Hawks.

Bruins, so far, have disposed of Montreal Maroons twice and have beaten both New York squads, Rangers and Americans, once. In contrast Leafs have played five, winning two and tieing three. That's the setup that provides a "natural" between the two teams in Toronto Saturday night.

Minus Eddie Shore.

As a convincer of their class, if any was needed, Bruins sped to victory with a crippled team. The fact they were minus burly Eddie Shore, their ace defenceman, and Forwards Ray Getliffe and Charlie Sands didn't bother them a whit, though loss of these three made them underdogs before the start of the game.

Victory for Bruins kept them still two points ahead of Hawks in the league's United States section. Hawks, who now have six points, are also two in front of Rangers, while Red Wings, still groping for the form that brought them the world championship the last two years, are an unhappy lot with three points.

The Boston victory also helped the Dick Irvin-coached Leafs in the International division. Leafs, in picking up a point with their draw, are now three points ahead of Americans and Canadiens, tied in second place with three points. Montreal Maroons, who play Rangers in a home game Saturday, are cellar dwellers with two points.

Things didn't look so bright for Bruins in the first half of their game with Amerks. Little Eddie Wiseman sent Amerks away to a lead in the first period with a long shot that fooled Goalie Tiny Thompson completely.

It wasn't until after ten minutes of the second period that Bruins got that one back, when Flash Hollett, their hefty young defenceman, scored unassisted. Then in the final period, less than two minutes from the end, Rookie Porky Dumart took a blueline pass from Milt Schmidt and rammed it by Goalie Earl Robertson for the winner.

The bombarding Leafs, who have scored 24 goals in five games, were led again by their ace line of Jack-

Remember When—

(By The Canadian Press)

The Amateur Athletic Union of Canada, meeting in Winnipeg Nov. 19, 1933, refused professional and amateur athletes permission to intermingle but granted reinstatement to salaried players three years out of competition.

BOND IN FAVOR DEFINITE BREAK WITH THE A. A. U.

MONTREAL, Nov. 19 — (CP). — The Amateur Athletic Union of Canada came to the crossroads today in its long battle over the definition of amateurism. With the opening of the Union's annual three day convention begins a showdown to determine how great a schism the A.A.U. will let its present definition make in the ranks.

Against those who defend the stand of utter amateurism are those who charge the existing rule has created widespread hypocrisy and who would broaden the definition, which the A.U. has drawn from the International Amateur Athletic Federation, controlling body of track and field.

The liberal group, led by Second vice-President G. Sydney Halter of Winnipeg, will seek legislation allowing each sport to employ the definition outlined by its own international controlling body. Failing that, Halter's followers will try for lesser measures.

Seek Return to Fold

The liberals seek principally a return to the fold of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, the Canadian Amateur Basketball Association and the Canadian Lacrosse Association, which broke from the A.A.U. when a move for a broader definition was refused at the 1936 convention.

Delegates were late in arriving and the president, J. F. (Jack) Hamilton of Regina, was not expected until just before the start of deliberations. Secretary John Leslie of Edmonton and Treasurer C. C. Robinson of Winnipeg were to come with him.

But a majority of representatives who checked in last night expressed opinions the conservative "old guard" would win its fight for the present definiiton, even though that victory almost surely would keep the three belligerent bodies outside the ranks for a long time.

To amend the constitution, the Liberals must obtain a two- t hirds vote. Then they have lost many of the hockey, basketball and lacrosse men who voted with them last year.

C.A.H.A. Stand Pat.

But there wag a growing feeling in the convention lobbies today that the C.A.H.A. would not return to A.A.U. affiliation no matter what move is made. Observers believe that feeling will steer votes away from the Liberals.

One of those indicating the C.A. H.A. attitude was C. Percy Bond, a nexacutive of the Ontario Hockey Association and an A.A.U. governor.

C.O.S.S.A. FINAL IN TORONTO

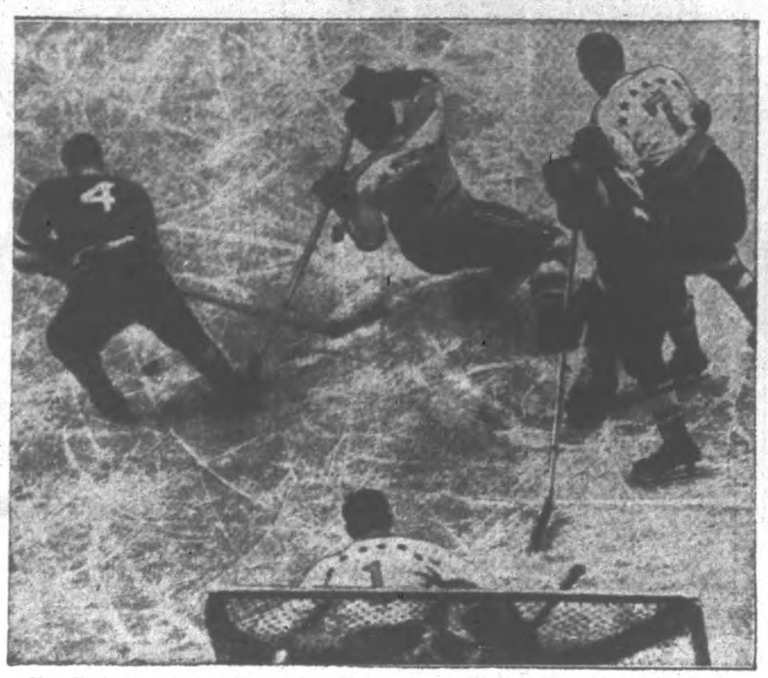
BOWMANVILLE, Nov. 19. — According to information given out by G. W. Colmer, Secretary of the C.O. S.S.A., last night, Bowmanville juniors and Orillia will meet in the junior football finals this Saturday. Scene will be Victoria College grounds, in Toronto, and the time of the game is 10:30 in the morning. One-half hour earlier Burlington and Barrie seniors are scheduled to meet.

son, Drillon and Apps. These marksmen accounted for half of the Toronto goals, each getting one. Other Leaf scorers were Horner, Boll and Kelly.

Paul Haynes led the Flying Frenchmen with two goals, while Joffre Desilets, Johnny Gagnon, Toe Blake and Rod Lorrain each scored one. The contest nearly proved disastrous for Leafs, when their giant right winger, Charlie Conacher, was thought to have suffered serious injury when he crashed into a goal post. However, examination after the game showed he had only a bruised shoulder and would undoubtedly be in the lineup for the Bruin game Saturday.

It was all Doc Romnes in the Chicago-Detroit clash as the veteran Hawk centreman ran wild for four minutes in the second period. In that short time Romnes scored twice and assisted in another scored by his line-mate, Paul Thompson. The only Detroit score came in the third period when Barry whipped home one after a pass from Eddie Goodfellow.

Earl Scores Second Shutout As Maroons Lose Out



New York Americans, with their rookie Earl Robertson in the nets, chalked up another National Hockey League win when they defeated Montreal Maroons in New York by a score of 2-0. It was Earl's second shut-out of the present campaign. The action photo here shows a Maroon rush being broken up by Art Chapman, No. 7, and Johnny Gallagher, No. 5, of Americans. The two Maroon players, who failed in their attempt to put the puck past Robertson, are Jimmy Ward, No. 4, and Russ Blinco, No. 14. Robertson can be seen in the net.

6 PLAYERS SPLIT LEAFS' COUNTERS MONTREAL GAME

MONTREAL, Nov. 19—Maple Leafs are still the unbeaten Leafs, the fighting Leafs. The same prolific scorers who made their reputation by featuring wide-open hockey. In as tough a game as they'll be in all season (and as interesting to watch) they held a flashy, high-speed Canadiens team to a 6 to 6 draw by dint of sheer perseverance. At no time were the Leafs in the lead. Twice they were down two goals, but their battling qualities pulled them out of the hole each time.

Only seconds of playing time remained when Harvey Jackson produced the tieing goal that sent the teams into an overtime session in which neither team added to the total of twelve tallies.

Canadiens matched Leafs in speed and fighting qualities most of the way, but were the ones who finally showed the signs of the withering pace. Once they entered the overtime, the Habitants seemed content to let it go at a division of points. Only occasional sorties, though dangerous ones, showed that they still had some idea that a stray shot might win for them.

Greyhound Is Becoming Lop-Sided For Always Racing The Same Way

LONDON, Nov. 18.—(CP).—Something's got to be done or future generations of greyhounds may be lop-sided. That's why Brig.-General A. C. Critchley, Canadian-born sports promoter, has decided to mix up programs at his big tracks.

He has announced a £1,000 race for right-handed championship to be staged next year. First there will be two right-hand races a week and later two a night to stabilize the strain.

A trial was made of the unorthodox way of racing and it was found the dogs put as much zest in running right-handed as they did the opposite way, but they took three-fifths of a second more to complete the course.

General Critchley, explaining the basis of his fears on greyhound deformity, pointed out the dogs turned two half-mile circles, always to the left, at an average speed of 35 miles an hour. And the dogs do two turns in 30 seconds.

So, he continued, they were constantly using one side of the body more than the other. This resulted in development of powerful shoulder muscles on the right side and compression and shortening of the left foreleg.

"It might even be six generations before any noticeable change appeared," he concluded, "but it would be certain to come. We are breeding deformed dogs."

HOCKEY DEATH SUIT

LONDON—(CP).—A. W. Nicholson was awarded $7,961 damages in a suit against Empress Stadiums, Ltd., following death of his 16-year-old son from injuries suffered in an accident at Earl's Court rink.

Paris will hold a Household Show.

ENGLAND TO MEET BEST IN SCOTLAND

LONDON, Nov. 19.—(CP Cable).—Leading English and Scottish football clubs will compete in a tournament early next summer at the Empire Exhibition to be held in Glasgow. Four teams from each of the major leagues will play for a trophy to be presented by the Exhibition authorities.

Aberdeen, Celtic, Hearts and Rangers will represent the Scottish League and the English League members are Arsenal, Chelsea, Manchester City and Sunderland. First round matches are scheduled for May 26, 27, 30 and June 1, with semi-finals, June 3, and the closing contest, June 6.

The matches will some some weeks after the close of the league campaigns. Scottish football ends, April 30 and English teams finish the season, May 7.

GORDON DRILLON HAS TEN POINTS TO LEAD FIELD

TORONTO, Nov. 19.—(CP).— A goal splurge by the scoring leaders in last night's National Hockey League games dropped three players out of hockey's big seven and left young Gordie Drillon of Toronto ahead of the pack with 10 points. His goal and assist against Canadiens put Drillon two points ahead of Team-mate Charlie Conacher and Doc Romnes of Chicago. Harvey (Busher) Jackson of Leafs, is alone in four place with seven, while Marty Barry of Detroit, and Mush March and Paul Thompson of Chicago have six each.

The leaders

	G.	A.	Pts.
Drillon, Toronto	5	5	10
Conacher, Toronto	5	3	8
Romnes, Chicago	4	4	8
Jackson, Toronto	5	2	7
Barry, Detroit	4	2	6
March, Toronto	3	3	6
Thompson, Chicago	1	5	6

OPEN GRID FRAY HERE TOMORROW

Plenty of open football is assured fans here tomorrow (Saturday) when Albert College of Belleville plays P.C.I. at 2.30 o'clock in Riverside Park in a senior C.O.S.S.A. sudden-death playdown game. Both teams favor fast, tricky and open styles of play, with the local outfit particularly adept at this dazzling system of rugby. They feature passing and running plays with a bunch of bewildering trick plays that have carried them through their schedule undefeated and mark them as a potential senior school grid championship squad. They are fast, husky and well-trained, drilling hard and often under Coach Bamforth.

The visiting outfit is also undefeated to date, having cleaned up the Quinte district handily and pointing toward a provincial title. They have a speedy backfield and a strong line, according to reports, and should hustle the local twelve all the way through. It shapes up as an exciting football fracas from start to finish, with the loser being eliminated from further competition and the winner advancing into the C.O.S.S.A. semi-final round. This tussle here tomorrow rates a big following of fans as the P.C.I. boys deserve vocal and financial support as they head into playdowns once more.

CO.S.S.A. FINAL IN TORONTO

BOWMANVILLE, Nov. 19. — According to information given out by G. W. Colmer, secretary of the C.O. S.S.A., last night, Bowmanville juniors and Orillia will meet in the junior football finals this Saturday. Scene will be Victoria College grounds, in Toronto, and the time of the game is 10:30 in the morning. One-half hour earlier Burlington and Barrie seniors will meet in a semi-final struggle on the Hart House back campus, and Peterborough and Albert College of Belleville will play the other semi-final.

First Of Section Playoffs Are Scheduled For Saturday Argos And Toronto U. Get Nod

Argonauts Whipped Ottawa Twice In Their Season's Schedule

TORONTO, Nov. 19 (CP)—The standout football teams of the east—all of championship calibre—come together tomorrow in the first of the section's playoff battles with the least attractive game, on paper, the one in which the season's greatest upset may be spotted. That could happen if Montreal Westmounts defeat Sarnia Imperials.

In what are likely to be tougher, more colorful and more interesting struggles, Ottawa Roughriders collide with Toronto Argonauts in the first of a two-game series for the Interprovincial Union championship and University of Toronto play the Western Mustangs in a sudden-death, second-place Intercollegiate Union playoff.

But while the majority of the east's football eyes are trained on Ottawa and Toronto for these intra-league games, a vigilant watch will be kept towards Sarnia where the ruling Imperial army is expected to march over the Quebec provincial champions. Westmounts, it is figured, are the sacrificial offering to keep Sarnia in tune for the eastern final.

Past performances—which sometimes don't mean a thing in playoff time—rate Argos and Toronto as winners. Both are undefeated this season against tomorrow's opposition.

Beaten Twice

Leaders of the Big Four during the regular schedule, Argos whipped Riders 12-6 and 11-7 in their two meetings. They were the better team in both games and Riders failed twice to stop the vaunted Argo end-running attack, the main offensive weapon of Lew Hayman's double-bille. Still Riders are no worse than even choice for this total-point series which will be resumed in Toronto next week.

If weather conditions are right, the Western-Toronto game will be played in the perfect collegiate football setting. Some 20,000 fans are expected to pack Varsity Stadium in Toronto to see two teams which excel in wide-open, daring football. Western were tied at home and beaten away in their two meetings with the Blue force this season.

The Westmounts-Sarnia game also will be a sudden-death affair with the winner likely to be called on to play the Big Four champions for the eastern title and the right to go against Winnipeg Blue Bombers challenging for the Dominion title.

SANTA CLAUS FOR KIDS

CHICAGO, Nov. 18.—Since 1933 Jack Manders has cost the Chicago Bears $300 worth of footballs. While trying for field goals and extra points, the former Minnesota star has kicked 36 balls over the north wall of Wrigley Stadium. Neighborhood kids camp outside the park every time the Bears play and wait for the pigskin to come sailing over.

Last Night's Stars

(By the Canadian Press.)

Harvey (Busher) Jackson, Toronto, scored last minute goal to give Leafs 6-6 draw with Canadiens.

Paul Haynes, Canadiens, counted two goals and an assist to lead his team's high scoring drive.

Porky Dumart, Boston, kept his team unbeaten and untied by third period goal that downed Americans 2-1.

HELP RELIEF FUND

STOKE, England—(CP)—A crowd of 25,000 saw Stoke City and Glasgow Rangers play a scoreless draw here in aid of the Brymbo Colliery disaster relief fund. The result was a fair indication of the play.

CHAPTER 41.

When Tim got back home the prospects of searching Adams' room for the "suicide" note did not look too good. Adams seemed to be feeling better, but he was in a sulky mood. He slouched into the living room as Tim was taking his tea.

"Get on all right without your page boy?" he asked.

"I managed," Tim replied, in a propitiatory tone. "But it was very inconvenient; if you're going to make a habit of not turning up I wish you'd let me know. I've got to have somebody to let people in."

"You needn't worry. I'm not thinking of giving up — not for the present, anyway."

"Good! . . . Are you feeling better this evening?"

"Yes, thanks. . . . You're very considerate all of a sudden. What's come over you?"

"Why all of a sudden? I don't see why our relations shouldn't be normally human ones, as far as the circumstances permit."

"Well, that's reasonable enough. . . . Let's go and have a game of pills. Tell you what—since you're so big-hearted I'll join the dance—I'll play you for love."

Tim shook his head. "Thanks, but I don't think I will this evening. I've had a hard day — I'm a bit tired."

"Turning Bolshy, eh? . . . Supposing I say you've got to play?"

Tim smiled. He was surprised at his own regained confidence. "You won't," he said. "You're not such a fool. I'm not absolutely your slave, Adams. You're not going to throw the whole thing up just because I don't feel like playing billiards with you for once in a way."

"No, I suppose I'm not, if it comes to that." Adams looked at Tim curiously. "You're in a funny mood, Kennedy. First of all as mild as milk, and now so blamed sure of yourself. . . . However. . . ."

He yawned and stretched himself. "Don't feel like loafing round here with nothing to do. I guess I'll go down to the Goose Quill."

Ten minutes after he had gone Tim went to the kitchen and gave the cook the tickets. "They're giving 'em away as an advertisement, I imagine," he said. "I don't care to go. . . . I thought you and Betsey might. Just put my supper out, and you can get off as soon as you like."

They were out of the house by a quarter past 7. Tim reckoned he had just over three hours. Adams would be the first to return, at about 20 past 10—he always stayed at the Goose Quill till the last possible moment and then scorched home on his bicycle.

Tim made short work of his supper and hurried upstairs. He found Adams' room locked, which was encouraging—if he was in the habit of locking his room before going out it was probable he had something important to secure. And Tim had a master key—a fact he was fairly certain Adams did not know. He entered the room and switched on the light.

His heart beating high, Tim commenced his search. The more obvious places first; they would have to be eliminated, and it could be done quickly. He turned out the drawers and the cupboards, unfolded all the clothes, and ransacked the pockets of all the suits he found. There were some letters and papers. Adams evidently had the habit of accumulating things in his pockets, and everything had to be carefully examined.

Tim next turned his attention to baggage. There was an army kit bag, a small attache case, and a tin trunk. The latter was locked; Tim began on the first two. The kit bag was easy; it was only halffull, and on being turned out revealed only soiled linen, an old pair of army boots, some string, and other miscellaneous junk. The attache case was quite empty. It was necessary to examine the trunk. It was secured by a padlock; Tim thought he could file through it, but the operation would take time.

However, the clasp securing the padlock was none too strong, and after working on it for a few minutes, using his pocketknife as a lever, he succeeded in breaking it. No hope now of concealing his activities; but if he was successful he would be able to laugh at Adams, if he failed he would be none the worse.

It looked as if the trunk would take time. There was not much in it, but the contents were mainly papers, all of which would have to be looked through.

There were letters. There were a number of newspaper cuttings, mostly relating to sport. There was "The Murphy Treatment—all desire for drink cured within 48 hours." There were two or three packets of picture postcards, of a mildly pornographic character. There was a loosely done up brown paper packet, containing ties, shirts and socks belonging to Tim—he remembered having missed some of the articles, over a long period, without ever having felt the losses keenly enough to investigate them. Suddenly he came across something truly suggestive. It was an envelope containing a birth certificate, and Adams' army discharge papers, which were supposed to be locked up with the letter at the solicitor's.

Tim redoubled his efforts. He went through everything in the trunk again, leaving nothing to chance. Useless—the letter was not there. But he now felt sure it was in the room somewhere. He turned up the carpet, trying for loose floorboards. He unmade the bed, feeling the mattress all over for the crackle of paper. He groped up the chimney.

Tim looked at his watch. It was only a quarter to 9, he had a full hour and a half more. He sat on the bed, and tried to think. If Adams had told the truth about the letter, why the unnecessary lie about the birth certificate and the army discharge papers? Was it an oversight? Had he intended to include the papers in the envelope for the solicitor, and omitted to do so? It was possible, but unlikely.

More probably Adams had at one time kept the letter with these papers, but had removed it for greater security. But where had he put it? Could he be taking the risk of carrying it about his person? Or of concealing it somewhere at the surgery? Surely not—nothing would be so safe as the man's own room. Tim felt the secret must lie here, if he could only read it.

He allowed his eyes to travel slowly round the room, considering every object in the light of a potential hiding place. The pictures . . . there were two reproductions of Landseer engravings. Tim took them down and examined the backs of the

By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY'S CHEER UP.

Uncle Wiggily was hopping through a field one day when down in the dried grass he heard a sound like:

"Queep! Queep! Queep!"

A very faint and little sound it was but the rabbit gentleman knew it wasn't made by a Bad Chap so he stopped and listened.

Again he heard the quavering sound;

"Queep! Queep! Queep!"

"Hello there!" called Uncle Wiggily. "Who are you and what's the matter?"

"I am a Cheer Up," was the faint answer. "And the matter is I am almost frozen. Jack Frost nearly got me last night."

"Oh, you poor little cricket!" said Uncle Wiggily, for now he saw crawling out on a grass stem, to get warm in the morning sun, a shining black insect he knew to be a chirping cricket, or Cheer Up as he called them. For to Uncle Wiggily the song of the cricket was almost cheerful.

"Poor little cricket!" said the rabbit kindly.

Invitation.

"Yes, I am poor," chirped the cricket. "I want to keep singing and cheering up every one as long as I can, but I am not made for cold weather. I have no fur coat like you, Mr. Longears."

"It is true I am better off in Jack Frost's kind of weather than you are, Cheer Up," said the rabbit. "But perhaps I can help you. Would you like to come and live in my warm bungalow for the Winter?"

"Indeed, thank you, I would," chirped the cricket.

"Then come along," said Uncle Wiggily. "When I am sad and lonely these long Winter evenings, when I can't go adventuring, you shall cheer me up."

"I'll do my best," promised the insect.

"Then I'll pop you into the warm pocket of my fur coat," said the rabbit.

"Oh, goodie! Goodie! Goodie!" chirped the cricket and soon it was snugly asleep in the rabbit gentleman's warm pocket.

As Uncle Wiggily hopped on over the fields and through the woods, up hill and down dale, he saw Curly Twistytail, the little piggie boy.

"Hello, Curly," greeted Mr. Longears.

"Hello, Uncle Wiggily!" grunted the piggie boy. "Are you going to see my daddy?"

"Why, no, I hadn't thought of it," said Mr. Longears.

"You promised you'd go see him," grunted Curly.

"So I did and so I shall!" said the rabbit. "I'll go now."

Sad Gentleman.

Uncle Wiggily hopped to the pen where he found his fat, gentleman pig friend sitting very sadly in a big chair.

"I've been waiting a long while for you, Wiggy," said the pig.

"I'm sorry," said Mr. Longears. "I've been very busy, painting my face like an Indian and war whooping at football games. But here I am now. But you look very sad, Twisty."

"I am sad," said the pig gentleman. "I feel just like crying. Boo hoo!"

"Oh, don't do that!" begged Uncle Wiggily, for well he knew when a pig gentleman starts crying it is hard for him to stop. "Cheer up, Twisty, my friend."

"No, I shall never be happy again," sighed Mr. Twistytail. "Boo!"

But just then the cricket, nice and warm in the bunny's pocket, began to chirp its song of "Cheer up! Queep! Cheer up! Queep!"

"Oh, what lovely music!" grunted the pig.

"I'll give you my cricket to keep you cheerful," said the rabbit and he did. So Mr. Twistytail was happy. And if the chewing gum doesn't bite the wheels off the roller skates so they can't pretend they're a motor cycle, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily's red berries.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LILY LAKE, Nov. 19.—Reports of the delegates to the convention of the Ontario Christian Endeavor Union were full of inspiration and enthusiasm for the large number of members and friends who attended the regular meeting of the local society on Monday evening.

Opening devotional exercises were conducted by the president, Miss Alta Wilson, Harold Thompson reading the scripture, Rev. Mr. Young of St. Andrew's United Church, Peterborough gave an interesting address at this period followed by the reports of the delegates who included the following: Reta Darling, Rhea Wilson, Izabel Young, Cecil Hancock and Stan Darling. The delegates thanked the members for the opportunity to attend the convention which was held at New Westminster Church at Hamilton over the Thanksgiving week-end.

Short extracts from the various reports might be of interest to other young people's societies. The first speaker was Cecil Hancock who told of a tour which a number of delegates took of the filtration plant at the north end of the city. This proved to be very interesting. The first evening the main speaker was Rev. Dr. W. C. McTaggart, of North Broadview Church, Toronto, his subject being "Jesus Never Fails." If young people of today, as well as older folks, would work more with God and for Him, bringing others to Him and trusting in Him, they would be glorified when the time came to join Christ in everlasting life.

Izabel Young the second delegate speaker told of the Fellowship Supper at New Westminster Church, with William Webster, Ontario president, presiding. Speakers included Rev. Maynan, Mr. McQueen, of Hamilton, Miss May Radford, of London, Charles Dawe, of Toronto and Mr. Gross, of Kitchener. The subject for the conference group attended by this particular delegate was "Breaking Down Race Barriers."

Reta Darling was the third speaker and she told of the conference groups "Helping Others To Be Christians" led by Rev. Arthur Greer, of Stouffville, "A9 Christian Use of Leisure Time" led by Cecil Brown of Hamilton. Panel discussion on these topics was conducted by Dr. Stanley Vandersall. On Sunday evening the main speaker was Rev. G. A. Sisco, a former minister of the United Church at Port Hope.. Rev. Sisco stressed the point that "although one day we may be poor, there are still plenty of days left for us to do the great work that is expected of us." Miss Kitty Summers of Sarnia, led the conference group "Intermediate C. E."

Miss Rhea Wilson, the fourth delegate, told of the Quiet Hour on Monday morning conducted by Miss May Radford, spuerintendent of Senior Christian Endeavor at Hamilton. J. A. Wilson was the main speaker, who took for his subject the convention motto "Christ For the Crisis," the motto being arranged in the shape of a cross and in large glittering letters, at the front of the church.

The thanksgiving dinner was served in the basement of the church and here many delegates enjoyed fellowship together, one of the main speakers being W. Webster, president of the Ontario Union.

Stanley Darling, also a delegate, spoke in the conference group which he had attended.

The Misses Helen Rowland, Evelyn Young and Rhea Wilson contributed a pleasing Hawaiian instrumental and a vote of thanks to the delegates for their inspiring reports was moved by Alta Wilson.

At the conclusion of the meeting refreshments and a social hour was enjoyed.

Mildred Steinkrauss, small daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Steinkrauss entertained a number of her little friends at an enjoyable birthday party held at her home on Saturday afternoon. Games and contests were enjoyed and at the tea hour refreshments were served to the little guests who included Jean, Florence and Winnifred Orr of Lakefield; Phyllis Rowland, Margaret Ackison, Audrey Hatherly, Barbara Ferguson, June Carl, Gladys and Jean Young, Violet and Ruth Steinkrauss.

Friends of Donald Wilson will regret to learn of his illness in Nicholls Hospital where he underwent an operation for appendicitis.

Wedding Saddened

Overcast by the tragedy which almost annihilated the bridegroom's branch of the ducal family of Hesse in an air crash at Ostend, Belgium, the marriage of Prince Ludwig von Hesse, social attachie to the German embassy in London, and Miss M. Geddes, daughter of Sir Auckland Geddes, noted diplomat and former principal of McGill University, took place in London. Prince Ludwig, who succeeds his brother as Grand Duke of Hesse, and his bride are pictured at RIGHT. At the LEFT is Princess Cecile, a cousin of the Duchess of Kent who was killed. ISAAC SOLLOWAY MUST STAND TRIAL

TORONTO, Nov. 19—(CP). — A special jury decided last night Isaac W. C. Solloway, former stock broker, must stand trial on 15 charges of theft, receiving and fraud involving a total of $2,020,740.

The jury was instructed by Judge Daniel O'Connell to return a finding that Solloway had not been previously tried on the charges listed.

Evidence on the charges was heard by Judge O'Connell Monday and Tuesday. Yesterday, the jury was sworn in to find whether Solloway had been tried previously on the same charges, as his counsel, C. W. Bell, of Hamilton, Ont., argued.

Judge O'Connell told the jurors their duty was to find a verdict of facts, but they should take their law from the presiding Judge. It was his opinion there were no question of facts in the hearing, but merely matters of law.

Solloway, he said, was convicted previously on indictments in Calgary in 1930, but was acquitted in the same year. Later he was acquitted on charges in Ottawa and Toronto.

"Dealing with the issue purely as a matter of law, in respect to the offences with which the accused is now charge, I instruct you to find that the accused has never been tried, acquitted or convicted," he said. "You can come to no other conclusion, then, except that these offences are entirely different offences.

The jury's finding was returned quickly. An intimation was made the finding might be appealed.

Memorial Fund For Kipling Launched By His Admirers

Three-Fold Objective Is Set Out By Organizers Of Campaign

LONDON, Nov. 19—(CP Cable). —From the far corners of the Empire that Kipling praised in story and song, boys will come to the Imperial Service College at Windsor on bursaries in the name of the Rudyard Kipling Memorial Fund.

The fund was given its formal send-off last night when 900 admirers of the author who died in January, 1936, gathered at a banquet in his honor and subscribed £10,000 ($50,000) to add to $35,000 previously promised. The fund aims at a total of £250,000 to be spent on a three-fold memorial.

It plans to create 50 bursaries at the service college, now at Windsor, which Kipling attended when, under another name, it was situated near Westward Ho! in the Devon country. They will be open to the sons of men who served the Empire.

The secondary objective is to build a memorial library in the college grounds.

A suitable memorial will be erected at Westward Ho! where arrangements have been concluded with the Northam district council to secure the Kipling tors (hills) around which the famed adventures of Stalky & Co. took place.

To honor their boyhood companion, two men now approaching great age attended the banquet and reminisced of their gay days when with "Beetle"—the inky-fingered young Kipling—they plagued "Mr. King," "Mr. Prout" and "The Head" himself.

Schoolday Chums.

They are stalky—Major-General L. C. Dunsterville—and Noturk—G. S. Beresford—Kipling's schoolday inseparables. General Dunsterville, after many years' service in India and Egypt, led the gallant but little know British expeditionary force that fought Germans in Persia during the Great War.

Winston Churchill was the main speaker to the gathering of statesmen, churchmen, noblemen, authors, sailors and citizens who thronged the banquet hall and heard messages read from the King and from all parts of the Empire.

It was almost entirely an Empire function and Mr. Churchill paid tribute to Kipling's vivid portrayal of the "spacious panorama" of the Empire. His recessional—the fervent "Lest We Forget"—should be firmly planted in the minds of all youth, Mr. Churchill said.

The King's message termed Kipling's genius "the common heritage of all who speak the English tongue."

A moment later, trembling, hardly able to believe his good fortune, Tim held the letter in his hand. At last he was free! A great wave of relief and joy surged through him, informing all his body with well-being.

He was allowed to savor freedom for just 10 seconds.

JAP LEGIONS SMASH THREE GAPS IN LINE

"Hindenburg" Defence Breaks at Both Ends

SHANGHAI, Nov. 20 (A.P.). — Japan's legions surged toward Nanking, China's capital, to-day through three gaps in the main Chinese defences.

Soochow, pivotal strongpoint of China's "Hindenburg" line west of Shanghai, fell to the Japanese after a bombardment. Japanese said the Chinese army was retreating in confusion from the city, 50 miles west of Shanghai, and about 125 miles east of Nanking.

Both ends of the "Hindenburg" line also had been turned by the Japanese to-day, the 100th day of hostilities on the Shanghai front. Kashing, 25 miles south-east of Soochow, was in Japanese hands. A third Japanese column had skirted Changshu, 25 miles to the north.

Chinese did not deny the fall of Soochow. They said the vital defence centre was abandoned after it virtually had been razed by Japanese aerial bombs. They declared their troops, however, still defended Changshu, northern anchor of the line.

Kashing Falls.

Chinese said Kashing capitulated only after severe street fighting. A Japanese communique reported Japan's southern forces 15 miles north of Kashing in pursuit of Chinese troops fleeing westward toward Nanking along China's ancient grand canal.

Division of opinion appeared in Nanking over the advisability of making a last-ditch stand in the capital's defence or saving it from destruction by withdrawing.

General Chiang Kai-Shek and his aides were understood to favor defending Nanking at all costs. A growing faction, however, advocated withdrawal before the Japanese arrived.

Another Chinese force fought in North China to defend Ts'anfu, capital of Shantung Province, the only provincial capital uncaptured in the Japanese northern conquest.

An Easy Capture.

SHANGHAI, Nov. 20.—(AP).— A Japanese army spokesman said today that 15 Japanese soldiers under a lieutenant captured Soochow, keystone of China's "Hindenburg line," without firing a shot.

The spokesman said the fall of Soochow, 50 miles west of Shanghai, was "one of the most amazing captures of an important city in all the annals of war."

According to this account there was no real Chinese resistance at Soochow, considered the gate to Nanking, the Chinese capital, from which the government formally withdrew to-day.

FARM HAND HELD ASSAULT CHARGE

BELLEVILLE, Ont., Nov. 19.—(CP)—David J. Lunn, 24-year-old farm hand, was arrested near Melrose, 30 miles northeast of here last night after allegedly assaulting his employer's wife, Mrs. Arthur English, and stealing $9. Lunn pleaded guilty today to a charge of theft and was remanded for sentence.

According to police who arrested Lunn the accused man entered his employer's wife's bed room during the absence of English last night and struck Mrs. English several times. Later he stole the money and fled.

Besides the theft charge, charges of indecent assault and assault, causing actual bodily harm were preferred today.

Repelling Invasion Man Is Arrested

White Plains, N.Y., Nov. 19

Police said Robert formed a one-man army, after appealing in vain to friends for assistance, and took the field against the British with a shotgun. He was overpowered after shooting at a policeman who "suspected" that Robert had been drinking.

RUSSIAN, CHINESE HEADS ESTRANGED ON ARMS DELIVERY

TOKYO, Nov. 20 (C.P. Havas).—The Domei (Japanese) News Agency reported to-day it had learned from reliable sources that the Soviet and Chinese Governments have become estranged over the question of promised Soviet munitions shipments to China.

According to Domei, Dmitri Bogomoloff, Soviet Ambassador to China, who flew suddenly to Moscow in September, is in no hurry to return to China.

The Japanese news service reported that the Soviet Union adopted a non-committal attitude when the Chinese Government asked it to observe the clauses of an alleged secret Sino-Russian military agreement. The Russians, Domei alleged, are furnishing arms to the former Chinese Communist armies, which are co-operating with Nanking, but have put up difficult conditions in regard to shipments to Nanking itself.

MARTIN TACKLES STRIKE BREACH

PONTIAC, Mich., Nov. 20 (AP).—Homer Martin, president of the United Automobile Workers of America, headed for Pontiac today to address strikers who have disregarded the exhortations of their officers to withdraw from the Fisher Body Corporation plant here.

Martin, announcing in Chicago last night his intention of coming here, did not say what stand he would take when appearing before the strikers.

He already was scheduled to address an afternoon U.A.W.A., meeting at Flint. His supporters there said his purpose would be to close a breach in the ranks of the Flint local, one of the two largest in the international union.

The Fisher strikers have held the local plant since Wednesday night, about 450 of them dividing into three shifts, coming and going much as if they were working. The sit-down brought idleness to almost 16,000 General Motors Corp., workers in the Fisher and Pontiac motor car divisions here.

Neither union heads nor corporation executives have revealed any steps to open peace negotiations.

Bruce resign his position as rumored in Ontario political circles. Premier King has admitted a communication from Dr. Bruce, LOWER LEFT, but has declined to make its contents public. Chorley Park, shown in the UPPER photograph, was completed in 1915 at a cost to the province of Ontario of about $1,000,000. Successor to Dr. Bruce as lieutenant-governor is rumored as Duncan Marshall, LOWER CENTRE, former minister of agriculture in the Hepburn cabinet until defeated at the last election. Premier Mitchell Hepburn, LOWER RIGHT said that while Dr. Bruce was retained the government would continue the residence, but that following the lieutenant-governor's regime it would be closed up.

Eyston Predicted Back Next Year

Bonneville Salt Flats, Nov. 20

WITH the salt dust hardly settled on Captain George E. T. Eyston's 311.24-mile an hour land speed record, friends predicted today he'll be back next year for a shot at the 350 mark.

Eyston's eight-wheeled "Thunderbolt" smashed Sir Malcolm Campbell's 301.12 record for the measured mile yesterday. En route it was clocked over a measured kilometre at a sensational 319.11.

Eyston refused to say definitely he would return but hinted at another speed drive when he said Thunderbolt "clearly demonstrated its possibilities."

New Zealand Officer And Woman Companion Break 5 Records In 12,000-Mile Hop

CROYDON, Kent, Nov. 20 (CP-Havas).—Flying Officer A. E. Clouston and Mrs. Betty Kirby-Green today broke the London-Cape Town-London air record, landing here at 3.22 p.m. (10.22 E.S.T.). Covering the 6,000 miles from the Cape in 57 hours, 22 minutes, they bettered the Cape Town-London record set by H. L. Brook in May by nearly 39 hours and lowered the round-trip record held by Mrs. Amy Johnson Mollison by three days, 16 hours.

The New Zealand Royal Air Force officer and Mrs. Kirby-Green completed the 12,000-mile round trip in four days, six hours, 27 minutes. Mrs. Mollison last year took seven days, 22 hours, 40 minutes in setting the record that stood until today. These times do not include the stopovers at the Cape.

All together Clouston and his companion broke five records—London-Cairo, London-Johannesburg, London-Cape Town, Cape Town-London, and the London-Cape Town-London round trip.

Curiosity Leads To 'Fraud' Arrest

HAMILTON, Ont., Nov. 20 (CP).—Curious as to the reason for police inquiries he knew were being made, Harvey Patterson, 35, of Aldershot, visited police headquarters Friday and was arrested by Detectives Joseph Duffy and Ernest Barrett at the request of Toronto police, who said he was wanted in Toronto on two charges of fraud, involving $6,400.

J. R. Crocker, inspector of detectives, said Toronto police officials had been advised of the arrest and that officers would arrive here to take Patterson to Toronto.

MISSING ONE YEAR JOSEPH KELLY IS TAKEN IN QUEBEC

KINGSTON, Nov. 20. — Joseph Kelly of Verona, a former county constable of Frontenac County, believed to have been murdered over a year ago, was arrested Friday afternoon by the Royal Canadian Mounted Police in Montreal on a warrant issued by the Ontario Provincial Police. Kelly will face charges of desertion when he returns to this city on Saturday.

Kelly, who was believed to have been dead, disappeared from his home in July of 1936, leaving a wife and eight children. Two months previously, early in May, his house was dynamited.

Possessing informationg leading them to believe Kelly was still living, Provincial Constable Joseph Nelson of Kingston and T. J. Rigney, Frontenac County Crown Attorney, refused to believe he was dead. The Mounted Police, who were notified succeeded in locating the missing constable in Montreal.

The dynamiting of the Kelly home, which wrecked the verandah and front of the house, caused no personal injury to any member of the Kelly family, it was learned. Chalies of Bellrock, a neighboring village, was charged with the offence, but was acquitted of the charge by a jury in June of 1936. A month later Constable Kelly disappeared.

A body which was plowed up in a field several miles south of Enterprise last June, and thought to be the body of Kelly, had been buried for more than fifty years, the Coroner learned.

Wing-Tip Hits Water As Victim Tries To Land at Airport

Young New Zealander is Dead When Rescuers Lift Craft From Water by Use of Dredge

TRENTON, Nov. 19.—(CP)—Flight Lieutenant F. J. L. Taylor of the Royal Canadian Air Force drowned today when his land plane somersaulted in the Bay of Quinte, beside the R.C.A.F. training field here, and sank.

Taylor, 28-year-old native of New Zealand, was attempting to land his machine at the airport when a wing-tip struck the water in a channel between Baker's Island and the mainland.

"He apparently misjudged the height of his plane owing to the glassy appearance of the water," said an official statement issued by Wing Commander A. E. Godfrey. "The plane sank immediately after turning over."

Officers and men at the Air Force field saw the accident, which occurred a short distance south of the airport. They recovered Taylor's body in a short time, using a dredge to raise the plane.

The young flier's parents live at Invargill, New Zealand.

The fatality was the second here in a little more than a month. When two training machines collided in mid-air October 18, three were killed. They were Pilot Officer R. Doucett of Shediac, N.B.; Flight Lieutenant J. A. MacInnes of Trenton and Flight Sergeant E. F. O'Connor of Ottawa.

CALL TANK CORPS OUT FOR PATROL IN AKRON STRIKE

PORT CLINTON, O., Nov. 20.—(AP).—The 37th Tank Corps, Ohio National Guard, was ordered mobilized to-day for duty at Akron, where a sit-down strike of rubber workers has closed the plant of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company, making 12,000 idle.

Medical units of the 148th infantry also were mobilized.

Captain Joseph Braddock, commander of the company, said that the tanks would not be taken to Akron, but the men would move immediately in trucks.

Commanding officers of the regiment of which Port Clinton Co. is a unit, already are en route to Akron.

Codos Testing Air Menaces At Sea

LE BOURGET, France, Nov. 20 (CP-Havas)—Paul Codos took off here today on an experimental flight to Buenos Aires in which he will defy nature by choosing the altitudes known for bad flying conditions.

Flying in stages and making no attempt to set a speed record, the noted French aviator will seek to learn the causes of repeated accidents over the South Atlantic, he said.

With three assistants, Pilot Reine, Wireless Operator Gimie and Mechanic Vauthier, Codos started his unusual flight in a four-motored plane which competed in the recent Istres-Damascus-Paris air race.

With the aid of the maps and sketches from Ottawa, the excavations have been proceeding under the direction of Lieut. Colonel W. G. Hagarty, officer commanding the Royal Canadian horse artillery.

Late last month traces of the original wall of the fort were discovered. It is believed the old Fort Frontenac was built no later than 1695.

DUKE OF AOSTA MADE VICEROY OVER ETHIOPIA

Duce Takes African Portfolio in Shakeup

ROME, Nov. 20.—(AP)—Premier Mussolini today announced a shakeup in his cabinet and colonial administration in which the Duke of Aosta was named viceroy of Ethiopia and Il Duce himself assumed the African portfolio.

The 39-year-old Duke of Aosta, a tall officer of the air corps who helped conquer Ethiopia, was appointed in the place of the veteran colonial warrior, Marshal Rodolfo Graziani. Aosta is a first cousin, once removed, of King Vittorio Emanuele.

In taking charge of the ministry for Italian Africa, Mussolini replaced Alexandro Lessona. Il Duce honored General Attilio Teruzzi, a veteran of the Spanish campaign, by naming him first assistant in the African ministry.

Finance Minister Theon di Revel, Jr., was replaced by Felice Guarneri, who had been his undersecretary. Renato Ricci, former head of the fascist youth organizations, became an under-secretary in the ministry of corporations.

6 ARMY JUMPERS PROVIDE THRILLS

TORONTO, November 20—(CP)—The Royal Winter Fair entered the second half of its eight-day program to-day on a note of confidence in the future of Canada's agriculture. The increase of public interest in the Dominion's largest farm show heartened both executives and exhibitors and brought a flow of money to fore-sighted concession men.

An enthusiastic crowd jammed the horse show arena last night and many went home with sore throats because of the enthusiasm aroused by the spectacular army jumping teams. The biggest attendance of the Fair swelled the total which was already half as big again as in the preceding year.

Two members each of the Canadian, United States and Belgian teams placed in the first six jumpers in the $500 stake event. A frantic three-trial jump-off was followed by the flip of a coin to give Lieut. Scott M. Sanford of United States preference over Commandant de Menten de Horne of Belgium.

The other big event, a knock down and out affair, went one-two to a Toronto father and his son after two perfect rounds. Tom Fields showed Tom, Junior, no mercy, and his added experience in the showring may have decided the placing.

4 Narcotic Raids Put 23 In Jail

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20—(AP). — Treasury agents struck a blow today at what they called one of the United States largest narcotics syndicates, with a series of simultaneous raids that landed 23 men and women in jail.

Officials said it was the most extensive attack against alleged distributors of narcotics since March, 1935, when more than 1,000 persons were arrested.

The agents, in squads, struck at the same hour last night on prearranged orders. They arrested 16 in New York City, three in Boston, two in Chicago and two in San Francisco. Major Garland Williams, Supervisor of the Narcotics Bureau for the New York district, said the raids were aimed at three interlocked gangs which did a $500,000 annual business.

Bennett Sees Blow To Canada In Anglo-U.S. Trade Pact

Japanese Cherry Trees In U.S. Arouse Wrath

Washington, Nov. 20.

REP. Virginia E. Jenckes (D., Ind.), today startled a meeting of the Daughters of the American Revolution by demanding that Washington's famous Japanese cherry trees be uprooted and sold for firewood.

Mrs. Jenckes said the trees are "a symbol of Japanese propaganda," and denounced Japan for "purchasing military secrets" from former Lieut.-Commander John S. Farnsworth of the navy, now in prison.

Warns Peace Gesture Means End Of Preference For Many Commodities

HALIFAX, Nov. 20 (C.P.).—Canadians to-day had a message from Conservative Leader R. B. Bennett urging them to "bring all the pressure in your power" to prevent loss of the British preference through completion of an Anglo-American Trade Treaty, now under consideration.

Loss of the British preference, he said, would give American exporters "the market Canada now has and we lose that which we had."

Loss of the preference could not come about unless the Canadian Government agreed to bury the agreement with Britain, Mr. Bennett said.

Tariffs were only intended to provide an equality of opportunity, he said regarding the Canadian preference in the British market.

An agreement between Canada and the United States was complete except for one term when his government left office, Hon. Mr. Bennett said. He had sought free entry into the United States for Canadian fish and potatoes, but "they wouldn't give it and I.... wasn't prepared to enter into an agreement even though there was an election in the offing."

Preferences To Go.

Giving the markets of Great Britain to the United States was termed a "great and noble gesture" made

Verdun Mayor Calls In Police As Family Threatened

Phone Calls Warn "We Won't Miss Next Time"

MONTREAL, Nov. 19.— (CP).—Herve Perland, dapper mayor of suburban Verdun, to-day requested provincial police to investigate threatening telephone calls he and members of his family received yesterday.

The stocky chief magistrate of Quebec's third largest city said he "would go to the bottom of this." "Personally," he added, "I am not afraid, but I must think of my wife and children."

A colorful figure in the political life of Montreal and neighboring Verdun, the mayor received the threats yesterday. Members of his family and he answered telephone calls threatening harm. One of the callers said: "We didn't succeed this time, but we won't miss the next time."

Throughout the night, two Verdun policemen stood guard outside the large St. Lawrence Riverside home of the mayor on Boulevard Lasalle. The constables were placed there after the mayor appealed to Chief Dubeau of Verdun for protection.

The mayor was taking no chances, though he considered the calls might have been meant merely as a "joke." Nevertheless, he said, attempts would be made to trace the threatening calls. The 48-year-old mayor is the father of seven children.

Bushman Gets Bear With His Knife

Gaspe, Que., Nov. 20 (CP)

WITH only a pocket knife as weapon, a woodsman fought a battle to the death with a big bear in the woods near Madeleine river.

The shantyman—his name was not learned here—won the fight but had to be taken to hospital for treatment for several ugly scratch wounds.

He was alone when confronted suddenly by the Bruin. Man and beast came to grips. The bear clawed and the woodsman stabbed. Eventually a knife blade drive to the hilt in the bear's throat ended the struggle.

Siamese Pussy Gets Worst Of It At A Rat, Cat And Mouse Show

New York, Nov. 20 (CP)

MARVELLA, a member of the Siamese cat family, was treated for painful paw injuries today, after Minnie, a fancy rat, had bitten her at the first combined rat, cat and mouse show ever held in the United States.

The accident occurred when photographers attempted to make a picture of the couple together. Just as the camera was ready to click, Marvella reached out a timid paw and Minnie bit it. The cat cried out but made no attempt to retaliate.

Her mistress protested against subjected well-bred cats to the danger of being exhibited with rats and mice. But Rev. R. W. Ferrier, who organized the American Mouse Fanciers' Club, came to Minnie's defense, insisting that the rat acted in self defense.

170,000,000 People In The Soviet Union To Fight With Red Army Next War

Moscow, Nov. 20 (AP)

P. E. Dybenko, commander, of the Leningrad military district said today every Soviet citizen would fight in the red army in case of war.

Dybenko, whose rank corresponds to general, said: "Our enemies are trying to figure out what our army would be in case of war. Our army will be the 170,000,000 people in the Soviet Union."

Dybenko's speech was made in an election district where he was the unopposed nominee for the Supreme Soviet, to be elected December 12.

ONTARIO'S CROP OF GRAIN BEST SINCE YEAR 1931

TORONTO, Nov. 20. — Ontario's total grain production in 1937 is estimated by the Provincial Department of Agriculture at 154,188,000 bushels, compared with a 1936 total of 135,449,000 bushels and a ten-year average of 169,966,000. The estimate was contained in the department's crop report for November.

"This year's grain crop will exceed that of any year since 1931, with the exception of 1935," the report said. Yields per acre were generally higher than last year, especially in central, western and southern areas.

"In Eastern Ontario, yields, particularly of grain, showed a substantial decline from last year due to a combination of adverse factors, including an exceptionally late seeding, premature ripening and extensive rust damage," the report said.

Fall wheat production was estimated at 18,892,000 bushels, compared with 12,478,000 in 1936. Spring wheat crop was the lowest in ten years at 1,661,000.

An average barley crop of 16,030,000 was estimated, and rye and beans were above average. The potato crop was set at 10,130,000 hundredweight, an increase of 850,000 over last year.

Sugar beets, grown chiefly in Kent, Essex and Lambton Counties, suffered from excessive moisture, and the total yield this year was 240,000 tons, as against 391,000 in 1936. Acreage and yield per acre also showed a reduction.

WOULD RESTORE POWER TO BISHOP

LONDON, Ont., Nov. 20.—(CP).—Complete revamping of the Church of England's administrative and legislative structure which would rid it of parochialism—the "every church for itself" attitude—is advocated by Rev. H. E. Merifield, rector of Trinity Anglican church, Brantford.

In a two-hour talk to the Laymen's Association of East Middlesex, at the annual meeting last night, the Brantford minister outlined a program of reorganization which, he said, was designed to make the church efficient in all departments, and "business-like in its business dealings."

The Brantford minister's plan called for the restoration of power to the Bishop, power that made for unity of the church; the appointment of members of select vestries as lay delegates to the Synod; division of the Synod body of 300 laymen and clergymen into four groups, finance, property, management and education, each of the groups or committees to be headed by an Archdeacon; appointment of an executive of 36 members, instead of the present 60, also divided into four similar groups. In this latter case, Mr. Merifield suggested that the Synod elect four men for each group or committee, two laymen and two clergy, another four members for each to be appointed by the Bishop. This, with an Archdeacon to head each, would provide committees of nine men.

Too, Mr. Merifield advocated a system of grading both parishes and clergy, the establishment of a college of preachers to correct faults in speaking and mannerisms of ministers; establishment of a college of laymen—a college to train laymen that they might better represent their church.

Odd Companions

Odd bed-fellows, but pals indeed, are this couple, a baboon and a white rabbit whose living quarters are in the Bronx Zoo in New York. At top, Babe Baboon indicates that he is aware of the camera by puffing out his chest importantly, but in the centre he decides against being too friendly and cuddles against his companion. In the bottom photo that too is changed; peeping Toms or no peeping Toms, they've got to ——!

Oxen Turn Tables On Eskimos

SEATTLE, Nov. 20 (A.P.). — Musk oxen are getting to be quite a problem of Nunivak Island, near Point Barrow, Alaska.

The Eskimos exterminated them in 1866, so the U.S. Biological Survey brought th some more to provide food and wool. Now the oxen threaten to exterminate the Eskimos. Captain Isak Lystad, of the motorship Boxer, brought a letter here to-day from Arthur Nagozruk, Nunivak school teacher, asking Uncle Sam to send wire fencing to keep the animals from overrunning their village and killing their dogs.

NO ONE BLAMED MITCHELL DEATH

ORILLIA, Ont., Nov. 20 (CP). — An open verdict was returned last night by a coroner's jury investigating the death of Bruce Mitchell, 29, of Dunford, near Lindsay. Mitchell was killed in an automobile accident about 12 miles east of here October 23.

He was driving at the time with his brother, Laverne, from Gravenhurst to his home when he collided with a car driven by Walter Deverell, 37, Orillia, at an intersection. The jury recommended stop signs be placed at the intersection.

in England at the Imperial Conference towards securing the peace of the world. "And now we are to see this noble gesture take shape and form. These family preferences are to go and you are to compete with your great neighbor to the south with respect to every commodity on which the preference is removed."

A $50,000,000 investment was at stake in the Okanagan Valley, in British Columbia, and the Annapolis Valley fruit belt in Nova Scotia was the same.

The Canadian constitution made no provision for amendments said Mr. Bennett. It was necessary to go to London to have the difficulties in the working of the constitution removed.

The Rowell Commission on Dominion and Provincial affairs was set up by Premier Mackenzie King, but it was a political commission, the speaker said. Only Liberals were represented.

Amendments to the constitution should under a democracy be made by representatives of the people, Mr. Bennett said. The present Government had set up the commission to evade responsibility.

WILLIAM LABADIE WILL SERVE LIFE IN PENITENTIARY

TORONTO, Nov. 20.—The death sentence on William Labadie, 17-year-old Lambton farm boy, has been commuted to life imprisonment, his counsel, Wilfred S. Haney of Toronto, was informed last night by telegram from Ottawa.

The clemency was granted by the Governor-General-in-Council and the notification to Mr. Haney came from the Under-Secretary of State.

Labadie was condemned for the murder of John Luckin, 7-year-old son of his employer. Crown alienists testified at the trial that Labadie's intelligence was subnormal.

The telegram read as follows:

"His Excellency the Governor-General has commuted to life imprisonment the death sentence passed on William Labadie tried for murder at Sarnia.

(Signed) O'MEARA.
Acting Under-Secretary of State.

Convicted September 30.

William Labadie, whose sentence of death for murder was commuted by the Dominion Government Friday night, was convicted by an Ontario court jury here last September 30 of the murder of 7-year-old John Luckins March 2. The jury recommended mercy.

The 17-year-old farmhand was sentenced the following day by Mr. Justice John Keiller MacKay to be hanged December 13. The youth merely gulped once or twice as he heard the sentence, maintaining the composure he had shown throughout his three-day trial.

Young Luckins was found in a horse stall in a barn on his father's farm March 11. The boy's head was battered, apparently by a hammer, and his hands were tied behind his back. He died the following day in a Sarnia hospital. The same day, Labadie, an employee of Thomas Luckins, father of the boy, was arrested at his grandfather's home.

In the trial, the Crown charged Labadie killed Luckins for the thrill or for purpose of theft. The defence claimed he did not know the nature of the act because of drunkenness and the low calibre of his mentality. In charging the jury, Mr. Justice Mackay mentioned the fact Labadie's mother and father became separated when he was an infant, leading, he said, to an almost complete absence of home training.

Jury Out Seven Hours.

The jury required seven hours to reach a decision after returning to the court room for fresh directions from the presiding Judge. Mr. Justice MacKay, after receiving the jury's verdict, said it had "performed a difficult task honestly, conscientiously and courageously."

Petitions for Labadie's commutation had been circulated throughout this district for several weeks. Had the sentence been carried out, Labadie would have been the youngest person in Canada to be hanged. In New Brunswick, Arthur W. Bannister was seven months past his seventeenth birthday when charged with murder, but passed 18 before sentence of death was carried out.

QUIET AND FORCEFUL

CHICAGO, Nov. 20. — (AP).—Members of the Illinois Bar Association were advised by Paul Farthing, blind Chief Justice of the Illinois Supreme Court to tone down their voices and talk less.

He said a presiding Judge wants to hear:

"A quiet presentation of argument without shouting that shakes the chandeliers, and avoidance of Fourth of July and Washington's birthday speeches.

"A clear, concise statement of the facts."

JUDGE AT ROYAL STRUCK IN FACE BY EXHIBITOR

TORONTO, Nov. 20.—Before a large crowd of excited spectators, James Franceschini, Toronto horseman, and a judge at the Royal Winter Fair Show, engaged in an altercation yesterday afternoon that involved fisticuffs and police intervention.

The judge, Charles J. Barrie of New Jersey, judging harness horses and harness ponies at the Fair, stated last night that he was going to present a request that the exhibitor be barred before a meeting of the Horse Show Committee of the Royal today.

Officers of the committee last night admitted that "some action certainly will be taken," but beyond that refused further comment.

Franceschini's horses did not appear in classes in which they had been entered to appear last night. Their absence, members of the committee admitted, was because of the altercation of the afternoon.

"After all," said Mr. Barrie last night, "we judges are entitled to some protection. I was struck in the face, and when I received the blow I turned away and proceeded directly to the Horse Show committee to report the affair."

Although Mr. Barrie did not see the "free-for-all," which is said to have occurred directly after his departure, he intimated that "a few friends of mine" had been involved in an altercation with some other spectators of the affair.

WINDSOR, Ont., Nov. 20.—(CP).—Incorporation of the Sunday school into the main body of the church is the solution to the problem of steadily decreasing church school attendance, said Miss Metammis Semmens of Toronto, children's work secretary of the United Church of Canada, last night to the members of the Sunday School Union.

In the past three years, Sunday school atetndanse has dropped 17 per cent, said Miss Semmens, and suggested that teachers might revive the interest of the children by considering them members of the church, and including them in church affairs, instead of setting up a separate administration for them.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG, Nov. 20 (C.P.). — Wheat futures, lacking leadership from Liverpool, sagged on Winnipeg Grain Exchange on liquidation induced by progressively lowering Buenos Aires prices and late weakness in North American stock markets. At the close of a nervous session, prices were 3¼ to 2⅝ cents lower.

Buyers generally clung to the sidelines and only a small export business in Canadian wheat, estimated at 200,00 bushels, was reported.

Traders hesitated in making new commitments in view of more favorable weather reports from Argentina. Action of wheat in last two days contrasted with the spectacular advance of five cents a bushel on Wednesday. Since then prices have slumped more than six cents on general belief frost damage recently in the Argentine has been exaggerated.

While definite destruction figures were unavailable, attention was drawn to the fact the Argentine Government has lifted wheat export restrictions. This week clearances from the South America country were around 1,000,000 bushels.

CORN LEADS CHICAGO TUMBLE

CHICAGO, Nov. 20. — Jolted by tumbles of securities and by nearly complete disappearance of North American wheat export business, Chicago wheat values fell 2¼ cents a bushel.

Southern hemisphere crop reports, especially from Australia, were optimistic, including an estimate that Australia has produced 13,000,000 bushels more wheat than last year and of better quality. Rising temperatures in Argentina, less unfavorable for crops, counted also on the side of lower quotations here.

Season new bottom price records for corn added to the downward trend of wheat.

FIRE raged through the business section of this Southeastern Saskatchewan village early today, wiping out four busines sestablishments, and causing damage estimated at more than $40,000.

Biblical Thoughts For The Shut-Ins

By Rev. E. R. James, Toronto

CONTRASTS

JESUS said unto them: How is it that ye hav. sought Me? Wist ye not that I must be about My Father's business? — St. Luke 2. 49.

The only glimpse we have of the boyhood of Our Lord. What a light it throws upon His growing character. Duty is His ideal. "I must," is His answer. "I must be about My Father's business and in My Father's House."

Then His obedience. "He was subject unto them." Eighteen long years of work, training, preparation for His Father's business. "Mine hour is not yet come" is the young Man's dominant thought. What a commentary upon our age which exploits the immature, the precocious boy preacher, the girl musician or actress.

The story closes with the beautiful statement, which should be the prayer and aspiration of every parent: "Jesus increased in Wisdom and stature and in favour with God and man."

St. Luke in his preface to this Gospel reminds us that he is not the only one to write of these things. "Forasmuchas many have taken in hand to set forth in order a declaration of these things which are most surely believed among us." Such writings were very popular in those days because they described what the average man expected the Lord Christ to do and say. They are in striking contrast with the four Gospels. Let us glance at some of the accounts of Our Lord's childhood.

Extract from the gospel of St. Thomas: "Jesus was returning home with Joseph in the evening. He met a boy who ran and thrust Him down violently. Jesus being vexed said to him: "As thou has thrown me down so shalt thou fall and not rise again." The same hour the boy fell down and died. What a shock it gives you to think of such an act on the part of the boy Christ.

From the same gospel we have this: "The school master being filled with wrath smote Him on the head. Jesus, being angry, cursed him and he fell suddenly and died." Nothing to admire in such a child. Could such a child have grown up to be the man who taught that the second great commandment is: "Love thy neighbour as thyself"?

And we study these rejected gospels we see the gulf that is between them and the four that we accept as Canonical. Surely the Spirit of Christ guided the Church of that age to give us a true word picture of Him Who is the Way, the Truth and the Life.

St. John reminds us that there are many sayings of the Christ which are not recorded in Holy Writ. The following are looked upon by leading Scholars as authentic:

"On the same day, having seen one working on the Sabbath. He saith to him: O man, if indeed thou knowest what thou doest, thou art blessed; but if thou knowest not, thou are cursed, and are a transgressor of the law." Dr. Plumptree remarks that "it brings out with a marvellous force the distinction between the conscious trangression of a law, recognized as still binding, and the assertion of a higher law as superseding the lower."

The following is an extract from the Gospel to the Hebrews: "He that wonders shall reign, and he that reigns shall rest." Bishop Westcott comments: "Awe, the lowliest and the most self-suppressing, is a sign, not of littleness, but of nobility."

This is from a manuscript found in Egypt: "Lift the stone and there thou shalt find Me; cleave the wood and I am there." Lift the stumbling block from before the feet of a careless disciple or some difficulty from the way of a puzzled child and you reveal the Christ in the act. "Cleaving the wood," gathering the few sticks to light the fire, though you may be an important person, you follow in St. Paul's footsteps, and reveal the humility of the Lord Christ.

Are you eating the Book and is it becoming in your mouth as honey for sweetness?

How firm a foundation, ye saints of the Lord,
Is laid for your faith in His excellent Word.

—George Keith.

CATHEDRAL MUSINGS

The crucifixion of Jesus was largely a matter of politics—religious expediency, and it is significant that He is pictured as suffering on the cross between two thieves. It is still a matter of the same expediency that mankind has crucified Him ever since; for the tendency has been and still is, to do that which is expedient rather than do what is right. If the expedient things and the right thing happens to be the same we pride ourselves on our "goodness," but if, as so often happens, they run contrary, most of us have no hesitation in doing that which is expedient rather than that which is in harmony with the Divine Love. To add insult to injury we seek to excuse ourselves by saying it is only "human nature" whereas in truth it is brute nature, for true humanity is angelic and not bestial. And so, mystically speaking has the Christ been hung on the cross of materialism through all the ages. What is true in the outer sense of things is also true in the inner sense, for is not the Eternal Word crucified between the outer self and the lower physic self upon the cross of the body? And is not the war in heaven the battle between the Spirit of God and the false spirit of self? Is it not true that the eclipse of reality by the outward things and false standards of this life has progressed so far that many take it for granted that man at best is but a reasoning animal, with no past, no future, beyond the brief span of earthly existence. Or that if they do assent to some of the spiritual truths, their assent is merely intellectual, a thing of the head, not of the heart.

We speak often of peace, but there is no peace, nor can real peace be acquired from without or given us by man-made law. All the unrest, political and social, of today is but symptomatic of the conflict within the individual, for we must remember that nations and communities are composed of individual entities all disturbed by the inner pressure and conflict set up by an ignorance of life. If the individuals find the peace that passeth all understanding then will the world be at rest. Some will say that they know of no conflict within themselves. None the less are they wholly content and satisfied? Have they come to the point where they regard material conditions from a spiritual viewpoint? Do they look upon riches as a sacred trust and stewardship, or if they are poor, do they thank God that He has spared them the temptations engendered by great wealth? Do they regard life as an opportunity for growth, and look upon death without fear of the unknown? And, this is a question addressed to those who think they are "good": is their love of God and of their fellows, the two hang together, as pure and unselfish as God's love for them? Are these high standards impossible to humanity? No, for they are but the A B C of the inner life. Far higher has to be attained before we reach the end, if end there be, of the Way of Life, for the Way is the way of infinite progression to infinite perfection, the Perfection of the Father, Who is within us. It is not a matter of mere intellectual assent to truth but of becoming the Truth.

The Golden Text

Galatians 6:9—"Let us not be weary in well-doing: for in due season we shall reap, if we faint not."

Christian Workers

"BRASS TACKS" ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By DR. ALVIN E. BELL

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for Nov. 21 is Acts 6:6-10, 1 Cor. 3:10-15; Gal. 6:6-10; 1 Tim. 6:11-21, especially 1 Cor. 3:10-15; Gal. 6:6-10, the Golden Text being Gal. 6:9, "Let us not be weary in well-doing: for in due season we shall reap, if we faint not.")

Few men in their life time have accomplished more work than the apostle Paul accomplished in thirty years between his conversion and his death, as preacher, teacher, traveler, organizer and pastor of churches and writer of literature of abiding interest and value. He is a worker at whose feet we all may sit to learn how to become efficient Christian workers.

Distributing the Work

Dwight L. Moody's policy was that "it is better to get ten men to work than to try to do ten men's work." And he assured his own immortality by enlisting other workers to carry on his work from generation to generation.

The apostolic church was not long in learning the necessity of distributing the church's work among others than the twelve apostles. There was work that laymen could do as well or better than the already over-burdened apostles: "Now in these days when the number of the disciples was multiplying ...the twelve called the multitude of the disciples unto them, and said, "It is not fit that we should forsake the word of God, and serve tables. Look ye out therefore, brethren, from among you seven men of good report, full of the Spirit and of wisdom, whom we may appoint over this business, but we will continue steadfastly in prayer, and in the ministry of the word." Thus laymen came into their own in the priesthood of believers and made good in the work assigned them, for we read, "The word of God increased; and the number of the disciples multiplied."

All Christian work begins with Christ, the Master-Worker of us all: "Other foundation can no man lay than that, which is laid, which is Jesus Christ." Starting with Christ and building into our own lives and the lives of others the things that are in accord with Him and His teachings we are building with the unperishable materials Paul likens to "gold, silver, costly stones"; failing here our building is with "wood, hay, stubble", which will not stand the test to which all our work must be subjected.

The Workers' Support

But Christian work and workers must be supported. By whom By those who believe in and are benefited by the work, not by outsiders who have no sympathy for the work. "Let him that is taught in the word communicate unto him that teacheth in all good things." Not the merchants on Main street who can be cajoled into buying tickets to suppers and bazaars, but the people who want the preaching and teaching for themselves and their children, they should support the work and the workers. By their offerings they "sow unto the Spirit, and of the Spirit reap everlasting life." "So then, as we have opportunity, let us work that which is good toward all men, and especially toward them that are of the household of faith."

Advice to Workers

Paul's advice to Christian workers is to keep themselves "without spot, without reproach until the appearing of our Lord Jesus Christ." "Follow after righteousness, godliness, faith, love, patience, meekness. Fight the good fight of the faith, lay hold on the life eternal." Those who thus bring life into accord with their profession can not fail to be "rich in good works"—the only riches that bring abiding satisfaction.

Ralph Connor Is Sermon Topic

Rev. E. W. Young will tell the story of the life and message of this great Canadian, in St. Andrew's Church next Sunday night. Rev. Charles W. Gordon, D.D., popularly known as Ralph Connor, was probably the most widely known Canadian of his generation; his death a few weeks ago at Winnipeg, his native city, caused regret throughout the English-speaking world.

He was formerly the minister of St. Stephen's Presbyterian Church, Winnipeg, now St. Stephen's Broadway United Church. His ministry was faithful and scholarly. Dr. Gordon is, however, chiefly known through his books depicting the early settlers in Canada.

He did more to unfold the romance of early life in Canada than any other man, and his interpretation gave a favorable impression of the Dominion to all his readers. It was, however, his portrayal of the Christian religion as a soul-transforming power that endeared him to the Christian public. His books emphasize the necessity of the love of God and man, if life is to be truly noble.

Mr. Young will tell some of the stories from "The Sky Pilot," his earliest book, which is supposed to portray the career of his father's successful ministry in Glengarry in the Ottawa Valley. His latest book was a Life of Jesus, in which the author's imaginative power is shown to its fullest degree. He brings The Son of Man to the reader's mind in his own gracious, winsome manner, and induces the reader to fall in love with Jesus Christ.

The subject of the address in the morning will be "A Little Man Makes a Big Resolve."

A National Message

By the Late Rev. W. Pascoe Goard, LL.D., F.R.G.S., F.R.E.S.

Another test is this: Does the leader who aspires to guide, clearly recognize the limitation of the Bible histories?

The Israel people scattered early over Western Europe, Asia and as far west as the British Isles. This may be proved from secular history.

But the histories of the Bible confine themselves almost exclusively to the geographical boundaries of Palestine. It is, therefore, useless to look for the story in the Bible of the migrations of Israel away from the land of Palestine. Such migrations are not written there. For instance, from the time that the tribe of Dan marched beyond the borders of Palestine they drop out of the history of the Bible, although, as we well know, their activities continued and increased. The House of Israel disappeared from the history of the Bible when they were taken into captivity to Assyria. Furthermore, the House of David disappeared from that history when the daughters of Zedekiah went to Egypt.

Does the critic know the scope of the prophecies is continuous chronologically, progressive geographically and constantly developing nationally? The prophecies convey the oath of God that Israel "shall continue a nation before me for ever." The prophecies contain the oath of God that the House of David "shall never want a man to sit upon the throne of the House of Israel."

But Israel was not continued in Palestine. Israel was not continued as a nation with the House of David ruling over it in Assyria nor in Babylon. Israel was not re-established as a nation with the House of David ruling over it in connection with the nation of the Jews. Neither do the prophecies indicate that such should be the case, and the histories of Ezra and Nehemiah record the contrary.

Where, then, has the nation Israel ruled over by the House of David been all these centuries? "for the Scriptures cannot be broken." It is in the place indicated by the prophet Isaiah when he spoke of "the Isles." Those isles are either the British Isles or the Celto-Saxon coast lands of the world.

Christian Workers — ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By the Rev. Alvin E. Bell And Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Acts 6:1-10; I Cor. 3:10-15; Gal. 6:6-10; I Tim. 6:11-21.

The apostolic church soon learned the necessity of so distributing its work as to include laity and clergy. Seven laymen were chosen as deacons to distribute relief to the poor.

All Christian work must begin with and be founded on Christ. "Other foundation can no man lay than that which is laid, which is Jesus Christ."

Christian work must be supported by the free-will offerings of Christians. "Let him that is taught in the word communicate unto him that teacheth in all good things."

Paul's advice to workers is "Follow after righteousness, godliness, faith, love, patience, meekness," and to keep ourselves "without spot, without reproach." (GOLDEN TEXT—Gal. 6:9)

May Have To Ease Up

The deer hunting season comes to an end in Ontario today. The general opinion seems to be that it has been two weeks' of successful sport, for both in our own district and in the more northerly areas where some of the local parties have been hunting in recent years, sportsmen have had fairly good luck. However, the opinion is gaining weight that the time is not far distant when it may be considered necessary by the government to declare a closed season for a year or two to protect the deer from being wiped out. The advent of quick transportation and the extension of good roads into remote areas has made hunting a much simpler matter than it was a decade or two ago and the result is that more hunters are taking the field and they are going into districts where the only menace to the deer used to be the rifle of the settler and the spasmodic attacks of wolves.

In addition it is a much easier matter for sportsmen from the United States to try their luck in the Ontario woods and while these good fellows, like other tourists from the republic spend their money freely while here and are welcome visitors, the fact remains that they, along with the new crop of native hunters produced by the changed conditions, are helping to decimate the wild life of the province and it may not be long before the authorities may decide that it would be advisable to call a halt.

It might be better to have deer hunting only every other year than to get to the stage when there will be no deer to hunt.

Not The Way Out

It is not surprising to find that the Huron county council has decided to take no action in regard to the resolution passed by the Peterborough county council dealing with daylight saving.

The legislators from our own county would have the municipal act amended so that the council of any municipality would be prohibited from passing a by-law changing from standard to summer time. Frankly we have never been able to convince ourselves that the action proposed by the county solons had any practical value. We can appreciate the reasons why daylight saving is unpopular in the rural districts and why there is a feeling of resentment over its adoption by rural municipalities but the suggested remedy does not meet the situation. There is no cause for thinking that the government would contemplate for a moment anything so drastic as is proposed in the resolution for Queen's Park would be likely to come to the conclusion that if the people in any particular community wanted to regulate their activities according to a system of daylight saving time, after all that would be the business of that particular community.

As a matter of fact the city council would have as much right to ask the government to amend the Municipal Act to compel municipalities to adopt daylight saving time during the summer months as a county council has to ask for an amendment prohibiting the adoption of such a time system. The present haphazard methods which find some cities operating under the summer time plan and others sticking to standard time leaves much to be desired but we do not believe the solution of the problem lies in prohibitory legislation.

The Red Cross Appeal

The Peterborough branch of the Red Cross Society should have no difficulty in presenting a strong case in its appeal to the citizens for financial support for its activities. The work of the organization should be an open book to the public which is well aware of the fact that although the Red Cross was originally launched to meet a war-time need there is no armistice so far as its efforts are concerned. There is always work for the Red Cross and it is always undertaken willingly, effectively and having regard to the results accomplished, economically.

In our own district the peace-time activity that possibly strikes the popular imagination most favorably is the Red Cross outpost hospital work. The hospitals at Apsley and Coe Hill have been a godsend to the people of those districts and it is impossible to pay too high a tribute to the successful manner in which the institutions have been operated. They have brought hospital facilities and expert nursing into sections that were previously many miles away from such service and have supplied leadership in health work that has brought about a wonderful improvement in general conditions.

In addition to these hospitals the Red Cross contributes many other useful services. It has never lost sight of the returned soldier and his family and has done much in that direction. It has provided education in home nursing and in its junior section has been an effective factor in arousing interest among the boys and girls of the province in health matters and first aid.

A fine organization is the Red Cross—well worthy of all the financial assistance and support the people of Peterborough and the district can give it.

A Fast-Moving Briton

The world's hat is doffed today to Captain George Eyston, former British army officer, who hurtled across the salt flats of Utah on Friday in his British-built racing automobile at a rate faster than man had ever moved along the surface of the earth before. Eyston covered two measured miles at an average rate of 311.42 miles per hour and that was fast enough to give him the speed championship up to yesterday held by his fellow-Britisher, Sir Malcolm Campbell, whose record was a little better than 301 miles an hour.

Eyeston's speed is almost impossible to grasp. At the rate at which he was travelling Friday he could cover the distance from Peterborough to Lakefield in less than 100 seconds or travel from Peterborough to Port Hope in a fraction over five and a half minutes, two comparisons that may help to make the Eyston record understandable.

The question is often asked as to what useful end is accomplished by such feats as this. We imagine the answer is that the automotive industry gains many helpful ideas as to automobile engineering, the construction of tires and other features that will be worked into the cars of the future from the experience gained through just such performances as that which has given this 40-year-old Britisher the headlines this week.

On top of that his record-breaking stunt is a triumph alike for his own skill, courage and nerve and for the engineering and manufacturing ability of the British folk who turned out the remarkable machine used in the test.

"And Yet We Struggle On"

From the districts in Saskatchewan to which Peterborough's cars of vegetables and food were distributed recently have been coming a flood of grateful letters addressed to Mayor Macdonald. There is a wealth of human interest in these communications, and several things stand out in nearly every page, first the dire need that exists in many sections of Saskatchewan and second the courage of the people in the face of conditions that might well have broken their spirit.

A mother in the Moosomin district for instance writes a letter that touches the heart-strings when after telling of the potatoes and vegetables received by her family she says:

"To see children growing pale and thin for lack of food, especially of fruit and vegetables leaves scars on the soul that I fear will never entirely fade. We see such things written as 'Western women will wear nothing but chiffon hose,' but I dare any of them to try offering them more seasonable hose and see if that is not a mis-statement. I know many women who will have to remain indoors all winter long because of lack of warm clothing to go out in. And little of any kind while some have no hose. The men who must go out are first considered, then the school children and the wee pre-school tots come next but so many of the mothers find nothing left to cut and contrive for themselves so that they are almost compelled to hide when anyone comes to the door. As I sit here I am wondering where to turn for the means to buy flour and such groceries as are essential to life. Being so ill, my husband is unable to be bothered with any such things and well, there it is. I have a few turkeys but without feed they will not develop into anything. Feed is so scarce that cows are almost dry, pigs are ravenous and the horses are too poor to do the work. And yet we struggle on."

The need of clothing is stressed by another woman in the same district, from whose letter the following extract is taken:

"We were badly in need of the vegetables. We did not grow any for ourselves for we had no rain until after the threshing. We only had one load of wheat and a little barley—no oats. We are milking cows for a living and there is little feed for them. If you have any old clothes or underwear or stockings that you don't need I would be more than glad to have them to make over for my children. There is none of them that has any underwear. I would pay the postage."

A man in the Churchbridge section said that his family had been wondering how they would be able to get through the winter without any vegetables and the receipt of three bags of potatoes, and some beets and parsnips from the Peterborough car would help them a great deal. And he added: "We hope you never will have a crop failure but that we can help some one else to offset the kindness done us." And from Moosomin comes this thought-provoking final paragraph in a letter of thanks "May God bless all those who gave so generously and also those who were not able to give."—there is material for a sermon in that sentence.

One grateful woman wrote to say that when she received her share of the vegeables distributed from the car she was so happy that "I just sat down and wept" and another touched on a point stressed by several correspondents when she said:

"Every time they asked us to give to other places we always used to donate but never once thought that we would some day have other folks sending to us. This is really the first year we haven't had anything at all—not even feed for our stock."

A picture of the situation in many sections is given by a man who said that he had never yet been forced to go on relief and that the Peterborough car was the first from which he had ever received anything. Here is his story:

"I just came into this district a year ago from a semi-dried out area and this is my seventh year with practically nothing. Last Spring I sowed 140 bushels of seed and threshed 400 bushels this fall. I had $70 worth of wheat to sell and that is my income with the exception of a few cream checks in the summer."

A cross section of the drought area are these letters that are coming into the Mayor's office these days and the story they tell speaks for itself; that is why The Examiner quotes generously from typical communications.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Ontario is being invaded by the praying bug, entomologists report. This insect differs from other insects which are of the preying variety.

A fossilized crab has been discovered in England that is supposed to be more than 50,000,000 years old. This of course was not a human crab.

The intimation that Duncan Marshall may be Ontario's next lieutenant-governor has so far prompted no general demand from the public for a holiday to celebrate the appointment.

Now that Captain Eyston has set up a speed rate of a mile in eleven seconds perhaps the boys on the Lakefield road will admit that they haven't a chance for the honors.

Prince Edward county farmers will receive a million dollars for the produce they have sold the canning plants in the district. That is what might be described as cutting a sizable melon.

Ottawa girl is under arrest charged with holding up a taxi driver with a perfume bottle. That was one time when the police had no difficulty in getting the scent.

Political clubs have been banned by the University of British Columbia. Probably it is feared that such organizations would interfere with the politics played by the frats.

Canadians have brought back nearly five million dollars worth of goods with them from trips abroad this year and that is about five millions worth that will not be bought in Canada.

Chorley Park is to be closed, Premier Hepburn states. Possibly the place could be turned into an attraction for tourists and thus make a contribution toward balancing the budget.

Britishers are making records both on land and in the air these days. Their exploits should explode the theory that the people of the British Isles are slow-moving folk.

Peterborough's Chinese residents have raised $5,000 for war work in their native land. This is clear gain as there is no Japanese population here to offset the Chinese donations.

Brantford reports giving shelter in the police court to a transient who was found the next day to be driving his own car. It must be tough to be caught these cold nights without a trailer.

The warden of Huron county declares day light saving is a farce. Having regard to the checkerboard system under which it operates in Ontario, we will have to cast in our ballot along with the Warden's.

The fact that several members of the Ontario cabinet have been hunting, suggests the thought that it must have been a novel experience for politicians to find themselves shooting the buck instead of passing it.

Hundreds of copies of magazines described as salacious and indecent have been seized by Quebec police. It would not take very expert detective work to locate the offending publications, we imagine.

Ontario woman wants to mark her ninetieth birthday by a ride in an airplane and a California woman of the same age celebrated hers by swimming in the ocean. That old adage about youth being served seems to be losing its punch.

REFLECTIONS

I love old streets; to me their doorways beckon,
The wistful windows, and the ivied walls;
They sigh with age, unheeded, too, I reckon,
And sadly murmur as the twilight falls.

I love old houses with their recollections,
Where all within is sacred, hushed and cool;
Telling of gentle folk and their affections,
Tender and placid as a forest pool.

I love old volumes, with the years grown yellow;
The blue and white of china, pictures quaint;
An ancient trunk, with fragrance faded mellow,
Old letters, holy as a shrined saint.

In all these ancient things I find much pleasure,
The gallant days that were fond memory brings;
Each recollection of those years I treasure,
And feel the gentle touch of spirit wings.

KING GEORGE has inherited his father's love for shooting and a story from London says that he had not been many hours at Sandringham before he pulled on his waders, his thick mackintosh and tramped out briskly with his estate agent Major Fellows to see what preparations had been made for his duck shooting. The King strode quickly across Dersingham Commons on to the marshes, and stopped before some giant six-foot deep wine barrels sunk in the soft ground.

✧ ✧ ✧

Next morning the King climbed out of bed at 6 o'clock, took his gun and headed for the marshland again. When he reached the first of the barrels he lowered himself into it, and looked out over the lip, waiting for the birds to fly over. For the next few hours the King's gun popped away as the royal ducks and at the end the bag totalled 40 birds. A few days later he went out again in the evening and knocked down about 60 ducks before tramping back to dinner.

Poorest Paid Monarch

KING BORIS of Bulgaria who, travelling as Count Rilsky, has been visiting in London is the poorest paid monarch in the world, his remuneration amounting to about $60,000 a year. Boris has always been interested in mechanics and motoring and frequently drives alone or with his consort who also likes driving.

✧ ✧ ✧

He is equally at home in a motor-boat or speed-boat as in a car and has more than once rescued subjects in distress during storms on the Black Sea where he speeds in the royal motor-boat. Mechanically minded, the Bulgarian King does his own repairs, loves to drive locomotives over Bulgarian railways and is credited with exceptional nerve.

Before motors came in King Boris had many long-distance cycle rides to his credit. During an "incognito" holiday in Scotland he covered many hundreds of miles.

HENRY COTTON, top professional golfer in Britain and one of the best players in the world is credited with earning around $50,000 a year as a result of his golf prowess. Cotton can charge almost anything he likes for instruction and the clubs sold on his golf course command ransom figures. He has been known to do $250 worth of sale business in a single wet morning. He also makes a great deal of money from exhibition matches and has taken as much as $250 for a round.

He Remembered Those Who Served Him

San Francisco Man's Will Plain Sermon Gifts For More Than 100 Folk Included

(From the Galt Reporter.)

The last will and testament of the late William M. Carson contains a neat and painless little sermon for all of us.

Mr. Carson was a wealthy San Francisco business man who, when it came time for him to die, had neither chick nor child to leave his money to. He owned some $1,800,000 worth of this world's goods, and he didn't quite like the idea of handing it all in a lump to some impersonal philanthropic organization.

So when he sat down to make out his will he simply wrote the names of everybody who had been kind to him, everybody whose courtesy, efficiency or helpfulness had made his life a little pleasanter—and divided his bequests among all of them.

The 94 people who worked for him all got bequests. The maids, janitors, bell-hops, waiters and elevator boys at his hotel got bequests; so did the employees of the country club where he had played golf, people in the hospitals where he had been a patient, the church he attended, the university from which he had been graduated, and so on.

Altogether, more than 100 people were named in his will, for amounts varying from $500 to 10,000.

There is a sort of moving picture romanticism about this will, of course, and earnest thinkers will no doubt say that the money would have "done more good" if it had all gone to some worthy cause.

But there is a lot to be said for the idea of doing something to repay all the people who had helped to make life run more smoothly and happily.

For all of us, as we travel on toward the graves that await us, carry with us debts just like those which this millionaire paid in his will. We don't often stop to think about them, but they exist. It's a good idea to stop and tabulate them once in a while.

Life consists of an infinite number of small human contacts. A man may consider himself utterly friendless and alone—yet his ability to get work done, to sleep well at night, to maintain a smooth temper, even to enjoy his meals, depends in no small measure on the people with whom he makes these contacts.

Imagine what a miserable day you would put in if, some morning, you should find all of these people falling down on their jobs; if their pleasant efficiency should be replaced by grumpiness, slovenliness and laxity.

Most of us don't have millions to give away when we die, and even if we did few of us would give them as this San Franciscan did. But it won't hurt us to remember that we carry those debts with us.

Using the Telephone To Sell Things

Phone Invasion Has Completely Killed Old Idea, Person's Home Was His Castle

(By Helena B. Smith in Readers' Digest.)

I CAN REMEMBER when a quaint idea prevailed that a person's home was his castle. Nobody entered without your consent, and before the invention of the telephone nobody would have tried.

But in the past few years my home has been invaded by a steady procession of laundrymen, cleaners, auto dealers, photographers, salesmen of domestic appliances—the list could go on and on. The salesman used to get as far as the front hall—if you invited him. Now there is not a room in the house so private that he cannot crash it by telephone. I have been waked up from naps, I've been interrupted in the middle of giving the baby his bottle, and I have climbed from the tub, half dry and hastily swathed, to listen to a honey-voiced woman tell me all about a vacuum cleaner I already had.

"Good morning, Mrs. Pringle. This is Miss Whiffle, Mrs. Pringle. I am calling to tell you of a wonderful family service, Mrs. Pringle. The snow White Laundry is offering a very special rate this year for family bundles—"

Three months after my baby was born, the phone would ring several times a week and the following would ensue. "This is Mrs. Dash of the Artistic Studio. Have you had the baby's picture taken yet, Mrs. Pringle?" New York is a large town blessed with an unusual number of baby photographers, and I am quite sure I was called by every last one of them.

I found that this custom of intrusion by telephone bothers housewives everywhere, in big cities and little towns. And since I am a writer and my profession is curiosity, I began to be curious about it. If everybody hated interruptions as much as I do, selling things by telephone wouldn't pay. Yet since so many firms do it, they must find it profitable.

And they do! Several million magazine subscriptions were sold over the telephone last year. An automobile dealer made 2,500 calls, and these calls sold five cars, at a cost of only $87!

The first thing I learned about this mass attack on privacy is that it doesn't just happen. It is organized and systematized by business experts, who have figured that they can "contact" from 10 to 50 times as many people in that way as they could face to face. Even the line of patter with which you are greeted follows certain fixed rules. You are called by name repeatedly throughout the conversation, to flatter you and make you think there is something personal about the offer.

Firms engaged in telephone soliciting know that if they call you in the afternoon you may be out shopping or playing bridge, and that after 6 p.m. you may be at a movie. Hence many of them work their telephone solicitors in two four-hour shifts, from nine to one in the morning and from four to eight in the evening.

Seldom if ever does the young woman calls anounce directly that she is Miss Whosit of the firm of So-and-So. This would put you on your guard if you yourself were answering, whereas, if a maid should answer, you might refuse to come to the phone. So she says merely that she is Miss Whosit—trusting to your momentary uncertainty to land you in her toils!

One "exclusive" photographer has persuaded a foreign lady of title to lend her name to his studio. Actually the noble lady doesn't know a lens from a shutter, but that doesn't matter. When Mrs. Cocialite's maid asks, "Whos is calling please?" the solicitor has only to say that Princess Popoff is calling, and Mrs. Socialite comes to the phone at a lope.

Since the ordinary phone book is too general for all but mass sales, the telephone company offers a special directory, listing subscribers by street and number instead of name, thus enabling salesman to concentrate on the moneyed neighborhoods. Other special lists re available. For about $30 per 1,000 names, anybody can buy a list of propertied individuals in any financial bracket in any part of the country. There are lists of rural residents and schoolteachers and car owners and wealthy widows—your presence on any one of which gives some clue to your spending habits and probable interests.

TEACHING FRENCH.

(Le Devoir—Montreal)

A REPORT of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics shows that the proportion of high school pupils, outside of the Province of Quebec, who learn French at the same time as English is 76.6 per cent. There could not be found another British or Anglo-Saxon country where French has attained such an importance as a secondary language. . . . The figures are eloquent. They indicate a state of things that no one would have predicted 2 or 25 years ago. The French language certainly does not occupy yet the place it should in Canada, but it is good from time to time to regard the progress achieved.

MEN AND PROFANITY

Editor Examiner:

Sir: Meeting with men every day in the business world and in the social world, men of fine qualifications and men who are intensely interesting and men who in the coming days may make front page history. And sometimes the blood in my veins seems to get cold when I hear some men giving expression to their thoughts in conversation and trying to make those thoughts more impressive by swearing by the name of the most High and all the personal of Heaven I stand in awe and sometimes wonder if men really mean what they say, or are they conscious of what they are saying and are they aware of their influence in so speaking it is no wonder that we hear young boys on the street using profanity when they hear it from their elders. And yet men have somewhat respect for the opposite sex, and will refrain from profanity in their presence, if customs or habit requires a man to do a thing that is evil and wrong. Then in the name of that is good and right let him be disobedient to such custom or habit.

HOUSING PROGRAM.

(Buffalo Times)

ECONOMISTS agree that a large-scale home-building boom would just bout put this country over the top in its push toward prosperity. Therefore, it is more good news that President Roosevelt has called business leaders to the White House for a new co-operative effort to clear away the legal, financial, labor and other barriers.

A rich field for private enterprise lies beyond these barriers. We need to build at least 80,000 new dwelling units a year in the next five years; we'll be lucky if we build 350,000 units this year. We should be spending $8,000,000,000 of private capital a year in home construction: we are spending around $1,000,000,000.

The Nervous Strain

Of the stenographer's busy day

If you feel limp and tired at the end of the day and arise next morning unrested, you may be sure that the nerves are overstrained.

When the nerves are tired it means that your nervous system is greatly run down and you must have the help of a nerve tonic to regain health and vigor.

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is suggested because it is a thoroughly tried and proven restorative for tired, exhausted nerves. Because it goes to form new, rich blood it can scarcely fail to be of benefit to you just as it has been to so many thousands during a considerable number of years.

Such symptoms as nervousness, irritability and sleeplessness, tired, depressed feelings and discouragements warn you of nervous exhaustion and these soon disappear when Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is used to build up new nerve force. With its use you will soon be feeling fine. Your friends will tell you how much better you look.

ADMIT UNSIGNED DETAILS BY COMBA IN MURDER TRIAL

PEMBROKE, Ont., Nov. 20 (CP).—The jury at the trial of John A. Comba, 26, of Renfrew, charged with the murder of 13-year-old Ethel Hedderwick, will hear four unsigned statements allegedly made by the accused before his arrest.

After hearing four Crown witnesses and argument by defence and the Crown concerning the condition under which the alleged statements were made, Mr. Justice E. R. E. Chevrier said: "It is quite proper for me to admit the statements to the jury."

During hearing of evidence yesterday of Police Chief Moses Greer of Renfrew, Crown Prosecutor T. M. J. Galligan attempted to have Greer testify as to how the alleged statements were obtained. Defence counsel objected and Mr. Justice Chevrier retired the jury while argument was presented on their admissability.

Comba was arrested August 25, 22 days after the Hedderwick girl's body was found in a clump of trees on Carswell's Hill, not far from her home in Renfrew. She left in the morning to pick choke cherries and did not return.

Greer told the court yesterday of organizing a search and of the finding of the body by Comba that evening. The police chief said when he reached the scene, Comba was standing beside the girl, lying on her back.

"I tripped on something and I thought it was a stone and I felt it give on me," Greer said Comba told him. "One of my hands touched her hair and I got some blood on my fingers. I noticed her clothes up. I pulled them down. I don't know whether I pushed the clothes up when I fell on her."

A five-pound stone, which the Crown claimed was used to bash in the child's head, was produced in court and Chief Greer identified it as the one he found near the body. He said it bore reddish stains in addition to one hair.

War Equipment Crosses Ocean

War pictures from Europe showing gas masks are common in these days of war scares and unofficial wars, but when one comes from this side of the Atlantic ocean then people sit up and take notice. However, don't let us worry you for the gentlemen wearing the gas masks ABOVE are not interested in war but in the pursuit of peace (if you can call hunting down bad odors a peaceful pursuit). Here you see Herbert Packer, LEFT, chief of Philadelphia's bureau of housing and sanitation, and Mayor S. Railway Fears Decision Might Aid Other Cases

Forty To Fifty Miles An Hour Claimed Not Too Fast At Crossings

MONTREAL, Nov. 20 (CP)—When Springlea-Maria and 23 other cows 2nd, a registered Ayrshire, walked across the track (well, half way across) three years ago, she started something that isn't finished yet. Appeals court, Quebec's five-man tribunal, has been asked to settle the argument between Smith and the Canadian National Railways.

The railway is trying to upset a judgment by Mr. Justice Louis Cousineau of the Superior Court awarding Smith $250 for the loss of his cow. Counsel said the railway wasn't interested in the $250, but is appealing against the lower court judge's decision the engine driver was grossly negligent in operating his train at 45 to 50 miles an hour at a crossing.

The company contends "all crossings are dangerous, and if the learned trial judge's decision is allowed to stand, appealant and other railways practically be prevented from operating their trains, and this would be against the public interest."

The company contends the main question to be determined is whether or not the Smith cow was in charge of a competent person using all reasonable care at the time of the accident.

Buried Beside Tracks

Springlea-Maria, evidence showed, was in the care of the father of Edwin F. Fowler, on whose far near Danville, Que., the Ayrshire had been placed. Fowler, Sr., was bringing Springlea-Mario and 23 other cows home for milking.

Springlea-Maria and two of her companions reached the middle of the track at the same time as the Richmond-Quebec train. Springlea-Maria was buried beside the tracks.

Fowler maintained he heard no signals until it was too late. The railway said the regular warnings were given, arguing the cattle were not in the custody of a competent person, as is necessary before the railway can be held responsible.

Judge Cousineau found Fowler has taken every precaution he could be expected to take. "It is true," the judge said, "that he knew the train was due, but it was also time to milk his cows."

Argument on the manner of Springlea-Maria's death continued today.

Branch Notes

DISTRICT COUNCIL

The Peterborough District Council of the A.Y.P.A. held its annual banquet in the Town Hall at Bethany on Wednesday evening, November 17, under the capable chairmanship of Miss Clemena Long, president of the Council.

After the pronouncement of the Grace by the Rev. T. S. Gault, hon.-president of the Council, the gathering of over one hundred and forty young people of the whole district sat down to a sumptuous repast which the A.Y.P.A. branch of St. Mary's church of Lifford had prepared with the co-operation of the women of the congregation.

The address of welcome was tendered the large assembly of visitors by Ben Page, president of St. Mary's A.Y.P.A.

Jack Marshall provided the rythmic and spirited music for the singsong which interspersed the courses of the banquet.

The Toast to the King was made by the chairman and was responded to by all present.

The toast to the church was very ably proposed by Miss Hilda Phillips of St. John's, Peterborough, and was responded to by the Rector of St. Mary's, Rev. Mr. Holden, who expressed the desire that all present should stand up for our church so that it will become a strong influence in the lives of the people of the whole country.

Alton Clark of St. James', Emily, spoke of the "bones" in the A.Y.P.A. in his toast to the Association. These were the "wish-bones", those who were always wishing for something better; the "jaw-bones," those who were the talkers but not the doers; and the "back-bones" who were the mainstay of the Association. In her response to this toast, Miss Queenie Hope of St. Luke's, Peterborough, stressed the need for everyone to so work in the Association that it will be the better for our having been in it.

After the toasts, the trio of young ladies from St. Mary's, Lifford, who won such enthusiastic applause at the amateur night on Wednesday, the 10th, again performed their little song relating to the type of man for which each was looking. Then followed that old and well-known song, "Down by the Old Mill Stream" with actions led by Roland Krant of St. Luke's, Peterborough.

The special speaker for the evening was then called upon by Miss Long. He was Mr. Adrian MacDonald of the Normal School. He discussed, with much pseudo-seriousness, the subject, "The Etiquette of Proposing Marriage." Mr. MacDonald dealt with the subject in two sections; historically and dramatically. He gave many illustrations of methods for proposing, from the "knock - em - down - drag - em-home" days to the present "off-handed" ways of today. He went so far as to present some vital statistics which he had obtained from a very thorough research into the question; showing that the largest number of proposals came after such a social gathering as assembled before him, which goes to prove the old adage, "The way to a man's heart is through his stomach." Then, to the delight of all, he gave a few examples of proposals, such as are found in well-known books of literature. Mr. MacDonald read passages from Sheridan's "Rivals," from a book by Jane Austen, and Henry Drummond's poem "Dat Ol' Stove Pipe Hole!"

A vote of thanks to the speaker was extended on behalf of the Council by Alan Worsencroft, of All Saints', Peterborough, while Ken Gibson, of St. George's, Peterborough, expressed the Council's thanks to the Hostess Branch and to the assisting artists.

When the tables were cleared and put aside, the assembly then joined in several enjoyable dances, to close one of the most successful banquets which the District Council has held.

LAKEFIELD BRANCH

The regular meeting of St. John's A.Y.P.A., Lakefield, was held in the Parish Hall on Monday with eighteen members and four new ones present. The president, Miss P. Earnshaw, occupied the chair. The meeting was opened with prayer by the Rev. W. J. Creighton. It was decided that six members of the local branch would attend the annual banquet at Bethany. At the conclusion of the business part of the meeting, Dr. R. H. Campbell gave a very interesting and educational talk on British Columbia, where he had resided for a number of years.

He was given a cordial vote of thanks at its conclusion. Refreshments were served by the committee in charge and a pleasant social hour spent.

A very enjoyable time was spent at the euchre party held in St. John's Parish Hall, Lakefield on Thursday night. Thirteen tables of euchre were played, the prizes being won by Mr. and Mrs. Walter Chappell. The consolation prizes were awarded to Mrs. A. Montgomery and Mr. John Creighton. The lucky chair prize was won by Mrs. Eric Holmes. Refreshments were served after the games by the committee in charge.

MARMORA BAZAAR WELL PATRONIZED

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MARMORA, Nov. 20.—Continued success marked the second and third days of the Sacred Heart church bazaar. At the euchre party which followed the chicken supper on Wednesday, prizes were won by Charles Conkright and Ida Gillen. Rev. Father G. T. Martin neatly expressed his thanks for the splendid patronage given to the three days' event.

PROPOSE W.I.'S AIM BE BETTER HOMES

TORONTO, Nov. 20 (CP).—Formation of a council to encourage development of better homes and people in Canada was urged last night by Esther Thompson, convenor of the household economics committee of the Federated Women's Institutes of Canada.

Canadian homemakers need help to discover, accept and perform wisely the task of creating better homes and developing a better people, Miss Thompson said in submitting her report to a F.W.I. board meeting. She suggested the council for such work include provincial directors and superintendents of Institute work.

It was not something that could be set up but must evolve from people with vision, she added. Plans of the council for bettering homes and conditions for children would involve approaching the Federal Department of Agriculture and laying a foundation like that of the United States Department of Agriculture.

Members of the Institute were responsible for the character of the people of Canada in a far-reaching way. The first task of the majority of the members was to rear, nurture and guide children toward better citizenship, she said.

U.S. ENTRY WINS JUMPING EVENTS

TORONTO, Nov. 20—(CP). — A busy session of live stock judging and show ring performances was planned for the Royal Winter Fair to-day. Two days of accomplishment and large attendance lay behind.

Biggest attraction of the Fair for city folk, the Horse Show, is scheduled for double showing to-day, while in the morning farm animals hold major interest. Dairy cattle and heavy service horses were on view for visitors.

The popular Horse Show reached new international lengths last night when United tSates entries won all but one jumping events. Miss Judy King of Atlanta, Ga., carried off red ribbons in three of six non-hurdle affairs. Her entries took events for paired harness horses, medium sized ponies and trio of harness horses in single traces.

Lieut. Marshall Cleland, Canadian hero of the recent New York Show, edged out a victory in the military "touch and out" jumping stake.

Prisoner Asks For Prison Term

BUFFALO, N.Y., Nov. 20—(AP).—Opportunity to practice his trade attracted Frank J. Hetherington, of Toronto, to a United States prison today.

Sentenced to a year in jail for illegal entry into the United States, Hetherington told Federal Judge John Knight:

"With only a year I'll go to a county pen. Make it a year and a day, Judge, and I'll be able to practice my trade."

Judge Knight complied with the sentence that meant Federal penitentiary instead of county jail. Hetherington said he was a harness-maker and glazier.

BEDAUX SAILS TO SEE WINDSOR

GLASGOW, Scotland, Nov. 20 (AP)—Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Bedaux, friends of the Duke and Duchess of Windsor, disembarked today from the liner Duchess of Bedford, and were reliably reported enroute to Paris to see the Duke.

Although Bedaux would not confirm the report, he said he expected to make an "official statement" within three days—presumably after he had seen the Duke.

Bedaux, an industrial engineer who was to have guided the former King on his now postponed industrial survey of the United States, reiterated a denial of any Fascist connection. American labor organization charges that the Duke of Windsor had chosen "an arch-enemy of labor" as a guide for his American tour brought a postponement of the trip that was to have started Nov. 6.

"I cannot affor dto associate with Fascists," Bedaux said. "I am purely an international consulting engineer. I have never had any connection with politics and never will."

(Bedaux is the inventor of a factory work system which labor men call the "stretch-out." The Baltimore Federation of Labor, just before the Duke called off his tour, "warned" labor not to be taken in by "slumming parties" professing to help labor.)

Four Are Injured In Motor Crashes

GUELPH, Ont., Nov. 20 (CP). — Four persons were injured in motor accidents in Guelph district. Mrs. Eliza Tolton, Guelph, received undetermined injuries when a car driven by her daughter skidded into a Hydro pole.

Three students of the Ontario Veterinary College, Edward Padfield, 21, William McCracken, 25, and Leslie Moore, 21, were taken to hospital with injuries received when a car driven by Morris Miller, another student, was said to have struck a telephone pole on the outskirts of Guelph.

HAD MONSTER TAPEWORM

This is my little girl's picture about one month after being relieved of a 15-foot tapeworm by Mulvaney's famous tapeworm remedy. She had been under medical care for months and was treated for bronchitis. Finally it was discovered she had tapeworm. After taking one dose of Mulvaney's famous tapeworm remedy she was relieved of the tapeworm, head and all. I cannot speak too highly of this remedy. From one that is very grateful.—Mrs. M. L. B., Sackville St., Toronto, Ont.

OTHER TYPES OF WORMS

People will also have round worms, whip worms, awl tail grubs, spike worms, pin worms, thread worms and even lizards. Only too often children as well as adults are given soda, magnesia, cod liver oils, salts, pain pills, tonics, pile remedies, bed-wetting remedies, etc., when their true need is a worm remedy. Mulvaney's "MOTHER'S FRIEND" is available at most drug stores; this remedy expels these different types of worms, it is also a laxative and it is very soothing for the nerves, cools fevers and tones the entire system. That means that it is bound to do you good in many ways, even if worms are not your trouble. Every one should take a worm remedy just as a precaution. It is impossible to prevent worms, as the invisible eggs gain access to the intestines through leafy vegetables, fruits, meats, fish and impure drinking water. Flies also carry these tiny eggs. They are also on pets. Don't wait for the more serious symptoms. Make sure that worms are not your trouble. Go to your family druggist and purchase a bottle of Mulvaney's "MOTHER'S FRIEND." Take according to directions and if you have worm trouble you will see them as they pass out into the exterior. If you think you have tapeworm, write us direct, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope for quick reply. The tapeworm treatment can only be purchased direct from us. The Mother's Friend can be supplied to you by your druggist. Try it today. R. L. Mulvaney's Remedies Limited, Dept. L2, 211 Ossington Ave., Toronto, Canada. After Pneumonia Couldn't Get Strong

After many severe illnesses the patient is often left in an extremely weak and exhausted condition.

To all those convalescents needing a tonic to strengthen and build up their weakened system we would recommend Milburn's Health and Nerve Pills to assist them to recover the full enjoyment of robust health. They help to tone up the nervous system and bring back bodily strength and vigor.

Buy a box and be convinced.

Mrs. George Clark, Wallace, N.S., writes:—"Some time ago I had a severe attack of pneumonia. I never seemed to get my strength back, and was always in a weak, nervous condition until a friend advised me to take Milburn's Health and Nerve Pills.

After I had taken two boxes I felt as well as ever, so I will recommend them to any one who is suffering as I did, for I could not have taken any medicine that would have done me so much good."

NOW IS THE TIME TO MODERNIZE AND REPAIR - 5 YEARS TO PAY

Home Improvement Plan Has Been In Operation One Year

Eleven Millions Of Dollars Spent During The First Year In Canada

One year ago, the Dominion Government, on the advice of the National Employment Commission and with the co-operation of the chartered banks, introduced to Canadians a new plan for financing home repairs and improvements. It was called the Home Improvement Plan and bearing out the old adage, "Necessity is the mother of invention," it sprang from three very definite and pressing needs:

1.—The building industry had for years been in a state of extreme depression and needed stimulus in the worst way;

2.—Thousands of men and women, dependent on construction for employment were out of work;

3.—Thousands of Canadian homes were in a state of disrepair because of need for money to repair them or of lack of confidence on the part of their owners.

If ever a situation demanded treatment, this one did. The National Employment Commission was quick to see the need, to realize that here lay a field for immediate action which should produce swift and practical results. Money must be made available to homeowners on such advantageous terms that they would go ahead with necessary repair work. Then the building industry would be jolted into activity and the demand for labor stimulated.

Getting the Money

How was the money to be made available?

It was here that the central idea behind the Home Improvement Plan—co-operation—came into play. The Commission recommended a plan whereby the Government, and banks and the Commission itself functioned in unison to meet the need. The Government agreed to guarantee the banks against loss up to 15 per cent of aggregate loans made for home repair and modernization. The banks agreed to advance money to home owners at an extremely low rate of interest for this type of transaction. The Commission undertook an informative and educational campaign, financed by public-spirited concerns and individuals, to acquaint the public with and inspire support for the plan. Across Canada voluntary committees, provincial and local, were established to forward the plan. The work which they have done has probably been one of the greatest factors in its success thus far.

A year having passed since the inception of the plan, one is now able to make some slight estimate of its value. Has it helped to stimulate a stagnant building industry? Has it provided employment for any appreciable number of workers? Are Canadian homes improved and made more attractive and livable because the plan came into being?

Of course it should be remembered that twelve months is a comparatively brief period and that a considerable part of the time was spent in getting the plan under way. Thus, when we find loan totals at the end of the first year approximately $10,000,000, we must not lose sight of the fact that about three months were spent in getting the machinery of the plan operating.

Here is the loan level reached at the end of October, after a year's operation:

	Loans.	Amount.
Prince Ed. Isl...	356	$ 97,542.73
Nova Scotia ...	2,337	736,021.60
New Brunswick.	1,201	418,308.37
Quebec	4,328	2,105,293.70
Ontario	12,072	4,702,025.54
Manitoba	1,903	714,959.73
Saskatchewan .	789	275,694.37
Alberta	2,226	951,553.63
British Col. ...	3,063	1,000,417.85
	28,275	$11,001,817.52

As the limit fixed for aggregate loans was $50,000,000 (with the limit of the Government risk $75,000,000), it is obvious there is still plenty of room for growth.

Only Part of What Was Spent

It should be borne in mind that the $11,000,000 loaned does not represent the value of work done as a result of the Home Improvement Plan. In the United States it was found that at least $3.00 was spent on home modernization and repairs by persons who did NOT borrow to each $1.00 borrowed. In Canada casual enquiries indicate that, for a number of reasons, the proportion was even higher and the ratio may have been four to one. It is probably safe to assume that expenditures for modernization and repairs resulting from the Home Improvement Plan now approximate fifty million dollars.

Unfortunately it is very difficult to ascertain with any exactitude the extent to which unemployed persons have been given work by the plan. Such staatistics as are available concern building and construction generall. Reypairs and improvements to homes are placed in no separate category. However, it is a fact which can be proved by statistical date that the building and construction industry has shaken off the lassitude from which it suffered and is moving forward. The Dominion Bureau of Statistics reports a great increase in the value of building authorized during the first nine months of the present year. In 58 cities of Canada during this period building permits were issued to the total value of $42,750,366, or an increase of $12,068,954 over figures for the corresponding period in 1936. The Bureau comments that this "was decidedly higher than in the first nine months in any other year since 1931."

"The aggregate for the first nine months of this year was higher by 39.3 per cent than in 1936, and was also substantially higher than in any of the preceding four years," the Bureau states. "The average index number of wholesale prices of building materials, though higher than in any of the year, 1930-1936, was lower than in other years since 1920."

During the month of September of this year building authorized in the 58 cities was valued at $5,078,882, or an increase of 20 per cent over August, 1937, and of nearly 39 per cent over September, 1936.

Built-In Bookcases End Of Fireplace

Amateur decorators are prone to build bookcases at either end of the fireplace, between windows or other usual places. Of course these are the only places that could be used for such purposes in some rooms, but many rooms would lend themselves well to a new arrangement.

If you have an open double door leading to the dining-room, try bookcases at either side, running from floor to ceiling. They add interest to an otherwise negative space and give depth to the doorway, adding the illusion of deep walls.

Improvements of this type may be made with modernization funds obtained through the Home Improvement Plan.

PREDICT HEATING PLUMBING BOOM

TORONTO, Nov. 20. (CP).—Thomas Robertson of Montreal, president of the Canadian Institute of Plumbing and Heating, predicted at the institute's fifth annual general meeting here an increase of from 10 to 15 per cent in plumbing and heating business during 1938 over this year.

Mr. Robertson said he expected this volume of business to result from continuation of the institute's advertising and promotional campaign and continued co-operation in the Home Improvement Plan, a government loan scheme designed to aid the construction industry and encourage home repairs.

"We have been credited in government statistics with 46 per cent of the known classified business done under the Home Improvement Loan Guarante Act," he said, "although this figure includes a large proportion of labor, contractor overhead, tiling and other related trades."

"On the same basis of classification, however, the plumbing and heating share of the Federal Housing Act project in the United States was only 21 per cent. This would seem to me to indicate that our co-operative effort in Canada has proved its value," said Mr. Robertson.

Speaking of business in general, Mr. Robertson said he thought "a continuation of the recovery process, though probably at a reduced tempo, will characterize the spring, summer and autumn of 1938."

GARDENER NEEDS REAL WORKSHOP

The gardening enthusiast needs a workshop, particularly if he is trying to carry some of the beauty of the garden into his home during winter. During the spring and summer he can perhaps get along with a spade, rake, hoe and his two hands, but in the winter things are somewhat different.

A corner of the cellar can be turned into a room for storing garden tools. Tables and bins for soils and seeds can be built and cupboards for vases to hold cut flowers can be provided. Such a room, if considered desirable, may be turned into a sort of garden den, where many pleasant hours can be spent in taking care of potted plants and planning out the garden for next year.

The building of such a room may be undertaken under the Home Improvement Plan sponsored by the Dominion Government.

Numerous Arrests Made In Mexico Plot Uncovered To Murder President

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 20 (AP).—A score or more of men and women arrested in raids on the headquarters of several Rightist organizations in connection with what was reliably reported as a plot on the life of President Lazaro Cardenas were released today.

A box of dynamite was seized at one of the places by police and investigators connected with Cardenas private secretariat.

A source close to the Presidential palace said last night at the time of the raids evidence of a conspiracy to dynamite Cardenas' special train was uncovered.

The conspiracy was to have been put into execution, he said, the next time the President set out from the capital to visit the Mexican interior.

HYDRO EXTENSION HELPS IMPROVE FARM HOMES

Extending Of Hydro Service To Rural Districts Brings Many Problems To Property Owners

Examiner Attempts To Answer Many Of Questions Asked About Installation

To many of our subscribers in the rural districts the advent of Hydro service has become an increasingly personal problem. The Hydro Electric Power Commission of Ontario are rapidly extending their service throughout the province, giving to dwellers in these communities the opportunity to enjoy all the conveniences that electricity has brought forth.

Facing, therefore, the problem of having your property equipped and feeling that you would welcome information fitting your particular needs in the best and most economical manner, the Peterborough Examiner, realizing that the interests of our readers in the rural districts could be served has made a careful survey of the situation. Enlisting the co-operation of expert opinion we feel this service will be appreciated particularly by those who contemplate taking advantage of Hydro facilities.

The achievements of this publicly-owned utility should be a matter of pride for it cannot be disputed that the administration of this very complex system is outstanding in the world today. It is gratifying to note that the many difficulties encountered in rural distribution have been overcome without imposing a burden on any particular case.

Reduction in Rate

Indeed recent substantial reductions on rural rates have been put into effect and we have no doubt that as time goes on the same considerate policy will be followed.

It is not our intention in this article to explain how a movement may be initiated to get Hydro into a new locality, nor yet what is required of the individual who may wish to sign up for service. This is already taken care of in a very thorough and business-like manner by the Hydro Electric Power Commission who have pamphlets available covering the subject in detail and who have representatives in each district who will be glad to give any reasonable help and all information that may be desired.

For our purpose it is assumed that the preliminaries have already been taken care of, that the required number of contracts have been signed, the line is going through and that you are now concerned with the problem of getting your premises wired.

In approaching this problem you will, during negotiations, encounter a number of terms with which you will possibly be unfamiliar. We would assume, therefore, that a few definitions of the more common of these terms would be helpful and tend to eliminate misunderstandings.

Definitions

CEILING OUTLET: Wires are brought out at a desired place on the ceiling ready to install drops or fixtures.

BRACKET OUTLET: Wires are brought out on a side wall ready to install a fixture.

SINGLE POLE SWITCH OUTLET: For wall control of any ceiling or bracket light to be wired complete with flush switch and plate.

THREE-WAY SWITCH OUTLET: Usually installed for a hall light allowing it to be turned off or on from either up or down stairs. The outlet to be complete with two switches and plates.

Note: A three-way switch may also be used to control lights in different locations as between the house and barn.

FOUR-WAY SWITCH OUTLET: Are sometimes called for where it is desired to have wall control of the light outlet at three different locations where they may be turned off or on.

WALL PLUG OUTLET: Is a convenient electric outlet usually installed on the baseboard for the purpose of connecting up lamps, radios and other electrical appliances.

YARD LIGHTS: May be installed on outbuildings or on poles and are made especially for outdoor use. These may be equipped with or without shades, but are much more efficient with at least a 15" porcelain enamelled steel reflector.

PILOT LIGHT OUTLET: Often desirable and take care of that annoying question, "Did I turn off a certain light?"

HEN HOUSE LIGHTING: Some who have studied the question favor the installation of dimming equipment or time switches for light control. Special apparatus takes care of this problem efficiently where desired.

FIXTURES: The term "fixture," as used in the electrical trade, refers to the unit that is connected to a ceiling wire outlet. They should be chosen to give adequate light and the design should be such that there would be a minimum of eye-strain. These features have been achieved in the Louvre and indirect fixture of today.

For the dwelling house an approved, concealed knob and tube system of wiring is almost invariably installed, unless there are special conditions that might call for some other method.

In barns and other outbuildings an exposed system using non-metallic sheathed cable with steel boxes at all outlets is advised as the best standard practice.

As far as the branch wiring both for the dwelling house and outbuildings is concerned the owner need only take care to make provision and choose a suitable location for an adequate number of outlets.

The importance of proper illumination, however, should be emphasized along the lines that modern science demands. The assumption that tallow candles served the needs of our ancestors and that coal oil or other fuel combustion lamps appear to serve the needs of many of us tday, only neglects to take into consideration the important facts that science has revealed regarding the effect that improper illumination has on the eyesight of the race.

If space permitted an interesting story could be told revealing the facts that science has established compelling the attention of all to the importance of proper illumination if the eyesight of the race is to be preserved. It is sufficient here, perhaps, to point out that Nature has provided us with eyes that function normally, sitting on the porch or perhaps under the shade of a tree in a light intensity of probably 500 to 1000-foot candle power. On the other hand we are forced under present-day conditions to perform daily tasks inside, involving close vision, very often imposing a tremendous strain, and taking a serious toll. Compensation must be achieved by sufficient artificial illumination. The intensity of this is no longer a matter of guess but is achieved through sound scientific principles. An intensity of interior illumination that is adequate is, at best, much lower than Nature provides.

While on the subject of interior wiring it would be well to stress that it is seldom one finds a sufficient number of convenience outlets, thoughtfully installed throughout a home. Is it not a comfort to be able to attach any appliance in its desired location without having a lot of unsightly cord lying around the floor?

Select Good Firms

In the choice of an individual or a firm to carry out the actual work it is obvious that those who are well established in business and have a good reputation, the proper equipment and experience should be favored. Such a concern must, in the nature of things, be qualified to render satisfaction. If care is exercised in dictating what your requirements are it will be found that on a fair basis of comparison prices will be so nearly equivalent that any difference will not be a factor. If there does appear, on occasion, to be a difference in price it is sure to be found that it will actually be a difference in value of quality and service. The cheap man always tries to sell on price. In order to make good that claim he must, of necessity, cut corner somewhere.

We hope that a perusal of what follows in this article will enable many of you to avoid pitfalls that might be encountered. For instance an established concern has to comply with the requirements of the Workmen's Compensation Act, relieving their customers from claims for liability for injury incurred on your premises.

The knowledge that your job has finally to pass an inspection is not really sufficient protection, for while it can be said of this department of the Hydro system that it ranks second to none and functions with commendable efficiency and thoroughness ensuring you of a standard of quality and performance and guarding against danger to a degree that practically eliminates that factor. While slovenly and careless workmanship is discouraged and individual inspectors conscientiously strive to raise the standard of workmanship, they are often obliged to put the stamp of approval on a jo bthat will just meet the requirements of the code.

Although at the same time the workmanship may be of a very slovenly nature, showing a disregard of proper care of your property and lacking the forethought that would result finally in the kind of a job to be proud of, not only is this condition encountered but there are often other bad features to be guarded against, not so much in evidence. For instance, circuits may be loaded to the maximum allowable capacity to cheapen the work without consideration being given to any future requirements.

A well established firm is in the position to choose and pick the men best adapted for any particular class of work, knowing that in order to prosper a strict attention to the matter of specializaion is of vital importance.

If competitive prices were called for on the branch wiring only, it would be found that there would be very little difference between those bidding, perhaps all coming to within 5 per cent. of the average. This is because branch wiring installed according to Hydro regulations can be costed within a narrow margin. Why, therefore, you ask is there a difference of price on a complete job, sometimes amounting to 10 or 20 per cent.

In order to get an intelligent answer to this question, the owner must consider the problem from the point of view of the man who is estimating. A competent estimator will proceed as follows:

He will estimate the cost of the branch wiring in all buildings from compiled statistics that he knows absolutely are accurate and he disposes of this part of the cost in a few minutes. Being conscientious he will arrange all branch wiring circuits in such a manner that none come near to the limits of an overload and that each circuit is more than amply protected by fusing. The next procedure is not so simple, inasmuch as there arises in each particular case a multiplicity of factors that have each to be given careful consideration. For instance, he will notice the location of the Hydro line from which source light or power has to be distributed to the various buildings in the most efficient manner. He will next determine on some location for his main point of distribution and whether it is in the owner's interest to run primary or secondary feeders to that point. Primary feeders with a transformer on the pole at the point of distribution should be installed where the distance from the Hydro line to the main point of distribution exceeds 300 feet, otherwise there might be excessive line loss which the owner will continue to pay for, just like a continual leakage.

Primary lines on private property must comply with very rigid and definite specifications and this work should be entrusted only to an expert. When the distance from the Hydro line to the point of main distribution comes within the limits the owner must decide what his ultimate power or heating requirements might be for each building.

For instance, taking the house, he must decide whether a lighting load only is required, which of course will take in besides the lighting, small portable appliances that can be connected to a wall plug, or whether, in addition, he may want at some time, an electric range, water heater, or electric motor for pumps or other equipment. In the case of the barn or other buildings, he must determine in addition to his lighting load, what his power requirements are likely to be and the size of motors he may use. Keeping in mind that he is limited with a Class 3C farm service contract to maximum of 3 H.P. and if more than the 3 H.P. is required another class of contract would be called for.

ELECTRIC FIXTURES: It is not in the owner's interests to have any fixtures included in the wiring estimate, excepting the drops for the barn or other outbuildings. These are more or less standardized and can safely be included. All other fixtures without exception should be selected from some reputable dealer carrying a good dispaly in his showroom. The wisdom of this is apparent when it is considered that there are at least fifty combinations of a plain drop light, each varying in price, any one of which might be installed.

LAMPS: These, also, should not be included in the wiring price, for like reasons and it is safe to purchase those from your fixture dealers who will supply Laco, or G.E. Mazda quality lamps.

Now that the owner has, from a perusal of the foregoing, formed some idea as to what he is going to purchase in the way of material and labor to complete the job, would it not be wise and indeed necessary in his own interests to get from each one who wants to tender a price, some definite agreement in writing as to what will actually be done on his premises.

To make it easy for the owner, elsewhere on this page there is submitted a simple form that can readily be filled in and if the owner also marks down the distance from the Hydro line to the nearest building to be wired and also the distance in feet between buildings it will allow those quoting a chance to price the job accurately and will also, without question, protect the owner.

Judges At Royal

Ranking with official judges from Canada and United States, Max Humphries of Hastings has been appointed an official judge by the executive of the Royal Winter Fair for the second successive year to judge cheviot sheep of which he is a breeder. Max was the youngest official judge at the fair five years ago, being 28 and he is believed to be the only official judge appointed from Peterborough county to this high honor in recent years. He will judge on Saturday, November 20.

Blend Of Color Rather Than Contrast Necessary In Modern Decorating

Many modern interiors depend for their decorative scheme on a blend of color rather than a contrast. Especially with the new honey-colored and other light woods that are used so extensively in present day furniture manufacture, walls of as near the same shade as possible are being used.

One very smart apartment had rugs, furniture and walls of the same shade of beige. Upholstery, lamps and other accessories in the room were brown, while and blue. Use of one light color for the background tends to make a small room look larger.

While the purchase of furniture is ineligible under the terms of the Home Improvement Plan, built-in furniture may be installed or rooms redecorated with funds which are obtainable from any Canadian bank under this plan.

THE TRULY MODERN HOME HAS WELL-STYLED LIGHTING

INTELLIGENT USE OF LIGHT IN HOME IMPROVEMENT ASSURES BETTER "SEEING" AND DRAMATIZES SURROUNDINGS

A greater appreciation of the important role which scientific lighting plays in domestic as well as business life has resulted in careful consideration being given to this question in the building of new homes and modernization of old ones. Typical scenes to be found in a modernized home are portrayed above. The upper illustration gives some impression of how soft but pleasingly balanced lighting assures comfort and complete relaxation when playing cards. Lighting which is easy to look at and good to see by is emphasized in the lower left reproduction. Here the diffused inlaid lights on either side of the modern dresser provide illumination which throws no shadows on the face. A sun lamp is shown in the foreground. The effectiveness of a modern I.E.S. study and reading table lamp is seen to advantage in the lower right illustration.

Interesting Exhibit of Handicraft By The Guild of Arts and Crafts

What a joy to those who appreciate beauty and artistic achievement is the exhibit of handicrafts now being held in the Green Room of the Y.W.C.A. by the Guild of Arts and Crafts of the Lyceum Club and Women's Art Association.

The skill and versatility of the members have produced a collection of most lovely and interesting things. There are clever examples of batik work, including Mrs. T. Tinker's prize-winning "Wild Sheep." There are curtains, hand-woven in squares, and others of dyed cotton embroidered in bright colors; unusual afghans; a crocheted bedspread that is a remarkable piece of work, and exquisite crocheted mats.

Unique and charming are tied dyed scarves in a variety of pastel colors; a little bolero with artistic design in felt applique; a scarf woven in squares; pewter and copper bowles; pewter wall vases and trays; etched bracelets; beautifully tinted prints; lino cut Christmas cards; a cleverly made raffia bag; embroidered chintz chair seats; and a hand-woven cap and scarf set.

Theres are picture also—remarkably lovely oil paintings of flowers; delightful and fresh water colors of country scenes in summer and autumn, and pretty scenes in oils.

Needlepoint is shown in artistic bags, and most pleasing is a framed needlepoint picture of a little Dutch girl. Hooked chair seats are beautiful and there are crocheted rugs, a patchwork quilt, and a most unusual and charming chintz covered screen, depicting sailing ships, houses, windmills and people.

Interesting additions to the exhibition are two examples of work by Miss K. E. Wallis of Paris, France, well-known sculptress, and at one time resident in Peterborough. In a fire screen, silk is appliqued on linen in a parrot and leaf motif, the whole surrounded with a carved walnut frame. A plaque is also the work of Miss Wallis.

Members of the Guild of Arts and Crafts who have work in the exhibition include, Mrs. H. Anderson, Mrs. Seels, Mrs. J. E. R. Munroe, Mrs. C. Saunders, Mrs. Tinker, Mrs. B. L. Barns, Mrs. Widdess, Mrs. Walter Conner, Mrs. W. English, Mrs. C. S. Thompson, Mrs. H. Wightman, Mrs. H. E. Connolly, Mrs. Blackwell, Mrs. Wharry, Miss G. Reinhardt, Miss C. Edwards, Miss Linden Hall, Miss Hand, Miss Mathews, Miss T. Hall, Miss Betty Runnett, Miss Belleghem.

Tea was served to the members yesterday afternoon, in the library, when hostesses were Mrs. Yelland and Mrs. H. Wightman.

The exhibition will be open to the public all today (Saturday).

How to Keep Clothes Looking Fresh

How does Jane keep knitted things soft and shapely through countless washings?

Before washing she traces the outline of each knitted garment on muslin with a pencil. After washing she pulls the garment to exact shape, pins it to the muslin pattern, hangs it up. She never dries knitwear or other woollens out of doors in cold weather, on a radiator or in the sun.

To remove shine from clothing she sponges on the wrong side with water to which a little borax has been added. For black cloth, rubbing with flannel moistened in turpentine (inflammable) is effective.

Our 32-page booklet gives other priceless tips for keeping clothes smart and fresh as new. How to clean hats, furs, gloves, laces. Stain removal. Clever tricks to save time, money and labor in kitchen, pantry, laundry.

JUST BETWEEN US WOMEN

"Nothing can work me damage except myself; the harm that I sustain I carry with me, and never am a real sufferer but by my own fault."
—St. Bernard.

Dear Friends:

Now here is another quotation with which I cannot agree as it reads, because there are many things which cause us suffering and we had nothing at all to do with it.

Are we to take the blame for the suffering caused by the things our relations do if they happen to get into trouble? Yet it affects us, it reflects on us, it brings sometimes, pain and humiliation, yet we had no part in it.

Is a man or woman to blame for a lazy one who will not work and do their share, bringing the humiliation of debt, and the misery of the things one lacks? I think not.

How can te be to blame for the anguish we suffer in the death of a loved one, or for the different anguish we must bear if they lower themselves in any way?

Life is complicated enough without our having to shoulder the blame for all the ills that come into our lives. Is a person to become so callous to outside influences that nothing outside of themselves will affect them? I'd like to know how it can be done.

I have lots of lonely hours in which to think things out. Looking back, I emphatically say that most of my suffering came from others, and not myself. I made mistakes, as who hasn't, and I did not mind paying for them, but I have paid much more and much harder for the mistakes of others.

Any parent will tell you that they suffer much more when one of their children are sick, than when they are sick themselves. And parents also suffer two-fold when their children let themselves down. They suffer because of the folly, and they also suffer because of the weakness shown.

No, there are a lot of these sayings and quotations which cannot be accepted literally. Are we to take blame when our friends fail us or let us down, yet it can cause intense heartache.

I know what is meant alright when I read something like that. I know that the worst thing that can happen to us is when we let ourselves down, but we can also get many a slap from others which gets us down too.

If some drunk driver knocks you down and maims you so that you are a cripple for life, and so that you can never follow your chosen profession. If he cannot pay your expenses so that your family's finances your own fault? Assuredly not.

There is not just white and black in the spectrum, but all other solid colors and all shades. And there are also contributing factors in the things which make us suffer. Each one of us do our share of making others suffer, or making them happy and comfortable.

No matter how good I may try to live I might be a pain in the neck to you, for your goodness may lie in another direction. A man's love of country, his desire to put the oppressor in his place and defend the weak, might result in his being blind or hurt so badly he was of no further use to himself in earning a living. Is he then to blame? He couldn't be.

So, take these things and try to fit them to your life, and if they are a misfit cast them away. You can be a real sufferer for someone else's faults.

Your Friend,
ROBERTA.

"Gun Runner" Proves False Tip

VALETTA, Malta — Suspected of carrying Russian arms to the Spanish government, the British steamship African Mariner unloaded case by case here today under the watchful eyes of a British police guard. The searchers found only salt fish, wheat and sulphate of Ammonia. British warships and planes had instructions to watch for the ship, bound from Odessa to Barcelona.

Halifax Extending Berlin Visit

BERLIN—Viscount Halifax decided today to extend his visit to Germany after a long telephone conversation with London. The decision was interpreted as evidence his talks with the leaders of the third Reich had not been completed. Lord Halifax had been scheduled to leave Berlin for London tomorrow morning at the latest. He intends now, however, to stay.

HAROLDE KITNEY NAMED ORGANIST AT CAMPBELLFORD

Harolde R. Kitney who was recently appointed organist and choirmaster at St. John's United church, Campbellford, received his public and High School education at Peterborough, and began his first serious study of music here with F. G. Mann, L.Mus., while still a student at the Collegiate.

For some years as a boy he played E-flat Bass with Coldsprings Sunday School orchestra and Mr. Gliddon's later organizations, and in the Collegiate orchestra. Upon leaving Collegiate he took up the serious study of organ and of theory in preparation for the work of a church musician. While still in school he had supplied for services at the organ in St. James' and in St. Andrew's churches and later took the position of organist and choirmaster at Mark Street United church.

On resigning the position at Mark Street in order to enter the University of Toronto, Mr. Kitney was appointed director of music and worship at Epworth church, Toronto, where he has spent some three very successful years. He studied in Toronto Conservatory of Music under Dr. (Rev.) F. J. Horwood, and in the University of Toronto, Faculty of Music, of which Sir Ernest MacMillan is Dean and whose staff consists of Dr. Healy Willan, organist and composer, Dr. H. A. Fricker, conductor of Toronto Mendelssohn Choir, and Leo Smith, cellist and author. Mr. Kitney has also successfully completed the degree work as a teacher in Trinity College, London, England.

His chief interests have been in theory and in church choral work; to supplement the musical education essential for the work of a church musician. Mr. Kitney has spent much time in selected courses in arts and theology, pursuing those subjects that bear directly upon the religious aspect of a choirmaster's duties, believing that there is a vast and unexplored field of service in the modern church for directors in music and worship who are schooled in theology and liturgics as well as in music.

CHEST CLINIC EXAMINED 250

The travelling chest clinic of the Ontario Department of Health examined more than 250 persons in its recent ten days' assignment in Peterborough. Dr. K. M. Shorey was director of the clinic, assisted by Dr. J. W. Cragg and Dr. G. B. Lane, with two technicians, E. J. O'Brien and G. F. Surplice. Their portable X-ray machine and other apparatus was set up in the Queen Mary Hospital, where the clinic was conducted for ten days, having come to Peterborought at the request of the local Board of Health. The large number of persons who were examined indicated, it was said, something of the need of a special review of incipient and other cases of pulmonary tuberculosis as reported by the local doctors.

Miss Zeta Kearney, public health nurse, with the assistance of volunteer nurses from the city, also helped in the arrangements. It is understood the Board of Health will receive from the Department a report on the work of the clinic which is expected to provide further evidence of tuberculosis in this city.

FIRST MEETING

The first meeting of the Students' Literary Society was held in the school auditorium Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Forms VA, VB and IV. A rendered a program which received a fine reception. The school orchestra, directed by A. J. Weames, opened the program with the selection "Our Director."

Allan Park of V.A. president of the Students' Council, then voiced the students' desire to produce better entertainment without assistance from the teachers. John Hooper of V.A. continued the program with the piano selection "Marche des Aegipous," by Pierne.

Following this Eileen Setton IV.A, delivered a very amusing recitation. A girls' and boys' chorus from Forms V.B and IV.A terminated the first part of the program, singing "We're Working Our Way Through College."

The feature of the program was a one-act play entitled "Evening Dress Indispensible." The cast included Alicia Langley, Pauline Storey, Mary Richardson, Hugh Davidson and Tom Hooper. Directed by Lenore Lewis, the program concluded with the National Anthem.

RUGBY FINALS

Last Saturday the junior rugby team finished this year's schedule with a game in Lindsay against Lindsay C. I.'s Juniors. Although already eliminated they put up a strong battle against much heavier opponents. The score: Lindsay, 27; P.C.I., 0.

Hoping to compensate this loss the team journeyed to Lakefield Wednesday and played an exhibition game with the Grove School's senior rugby team. P.C.I.'s juniors staged a stout battle but finished on the short end of a 6-5 score. Captain Ken Gillespie scored P.C.I.'s only touchdown.

MOTION PICTURES

Two more interesting films were shown in the morning assemblies of this week. The titles were "The Isle of Bali," a film portraying one of the Philippine Islands in the south Pacific, and "Sea Birds," an exposition of the birds native to the shores and islands of the upper St. Lawrence.

Samples of the school's Christmas cards have been posted in each form room. The student reception of this very attractive card has been well demonstrated by many large orders. An early shipment is being made so the pupils may get them in good time for mailing to distant points.

HALL SCHEDULED

Mr. Wesley Brown has found it necessary to make a schedule for the use of the school auditorium and the library for the after-school intramural activities. Those wishing to reserve either room must apply to Mr. Brown.

CLUB ALBUM

During a recent visit to Toronto Mr. V. R. Henry purchased a loose-leaf photo album for use of the Camera Club. Each member will be given a leaf of this album on which he will mount the best of his year's work in photography. Then the member's work will be permanently placed in the book as a lasting record of his activities in the Camera Club.

OCTETTE CHORUS

A pleasant innovation in the morning assembly was introduced Friday morning by song leader Hugh Davidson in the form of an octette chorus composed of Alicia Langley, Lenore Lewis, Olga Westbye, Orma Lacheur, Tom Hooper, Bill Moorehead, Horace Steer and Jim Hawthorne. This Friday the chorus sang "The Life of the Party." Each Friday morning the octette will do a new "song of the week."

SHORT ENDS

Since the rugby season is drawing to a close the school hours have been lengthened to four o'clock . . . Elimination has already started in the inter-form volleyball tournament. . . . . The usual rugby dance will be omitted this Saturday evening after the game . . . . This week's meeting of the cadet officers and N.C.O.'s was held Wednesday afternoon in the school gymnasium. . . . . This year, instead of leaving the picture taking for the Echoes until the Spring, the Echoes staff has already obtained outside pictures of V.A. and V.B graduating classes at the eastern entrance of the school.

LOSSES GENERAL AS GLOOM GROWS IN STOCK MARKET

TORONTO, Nov. 20 (C.P.). — The stock market has been brewing a little more grief for security holders after a month of comparative relief. On October 19 prices slumped to lows for more than two years and yesterday, a month later, following a period of intermittent rallies, prices indulged in another slipping spree.

Commodity prices, with the metals well to the front, continue on the down grade. Export copper was quoted below the 10-cent mark in New York yesterday and the London quotations are at their lowest for a year. These influences along with a falling business barometer in the United States have provided obstacles for the base metal stocks.

International Nickel has lost all its recent gain, selling yesterday at $39.50, its low mark for two years. The week's loss was $4.50. Consolidated Mining and Smelting posted the same decline, while Noranda dropped $6 and Hudson Bay Mining and Smelting $3.50.

Steels, Foods Drop.

The sledding was particularly heavy for the distillery stocks despite recent publication of statements showing satisfactory earnings. A loss of $4.25 was recorded by Hiram Walker-Gooderham & Worts Common, and Distillers-Seagrams dropped $3.25. Steels, utilities and foods were prominent among the week's casualties. Losses of $1 to $2.25 were registered for Canada Cement, Canadian Car and Foundry Common, Canadian Dredge, Consolidated Bakeries, Dominion Steel and Coal B, and Pressed Metals.

The fact that the gold group has been able to breast the ebb tide of prices has strengthened their appeal for investors and trading was heavy in the leaders during the week at stiffening prices. Dome registered a net gain of $2.75, McIntyre $1.75, Lake Shore $1.35, and Wright-Hargreaves 15 cents. These issues harboged all the bullishness, however, and elsewhere losses were the rule. Aside from a decline of 60 cents for O'Brien recessions were moderate.

The funeral of Joseph Emile Levasseur who died on Friday afternoon will take place on Monday morning at 8.45 o'clock from the home of his son, Alphonse Levasseur, 215 Perry Street, to the Church of the Sacred Heart and St. Peter's cemetery. Mr. Levasseur was born in Quebec, and was 84 years old. He had spent most of his life in Peterborough, and was one of its oldest residents, known especially in the south end of the city. He is survived by his son, and two daughters, Mrs. Frank Neary and Mrs. Frank Patterson of this city.

Dr. Dafoe Buys Quints A Plaque

Making a shopping trip to New York similar to that made by Oliva Dionne several weeks before, Dr. Allan R. Dafoe, medical guardian to the famed quintuplets, picked out a white pottery plaque of the Virgin and Child to hang on the wall of the quint bedroom. During his visit the doctor revealed the five bady girls are now worth half a million dollars, most of which is invested in government bonds.

Assumption by Victoria County of the three miles and a half road from Fowler's Corners to Frank Hill's School, proposed by Reeve Joseph Guiry of Emily Township was acceptable to the County Council on condition Peterborough County assumes half the cost of maintenance and construction for the reason that residents of Ennismore use this road to a considerable extent. The Peterborough County resolution opposing Daylight Saving was filed.

BROADCAST FROM 'PLANE.

Peterborough City saw its first demonstration of sky broadcasting this morning when a cabin monoplane circled for the better part of an hour hurling amplified vocal advertising and music earthward. General Motors products received the benefit. The scheme of vocal broadcasting from airplanes—by direct sound transmission rather than radio—was first tried successfully in a practical way by the British in Northern India. Flying military planes at great height over insurgent tribes, they shouted warnings through great amplifiers. Believing the great voice to come from some supernatural diety, the natives were frightened into good behaviour for months at a time.

KIWANIANS HEAR REV. G. H. FLOYD ON LORD ALLENBY

"The Life and Work of Field Marshall Lord Allenby," formed the subject of an interesting address which the Rev G. H. Floyd, rector of Campbellford presented to the Kiwanis Club at their luncheon meeting Friday.

Describing the late Field Marshal as a "physical and mental giant," who was numbered among the outstanding figures in history who had contributed to the might and strength of the British Empire, the speaker declared his name would be forever associated with the re-establishment of the sovereignty of Christianity in Palestine and particularly with the taking of Jerusalem, a feat that was accomplished without bloodshed.

Advocate of Peace

The Rev. Mr. Floyd said Allenby's life was of particular interest to Canadians and Britishers not only because he was in command of the Third Army Corps at the Battle of Arras when Canadian troops who comprised a part of that Corps distinguished themselves in their heroic assult and capture of Vimy Ridge, but more particularly because the late Lord Allenby was a deeply religous man and a strong advocate of world peace.

Lord Allenby whose brilliant career was brought to an end by his death in May last year was born appropriately enough, the speaker said, on St. George's Day—April 23, 1861. He resembled Oliver Cromwell "The Protector," physically as well as mentally and had a deep bass voice which gave him the nickname of "the bull" from the troops under his command.

On his graduation from Sandhurst Military College, Allenby joined the Inniskillen Dragoons and saw service in Bechuanaland and the Boer War. In 1910 he was appointed Inspector General of Cavalry, position he held at the outbreak of the Great War.

Allenby saw service in France until 1917, when he was recalled to England to receive the appointment as commander-in-chief of the British forces in Egypt and Palestine.

Capture Jerusalem

Before he set out to assume his command in the east, Lloyd George asked him to capture Jerusalem as a Christmas present for the Allies. He did so, the Holy City being surrendered to him about two weeks before the festival. Capture of the city was accomplished without bloodshed by a clever flanking cavalry movement that was recognized as one of the greatest successes of the World War.

Following the Armistice, Allenby was appointed as High Commissioner for Egypt and he again exhibited his outstanding genius in the manner in which he dealt with a tense situation created by the murder of Sir Lee Stafford.

On his visit to Canada in 1934, Lord Allenby was given an honorary degree by University of Toronto and shortly before his death was installed as Lord Rector of Edinburgh University. On the latter occasion he made an impassioned speech in which he condemned war.

Was Deeply Religous

Stating there had been many sentimental stories told about Lord Allenby, which had no foundation in fact and which were intensely disliked by the late Field Marshal, the Reverend Mr. Floyd said it was none the less true that Allenby was a deeply religous man.

As an illustration of Allenby's character and his deep sense of justice and fairness, the speaker stressed the first thing he did on making his formal entry into the Holy City of Jersalem was to issue a proclamation assuring the populace of the city they would receive protection, justice and tolerance. A guard of British soldiers was posted around the mosque so that the Moslems should be permitted to worship without interference.

The speaker compared Allenby's peaceful capture of Jersalem with the scene of blood and carnage that marked the capture of that city by the Crusaders centuries previously.

A vote of thanks was extended to the speaker on motion of Dr. C. B. Waite.

Sets Speed Mark

Driving his seven and half ton racing car down a 13 mile speedway at Bonneville Salt Flats, Utah., Capt. George Eyston (ABOVE), retired British army officer, set a new world speed record of 311.42 miles an hour, beating the old record of 301.1292 miles an hour set by Sir Malcolm Campbell by a wide margin. On his first run down the track he hit a speed of 306.34 miles an hour and on the return trip averaged 317.74 miles an hour.

$30 Offer Made For Manhattan

NEW YORK, Nov. 20 (A.P.).—The Indians, who sold Manhattan Island to the Dutch for $24, are willing to buy it back at the original price—and pay $6 to boot.

The offer was made after 17 tribes of the American Indian Conference danced at their annual pow-wow last night.

"The palefaces bought Manhattan for $24, and we have had a consultation among the chiefs and hereby offer to buy the island back for $30," said Chief Clear Sky, a dignified Mohawk.

"The island has been improved," he added.

SOCIAL EDUCATION IMPORTANT FACTOR CONVENTION HEARS

"Teach them what you think they will enjoy," said Thornton Mustard of the Ontario Department of Education speaking at the closing session of the convention of Peterborough Teachers' Institute on Friday afternoon.

"The time is coming when social education will be the core of our studies—actual experiences at first hand. Our children should learn by doing, not by storing facts for possible future use. We have been asked to give teachers more instruction. That is absolutely wrong. Each teacher should develop the mental growth of the individual pupil. Too long have we in Ontario worshipped the false god of rigidity."

Continuing his talk on the new philosophy in the new curriculum Mr. Mustard stated that following physical welfare English came next in the schools. "Drastic reductions have been made in the time devoted to arithmetic. This time has been granted to a greater study of English."

Earlier in the sessions J. W. Cawood of the Ontario Educational Association claimed there was a need of greater government support for schools in urban and rural districts. "Education," he said, "is a national investment. Owing to the movement of population and the centralization of wealth in the larger centres, the small community should receive greater support from the State to enable it to make provisions somewhat similar to the advantages provided for in the larger urban centres."

Fairest Jap Geisha's Sent To Shanghai

Shanghai, Nov. 20. (AP)

"LITTLE Tokyo," the Japanese quarter of Shanghai, today received 254 of Japan's fairest geisha—girl entertainers — whose avowed mission was to restore gaiety.

Followers of Shanghai's night life regarded the girls' arrival as a sign hostilities were over in this war-torn city. "Little Tokyo" had been in the doldrums since fighting began, Aug. 13.

Potatoes declined another five cents a bag to sell at most stalls on the Farmers' Market this morning for 65 cents. A number of sellers still held out for 75 and 85 cents for special grades.

Eggs appeared plentiful, but the price remained unchanged at 38 to 42 cents a dozen. Chickens were in unusual volume at 21 to 23 cents a pound, broilers bringing 15 to 18 cents. Turkeys were 30 cents a pound. Butter was firm at 28 to 32 cents a pound.

The offering of apples was large at prices varying with the brand from 25 to 40 cents a peck. Pork sold at 13 and 15 cents a pound for the quarters.

GARAGE WORKERS PLAN TO ORGANIZE

Formation of a second Peterborough local of the International Federation of Machinists by garage workers and apprentices here was predicted by Richard Riley of Toronto, A.F. of L. organizer, following a preliminary meeting of garage workers called last night. Thirty-five gathered in the Labor Hall.

The new Ontario Apprentice Act and the advantages of organization in enforcing the provisions of the Act were discussed before the gathering by the organizer. He announced that a meeting would be called for next Friday evening to determine the organization of a garage workers local of the union.

The International Federation of Machinists has had a local here for almost thirty years, Local 436, but the membership has always been small. Mr. Riley gave the opinion a separate local for the garage workers would be most effective as they have their own type of problems to handle.

CHING JOHNSON SIGNS TO PLAY WITH AMERKS

TORONTO, Nov. 20—(CP).—Red Dutton and Father Time must have been signatories to some sort of pact before the start of National Hockey League warfare this season.

Dutton is manager of the league's New York Americans, while father time is the old fellow with the whiskers for whom N.H.L. veterans have to be on the lookout. That is, other than those Amazing Americans.

For Dutton, who was some shakes as a defenceman in his palmier days with Montreal Maroons and then with Amerks, made two moves this year that definitely showed a truce had been signed with the bewhiskered gent.

The first came at the start of the season when he purchased Clarence (Happy) Day from Toronto Maple Leafs. Day was a standout defenceman with Leafs for years and before that with Toronto St. Pats, when that team played in the N.H.L. in the early 20's.

The second move came yesterday when Americans signed up baldheaded Ching Johnson, the ever-smiling giant who played defence for New York Rangers from 1926 until last year. No one can dispute the fact that over a span of years there have been few better rearguards than Day and Johnson.

Signing of Johnson, long a New York idol, was the most interesting development in a day that saw bad news sneak in the camps of the world champion Detroit Red Wings and Toronto Leafs.

Goodfellow Out Six Weeks

As if it wasn't bad enough that his Wings have been able to win only one game out of five, and tie another, Coach Jack Adams learned yesterday that his ace defenceman Ebbie Goodfellow would likely be out of the game six to eight weeks because of a fractured left wrist. Goodfellow was injured in a collision with burly Earl Seibert, Chicago Black Hawk defenceman, in a game Thursday night.

Meanwhile, Leafs will have to get along for possibly two weeks without the services of their goal-getting Charlie Conacher, injured also in a Thursday clash with Montreal Canadiens. Conacher collided with a goal post and it first was thought he had fractured his collar-bone. X-ray examination revealed it was a torn ligament.

Conacher's injury came just at the time Leafs had their guns trained to topple Boston Bruins from the unbeaten list. Bruins, who have won four games in as many starts, meet Leafs at Toronto tonight in a game that should attract a capacity house. Leafs, too, are unbeaten in five starts, but have been tied three times. In the night's other scheduled game Rangers invade Montreal to take on King Clancy's Maroons.

To complete the week-end schedule, Rangers and Maroons swing right back in a game Sunday at New York, while Leafs hustle to Detroit where they meet Wings and Bruins drop off at Chicago for a game with Hawks.

Accepts Offer

Bob Pastor, the young pugilist who got himself freely criticized when he met Joe Louis, heavyweight champion of the world, a short while ago, and, as the experts termed it, "got on his bicycle and rode away from Joe," has been offered another bout. He has reportedly accepted an offer of $10,000 to fight the winner of the Tony Galento-Leroy Haynes bout. The fight will be staged in Philadelphia next month. Pastor, a New York heavyweight, is pictured here.

WARNINGS UNHEEDED

GLASGOW—(CP).—Alloa, Scottish soccer club, was fined $500 for playing W. McKinley, ineligible player, despite three warnings, but in view of the club's financial straits it was cut to $25.

CONACHER OUT FOR TWO WEEKS

TORONTO, Nov. 20. — Just as the Leafs enter the first intensive part of their schedule they find themselves without the services of Chuck Conacher. They are slated to play to-night; to-morrow, Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday, five games in eight days, or rather evenings, and Conacher won't be available for any of them.

Reports of the X-rays taken in Montreal and a thorough examination by Dr. J. W. Rush yesterday disclosed the fact that the injury sustained by the Bomber on Tuesday night is not a fracture or cracked bone, but that it is bad enough to keep him out of the game for a minimum of two weeks.

The injury is at the top of the socket where the arm joins the shoulder. "It is one of the most painful things that can happen to an athlete—I had both shoulders hurt that way when I was playing," said Dick Irvin, the Leafs' coach, yesterday. "Even to-day I can't raise my left arm high enough to comb my hair."

As Irvin explains it, the arm is loosened at the socket long enough for ligaments to be torn and every movement aggravates the trouble. For that reason the arm must remain stationary during the healing process, so Conacher's is strapped closely to his side, the forearm folded across his chest. With careful attention plus a bit of good luck, he may be ready for action within two weeks, but the recovery may take much longer than that.

In Conacher's case, Dr. Rush said, the arm had not been disturbed at the socket, but the ligaments overlaying the shoulder had been torn and the flesh badly bruised. How long Conacher would be out of the game was indefinite, but the doctor confirmed the statement that it would be a minimum of two weeks.

Changes In American Football Rules Suggested By Slip Madigan Of Gaels

NEW YORK, Nov. 19 (UP).—Four changes in football rules, designed to "give the offence a break," were suggested Thursday by Coach Ed (Slip) Madigan as he brought his Galloping Gaels of St. Mary's into New York for their annual game Saturday with the Fordham Rams.

Madigan, dean of Pacific Coast coaches, was discussing St. Mary's chances in Saturday's intersectional when the talk got around to how to lessen the possibility of pointless ties.

"Most of the discussion this season," said Slip, "has been about defence—how to change the rules to break it down. That's not the solution. The answer is to change the rules to give the offensive eleven a break."

Madigan offered these suggestions:

1. Elimination of the one-second stop after shift.
2. Enlargement of playing fields.
3. Return to the old football, which was larger than the present one.
4. Allow the offensive team to have less than seven men on the line of scrimmage.

"If we eliminate the one second pause after shift," he said, "the offensive team can strike quickly before the defence has a chance to go into a tricky line-up — such as five and six-man lines when a pass is expected."

Regarding a larger playing field, Slip pointed out that the ideal change would be a 20-yard end zone instead of the present 10-yard affair. He said this might be impossible in most stadiums because there is not enough room to make such a change.

"A larger end zone would make the defensive team spread out on a goal line zone and protect that territory. As it is now, once a team is back inside its own 10-yard stripe it has a comparatively small area to protect, and can do it more effectively at midfield."

Regarding point No. 3 — The ball itself—Madigan said a return to the ball in use ten years ago, rounder than the present streamlined pigskin, would pep up the offence. He claimed the present ball is difficult to kick. There is little difference as far as passing is concerned, he said.

Great Array Of Stars – Yet Red Wings Fail To Click

Detroit Red Wings, Stanley Cup winners for the past two seasons, have failed to click so far this season. They have plenty of good hockey ivory on the club and should have started going places long before this, but not so, they have only won one game in their first four starts. The ABOVE picture shows four of the Red Wing players climbing over the boards after a turn on the ice. From LEFT to RIGHT, they are: Bucko McDonald, hard-hitting defenceman; Pete Kelly, Modere "Mud" Bruneteau and Johnny Sherf, all forwards. Sherf incidentally, is the only rookie with the club this year. Since their injured players of last season are back in action again, Manager Jack Adams evidently didn't feel the need of bringing up any new talent, except the one forward, this year.

Bambino Ruth Must Be Crack Shot, Too

SPORTS DAY BY DAY

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

WITH TWO Sundays to go before the re-organization meeting of the Church Hockey League in the 'Y' on Nov. 29th, every Sunday School should be able to arrange for representatives. All churches are asked to send at least two delegates to this session. Though entries are not necessary yet, officers hope a big representation will be on deck for the annual reports, election of officers and discussion of plans for this season. The loop has four sections: Senior, junior (under 20), juvenile (under 17) and bantam (under 16). Generally about 20 teams make it the biggest puck circuit in the city, and producer of plenty of future O.H.A. stars. All the six United, four Anglican, two Baptist and one Presbyterian churches have had teams in during the past five winters. Keen rivalry has existed and resulted in nifty ice scraps at All Saints Rink, or at the Brock maybe in finals.

* * * * * * *

REV. CANON J. D. Paterson who, as president of the Ministerial Assoc., was Hon. Pres. of the C.H.L., and Cres Sproat, past prexy, were ex-officio members of the loop executive last year. Elected members were: President, Lloyd Parnall; vice-prexy, Art Mann; secretary-treasurer, Don Charlton; assistant secretary, Carl Ferguson. Matter of finances comes up at this meeting, too. For the past three years, the loop has cut entry fees from two bucks to one, slicing the surplus from $40 to $12. They figure they can balance their budget again by raising fees or reducing expenses—such as buying permanent shields or eliminating the annual banquet. It is a smart circuit and in good condition, financial and otherwise.

THIS WINTER promises to be the busiest wrestling season at the Y.M.C.A. for many years. Around Dec. 15th, a series of mat bouts will be run there to decide "Y" champions in the different weights from 125 pounds up. Names of champs will be posted and they will be required to defend their titles monthly upon receipt of challenges which meet with the approval of the Wrestling Committee. Young chaps who wish to compete should get in touch with Jim McClenaghan, physical instructor. The grapplers meet Monday, Wednesday and Friday nights and Cec. Holmes, former Otawa 'Y' instructor, is coaching 'em nicely in mat work. A beginners' class opens shortly and will meet Monday nights, H. B. Cowan, Sr., doing the instructing.

THERE ARE a number of good amateur grapplers at the local 'Y' and some will be entering district and provincial championships next spring. Inter-club bouts may be lined up this winter between Peterborough and matmen from Toronto Central 'Y', Ottawa Y.M. C.A. and Queen's U. Beginners here will be taught four or five new holds a night and given general instruction for several weeks before permitted to participate in serious rasslin'. It has been found best to train 'em gradually in perfecting holds and learning to break them before getting into bouts and possibly getting all balled up. The two paragraphs on rasslin' we've dealt with concern the real wrestling—the honest sport—and not the pro style which is amusing and entertaining at times, but pretty much of a racket.

* * * * * * *

AND THERE will be a big boxing show here a week from next Wednesday. In the Brock St. rink at 8.30, with eight bouts and one amateur rasslin' exhibition. This latter features Toronto boys. Just give a listen to some of the mitt headliners coming here for this card: Joe Genovese, the Italian lightweight sensation of Toronto; Bev. Carter, Toronto colored flash who hasn't been licked in two years; Nick Orlando, ex-Montreal kayo ace, who held the Quebec title and went to the finals in Olympic trials! With another good Toronto scrapper to be picked in a day or two, and these good local fighters: Ned Minicola, Jack Chamberlain, Jerry Belland, Joe Hobbins, Jack O'Neil, Pat Jordan, Frenchy Bosley, Bill Joiner, Mal Packenham, with Buddy Redmond and Izzy McIntosh as curtain-raisers.

* * * * * * *

THIS WILL be a swell card, the Riverview A.C. promoters figuring on starting off right, and it should bring back boxing to this city with a biff and a bing and a bang! Ring followers know these out-of-town leather-traders and they know most of the local pugilists. Harry Hance will be referee. There is nothing we like better than a good battle between the gloved gladiators in the roped arena. And we'd even go so far as to pay our way in—and this is mutiny among sports writers!—to see Orlando, Carter, Genovese and Minicola in action. It will be an all-star card, no fooling. Draw for the prizes, going on now, will be made the night of the bout. More about it next week.

* * * * * * *

TWO OF our grid teams are in action this afternoon, P.C.I. tangling here with Albert College of Belleville in a sudden-death C.O.S.S.A. playdown contest, and Orfuns starting their O.R.F.U. intermediate 'A' semi-final series with Toronto City Club in Toronto. This latter joust was due to start at 2.15 in Oakwood Stadium, the O.R.F.U. and City Club suddenly finding they could get a field to play on in Toronto after insisting to Orfuns all week that it was impossible. Halftime and final scores will be wired back to this office. Return game will be here next Saturday, points counting, the winner to advance into the Ontario finals 'gainst the Dundas-Sarnia victor in December. The Orfuns were to get away at nine this a.m., taking a full squad along, though Magee and Gerow aren't playing.

* * * * * * *

IF THE amendment is carried today at the O.H.A. annual meeting in Toronto, referees' fees in hockey this winter will be as follows: Senior 'A' $12 and mileage per game; senior 'B' $8 and mileage; intermediate 'A' $8 and mileage; intermediate 'B' $5 and mileage; junior 'A' and 'B' $5 and mileage. The mileage rate is 15 cents a mile one way for the first 50 miles, and 10 cents a mile for all additional miles. We mention this merely to give puck fans an idea of how much the bell-ringers earn at an O.H.A. tilt here, and therefore how much abuse home rooters should hand 'em! Yeah, the puck arbiters don't do badly. A Toronto ref at an intermediate tussle here would get about 20 bucks for his evening's work. Better than ball umps in the C.O.B.L.

* * * * * * *

UP AND down Sports' Rialto: O.H.A. prospects here are invited to start nightly P.T. drills at the 'Y' on Monday e'en . . . . Church Cage Loop games at the Y' tonight: St. Andrew's vs. St. John's Bantams at 6.30 and St. Paul's vs. St. John's Juveniles at 7.15 . . . . Senior City Hockey League meets again a week from Tuesday at eight p.m. in Duffus' . . . . Referees who want to act in this circuit should apply right away to W. Dinesen, 257 Carlisle avenue . . . . BOTTOMLEY LOSES JOB WITH BROWNS

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 20.—(AP).—One of the most popular players ever to wear a St. Louis baseball uniform —Sunny Jim Bottomley—was out of baseball to-day.

Bottomley, who succeeded another baseball great, Rogers Hornsby, as manager of the revamped St. Louis Browns during the middle of last season, was given his unconditional release. His discharge left the Brownies the only major league club without a manager for 1938. Gabby Street, appointed coach under Bottomley, now apparently holds the inside managerial track.

Bottomley said he has no immediate plans for continuing in baseball.

"I have received no direct offers," the smiling 37-year-old veteran added. "Only a few nibbles, and I can't tell what I'll do until something develops."

Before the close of last season it was announced Jim had applied for the job of managing Cincinnati Reds, after Charley Dressen had been released. But he later declared he was "just joking."

Bottomley joined the Cardinals in 1922 and played first base during four of their five pennant-winning years. He batted .367 in 1925 and was voted the National League's most valuable player in 1928, batting .326 to help them to the second pennant.

CHING JOHNSON SIGNS AMERICANS' CONTRACT

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—(CP).—Ching Johnson, who since 1926 wore livery of New York Rangers, this season will carry the colors of their Manhattan rivals, the Americans. The burley defenseman signed a one-year contract with Amerks for an undisclosed salary to-day.

Given his outright release by Rangers at the close of last season, the veteran Winnipeg bouncer said he welcomed the chance Manager Red Dutton had provided to prove he was still good enough for National League competition.

Child Threatened

HOWIE MORENZ, JR.

Following threatening telephone calls to the home of Howie Morenz, Jr., the young son of the great hockey immortal, who died last spring from a heart attack, has been placed under police guard. The authorities are inclined to believe the threats of kidnapping were made by a "mental case," but they are taking no chances. Young Howie's mother complained of several telephone calls to the house, threatening harm to the boy, thus bringing about the police action.

Inside Sportin' Dope

BY A. WISE CRACKER

Mister Sporting Editor:

Well, Mac, as this is wrote Fri. I can't say much about the 2 big football games scheduled for Sat. p.m. except to hope that there will be good news from both the Oakwood Stadium in Toronto where our Orfuns goes into action against the Toronto City Club and from Riverside Park where our Collegiate squad battles against Albert Collitch, from Belleville, east of here.

They Done Nice Job

Last Sat. Mac, the Orfuns climb high up in public favor when on a gooey field that looked more like a swamp than a football gridiron they went to town in a big way against the highly tooted Fliers from Trenton. The boys started that fracas 4 points to the bad and 4 points is a lot when you aint got them and when you gotta try and get em on a field where you're liable to get your best ball carrier sunk without a trace any min. However the lads opened out on the Fliers with a air attack and took them for a touchdown after about a min. by tossing a forward pass that clicked and how. And there was the margin wiped out on the Orfuns 2nd play of the game. After that all the boys done was to smash the visitors line to pieces, block kick after kick, tackle like a lot of fiends and in general treat the boys from the big aviation camp as if they was just a bunch of yannigans picked up out of the market square gang. The final score was 21 to 0 and it just about represented the play for the gang from the east was fighting a defensive action all the way and not making much of a job of it at that. The whole Orfun squad earned brackets, with Mr. Loucks for his running plays, Mr. Crowe for his effective booting and Mister Marsh and Mister Hendren for the gusto with which they broke up Trenton plays standing out. And I would add a orchid or 2 for a freshman in the squad; Mister Winslow, which in spite of the fact he was a 1st year man managed to bust through several times and block kicks.

The Hockey Doins

The N.H.L. race is producing a few surprises, Mac. I been taking a lotta ribbing because of the way the Detroit Red Wings has been taking it on the chin. It's true they aint hardly moved a wheel yet, Mac, but I expect to do my laughing later on when the money serious is drawing near. So far I big feature has been the consistent performance them Boston Bruins has been turning in.

The Bruins Go To Toronto

With a mixture of fast kids and experienced stars the Boston gang has been performing like champions winning 1st 4 starts without a loss. Another feature is the form that is being shown by the veteran Black Hawks line of Romnes, Marsh and Thompson. That trio, 1 of the greatest in the game, had trouble getting going most of last season but this year they start out like world beaters. They aint many better attacking divisions in the loop than the same 3 and now they've hit their stride the Hawks aint going to be nobody's pushovers.

And Mister Smyth's Leaves going all out for goals had been setting a rapid pace. Their defensive system aint been nothing to get excited over but their attacks has been effective enough to keep them from dropping a game so far. How long they can keep on that way is your guess as much as mine. It don't look like the way to win the Stanley Cup but then I bin wrong before.

Sportfully Yours,
A. WISE CRACKER.

BLIZZARD HIT MEAFORD

MEAFORD, Ont., Nov. 20—(CP). —Several inches of snow were on the ground here to-day carried on the wings of a blizzard-like storm that swept in from Georgian Bay last night. Fishermen had anticipated the weather change and only one boat of 60 was in the water.

A ship was expected here to-day to take several hundred barrels of apples and much hay piled on the docks. Twenty workmen pouring concrete for the new dock on the east side of the harbor were forced to quit by cold weather yesterday.

WINTER CIRCUIT PUTS UP $90,000 GOLFING PRIZES

NEW YORK, Nov. 20. — Riding high on the crest of the most lucrative summer tournament season American professional golf has ever enjoyed, the game's "bread-and-butter men" are preparing for a swing around the grapefruit circuit that should boost the take for 1937 to upwards of $175,000.

With Ralph Guldahl, Byron Nelson, and Harry Cooper serving as engineers on the gravy train, the brigade will assemble at Miami for the getaway, the annual Miami Biltmore $10,000 open, scheduled for December 10-12.

Thereafter the way leads through California, Texas, Louisiana, Georgia and back to Florida for the classic International Four-ball championship in March, to be followed by the Master's open at Augusta and the North and South perennial at Pinehurst.

At Pinehurst in November.

Unlike last winter when the P.G.A. championship at Pinehurst provided a valiant effort on the part of golf to crash football's November party, this year finds the links-men comparatively lying low until the Miami skirmish. On November 16, Pinehurst will stage a four-day rally, including a four-ball combat and a 36-hole mid-South open, but this flurry will beckon chiefly the Eastern pro contingent.

The reigning open champion, Ralph Guldahl, is the defending titleholder in the Miami Biltmore open, having won the $2,500 prize despite a penalty of two shots plastered on him for taking an illegal peek at a lie in the rough during the final round.

Competition during the summer campaign proved that Guldahl's strongest rivals will be Harry Cooper, who wears the Canadian open crown; Byron Nelson, victor in the rich Belmont open up at Boston, and Sam Snead, the new siege-gun sensation.

California Stakes Rich.

Among the other listed classics of the winter campaign which is expected to gross upward of $90,000 in prize money, according to Fred Corcoran, tournament bureau manager of the Professional Golfers' Association, are the $8,000 Los Angeles open, January 7-10; the $3,000 Pasadena open, January 21-23; the $3,000 Oakland open, January 28-30; the $3,000 Sacramento open, February 4-6; the San Francisco match-play open, worth $5,000, February 11-13; and the 36-hole event for $3,000 offered by Bing Crosby in the motion picture Capital, February 19-20. Corcoran advises that rearrangement of these dates may be necessitated to accommodate other events yet to be included in the circuit.

Returning from the Pacific Coast the divot-diggers will stop over for cash shooting in Houston, New Orleans, Thomasville, Ga., and Hollywood, St. Petersburg, Jacksonville, and Belleair, Fla.

Corcoran reports brisk recruiting now going on for the winter campaign, and action this year will be well-spaced. A tournament worth $3,000 or more is on the books for every week-end from the December 10 get-away to mid-pril.

CHING JOHNSON SIGNS TO PLAY WITH AMERKS

TORONTO, Nov. 20—(CP)—Red Dutton and Father Time must have been signatories to some sort of pact before the start of National Hockey League warfare this season.

Dutton is manager of the league's New York Americans, while father time is the old fellow with the whiskers for whom N.H.L. veterans have to be on the lookout. That is, other than those Amazing Americans.

For Dutton, who was some shakes as a defenceman in his palmier days with Montreal Maroons and then with Amerks, made two moves this year that definitely showed a truce had been signed with the bewhiskered gent.

The first came at the start of the season when he purchased Clarence (Happy) Day from Toronto Maple Leafs. Day was a standout defenceman with Leafs for years and before that with Toronto St. Pats when that team played in the N.H.L. in the early '20's.

The second move came yesterday when Americans signed up baldheaded Ching Johnson, the ever-smiling giant who played defence for New York Rangers from 1926 until last year. No one can dispute the fact that over a span of years there have been few better rearguards than Day and Johnson.

Signing of Johnson, long a New York idol, was the most interesting development in a day that saw bad news break in the camps of the world champion Detroit Red Wings and Toronto Leafs.

Goodfellow Out Six Weeks

As if it wasn't bad enough that his Wings have been able to win only one game out of five, and tie another, Coach Jack Adams learned yesterday that his ace defenceman Ebbie Goodfellow would likely be out of the game six to eight weeks because of a fractured left wrist. Goodfellow was injured in a collision with burly Earl Seibert, Chicago Black Hawk defenceman, in a game Thursday night.

Meanwhile, Leafs will have to get along for possibly two weeks without the services of their goal-getting Charlie Conacher, injured also in a Thursday clash with Montreal Canadiens. Conacher collided with a goal post and it first was thought he had fractured his collar-bone. X-ray examination revealed it was a torn ligament.

Conacher's injury came just at the time Leafs had their guns trained to topple Boston Bruins from the unbeaten list. Bruins, who have won four games in as many starts, meet Leafs at Toronto tonight in a game that should attract a capacity house. Leafs, too, are unbeaten in five starts, but have been tied three times. In the night's other scheduled game Rangers invade Montreal to take on King Clancy's Maroons.

To complete the week-end schedule, Rangers and Maroons swing right back in a game Sunday at New York, while Leafs hustle to Detroit where they meet Wings and Bruins drop off at Chicago for a game with Hawks.

CONACHER OUT FOR TWO WEEKS

TORONTO, Nov. 20. — Just as the Leafs enter the first intensive part of their schedule they find themselves without the services of Chuck Conacher. They are slated to play to-night, to-morrow, Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday, five games in eight days, or rather evenings, and Conacher won't be available for any of them.

Reports of the X-rays taken in Montreal and a thorough examination by Dr. J. W. Rush yesterday disclosed the fact that the injury sustained by the Bomber on Tuesday night is not a fracture or cracked bone, but that it is bad enough to keep him out of the game for a minimum of two weeks.

The injury is at the top of the socket where the arm joins the shoulder. "It is one of the most painful things that can happen to an athlete—I had both shoulders hurt that way when I was playing," said Dick Irvin, the Leafs' coach, yesterday. "Even to-day I can't raise my left arm high enough to comb my hair."

As Irvin explains it, the arm is loosened at the socket long enough for ligaments to be torn and every movement aggravates the trouble. For that reason the arm must remain stationary during the healing process, so Conacher's is strapped closely to his side, the forearm folded across his chest. With careful attention plus a bit of good luck, he may be ready for action within two weeks, but the recovery may take much longer than that.

In Conacher's case, Dr. Rush said, the arm had not been disturbed at the socket, but the ligaments overlaying the shoulder had been torn and the flesh badly bruised. How long Conacher would be out of the game was indefinite, but the doctor confirmed the statement that it would be a minimum of two weeks.

Changes In American Football Rules Suggested By Slip Madigan Of Gaels

NEW YORK, Nov. 19 (UP).—Four changes in football rules, designed to "give the offence a break," were suggested Thursday by Coach Ed (Slip) Madigan as he brought his Galloping Gaels of St. Mary's into New York for their annual game Saturday with the Fordham Rams.

Madigan, dean of Pacific Coast coaches, was discussing St. Mary's chances in Saturday's intersectional when the talk got around to how to lessen the possibility of pointless ties.

"Most of the discussion this season," said Slip, "has been about defence—how to change the rules to break it down. That's not the solution. The answer is to change the rules to give the offensive eleven a break."

Madigan offered these suggestions:

1. Elimination of the one-second stop after shift.
2. Enlargement of playing fields.
3. Return to the old football, which was larger than the present one.
4. Allow the offensive team to have less than seven men on the line of scrimmage.

"If we eliminate the one second pause after shift," he said, "the offensive team can strike quickly before the defence has a chance to go into a tricky line-up — such as five and six-man lines when a pass is expected."

Regarding a larger playing field, Slip pointed out that the ideal change would be a 20-yard end zone instead of the present 10-yard affair. He said this might be impossible in most stadiums because there is not enough room to make such a change.

"A larger end zone would make the defensive team spread out on a goal line zone and protect that territory. As it is now, once a team is back inside its own 10-yard stripe it has a comparatively small area to protect, and can do it more effectively at midfield."

Regarding point No. 3 — The ball itself—Madigan said a return to the ball in use ten years ago, rounder than the present streamlined pigskin, would pep up the offence. He claimed the present ball is difficult to kick. There is little difference as far as passing is concerned, he said.

Great Array Of Stars – Yet Red Wings Fail To Click

Detroit Red Wings, Stanley Cup winners for the past two seasons, have failed to click so far this season. They have plenty of good hockey ivory on the club and should have started going places long before this, but not so, they have only won one game in their first four starts. The ABOVE picture shows four of the Red Wing players climbing over the boards after a turn on the ice. From LEFT to RIGHT, they are: Bucko McDonald, hard-hitting defenceman; Pete Kelly, Modere "Mud" Bruneteau and Johnny Sherf, all forwards. Sherf incidentally, is the only rookie with the club this year. Since their injured players of last season are back in action again, Manager Jack Adams evidently didn't feel the need of bringing up any new talent, except the one forward, this year.

Bambino Ruth Must Be Crack Shot, Too

SPORTS DAY BY DAY

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd C° uckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

WITH TWO Sundays to go before the re-organization meeting of the Church Hockey League in the 'Y' on Nov. 29th, every Sunday School should be able to arrange for representatives. All churches are asked to send at least two delegates to this session. Though entries are not necessary yet, officers hope a big representation will be on deck for the annual reports, election of officers and discussion of plans for this season. The loop has four sections: Senior, junior (under 20), juvenile (under 17) and bantam (under 15). Generally about 20 teams make it the biggest puck circuit in the city, and producer of plenty of future O.H.A. stars. All the six United, four Anglican, two Baptist and one Presbyterian churches have had teams in during the past five winters. Keen rivalry has existed and resulted in nifty ice scraps at All Saints Rink, or at the Brock maybe in finals.

* * * * * *

REV. CANON J. D. Paterson who, as president of the Ministerial Assoc., was Hon. Pres. of the C.H.L., and Cres Sproat, past prexy, were ex-officio members of the loop executive last year. Elected members were: President, Lloyd Parnall; vice-prexy, Art Mann; secretary-treasurer, Don Charlton; assistant secretary, Carl Ferguson. Matter of finances comes up at this meeting, too. For the past three years, the loop has cut entry fees from two bucks to one, slicing the surplus from $40 to $12. They figure they can balance their budget again by raising fees or reducing expenses—such as buying permanent shields or eliminating the annual banquet. It is a smart circuit and in good condition, financial and otherwise.

THIS WINTER promises to be the busiest wrestling season at the Y.M.C.A. for many years. Around Dec. 15th, a series of mat bouts will be run there to decide "Y" champions in the different weights from 125 pounds up. Names of champs will be posted and they will be required to defend their titles monthly upon receipt of challenges which meet with the approval of the Wrestling Committee. Young chaps who wish to compete should get in touch with Jim McClenaghan, physical instructor. The grapplers meet Monday, Wednesday and Friday nights and Cec. Holmes, former Ottawa 'Y' instructor, is coaching 'em nicely in mat work. A beginners' class opens shortly and will meet Monday nights, H. B. Cowan, Sr., doing the instructing.

* * * * * *

THERE ARE a number of good amateur grapplers at the local 'Y' and some will be entering district and provincial championships next spring. Inter-club bouts may be lined up this winter between Peterborough and matmen from Toronto Central 'Y', Ottawa Y.M.C.A. and Queen's U. Beginners here will be taught four or five new holds a night and given general instruction for several weeks before permitted to participate in serious rasslin'. It has been found best to train 'em gradually in perfecting holds and learning to break them before getting into bouts and possibly getting all balled up. The two paragraphs on rasslin' we've dealt with concern the real wrestling—the honest sport—and not the pro style which is amusing and entertaining at times, but pretty much of a racket.

* * * * * *

AND THERE will be a big boxing show here a week from next Wednesday. In the Brock St. rink at 8.30, with eight bouts and one amateur rasslin' exhibition. This latter features Toronto boys. Just give a listen to some of the mitt headliners coming here for this card: Joe Genovese, the Italian lightweight sensation of Toronto; Bev. Carter, Toronto colored flash who hasn't been licked in two years; Nick Orlando, ex-Montreal kayo ace, who held the Quebec title and went to the finals in Olympic trials! With another good Toronto scrapper to be picked in a day or two, and these good local fighters: Ned Minicola, Jack Chamberlain, Jerry Belland, Joe Hobbins, Jack O'Neil, Pat Jordan, Frenchy Bosley, Bill Joiner, Mal Packenham, with Buddy Redmond and Izzy McIntosh as curtain-raisers.

* * * * * *

THIS WILL be a swell card, the Riverview A.C. promoters figuring on starting off right, and it should bring back boxing to this city with a biff and a bing and a bang! Ring followers know these out-of-town leather-traders and they know most of the local pugilists. Harry Hance will be referee. There is nothing we like better than a good battle between the gloved gladiators in the roped arena. And we'd even go so far as to pay our way in—and this is mutiny among sports writers!—to see Orlando, Carter, Genovese and Minicola in action. It will be an all-star card, no fooling. Draw for the prizes, going on now, will be made the night of the bout. More about it next week.

* * * * * *

TWO OF our grid teams are in action this afternoon, P.C.I. tangling here with Albert College of Belleville in a sudden-death C.O.S.S.A. playdown contest; and Orfuns starting their O.R.F.U. intermediate 'A' semi-final series with Toronto City Club in Toronto. This latter joust was due to start at 2.15 in Oakwood Stadium, the O.R.F.U. and City Club suddenly finding they could get a field to play on in Toronto after insisting to Orfuns all week that it was impossible. Halftime and final scores will be wired back to this office. Return game will be here next Saturday, points counting, the winner to advance into the Ontario finals 'gainst the Dundas-Sarnia victor in December. The Orfuns were to get away at nine this a.m., taking a full squad along, though Magee and Gerow aren't playing.

* * * * * *

IF THE amendment is carried today at the O.H.A. annual meeting in Toronto, referees' fees in hockey this winter will be as follows: Senior 'A' $12 and mileage per game; senior 'B' $8 and mileage; intermediate 'A' $8 and mileage; intermediate 'B' $5 and mileage; junior 'A' and 'B' $5 and mileage. The mileage rate is 15 cents a mile one way for the first 50 miles, and 10 cents a mile for all additional miles. We mention this merely to give puck fans an idea of how much the bell-ringers earn at an O.H.A. tilt here, and therefore how much abuse home rooters should hand 'em! Yeah, the puck arbiters don't do badly. A Toronto ref at an intermediate tussle here would get about 20 bucks for his evening's work. Better than ball umps in the C.O.B.I.

* * * * * *

UP AND down Sports' Rialto: O.H.A. prospects here are invited to start nightly P.T. drills at the 'Y' on Monday e'en . . . Church Cage Loop games at the 'Y' tonight: St. Andrew's vs. St. John's Bantams at 6.30 and St. Paul's vs. St. John's Juveniles at 7.15 . . . Nick Orlando, who is in a main mitt bout here Dec. 1st, has a decision over Dave Yack . . . Hockey Club draw tickets are selling rapidly, we hear . . . . Senior City Hockey League meets again a week from Tuesday at eight p.m. in Duffus' . . . . Referees who want to act in this circuit should apply right away to W. Dinesen, 257 Carlisle avenue . . . Cobourg's Galloping Ghosts have a bye into the O.R.F.U. intermediate 'B' finals . . . . Looks like Lindsay's junior school rugby protest about Bowmanville isn't being considered, as Bowmanville plays Orillia today in Toronto . . . . Soon be lots of hockey and basketball chatter around this town . . . . Swim prizes at the Y.W. will be presented next Friday . . . . Got to hurry along now to get a ride with Orfuns to Toronto today . . . . POME: He often went a-huntin' deer, and ducks he got in gobs; he hunted partridges and bear—but he never hunted jobs!

BOTTOMLEY LOSES JOB WITH BROWNS

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 20.—(AP).—One of the most popular players ever to wear a St. Louis baseball uniform—Sunny Jim Bottomley—was out of baseball to-day.

Bottomley, who succeeded another baseball great, Rogers Hornsby, as manager of the revamped St. Louis Browns during the middle of last season, was given his unconditional release. His discharge left the Brownies the only major league club without a manager for 1938. Gabby Street, appointed coach under Bottomley, now apparently holds the inside managerial track.

Bottomley said he has no immediate plans for continuing in baseball.

"I have received no direct offers," the smiling 37-year-old veteran added. "Only a few nibbles, and I can't tell what I'll do until something develops."

Before the close of last season it was announced Jim had applied for the job of managing Cincinnati Reds, after Charley Dressen had been released. But he later declared he was "just joking."

Bottomley joined the Cardinals in 1922 and played first base during four of their five pennant-winning years. He batted .367 in 1925 and was voted the National League's most valuable player in 1928, batting .325 to help them to the second pennant.

Remember When—

By The Canadian Press

Ray Steele, heavyweight wrestler and Heavyweight Boxer King Levinsky—each man to his own trade—met at St. Louis two years ago tonight. Levinsky swung for Steele's jaw, missed, and Steele grabbed him and dumped him to the canvas. Total time of bout, 35 seconds.

CHING JOHNSON SIGNS AMERICANS' CONTRACT

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—(CP).—Ching Johnson, who since 1926 wore livery of New York Rangers, this season will carry the colors of their Manhattan rivals, the Americans. The burley defenseman signed a one-year contract with Amerks for an undisclosed salary to-day.

Given his outright release by Rangers at the close of last season, the veteran Winnipeg bouncer said he welcomed the chance Manager Red Dutton had provided to prove he was still good enough for National League competition.

Child Threatened

HOWIE MORENZ, JR.

Following threatening telephone calls to the home of Howie Morenz, Jr., the young son of the great hockey immortal, who died last spring from a heart attack, has been placed under police guard. The authorities are inclined to believe the threats of kidnapping were made by a "mental case," but they are taking no chances. Young Howie's mother complained of several telephone calls to the house, threatening harm to the boy, thus bringing about the police action.

Inside Sportin' Dope

BY A. WISE CRACKER

Mister Sporting Editor:

Well, Mac, as this is wrote Fri. I can't say much about the 2 big football games scheduled for Sat. p.m. except to hope that there will be good news from both the Oakwood Stadium in Toronto where our Orfuns goes into action against the Toronto City Club and from Riverside Park where our Collegiate squad battles against Albert Collitch, from Belleville, east of here.

They Done Nice Job

Last Sat. Mac, the Orfuns climb high up in public favor when on a gooey field that looked more like a swamp than a football gridiron they went to town in a big way against the highly tooted Fliers from Trenton. The boys started that fracas 4 points to the bad and 4 points is a lot when you aint got them and when you gotta try and get em on a field where you're liable to get your best ball carrier sunk without a trace any min. However the lads opened out on the Fliers with a air attack and took them for a touchdown after about a min. by tossing a forward pass that clicked and how. And there was the margin wiped out on the Orfuns 2nd play of the game. After that all the boys done was to smash the visitors line to pieces, block kick after kick, tackle like a lot of fiends and in general treat the boys from the big aviation camp as if they was just a bunch of yannigans picked up out of the market square gang. The final score was 21 to 0 and it just about represented the play for the gang from the east was fighting a defensive action all the way and not making much of a job of it at that. The whole Orfun squad earned brackets, with Mr. Loucks for his running plays, Mr. Crowe for his effective booting and Mister Marsh and Mister Hendren for the gusto with which they broke up Trenton plays standing out. And I would add a orchid or 2 for a freshman in the squad, Mister Winslow, which in spite of the fact he was a 1st year man managed to bust through several times and block kicks.

The Hockey Doins

The N.H.L. race is producing a few surprises, Mac. I been taking a lotta ribbing because of the way the Detroit Red Wings has been taking it on the chin. It's true they aint hardly moved a wheel yet, Mac, but I expect to do my laughing later on when the money serious is drawing near. So far 1 big feature has been the consistent performance them Boston Bruins has been turning in.

The Bruins Go To Toronto

With a mixture of fast kids and experienced stars the Boston gang has been performing like champions winning 1st 4 starts without a loss. Another feature is the form that is being shown by the veteran Black Hawks line of Romnes, Marsh and Thompson. That trio, 1 of the greatest in the game, had trouble getting going most of last season but this year they start out like world beaters. They aint many better attacking divisions in the loop than the same 3 and now they've hit their stride the Hawks aint going to be nobody's pushovers.

And Mister Smyth's Leaves going all out for goals had been setting a rapid pace. Their defensive system aint been nothing to get excited over but their attacks has been effective enough to keep them from dropping a game so far. How long they can keep on that way is your guess as much as mine. It don't look like the way to win the Stanley Cup but then I bin wrong before.

Sportfully Yours,
A. WISE CRACKER.

BLIZZARD HIT MEAFORD

MEAFORD, Ont., Nov. 20—(CP).—Several inches of snow were on the ground here to-day carried on the wings of a blizzard-like storm that swept in from Georgian Bay last night. Fishermen had anticipated the weather change and only one boat of 60 was in the water.

A ship was expected here to-day to take several hundred barrels of apples and much hay piled on the docks. Twenty workmen pouring concrete for the new dock on the east side of the harbor were forced to quit by cold weather yesterday.

BEST BACKSEAT DRIVER

TORONTO, Nov. 20—(CP).—Edward Shedd, charged with passing a red light, told the Magistrate: "I don't think it possible I could have passed a traffic light for my wife, the best back seat driver in this city, was with me."

"Well I will let your wife deal with you," said the Magistrate, dismissing the charge.

WINTER CIRCUIT PUTS UP $90,000 GOLFING PRIZES

NEW YORK, Nov. 20. — Riding high on the crest of the most lucrative summer tournament season American professional golf has ever enjoyed, the game's "bread-and-butter men" are preparing for a swing around the grapefruit circuit that should boost the take for 1937 to upwards of $175,000.

With Ralph Guldahl, Byron Nelson, and Harry Cooper serving as engineers on the gravy train, the brigade will assemble at Miami for the getaway, the annual Miami Biltmore $10,000 open, scheduled for December 10-12.

Thereafter the way leads through California, Texas, Louisiana, Georgia and back to Florida for the classic International Four-ball championship in March, to be followed by the Master's open at Augusta and the North and South perennial at Pinehurst.

At Pinehurst in November.

Unlike last winter when the P.G.A. championship at Pinehurst provided a valiant effort on the part of golf to crash football's November party, this year finds the links-men comparatively lying low until the Miami skirmish. On November 16, Pinehurst will stage a four-day rally, including a four-ball combat and a 36-hole mid-South open, but this flurry will beckon chiefly the Eastern pro contingent.

The reigning open champion, Ralph Guldahl, is the defending titleholder in the Miami Biltmore open, having won the $2,500 prize despite a penalty of two shots plastered on him for taking an illegal peek at a lie in the rough during the final round.

Competition during the summer campaign proved that Guldahl's strongest rivals will be Harry Cooper, who wears the Canadian open crown; Byron Nelson, victor in the rich Belmont open up at Boston, and Sam Snead, the new siege-gun sensation.

California Stakes Rich.

Among the other listed classics of the winter campaign which is expected to gross upward of $90,000 in prize money, according to Fred Corcoran, tournament bureau manager of the Professional Golfers' Association, are the $8,000 Los Angeles open, January 7-10; the $3,000 Pasadena open, January 21-23; the $3,000 Oakland open, January 28-30; the $3,000 Sacramento open, February 4-6; the San Francisco match-play open, worth $5,000, February 11-13; and the 36-hole event for $3,000 offered by Bing Crosby in the motion picture Capital, February 19-20. Corcoran advises that rearrangement of these dates may be necessitated to accommodate other events yet to be included in the circuit.

Returning from the Pacific Coast the divot-diggers will stop over for cash shooting in Houston, New Orleans, Thomasville, Ga., and Hollywood, St. Petersburg, Jacksonville, and Belleair, Fla.

Corcoran reports brisk recruiting now going on for the winter campaign, and action this year will be well-spaced. A tournament worth $3,000 or more is on the books for every week-end from the December 10 get-away to mid-April.

Dean Among Best In League Despite The Player Awards

Talking Is Bad Habit For Gabby Pitching Star Of St. Louis Cards

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.— Perhaps the most fitting commentary one can make is that nobody even noticed the thing at the time. They were too busy hailing the selection of Ole Medwick, of St. Louis Cardinals, as the National League's most valuable player for 1937, with editorial asides on the fact that he only beat Gabby Hartnett, of Chicago, by two points when it should have been ten.

It also was duly noted that Carl Hubbell was third, Jim Turner fourth, Lou Fette fifth and so on down the line to Heinie Manush, at which point we practically ran out of ball players of any great value whatsoever. It was some weeks later before anybody became impressed with the fact that the name of Jerome H. (Demosthenes) Dean, the well-known public speaker, was strangely missing from the list. Missing? How I do rant. It didn't even get in among those who received honorable mention.

Yet when this was called to the attention of Mr. Dean's distinguished team mate the before-mentioned Medwick, the latter was quoted as saying:

"Oh, him? He's just another filling station owner in Bradenton, Fla., now."

But, in my books, he isn't. He's still—potentially, at least— the Best pitcher since Mathewson and Alexander. He's still the man who got the player-award in 1934 and no later than last year finished second to Hubbell. Practically everybody else, though, seems to have accepted his purchase of the Bradenton service station as a personal admission that the end is not far away—not, however, because they really believe it. The fact is that the man has just about talked himself out of friends.

He couldn't have done that if he continued winning 28 and 30 games a season. But he kept right on talking himself up last season while winning 14 and losing 10, which made his blathering not the most delightful eccentricity of greatness, but the empty chattering you can hear from almost any blustering oaf on a street corner. That's life, though. It's a scream, when you're good; and a pain in the neck when you're not.

That was Dean's outstanding mistake in a career that hasn't been exactly flawless. He simply didn't stop talking when the scrip called for it.

Otherwise, his performance for the Cardinals was open to explanation. In the first place, they hated his interior. In the second, he was doing all right until early July when he suffered a broken toe in the all-star game, with one result that thereafter he couldn't take his "s.ep." Another was that a necessarily unnatural pitching motion gave him a sore arm.

Nobody can say what's going to happen in a case like that, but I'll venture one prediction: Dean will make a real comeback if he's traded to another club—as I think he should and will be.

As for the gas station, I guess that was natural. You see, he'd been giving it away all these years before he knew he could sell it.

BEAR TRADERS CUT WHEAT 4 CENTS

WINNIPEG, Nov. 20.—(CP). — Grain traders, swayed by outside bearish influences, sold liberally on the Winnipeg grain exchange during the week to tumble wheat prices four cents. A mid-week advance of five cents. A mid-week advance of Argentine frost damage reports remained unconfirmed.

Price trends in the near future rest largely on southern hemisphere crop conditions and export demand for North American wheat. Canada has approximately 35,000,000 to 40,000,000 bushels export surplus.

Traders saw a bullish picture when dispatches predicted further frost damage in the Argentine on Wednesday. Exporters rushed to buy nearly 1,000,000 bushels of Canadian wheat to shoot values up five cents. But the bright outlook was darkened when additional injury to Argentina's crop failed to materialize. Damage previously had been estimated around 30,000,000 bushels of wheat.

Futures closed the week yesterday 4⅝ to 3⅛ cents lower. Quotations were: November $1.16⅛, December $1.12¾-¼, May $1.09⅝-¾ and July $1.06⅛.

HENRY ARMSTRONG IS RIPE FOR TITLE

NEW YORK, Nov. 20 (AP)—There was a feeling in informed circles around here today that Lou Ambers, the lightweight boxing champion, would keep his title only so long as he managed to stay out of the same ring with Henry Armstrong.

In scoring a technical five-round knockout over Billy Beauhuld, a useful lightweight, last night at the Garden, Armstrong convinced 14,000 fans he was ripe to exchange his featherweight crown for the 135-pound sceptre.

The Ebony Torpedo gave Beauhuld such a painful hiding that Referee Arthur Donovan stopped it as soon as the bell ended the fifth round. Beauhuld, undefeated in his previous 44 straight fights, looked like he had been shoved through a concrete mixer head first.

A swinging right put Beauhuld down for nine in the first round, and he was on the canvas for seven again when the fifth ended.

RACE PROSPECTS MUCH BRIGHTER

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 20.—Santa Anita having demonstrated that there really is gold in them thar California hills, more than a dozen foreign-bred horses will chase it this winter.

They are more than welcome, for the American turf is sadly in need of handicap horses.

Again it principally is the Hollywood picture colony that is pepping up racing on this side. It's a case of new blood two ways—owners and horses.

Last year Raoul Walsh brought Grand Manitou from France. He also imported Sunset Trail II. from Ireland in hope of copping the Kentucky Derby.

Grand Manitou did not live up to promise, although he is a stakes winner in this country and may be of considerable value later on. And the producer and director was sufficiently satisfied to try the experiment again.

So this trip Walsh is importing Froxo from France. Froxo is eligible for the $100,000 Santa Anita Handicap in February, while a pair of 2-year-olds no doubt will be pointed for future editions of the rich southern California fixture.

There seems little question but that the South American horses, Caballero II. and Sabri II., will journey to the plant of the Los Angeles Turf Club this winter.

In any event, Senor Lawrence Barker already has three importations from Chile at Santa Anita, with more en route.

Senor Bing Crosby has a half interest in the Argentine thoroughbred, Sabueso. Incidentally, the other half of that interest rests with C. S. Howard's son, Lynn, so Seabiscuit has a family rivalry. Two more foreign-bred plugs which will appear during the Santa Anita meeting opening Christmas Day were sired by Night Raid, which got the lamented Phar Lap.

Greatest interest surrounds the French-bred Le Bambino, however. He is owned by Monsieur Ralph Beaver Strassburger, ex-patriate American sportsman. The Strassburger stud is situated in France, where Le Bambino was born and where he bagged a pair of events as a juvenile, but his owner also maintains an English stable.

Births Marriages In Memoriam Card of Thanks Deaths

BORN

IN MEMORIAM

BURKE.—In loving memory of our dear boys, Francis Burke and Billy McKane, who were killed on the Chemong Road, one year ago today, November 20, 1936.

Their smiling faces and pleasant ways
Are pleasant to recall;
They had a kindly word for each
And died beloved by all.
Some day we hope to meet again,
Some day, we know not when,
To clasp their hands in the Better Land,
Never to part again.
—Ever remembered by Mother, Father, Sister and Brothers.

McKANE.—In loving memory of our boys, beloved sons of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. McKane and Mr. and Mrs. P. Burke, who were killed November 20, 1936.

Time may heal the broken-hearted,
Years may make the wound less sore;
But it cannot fill the longing
For loved children gone before.
Who shall say the grief is lessened,
Though the smile may hide the tears;
Memories keep the wound still open
Despite the passing of the years.
Time rolls on, we are reminded
Of the day our hearts were crushed,
When God took you; oh, so quickly,
And we all in gloom were thrust.
And when all is still and silent
And sleep forsakes our eyes,
Our thoughts are in the silent grave
Where our darling boy lies.
—Always remembered by Mother, Father, Sisters and Brother.

BELIEVE CALGADOC OVERDUE 21 DAYS LOST, ALL 18 HANDS

HALIFAX, Nov. 20.—(CP).—Even the most sanguine of seamen were about ready to add the name of the Paterson freighter Calgadoc to the list of ships that have disappeared with all hands in the North Atlantic.

The former Great Lakes freighter left Sydney, N.S., with a cargo of coal for Wabana, Nfld., 21 days ago, on a journey that usually takes 60 hours. She carried a crew of 18, including a stewardess.

It was a year ago hope was abandoned for the Norwegian coal carrier Stranna, then 40 days out from Glasgow to Halifax. The 1,587-ton vessel and her crew of 15 were never seen again, although what was thought to be one of her lifeboats was washed ashore on the Irish coast months later.

The Stranna was one of three freighters feared lost at the time. The Herlick, bound for Liverpool, N.S., from Hartlepool, Eng., finally turned up after 39 days, and the Havorn, bound to Halifax from Swansea, Wales, staggered into Hamilton, Bermuda, after a 30-day trip.

Medill Never Seen.

Two years ago, it was the Joseph Medill world's largest all-welded vessel that disappeared on her maiden voyage somewhere off the coast of Newfoundland. She sailed from Newcastle-on-Tyne Aug. 10 for Montreal, skippered by Captain J. P. Macintosh of Thorold, Ont. One of her hatches was picked up off the Newfoundland coast three months later—the only sign of the ship and her crew of 18.

The Calgadoc, owned by Paterson Steamships Limited, and registered at Fort William, Ont., was formerly the Thomas J. Drummond. She was built in 1910, had a gross tonnage of 2,201, was 267 feet long, 43 feet wide and had a depth of 23 feet.

First Fox Exhibit At Fair

Foxes made their appearance at the Royal Winter Fair for the first time this year when over 300 of them were entered in the first international fox show to take place in many years. The last international show, held in the United States sometime ago, saw Canadian exhibitors walk away with many of the ribbons. Results from the fair indicate Canadians will again sweep the fox show. Valued at an average of $100 each some of the foxes are shown ABOVE as they were judged. Despite the fact the foxes are muzzled, two men are necessary to exhibit each fox, one holding the hind quarters, while the other holds the head.

CHAPTER 42.

So secure had Tim felt from interruption as he searched Adam's room, that he had not troubled to lock the door. And in his absortion he had heard no footsteps in the corridor. His first intimation immediately preceded the sound of the door handle turning.

Panic-driven, he thrust the letter in his coat pocket, turning down the flap, and threw the photograph frame back into the trunk. It was from the open drawer of the dressing table that he turned to face Adams as he entered the room.

The man's face was working with rage. He looked dangerous. Neither spoke for a few seconds.

"So you thought you'd doublecross me," said Adams at last. "You little rat." He closed the door behind him.

Tim found voice. Terrified as he was, his brain was working with furious activity. If he could only get out of the room! Ten seconds' start would be enough. He affected a sickly smile.

"Well, it was worth trying. . . . You might have been bluffing all the time. . . . I sent the girls to the cinema so as to have a free hand."

"I know you did. I saw 'em in the High Street, and when they told me what had happened, I suspected something fishy. That's why I'm back so early."

It was clear that for the moment Adams was placing some restraint on himself. Tim saw he did not yet know the letter had been discovered. The advantage was slight, but it must be pressed home.

"Well, that's that. . . . I suppose you were telling the truth. I've been over everything, two or three times. . . . If you have got it hidden here, you're smarter than I'd given you credit for."

He must not show undue eagerness to get away. . . . "No hard feelings, I hope," he added.

Adams' eyes fell on the open trunk. He took a bunch of keys from his pocket, and locked the door behind him.

"Don't think you're going to get away with it so easily, Kennedy," he said. "I am not so sure I'm not going to give you a hiding for this."

Tim saw that Adams, too, was playing for time. He was unfilling to reveal the fact that the letter was indeed in the room, presuming Tim had not got hold of it. And he did not want to call attention to the trunk.

"Proper mess you've made," he said, advancing into the room. He turned up the edge of the disordered mattress and dropped it again, then went to the dressing tables and slammed the drawer shut.

"I'm sorry, Adams," said Tim humbly. "But you can't blame me for trying. The whole thing is a washout; you might as well call it square."

Adams made no reply. In the course of his pretended tour of inspection he came at last to the trunk. The photograph was lying on the top. He picked it up, turned it over, and turned to Tim with savage face.

"So you've got it, you rat," he exclaimed, advancing on Tim. "Come on, hand it over."

Tim backed against the wall.

"It's no use attacking me," he said. "I tore it up directly I heard you in the corridor. . . . And I threw the pieces out of the window. . . . You had better go and look for them, but I don't think they'll be much use to you."

It was his last effort, feeble enough. It did not deceive Adams.

"Through a closed window," he said, grimly. "No, Kennedy, it won't do. Have I got to take it off you?"

Tim saw that he would have to surrender or fight. He was 10 years Adams' senior, and nothing like so strong. His body, always fearful of physical pain, shrunk from a conflict. But the stakes were high.

He licked his lips.

"You win," he said. The words were hardly out of his mouth before he made his rush, head lowered. His object was to butt Adams in the stomach; with good luck he might wind him, disabling him long enough to unlock the door, rush downstairs, and burn the letter in the living room fire.

But Adams was ready. He stepped aside and caught Tim's head under his arm. "You'll have to get up earlier in the morning than that," he grunted. "You've asked for it, Kennedy. Let the see, I won't spoil your face; bad for business."

He hit Tim in the solar plexus. Lying on the ground in suffocating pain, helpless, Tim felt Adams going over his pockets. Presently he began to recover.

"That's better," said Adams. "Take it easy a minute or two."

Tim felt in his coat pocket. The letter, of course, was gone.

"You might let me go now," he said dully.

"In a minute," Adams replied. "One thing, though, I may as well tell you. You were pretty smart, but it won't be any good trying again. What I told you about the letter wasn't true then, but it is going to be true from now on. I have got a solicitor up my sleeve all right, and I always meant to fix the thing up as I said—kept putting it off.

"I shall go to London tomorrow morning. You can come with me, if you want to make sure. And there's one other thing. You've had a bit of fun tonight, but you've got to pay for it. This little prank is going to cost you £50. I shall expect it tomorrow evening, in cash. Understand?"

"Yes," said Tim.

"All right, then." Adams unlocked the door and threw it open. "You can get out now."

Tim got out.

Adams did go to London next day, and Tim had to assume that all chance of recovering the letter by force had gone. There remained only one alternative—to persuade him to make a sale.

When he reached home in the afternoon, Adams was waiting for him leaning over the living room mantelpiece, smoking a cigaret. Tim decided he could not do better than have the matter out here and now. He was near the end of his tether: last night's failure, so tragically unlucky, had brought him to a state of desperation in which he was almost prepared for open defiance.

"You're waiting for your £50, I suppose?" he said, as he closed the door. "Well, I haven't got it. And I'm not going to get it, either.

"Adams, you got the better of me last night, by sheer good luck and because you are stronger than I am. So much the better for you. But the time has come for you to understand I'm finished. Either you come to terms with me, for good and all, or you can take your letter to the police, and damn the consequences."

BEDTIME STORY

By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY'S RED BERRIES.

"Get up, Uncle Wiggily! Please get up!"

"Eh? What's that?" sleepily asked the rabbit gentleman in his hollow stump bungalow as he heard a voice calling him one morning. "What's the matter, Nurse Jane?" He knew it was Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy calling him.

"Please get up!" she squeaked at the same time tapping on his door with the end of her tail, which made a great deal of noise as it was twined around a dust pan and brush.

"Are the Bad Chaps after me?" asked Mr. Longears.

"Not yet," answered Nurse Jane. "But if you go adventuring as I suppose you will, they may chase you."

"I suppose so," said the rabbit gentleman. "But what's the idea of getting up now? Has daylight saving started again?"

"Oh, no," laughed the muskrat lady housekeeper. "But Thursday is Thanksgiving and—"

Ahead of Time.

"And do you mean to tell me," asked Uncle Wiggily sitting up straight in bed, "that because Thursday is Thanksgiving I must get up early now when it's only Saturday? What's the idea, Janie?"

"I want to clean and dust your room," said the muskrat lady housekeeper. "If you are going adventuring why can't you get up and go now. Then I can start to clean your room. The bungalow must be cleaned for Thanksgiving. The rugs are cleaned but not the bungalow."

"Oh, all right," said Uncle Wiggily. Then, to show he wasn't cross or peevish he started whistling and twinkling his pink nose, for he could do both at the same time.

"Are you going anywhere special?" his wife asked him after breakfast.

"Oh, no," said Uncle Wiggily. "May I have the pleasure of doing an errand for you?" he asked his wife most politely.

"You might bring back some red berries," she said.

"You mean red berries to decorate the bungalow for Thanksgiving?" asked the rabbit gentleman.

"Red cranberries for the Thanksgiving feast," answered Mrs. Longears.

"Oh, of course, red cranberries. We must always have them for Thanksgiving," agreed Mr. Longears. "I'll hop to the bog and bring home a basketful."

Down to the Bog.

Cranberries grow best in a bog or swamp and Uncle Wiggily knew where there was a large one. Away he hopped, over the fields, through the woods, up hill and down dale until he reached the cranberry bog.

There he found the dark, crimson berries, somewhat sour and bitter when eaten raw, but delicious when cooked and sweetened. Cranberry sauce always goes well with a Thanksgiving feast.

Uncle Wiggily was picking the red berries and thinking how many years ago when the first Thanksgiving was held in New England, the Indians brought the white settlers the red cranberries to eat.

"And we've had them ever since," said Mr. Longears. I hope Nurse Jane makes plenty of cranberry sauce."

Uncle Wiggily was on his way home, carrying his covered backet of red cranberries when, all of a sudden, out of the bushes jumped the Bob Cat. With a mew and a meaouw the Bad Chap started after the rabbit. But bravely Uncle Wiggily uncovered the red berries and said:

"If you come near me, you Bad Chap, I'll burn you nose: Scat!"

"Oh, excuse me, I didn't know you had a basket of firecrackers!" mewed the Bob Cat and tucking its silly little tail between its legs away it ran and Mr. Longears took the red cranberries home for Thanksgiving.

And if the airplane will drop one of its landing wheels to mend the puppy dog's roller skate, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily's barber shop.

Use Mercury Power As Energy Which Drives Steamships

Companies Will Be Able To Greatly Reduce The Cost Of Shipping

NEW YORK, Nov. 20 (AP).—An invention to use mercury power—the energy of hot molecules—to drive steamships and reduce the cost of shipping was announced today to the Society of Naval Architects and Marine Engineers.

The architects were informed that the Normandie, transatlantic record holder, can substitute mercury for steam and cut her annual fuel bill $400,000, with no speed loss.

The proposal for this new type of sea power was made by William L. R. Emmet, Schenectady, N.Y., engineer, who started the use of mercury power eight years ago. Five American plants are using it, but mercury never has been feasible at sea.

Boilers Improved.

An improvement in boilers, Emmet said, recently made at the Pittsfield, Mass., General Electric mercury power plant makes it possible to extend the new hot molecule principle, and in many cases mercury can be installed on existing steamships.

Mercury power is made like steam. The metal vaporizes and turns a turbine the same as steam. But it puts more of the heat of the fuel to work than does steam power.

This extra efficiency of mercury is due to a seeming paradox. Its vapor develops very little pressure. It will take a tremendous heat with little pressure increase. Mercury at 675 degrees, for example, has a pressure equal to steam at 212, the boiling point of water; to the layman this lack of pressure seems like a handicap for mercury.

But scientists explain that steam's tremendous pressures are really only necessary evils. The heat is what really does the work.

LAST DEFENDERS OUT OF KASHING

SHANGHAI, Nov. 20—(AP).—Japanese troops today cracked the southern pivot of the Chinese "Hindenburg" line defending Nanking and struck shattering blows along its central and northern fronts.

Fighting through mud and rain, the Japanese drove last Chinese defenders from Kashing and occupied that vital southern link in the "Hindenburg" chain. Central Japanese columns approached to within three miles of Soochow. The line's keystone and northern detachments threatened to make untenable Chinese positions at Changshu.

About 125 miles northwest of the line, 12 Chinese divisions under the veteran General Tang Shen-Chi entrenched themselves in strong defence positions just outside Nanking. The Nanking official spokesman declared they were prepared to defend the city "to the last."

Foreign embassies completed arrangements to evacuate Nanking and follow the Chinese Foreign Office to Hankow as soon as Chinese officially announced the shift.

As Brazil's Dictator Breaks The News

Unlike photographs of most dictators this shot of President Getulio Vargas, of Brazil, taken as he made the announcement over the radio, decreeing Brazil a corporate state and taking full power for himself by virtue of a new constitution shows no soldiers guarding him. A new consitution in effect places S. American republic on a par with Italy and Germany. Although Vargas had denied any link with Nazi Germany or fascist Italy, the dissolving of the federal congress, states assemblies and municipal councils places in his hands the same power over Brazil as Hitler and Mussolini hold over their respective

Eden Is Unable To Go To Brussels

LONDON, Nov. 20—(CP Cable).—Foreign Secretary Eden is not returning to the nine-power treaty conference at Brussels. Recovered from an influenza cold, Mr. Eden is attending his usual business at the Foreign Office.

Dominions Secretary Malcolm Macdonald, who returns to Brussels tonight, will be the only British Cabinet Minister at the conference.

It is predicted here that the conference, which failed in its effort to secure peace in the Far East, will pass quietly from the international scene, leaving the major powers to hold a sort of watching brief.

Padlock Law Is Being Used As Propaganda Against Quebec

Victims Denied British Subjects' Right To Clear Themselves In Court

MONTREAL, Nov. 20 — (CP). — Quebec province has the warning that her padlock law, designed to clamp a lid on Communist literature, is being used outside her boundaries as propaganda against Quebec and her people. Gratan O'Leary, associate editor of the Ottawa Journal, said at a meeting of the Canadian Civil Liberties Union last night Quebec should awake to the danger.

"In Ottawa there exist the gravest misgivings about the consequences of this Act," he told 800 people in a hall in the adjacent city of Westmount. There are more misgivings about what is going on in Quebec than there are over Alberta," said the Ottawa newspaperman.

Describing the legislation, passed at the last session of Legislature, R. L. Calder, K.C., said a mere verbal order of the Attorney-General on information Communist literature was being harbored or propagated on certain premises was sufficient for application of a padlock. The Montreal lawyer, who heads a committee of lawyers campaigning against the Act, said the victims had no recourse to the courts. They were denied a British subject's right to clear himself in open court.

Communist Documents.

Already, he said, premises of the French weekly newspaper Clarte had been closed with two printing shops turning out the paper. Offices of the Friends of the Soviet Union had been padlocked, the Modern Book Shop had been closed, and premises of Jean Peron, editor-publisher of Clarte, broke into and ransacked. Among belongings seized was a pair of trousers, "presumbaly because they were Communist documents," said Mr. Calder.

The Act, said Mr. O'Leary, was "in its essence the Fascist touch, showing the Nazi heart." It denied citizens the right of free expression of opinion. He himself "detested" some things about both Fascism and Communism, but he would insist on the right of Communists and Fascists to express their views, so long as they did not advocate violence "to the rest of us" in achieving their aims.

The padlock law, he said, "violates every principle of liberty. It is not anti-Communist; it is aimed against liberty."

Denied the right to hold the meeting in Montreal through refusal of Mayor Adhemar Raynault to grant permission, the Union was permitted by the city of Westmount to meet in a civic-owned hall. A collection was taken up to aid the committee of lawyers in taking the campaign against the Act to the courts.

DEAD RECKONING

"Getting a bit reckless, aren't you?"

"If you like. Perhaps you can't understand there may be worse things even than standing a trial for murder. But you'll have to pay in the end, because I've made up my mind not to pay you another penny, the way I have been so far."

"We'll see about that. But I'm ready to hear any suggestion you have to make."

"At the beginning of this business I offered you £500 down for the letter. You know as well as I do you can talk about electric torches and cigaret ends till you choke, and you'll only get laughed at. Its the letter that counts. Well, my offers still open and you can take it or leave it."

"Thanks, I'll leave it."

"Please yourself. But I'm not bluffing. I'm not going to have you about the house any longer, anyway. Either you leave it with £500 in your pocket or you leave it with nothing. Go to the police if you like—a lot you'll gain by it."
